COMMERCIAL.

HONOLULU, FEBRUARY 27, 1878.

Again we have to note another quiet week in business circles. On Monday the "trades" came down fresh, and this event marked half the week, bringing toward renewed activity in commercial circles. Our inter-island communication, which had been for some time interrupted, will be resumed and produce no doubt, come forward freely.

The only arrivals since our last have been the bark H. W. Almy, with an assorted cargo of general merchandise to Castle & Cooke, and the seasonably Australia, with passengers and merchandise to H. Hackfeld & Co.

We have only three foreign departures to note: The bark Mattie Hastings, for Portland, with a full cargo of island produce, and the barkentine Grace Roberts, for San Francisco also with a cargo of domestic produce and the steamer Australia, with freight and passengers for Auckland and Sydney.

The D. C. Murray is on the berth loading for San Francisco and will have quick dispatch.

Last week Mr. Bartow held a three-days sale at which a large amount of goods changed hands, and fair prices were realized.

NEW BOOKS.—We have had put into our hands a new book just published by the J. B. Burr Publishing Company of Hartford, Conn., entitled "The Underground World; a mirror of life below the surface, with vivid descriptions of the hidden works of nature and art, comprising incidents and adventures beyond the light of day. Interesting sketches of mines and mining in all parts of the world," etc., etc. This interesting and highly entertaining work, is by Thomas W. Knox, an author well spoken of in the newspapers of the Eastern States. It comprises over one thousand pages of reading matter, and is illustrated with 125 steel engravings. The book is full of facts and ably written sketches of persons and places, in all sections of the world. The personal narratives are replete with instruction, while the descriptive portions of the book convey, in a very pleasing style of composition, instruction respecting mines and mining, in all their branches and in all countries, making it a pleasant companion for either student or scholar; and to the general reader, a book that will convey accurate information, respecting the hidden things of nature, that cannot fail to arrest attention. Mr. A. Richards, one of the members of the Burr Publishing Company, who is now here, en route for New Zealand and the Colonies, is taking subscriptions for the work spoken of, and also for another work, published by the same company, the title of which we cannot give. This latter work, we have not seen, and therefore cannot speak of its merits, but for the Underground World, we cannot say too much in its praise. It ought to be in the library of every one who prizes a useful, entertaining and instructive book. We have had only an opportunity of giving the Underground World, a cursory glance; but even then we feel warranted in recommending it to our readers as all we have said it is. It may be said that, inasmuch as we have no mining operations going on here, such a work as the Underground World, will have but little practical interest to our people. Granting all this to be true, it does not follow that such a work is without interest to all who desire correct information, regarding the mineral deposits of other and more favored countries; and the various modes of working those mines. Any book which unlocks the arcana of nature, and brings to light the hidden treasures of the earth and seas, must have a profound interest to every inquiring mind, and such a work is the book here recommended.

The Buffalo Advertiser endeavors to cheer the drooping spirits of Mr. Beecher and Canon Farrar. It seems that in the Lexicon of Youth which we call the New American Cyclopædia, there's no such word as "Hell." The Advertiser is mistaken. There is a Hell there, and his other name was Maximilian. He was a Hungarian, and died in 1792. Hell started the heavens, being an astronomer. It might be added for the edification of those who feel elated at the thought that the bottomless pit finds no place in the Cyclopædia, that this publication is entirely impartial, and gives no heaven either. Those who wish to reach the former will have to turn to Chamber' Encyclopædia, where they would get over a volume of heated discussion on the subject.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

☞ Our thanks are due to the Merchants Exchange, San Francisco, for full files of late papers, also to the Purser of the steamer Australia for memoranda, etc.

☞ The Pensacola Minstrel Troupe gave an entertainment at the Royal Hawaiian Theatre on last Wednesday evening, to a large audience, and elicited frequent applause during the performance.

☞ The receptions on board the U. S. Frigate Pensacola have been postponed from Tuesday until Thursday afternoon. The next reception will take place to-morrow afternoon, the 28th inst.

☞ We regret to learn that Judge McBride, of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, Kauai, has, owing to severe illness, been unable to attend to his official duties. We, in common with his many friends, hope to hear of his speedy recovery to health and active life again.

☞ We hear the rumor on the city front that Captain Hobron's new steamer is so far completed as to permit of her being launched during the early part of next week. She is really a fine looking and well built vessel, and reflects credit alike on owner and builders.

