How Little We Know.

How little we know of each other
We pass through the journey of life,
With its struggles, its fears and temptations,
Its hard-breaking cares and its strife!
We see only the wrinkles on the surface,
The few people giddy in sun,
And we wonderful hearts we labor
To the hearts within cages within.

How little we know of each other!
The man who to-day passes by
Blessed with fortune and home and titles,
And holding his project high,
May carry a dread secret with him
Which makes his fortune a hell,
And he, wretch or idiot, a felon,
May write in the prisoner's cell.

How little we know of each other!
That woman of fashion, who moves
In the proud girl intrenched and abandoned,
And left to her sight and her loves,
May yet be the same true heroine,
Have the moral nobly born from her fate,
And walk from the height of her glory
To the dark shadow of shame and disgrace.

How little we know of each other!
Of ourselves too little we know!
We are all weak when under temptation,
All subject to sorrow and woe.
Then let kindness charity rule us,
Let us put away envy and spite—
For the skeleton gets in our closet,
May soon day be brought to light.

Variety.

The only cats worth any money—Ducats.

It is folly to think of getting even by giving odds.

A genteel lady alluded to her female ancestor as Lady Eve, see Rib.

Doesn't a man contract a debt when he pays part of it.—Lowell Courier.

The Chicago Times has tall headings, but it is only a "one-Storey" paper after all.

We notice that the fall style of oath is the same as it was last year.—Norristown Herald.

A prisoner, being asked whether he was guilty, answered: "I guess I am, judge; but I'd like to be tried all the same."

There has a new game of cards—one holds a revolver, while the other holds the cards. A coroner holds the inquest, of course.

Because a book-keeper habitually wears his pen behind his ear, is not the cause of his pen's earlier sign of permanently.—Hawkeye.

An old Scotch woman recommended a preacher who arrived at the kirk wet through to get at once into the pulpit: "Ye'll be dry enough there."

The only way to distinguish a mushroom from a toadstool is by eating the specimen. If you live it is a mushroom; if you die it is a toadstool.

"It's all for the best," remarked Blinks, with a sigh, as he paid for the hat he had lost. "Nay," interposed the lucky man, "'tis all for the better."

A Trenton person wants to know why a soldier is usually spoken of as a son of Mars, when it is very well known that Mars hasn't any son.—Norwich Bulletin.

There is a mark across Mr. Marrowfat's forehead where his wife argued him out of going to a meeting of Black Republicans. The calls it her "color line."—Brooklyn Argus.

"I meant to have told you of that hole," said a gentleman to his friend, who, walking in his garden, stumbled into a pit of water. "No matter," said the friend, "I have found it."

Do not think of knocking out another person's brains because he differs in opinion from yours. It will be as rational to knock yourself on the head because you differ from yourself ten years ago.

Lord Chancellor Campbell, a few days before his death, met a barrister and remarked "Why, Mr.——, you are getting as fat as a porpoise." "Fit company, my lord, for the great seal," was the ready repartee.

The discipline scholar has been discovered. Being asked to sign his initials to a document, he wanted to know "what obligations were." "Why, your name being George Gerald, you want two Gs." "Oh, I see," he said, and wrote "2 Geese."

"Oh, mamma, that's Captain Jones' knock! I know he has come to ask me to be his wife!" "Well my dear, you must accept him." "But I thought you hated him so?" "Hate him? I do—so much that I mean to become his mother-in-law.—Punch.

Edward: "And, now darling, before we part, how are we to keep our marriage a profound secret?" Angeline (promptly): "Nothing easier, Edwin dear. You have only to behave to me as you have always done, and nobody will suspect it."—Funny Folks.

A Georgia national debating society was lately discussing: "Which is the better for the laboring man, to work for wages or part of the crop?" An old "uncle" spoke the sense of the meeting when he thought "both was de best, if de could only be hung together somehow."

Professor of Rhetoric to trembling Sophomore—"You may give an analysis of your composition, sir." After considerable hesitation and meditation a couple of points are offered. "What is your next?" "A—uh—a-hem, sir, those two points cover a good deal of ground, sir."

Guest—"Good-bye; enjoyed ourselves so much!" Host—"So sorry you are going; now, can't we persuade you; how the time has flown! Hope we shall soon see you again—." Coachman (confidentially)—"Will I make 'em too late for the theatre, sir? I am sorry——." His Master (dumb show). "If you dare, sir! Drive like the——!"

"Is there any opening here for an intellectual writer?" said a red-faced youth, with the cork of the bottle sticking out of his breast pocket. The latter with much dignity took the man's intellect in and said: "An opening? Yes, sir; a kind and considerate proprietor listening your visit, left an opening for you. Turn the knob to the right."

A husband being arrayed himself elaborately with gaiters, gaming and gun, accompanied by his faithful dog, goes forth to hunt, but shoots nothing. Impossible to return empty-handed to the home, he stops of the market and buys a hare, which he presents to his wife. The hare was terribly high—not alone in price. "Ah!" said his wife with a sniff, "so you killed it. You were right. It was high time."

A cynic who recently attended a fashionable church thus describes the singing. Worship was introduced and the opening piece was a solo, faultlessly rendered by the leading singer, accompanied by the organ, "Consider the lilies of the field," and when she came to the application it ran thus: "And yet I say unto you—(not even Solomon in all his glory—was not arrayed—was not arrayed—like one of these (interlocking the organ)—was not arrayed (interlude)—like one of these.' And then she went back again and asserted in the most emphatic manner, "I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory—was not arrayed (pause), until I began despair lest poor Solomon would never get his garments on."

"My dear, you must really mend these stockings, they're on their last legs." "Yes, and," (with a sigh) "so am I." "Of course, of course—we're all on our legs. Don't have any more. Stockings are the only sufferers that have a chance; so darn 'em!"

A woman who was told that some tables in the Russian department were made of malachite, exclaimed: "My goodness! I thought Malachite was one of the prophets!"

PADDY IS RICE.
TO SHIPPERS OF PADDY, AN IMPRESsion seems to prevail in the Islands that Paddy, because of not being named in the Treaty, is not admissible free of duty. This is erroneous. Paddy being nothing else but Rice, the introduction of the word would have been superfluous. All the paddy that has arrived at this port since the promulgation of the Treaty has been admitted free without question.
Parties desirous of shipping Paddy to this market are assured that it will be admitted free of duty, and hulled and dressed in the best possible manner and on favorable terms by WM. M. GREENWOOD,
