COMMERCIAL.

HONOLULU, JUNE 2, 1880.

Auction sales of imported stock by E. P. Adams on Monday, and C. S. Bartow yesterday, which, by the way, were only fairly attended, and the prices realized below the average, we do not hear of anything important to note.

We have seven foreign arrivals to note—the Eureka, H. W. Almy, Grace Roberts from San Francisco; the Benicia and Rapaki, from Kahului; the yacht Chief, from Hawaii; and H. D. K's ship Rocket, from Victoria.

The departures were—the Discovery and W. H. Meyer, for San Francisco.

The vessels on the berth loading for San Francisco are the Eureka and H. W. Almy.

The Labor Question.

BOTANY GARDEN—SIR: Late numbers of the Gazette and Advertiser contain numerous articles—editorial and otherwise, upon the subject of immigration. The Advertiser of the 29th has no less than four; one writer advocates the introduction of Portuguese, another Japanese, others East Indians, while others strongly favor importations from the New Hebrides and Solomon Islands.

Our Government has expended during the last two years, if I am correctly informed, some $70,000 in procuring immigrants from southern Coral Islands, a large per centage of which are already dead; and ask from the present Legislature $100,000 more for the purpose of continuing the work. Perhaps it is expressing no surprise that in looking the world over for labor, the country seems at hand in points of time, and in any judgment the very best in climate, and most expensive in procuring, is entirely overlooked, or ignored.

While our plantations are prompted for want of labor from realizing anything near the benefit of their full resources, compelled to pay $20 to $30 per month for unskilled labor and $50 to $100 additional with great risk of sickness, death, and desertion,—while driven to the necessity of procuring at great expense, native as a substitute for men, with no more permanency in the country except as imported at $30 to $50 per month and found,—while housekeepers are paying $4 to $5 per week, with board and pilferings for cooks, stewards, grooms and yard boys, are subjected to no little detention at that, often from servants with whom their own neither reason or conscience—and these are the common experiences we all know their thousands of laborers, male and female, lured from their industry to exactly such duties as we regularly performed in domestic service, in field labor, as plantation mechanics, as mule boatmen,—are constantly learning the law of their birth to end labor and homes, they know not where, or under what circumstances—many of them gladly accepting shelter and food as compensation for their labor, others purchasers of private and associated charters.

Will further laborers or house servants can be had than the negroes of the Southern States? educated to the precise duties so difficult here to get performed, trained to respectful obedience, speaking a language all employers can understand, and able to comprehend any command given them, perfectly at home in our climate, a class of whom no fears need be entertained of their becoming shopkeepers after a few months service, contented and jolly with the necessities of life, often without, to all more like the Hawaiian, of forty years ago, in their simplicity, and habits; they are also those brought in contact with them, and so far as my observation goes, the alliance has evinced greater friendship than with any other race.

Some year and a half ago, I read in one of our local journals a communication from the Hon. W. M. Gibson, then recently returned from a visit to the Southern States, stating in substance that he could have procured while there an unlimited number of immigrants, upon terms very favorable for labor, and transportation.

The accompanying articles from there which has come from that time to this is proof of the soundness of the views then expressed, and I have been most surprised that no steps have been taken by the Government or individuals to alleviate the necessities of the country so long felt from that source.

Hoping these remarks may elicit the public sentiment respecting that class of labor before the adjournment of the present Legislature, I remain obediently yours, J. E. WOOD.

[Gen. Armstrong from Virginia, who is expected here by next steamer, can give valuable information on this subject.—ED.]

Intemperance in Hawaii.

