THE HAWAIIAN GAZETTE.

A WEEKLY JOURNAL, DEVOTED TO HAWAIIAN PROGRESS.

VOL. XI,---NO. 28.] HONOLULU, WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 1875. [WHOLE NO. 548.

If we Knew.

If we knew the woe and heartache
Waiting for us down the road,
If our lips could taste the wormwood,
If our backs could feel the load,
Would we waste to-day in wishing
For a time that ne'er can be?
Would we wait in such impatience
For our ships to come from sea?

If we knew the baby fingers
Pressed against the window pane
Would be cold and stiff to-morrow—
Never trouble us again,
Would the bright eyes of our darling
Catch the frown upon our brow?
Would the print of rosy fingers
Vex us then as it does now?

Ah! those little ice-cold fingers,
How they point our memory back
To the hasty words and actions
Strewn along our backward track!
How those little hands remind us,
As in snowy grace they lie,
Not to scatter thorns, but roses,
For our reaping by-and-bye!

Strange we never miss the music,
Till the sweet-voiced bird has flown;
Strange that we should slight the violets
Till the lovely flowers are gone;
Strange that summer skies and sunshine
Never seem one half so fair
As when winter's snowy pinions
Shake their white down in the air!

Lips from which the seal of silence
None but God can roll away,
Never blossomed in such beauty
As adorns the mouth to-day;
And sweet words that freight our memory
With their beautiful perfume,
Come to us in sweetest accents
Through the portals of the tomb.

Let us gather up the sunbeams
Lying all along our path;
Let us keep the wheat and roses,
Casting out the thorns and chaff;
Let us find our sweetest comfort
In the blessings of to-day,
With a patient hand removing
All our griefs from out our way

Variety.

Ague with fever is no great shakes.

Wearing off the green—Playing billiards.

Hush money—The price of a family cradle.

Washerwomen always know just where to draw the line.

What portions of the body are the best travelers? The two wrists.

The girl said she wanted fish that were caught with a "smack."

No man can lick a postage stamp without disturbing the piece.

A towboat will naturally burn quicker than any other kind of water craft.

According to an Indianapolis M. D., a person soon died of "sparzams."

When a girl falls in love with an unlucky Irishman her heart always pity Pat.

When a lady makes your a pair of slippers, she wants you to put your foot in it.

Micawber, always waiting for something to turn up, never thought of a plough.

When a candidate announces that he will stand on his own merits he generally falls.

What poet was always in debt? Cowper. Why? Because he "oh'd for a lodge."

There is nothing so effective in bringing a man up to the scratch as a healthy and high-spirited flea.

A metallic sort of marriage is one where the bride's tin is matched by the bridegroom's brass.

A Philadelphia book-seller's clerk, asked if he had Chaucer, politely proffered a paper of the best chewing tobacco.

Warm weather helps one to be good. That is, you don't care whether your neighbor has a big wood pile or a small one.

Mr. O'Gorman perpetrated this bull in a recent speech in the House of Commons: "When I last spoke here I was in Ireland."

"One thing," said an old toper, "never was seen coming through the rye, and that's the kind of whisky one gets nowadays."

"You have a large family, I believe?" "No, sir; they are all able to take care of themselves." Now who's going to find the fun in that?

"I am having myself taken in oil," said a well-known physician, complacently looking round. "Cod-liver, I suppose," growled an experienced patient.

"Why, Jennie, you look good enough to eat," said a loving husband to his wife one morning at breakfast. "Well, I'm eating as fast as I can, ain't I?"

Aunt—"Well, Daisy, how did you like church yesterday?" Daisy—"Oh, Aunty, they were all so quiet and looked so cross, I thought I must 'a' screamed!"

A certain country editor, who never fails to make flattering personal mention of visitors, acknowledges an exceedingly pleasant call from a tax collector.

The only way to git thru this world and eskape censure and abuse, is to take sum back road. You kant travel the main turn-pike and do it.—Josh Billings.

Judy asks what is the difference between an empty bakehouse and a tissue of falsehoods? and explains that one is a lack of pies, and the other a pack of lies.

"Why did you pass, yesterday, without looking at me?" said a beautiful woman to Talleyrand. "Because, madame, if I had looked I could not have passed."

Enthusiastic English tourist to native coachman, "And is that indeed the house in which Rob Roy was born?" Native coachman—"Eh, sir, an' it's just one o' them."

"Can you inform me," said a student to a bookseller, "whether I can find anywhere the biography of Pollock?" "Yes, I dare say you will find it in the Course of Time."

Dr. Gross advocates a return to phlebotomy. Those who have paid up their doctor's bills are inclined to think that the profession has never quite given up the process of bleeding.

Challenging lawyer to a colored juryman in Clinton, Louisiana—"Do you know what a verdict is?" "No sah!" "Did you ever see one?" "No, sah! I nebber was at a show in my life."

Half-a-dozen horse thieves hanging in a row formed a pleasing spectacle that met the eye of a recent Boston visitor in Western Arkansas. "Sic semper tyrannis," was his feeling remark.

Late Foreign Clippings.