☞ Shortly after the arrival of the bark D. C. Murray in port, the Custom House officials seized several boxes of opium on board. Evidently some of the almond-eyed passengers intended to make a good thing out of this little speculation, which was so ruthlessly frustrated by the vigilance of the Custom House officers.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On Saturday last, a native fisherman died suddenly, as follows: He was outside the reef fishing, and was observed by another native, similarly occupied in the vicinity, to dive down, and after coming up get into his canoe. His neighbor called to him to pull in his net, when deceased threw up his hands and fell back in his canoe, and was there found lying dead.

☞ The brilliant actress and vocalist, Miss Annie Firmin, and the celebrated actor, Mr. John Jack, accompanied by Miss Lizzie Jugles, arrived by the Australia yesterday, and will give several superior dramatic entertainments at the Theatre, commencing on Thursday evening, the 28th instant. They are highly spoken of by the American Press, and their entertainments will be found full of mirth, songs, etc.

THE LEPER ASYLUM was visited by Hon. S. G. Wilder, accompanied by visitors from abroad, last week, who report everything in perfect order at the establishment. The recent rains have supplied the district with an abundance of water. The people are well cared for and are as happy as circumstances will admit. The settlement is now under the care and management of Mr. Wm. Sumner, who has succeeded the late superintendent, W. P. Ragsdale, deceased.

SAD ACCIDENT.—On Sunday last a fatal accident occurred on the Pali. A native, whose name we have been unable to learn, was riding over the Pali road, on horseback, rather the worse for liquor. It appears that while descending the steepest part of the road he lost his balance, and fell from his horse, and sustained such injury as in all probability has cost him his life. When our informant saw the unfortunate man, just after the accident, he was lifeless, and it was supposed his neck was broken by the fall. A sad fate, and another warning to the erring.

☞ The Hawaiian Amateur Minstrels gave an entertainment at the Theatre on Saturday evening last, to a large and appreciative audience. The singing of the members of this association was very creditable. The Hawaiians, as a race, have excellent voices, and an insatiable thirst for gratifying their love for vocal music. With such natural advantages, a little careful practice will enable the Hawaiian Minstrels to qualify themselves in a short time as first-class performers. Let them persevere and success will follow, and our citizens will have the pleasure of witnessing an exhibition of native talent, not inferior to any other portion of the globe. Music hath charms at all times, and good vocal music is always first in order with people of true taste.

FIRE ON THE MOUNTAINS.—The fire that has been so conspicuously seen by our citizens for a few nights past, is still burning, and is a misfortune, in so far as it destroys the growing timber, which is scarce on this Island. We have not been able to ascertain anything about the origin of the fire, whether it was the result of carelessness or design. If the latter we hope the perpetrators will be found out and promptly punished to the full penalty of the statute for the protection of forests. Every effort should be made at all times to preserve the growing timber and to promote its growth, because it is not only a source of wealth to the country, but promotive of health and comfort to the inhabitants. The protection of forests will no doubt form a subject for legislation at the approaching Session of the Assembly, because of its great importance. The forests of the Hawaiian Islands are of prime necessity to the Kingdom, by reason of the fact that some of the most valuable timber, known to commerce, grows and flourishes with wonderful luxuriance on those islands, and should be protected by the most stringent laws against wanton destruction by fire or other causes, that prudence can prevent.

☞ The American Relief Association, held its annual meeting on Friday evening the 22d inst., the anniversary of Washington's birthday. The following is the list of officers for the present year: Alex. J. Cartwright, President; S. C. Damon, Vice President; Charles R. Bishop, Treasurer. Relief Committee—George H. Boughtwhling, J. M. Out, sr., Jacob Brown. Below we give the report of the Treasurer of the Association, which will show the disposition of the funds, for the past year, and the condition of its finances.

GRAND CONCERT.—Mr. Levy, the Great English Cornet Player, and Mrs. Levy, the celebrated Balladist, intend giving the first of their inimitable entertainments on Saturday evening next, at the Kawaiahao Church, under the patronage of His Majesty the King. Mrs. and Mrs. Levy are highly spoken of as artists of rare merit in their respective roles. The following is what the Melbourne Times says of them:

The reality of Mr. Levy's cornet-playing far exceeds the most sanguine anticipations, his first appearance at the Town-hall on Saturday evening being signalized on the part of the audience by a more emphatic clapping of hands, by louder exclamations of delighted astonishment, and by a greater exuberance of expression than has been manifested by any previous audience in this city. De Meraba's first series of concerts evoked expressions of admiration in some, but not in so great a degree resembling those heard at Mr. Levy's first performance, but even her wonderful exhibitions did not create nearly so much excitement as Mr. Levy did after the performance of "Alettie" (Hartmann) and "The Last Rose of Summer," the bring his two first selections. The results he obtained were astonishing. Movement after movement, each adorned with its separate and distinct ornamentation, shakes, runs, and chromatic flourishes were produced with a delicacy, a purity, and a fertility of resource that afforded a clear idea of his wonderful powers, and these appear to be almost unbounded. In the second verse of "The Last Rose of Summer" he diminishes the tone of the instrument by the use of a mute, and he then produced some of the very loveliest and most beautiful strains it has ever been our lot to hear. Soft, sweet, and exquisitely delicate, they floated through space like fairy music. In the second portion of the concert he gave "Robert toi que j'aime," with few embellishments other than those placed to it by Meyerbeer, but then the expression, the feeling, and the intensity of his playing was felt to be marvellous, and enthusiastic expressions of delight greeted its conclusion. Of course he had to come forward again, and when he did so he made his hearers laugh by a thoroughly fine performance of "Yankee Doodle," with a sustained shake at the end, which lasted so long that people began to think the interior mechanism of the cornet had gone off of its own accord, and that until it had completely run down, like the mainspring of a clock, there would be little use in trying to stop it. Mr. Levy was punished for the liberty he took; the audience insisted upon his second reappearance, but he soon charmed their turbulence by one of the most poetic renderings conceivable of Moore's melody, best known as the "Pretty Girl Milking Her Cow." He was down on the programme for the final number for his own "Maid Waltz," but those present were not content that he should go at that, so after playing it he was called for again vociferously, the audience keeping their seats meanwhile, and he came once more to the platform, and roused their enthusiasm to the highest pitch by a spirit-stirring and grand rendering of "Rule Britannia." In all other respects the first Levy concert was a great success.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The War in Europe.

Arrival of Steamship Australia.

By our advices from San Francisco, by the steamer Australia, which arrived yesterday morning we have news down to the 18th inst.

Russia has suggested that the United States be admitted to the Conference on the negotiations for peace, to which England has no objections, but has taken advantage of the occasion to suggest that Greece also be made a party to the Conference.

By telegrams from London down to the 18th inst., the foreign office had received no information of Russian advances on Constantinople. It is also asserted in English journals that orders had been issued to Admiral Hornby to seize the Turkish fleet to prevent its surrender to Russia.

A Paris correspondent announces that intelligence has been received at Paris, that Count Bismarck on the following Tuesday will be able to announce that, owing to Emperor William's friendly intervention, Russia has resolved to maintain an attitude which cannot imperil a peaceful solution of existing difficulties.

According to the latest information England and Russia will maintain their present military and naval positions, during the session of Congress. No other power will enter the Dardanelles, lest it should increase complications. French ironclads have been ordered to the entrance of the Dardanelles.

A Paris correspondent says: It is reported that the Cossacks when retreating before the Russians, suffocated with sulphur 800 women and children who had taken refuge in a cave.

The St. Petersburg Agence Russe of Feb. 17th admits that while the principal European meeting has been agreed to, details that details as to time and place have been settled.

A Constantinople despatch dated Tuesday, says: the Russian advance guards have not transgressed the lines settled by the armistice.

In consequence of the withdrawal of the British fleet to Mudania, the Russians will not occupy the suburbs of Constantinople.

It is believed that peace negotiations would be completed on the 17th inst., when the Russians would withdraw from Roumelia, unless England makes some new move.

There appears to be no prospect or probability of an Austro-Russian conflict.

Peace negotiations were progressing slowly.

The Vienna Cabinet snubbed to mortifies the Austrian army, if the enclosure question is not settled within a fortnight. At a subsequent council, it was decided to refer the question to Bismarck, and his good offices resulted in Russia consenting to an early meeting of Congress. All danger of an Austro-Russian conflict being thus avoided, the chances of an Anglo-Austrian alliance are greatly diminished.

Athens, Feb. 17.—Small engagements between the Turks and insurgents in Thessaly continue to occur.

Russia has suggested to the Porte to remove the the Mussulman population from Bulgaria.

The Greek Government has called out the second reserve of 10,000 men, and is also to form 20,000 battalions of light infantry.

Rome.—Pope Pius the 9th is dead. His holiness died in January last.

Cardinals Manning and Detallouf, on the 16th inst. endeavored to bring about an arrangement by which all foreign cardinals shall vote unanimously, in the question for the election of a Pope. It failed. The Ultramontane Cardinals however are working to obtain the election of one of their party.

In Washington, on the 17th inst., it was expected that the Senate amendments to the silver bill would pass the House that day. But little else of interest has transpired at the capital. It is expected that, owing to the unsettled state of things in Europe, the Paris Exposition will be postponed.