MR. EDITOR.—If a man who heartily wished to do the utmost possible good for his country, were thoughtfully to enquire which of the topics of the day deserved the most attention, the reply which would be enacted by deliberation would be—suppress the liquor traffic. When street-accosters of the visitors, charge their's a license for the sale of liquor, should an inquiry be granted? The liquor traffic is the greatest evil in Hawaii. Should not all persons who have the welfare of the country at heart, do all in their power to create a healthy public opinion against it. It is safe to say that the greatest obstacle temperance has to encounter is indifference. Friends of temperance, remember that in the main it is impossible to enforce law, without the aid of that wonderful thing public sentiment. If the license system is allowed to spread over these islands, we will have the Hawaiians, for it will be only a short time until liquor—which is now smuggled in and sold by Chinese, will be made free to them also. The intellectual, moral, and religious welfare of the people, demands that this traffic be suppressed. Their comforts, their domestic happiness are all involved. The question is, whether the people shall be helped to become happier and wiser, whether binary disease and misery are to be diminished, whether men, women, and children shall be aided to escape from other ruin of body and soul. Friends of temperance do all in your power to suppress this traffic which is gaining and growing stronger throughout these islands. Oh! Legislators don't license men to ruin your country, and to make widows, orphans, and outcasts. Your way the veil wherever the license system is established, and it will be found that liquor is mixing and supping the foundations of public prosperity, individual health and private happiness. If the license system were abolished throughout the kingdom, liquor would not be sold. If it were punishable by fine to furnish it, liquor would not be given away. If its supposedly except by the Board of Health, was punishable by fine and imprisonment there would be no liquor, fewer police forces, and more and better labor for plantations.

EDWARD BAKER.

HILO, May 30th, 1880.

Some one standing in one of the fields of the Waimea plantation took fire in some unknown manner on the 25th ult., and a considerable space was burned down, but as it was of cane and growth there was but a small loss.

ISLAND LOCALS.

ABOUT TOWN.

If our Honolulu summer keeps on this way, we shall all dry up and blow away. Fortunately it rains in the valleys.

The Annual Examinations of Oahu College will take place on Thursday, the 10th, and Monday and Tuesday, the 14th and 15th instant.

Attention is called in to-day's paper to Mr. Noble's advertisement, offering the stock and fixtures of "The Old Corner" for sale, and lease of the building.

The annual meeting of the H. M. C. Society will be held at the Fort Street Church on Saturday evening, at 7:30. Interesting reports and addresses will be presented.

The Kawaiahao Girls' Seminary will be examined at the Old Stone Church this morning at 10 o'clock. The public generally are invited, and will find the occasion a pleasant one.

Yesterday the 1st, Mr. Parke completed the 30th year of continuous government service. It speaks well for the public appreciation of his services. No one ever doubted his base fife.

Ladies who will to contribute refreshments for the Tea Party given by the Woman's Board of Missions, will please send such contributions to the Lecture Room of Fort Street Church, on Thursday morning, June 3rd.

The street lights are really quite a success, and make travel by night a much easier thing than before. The simple islanders look on this burning of air as a great innovation. Just watch them of an evening, standing in rows with upturned faces as that important man with the ladder lights up.

Mangoes are ripe these days and every kanaka who owns a tree has procured a rickety table, which he loads with piles of the turpentiny fruit, places it on the edge of the side walk and goes to sleep behind. You can get all you want besides a dose of incipient cholera for a dime. Good mangoes are good, bad ones are execrable.

The currency kaleidoscope has received another turn and in the midst of the glitter we now see a 10 per cent. duty tacked on to silver of countries with which Hawaii has no treaty. This will make our Mexican dollars valuable now. Let every body freeze to what they have.

It is said that the Foundry hands will have a vacation and rest of a week beginning on Friday next. In our climate such a rest for such workers is not a bad idea. Now boys have a good time. Go and look at the country but don't drink its villainous alcohols.

A class of eight will graduate from the North Pacific Missionary Institute this year. These young men have been preparing for pastoral labor among the Hawaiians and others, under the care of Rev. Dr. Hyde and his assistants. The graduating exercises will be held at Kawaiahao Church on Friday evening next, at half past seven.

Only 26 kanakas and Chinese hauled up before the Police Magistrate on Monday last charged with having opium in possession. It was the result of a raid on a den of smokers last Sunday. Good enough! It shows how kanakas will not get opium if we only have a license law, permitting its use by Chinese.