There has been an almost constant and regular decline in the yield of gold in Australia since 1866.

In the British colony of Tasmania tin ore has been smelted in a new furnace, and 1,500 pounds of very fine quality tin procured therefrom.

The survey of the great interoceanic railroad across the Andes, from Buenos Ayres to Chile, has been completed. The line can be easily and cheaply constructed.

The Alexandra Palace, as the place of public entertainment near London is called, has been rebuilt since the fire of 1873, on a grand scale, and will be thrown open this summer.

Gas made from oil is to be used for lighting railway carriages in Switzerland. It is to be supplied from reservoirs to gasometers fitted in in each carriage, and capable of containing sufficient quantity for eight hours' light.

THE ARCTIC EXPEDITION.—The ships Alert and Discovery of the Arctic expedition sailed 30th May from Portsmouth. Thousands of people witnessed the departure. Great cheering and much enthusiasm manifested. The Queen sent a telegraphic dispatch wishing success to the expedition.

"William," said one Quaker to another, "thee knows I never call anybody names; but William, if the Governor of the State should come to me and say 'Joshua, I want thee to find me the biggest liar in the State of New York,' I would come to thee and say William, the Governor wants to see thee particularly."

A Michigan paper says: "Young man, if you are looking for a wife come to Michigan, the noble Peninsula State, and we'll put you on the track of a young lady who can husk her fifty bushels of corn per day, yoke oxen, drive horses, teach school, and saw with a cross-cut saw. She wants to be loved for herself alone."

Bishop Whipple, long engaged in Indian mission work, writes to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and urges that the Indians who give up a wild life receive a patent of 160 acres of land, and that the protection of the law be extended over them. He says: "No one can know their history and not blush with shame and sorrow. Among the most blessed results I have ever had for Christian work are our Indian Missions."

There are over 14,500,000 of children of the school age in America, with a cost of over $95,000,000, equal to one-third of one per cent. of the property, real and personal, of the country, as returned by the last census, and employ 221,000 teachers. The National Government has already set aside for educational purposes 140,000,000 acres of the public lands.

A cement which is insoluble and is unaffected by acids may be made by mixing glycerine and litharge to the consistency of the paste. This is adapted for fastening iron upon iron, for two stone surfaces, and especially for attaching iron to stone. Cloth can be cemented to polished iron shafts by first giving them a coat of best white lead paint; this being dried hard, coat with best Russian glue dissolved in water containing a little vinegar or acetic acid.

Garibaldi seems to have grown pacific and conservative in his old age. The Pope and the Italian Government alike entertained fears that his arrival in Rome would be the signal of commotion and revolution. But all such fears are now dissipated, for the old man, who has in stormy times rendered such gallant service to his country, has assumed such an attitude as identifies him with the friends of peace and order. He probably thinks (and with reason) that Italy with Rome as her Capital has now won such a position of vantage that all she still needs to achieve can be won peacefully, gradually, and without revolution.

The rules of politeness are never at variance with the principles of morality. Whatever is really impolite is really immoral. We have no right to offend people with our manners or conversation. We have no right to deal with or be influenced by gossip about the people we meet. Their private affairs are none of our business. If we believe a man or woman to be unfit company for us, we must not invite him or her; but if we meet them where they have been invited by others, we must treat them with civility.

At Hamburg, the longest day has seventeen hours, and the shortest seven; at Stockholm, eighteen and a half hours, and five and a half; at St. Petersburg, nineteen and five; at Finland, twenty-one and a half and two and a half. At Wondorbus, in Norway, the day lasts from the 21st of May to July 2d, the sun not getting below the horizon for the whole time, but skimming along very close to it in the north. At Spitzbergen, the longest day lasts three months and a half.

A FAITHFUL WIFE.—In the New York Bay Cemetery is a tomb, and within rests a metallic coffin and an easy-chair. Twice a week there comes to this chair a middle-aged lady, who quietly unbolts the iron door, seats herself in the easy-chair at the head of the coffin, and mentally converses, as she thinks, with the dead husband who lies by her side. The constancy has been persisted in during the past eight years. So accustomed are the keepers and workmen at the cemetery to her coming that they now think no more of it than of any other regular occurence of every day life. The husband died while on a visit to California, and was sent back to his wife in the metallic coffin in which the body now lies. The features are said to be as natural as on the day of his death.

A CURIOUS LIBEL SUIT.—A rather singular libel suit has just been decided in the State of Maine. The Portland Press declared that one Stephen Grant was the greatest liar in the State, and he brought suit against the paper, laying his damages at $10,000. The verdict was for the defendant, consequently Mr. Stephen Grant has the satisfaction of reflecting that by a jury of his countrymen he has been awarded the peculiar position of champion liar in the State. We presume that the evidence in support of the defendant must have been very strong, or the character of the complainant particularly weak, but it is odd that a man who must have known how eminent were his claims to the title bestowed upon him, should have gone into Court at all with such a case. Perhaps, however, he wished to secure a legal certificate to the fact of his superlative mendacity, in which event he undoubtless gratified by the verdict.