One of the humorous member, of the Legislature called on the winds of heaven and other individuals to witness the unconstitutionality of our labor laws, and also to testify that the laborers wanted them repealed, and yet that obdurate House, insensible to such eloquence, mercilessly slaughtered the bill to repeal the Masters' and Servants' Act.

It is not surprising that a bill should have been introduced to prohibit the Minister of the Interior from selling Government land, for the sale of public land is wholly contrary to the native idea; yet they are almost universally anxious to purchase their lands, and do not seem averse to sale or foreclosure. There is a national screw loose somewhere.

His Majesty by the hand of Col. Allen, sent a message to the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon. It was to the effect, that Mr. C. C. Moore would present a memorial to the House asking for a subsidy for a steam line to China, and requesting careful consideration of the matter. Judging from the surprised looks of the Ministry, it was the first they had heard of the subject.

Dr. Merritt's fine yacht the Coos, came into port from San Francisco via Hilo, on Saturday evening last. A small number of friends accompanied the doctor and the trim little craft is commanded by our old friend Captain Colcord who ran the Mersey Star several trips. The Coos is in some respect a novel sea boat, but is very fast, and a beautiful specimen of naval architecture. She well earns the admiration of all lovers of beauty.

One day last week a cask of kerosene oil was being hoisted to the upper floor of Burrow's planing mill on Fort Street, when some part of the tackle gave way and the whole thing came crashing to the lower floor, bursting the cask and scattering the oil far and wide. A boy was standing near and just escaped the descent. Fortunately there was no fire near and no conflagration ensued, but it was a narrow escape.

In connection with the meetings of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association, and the policy adopted by the mission here in 1865-6, it is noteworthy to observe the difference of policy of the Roman Catholic Church and Missions. It is said to be a fact that in all of its Pacific Islands missions that church has never placed a native in the office of priest, but in all instances where employed their position has been wholly subordinate and subject to absolute control.

If the Legislature wants to do a praiseworthy act, a really worthy deed, let them appropriate a sum sufficient to buy good black walnut stocks for the use of the police to replace the miserable apologies for sticks now used on the street corners, by our redoubtable and ever wicked force, and where there are good trees hammocks might be hung. Another object would be, that in case of robbery or burglary their stocks might be used for the purpose of assault.

It seems that the road superviser has a road roller after all, and yesterday it was steaming along the Waikiki road in fine style. In view of the fact that next week the Park is to be occupied by its annual races and games, it may be that there is some hidden connection between the rolling of the track and that event. This is as it should be. By all means let the track be smoothed for this necessary event, and the rest of the country can pick along over the series of rocks and rills called roads till a taste is inaugurated over them.

An assault is alleged to have been made on Thursday night of last week to set fire to Mr. Burrows planing mills on Fort street. The watchman, attracted by the barking of a dog went to the spot and found rags and shavings wet with kerosene, a bottle of the oil and some signs of an attempt to fire the mass which must have been foiled by the disturbance made by the dog. If this evil report is wholly correct, it is about time that some of the people with nothing to do and no visible means of support, who hang about the streets, should be sharply watched.

Carpenters are busy and cannot do all that is wanted, yet there seem to be no signs of an end to the march of improvement in town. New buildings everywhere, though H. H. H. Kaelikanaloa's does not seem to make very much progress. May be the public have not observed that worthy ex-governor Kapena's triangle is ranging itself in the line of improved property and one "Chu Pump," which means so our pure-bred boy says "Ang Le," has opened a basket shop there. This is to be regretted for the general public really needs that wedge for the general health and public use.

Probably many observed on Sunday last that flags on the shipping in the harbor and in one or two places about town, were displayed at half mast, and for those who do not know why it was, it may be interesting to know that it was "Decoration Day." "A day set apart since the civil war in the United States, for the decoration of the graves of soldiers whose lives were lost during the war. One of the pleasant features of the day is the fact that for many years past decorations have been placed equally upon the graves of Union and Rebel alike.

In New York and other places, agents of the health boards visit the fruit stands and immediately upon the alter of public necessity, such venders to present an offering green, wilted and decaying fruit. Probably the reason our Board of Health does not follow such an illustrious example, is because that we should have no more fruit venders for a time. It is really an insult to our intelligence when John middle demands two bits for one row or skin of miserable rotting bananas. The fact is just about this, what is fine young and small is sent to San Francisco is foisted off upon the town public as fresh fruit? Cimmes, let us rebel!

Last Wednesday the Legislature finally slaughtered Mr. Gibson's bill to tax the estates of deceased persons, prior to distribution. This is as it should be. No reason exists for such a law, but it is to say the least passing strange that a revenue act, to create, not to alter, should originate in that side of the Assembly. This bill in a slightly different shape was proposed by Mr. O'Sullivan and introduced by the same gentleman two years ago and met the same fate. Till we have that war with Japan that we hope now times will not be imposed, unless to support and maintain the dignity of course we and the country favor heavy taxes for that purpose.

Our honorable member, Mr. Baker, thinks he has hit the nail on the head this time, for he has introduced a bill to provide that any person who furnishes, etc., any spirituous liquor, etc., not exceeding 20° degrees (does this means per cent.) of alcoholic strength, shall be punished, etc. If this bill becomes a law, people better beware how they furnish the gentle liquor, for if it contains any alcohol, say one or two per cent., or indeed anything less than 19 or 20.2 per cent, they go to jail sure. If the liquor contains over 19 or 20.2 per cent, they will be safe. If this bill becomes a law the police and constabulary will probably be armed with patent stomach pumps, and will be inside the unlucky inmates who looks as if he had taken a glass of soda or Fisher's cider, he will be yanked about and have a tube inserted for the extraction of the vile stuff less than 19 per cent. alcohol. This appears to be a good and wholesome law, however—let it pass.

By the last steamer from California Dr. Cook Webb a homeopathic physician arrived intending to settle in our midst. He brings the best of credentials and the highest testimonials from New York where he occupied a high position in the Homeopathic Hospital, and a member of the city corps of physicians. The doctor showed a beautiful case of instruments which was so thoroughly artistic and looked so clean and keen that we wished our base editor or some other dear friend would get sick and have the doctor's skillful attentions. Success to the new doctor. May he help this town to steer clear of the dreadful experiments of last winter.

Local improvement is still the order of the day. On Hotel street near Nuuanu, about opposite Akong's old restaurant, a large two-story frame building is going up. It looks as though it were to be used in part for rooms to let. On Nuuanu street, makai of Love's the old buildings are tearing down to make way for a commodious stone or brick structure, which will be occupied when completed by the enterprising Mr. Goo Kim. Mr. Parke is said to be the owner. Elsewhere in the town and about, buildings of all kinds and for all purposes are rapidly being put up. Is it not about time that a thoroughly respectable and well appointed boarding house approved in our midst? The hotel is not what every body wants.

If the present Legislative Assembly really wants to distinguish itself, it had better enact some kind of a law by which people will be compelled to earn their living properly. There are about 10,000 Chinese more or less in the country, a large number came here as plantation laborers, and their terms have expired. They will not reship or go to work by the day, nor will they take contract labor of any kind, on the contrary, living by the wits. They peddle opium and liquor, and generally dodge about winning the laws and eating all the chickens from the country-side roosts. They will not engage as domestic servants, because in one place, they have breakfast too early, in another there is too large a family, and yet elsewhere, a baby rules the family. Four abused people! If they could only get the munificent wages they used to get in China they would be happy.

The May anniversaries are quite a feature in the eastern states of America, and bring together a brilliant collection of talent and solid respectability. June seems to be our anniversary month, and small as is our community the occasion brings together men of character and high standing from all over the islands and their deliberations are worthy of attention. During the present week the sessions of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association are holding at Kawaiahao church and in connection therewith on Sundays sermons on subjects connected with their deliberations are preached in both languages. Aside from the religious tone, many matters discussed before the association are of vital importance to our national life. At those meetings can be seen many of the more influential and intelligent Hawaiians.

By the City of New York on her last trip, ex-Governor Wells with his family arrived in Honolulu to make a visit to the Islands. He was one of those so-called war governors, yet not exactly that, who were placed over the various Southern States after the war under the reconstruction acts went into force. As such he was governor of Virginia and from ability managed the affairs of that State. After his duties as such had expired he was made U. S. Attorney General in the district of Columbia. He was present in the Court House in Richmond, Virginia, at the time of that frightful accident a few years ago, when the floor gave way and precipitated a room full of people into the basement whereby a large number were killed. By his persistence of mind and courage he was saved. The governor comes for rest and recreation, and it is to be hoped that he will find both here, and will bear away only recollections of the country.

One of the most elegant entertainments ever given in Honolulu was that at the new and palatial residence of the Minister of the Interior, on Fort street, on Monday night last. Invitations were quite general, and had it not been for the spacious roominess of the house, the gay crowd could not have been entertained. As it was there was room for everybody and under the genial influence of the host and hostess everybody had a good time. His Majesty the King, the Queen, and the Court graced the occasion with their presence, and nearly all the elite of the town and country were there. The building was brilliantly illuminated from basement to garret, and the whole house was thrown open to the guests who thronged through the beautiful rooms. The band lent its influence to aid the general effect and till a late hour the enjoyment continued. Space does not admit of an extended description of the house, but suffice it to say that all of its appointments are perfect and long may its genial owner enjoy its comforts.

The "Princess' Own" gave an entertainment at the Armory on Saturday last, a simple meal was spread, to which the members of the Legislature were invited. It is said that nothing stronger than ale was drunk. This was certainly praiseworthy, but hardly safe under the provisions of the new liquor bill, unless it contained over 19 per cent. of alcohol. In view of the urgent need which the country has of soldiers, and the valiant character of our present army, it is to be hoped that those little frolics will have the natural effect, and so work upon Solon's mind as to induce him to vote away the public funds for new uniforms, decorations and other material that is better than farming, mule or internal improvements.

MAUI.

Col. Spreckels, it is rumored is about to start a wholesale store and a bank at Kahului.

Ground has been broken to continue the Waihiku, Kahului and Hamakuapoko Railway from its present terminus at Spreckel's farm eastward. We Maui people vote the road a great convenience.

It has been dry lately and the water in both irrigation ditches has run quite low. The "Oma Mill-man" Mr. Spreckels and Mr. Schnauer have been out looking at the gulches, however, so of course it will boom again soon.

The Clara Spreckels arrived in Kahului on the 26th ult., 15 days down, of which 5 were dead calm and the vessel made sternway if any. Capt. Von Schmidt evidently intends to make it appear that from the coast here is but a short distance. The C. S. brings the first installment for the Spreckels' mill, of eight boilers. She also brought 41 passengers. Her report will be seen in the commercial column.

HAWAII.

An incendiary fire destroyed a fine native house in South Kona about ten days ago, whereby the inmate, a woman, nearly lost her life.

The brig Hesperus arrived from Honolulu in Hilo only sixteen days up. This is not the kind of trip to encourage shippers of sugar to say nothing about bananas and other fruit.

Last week a native woman, while lowering herself by the aid of a rope down the Laguna pali near Onikahi was killed by the breaking of the rope, by which she was hurled down upon the rocks below and frightfully mangled. Passing along the rocky coast of Hamakua is at the best but wild and risky business.

The volcano is violent and unusually active. The crater is full of fire and flowing lava. Ominous sounds like the mutterings of fiends, proceed from the terrible depths, into the air, and fill the mind of the spectator with vague apprehensions. Now is the time to visit this wonderful spot. Oh! for a railway!

From Kau we learn that the eruption in the summit crater of Mokuaweoweo (Mauna Loa) expired on the 9th inst., having lasted but nine days. The party which went up from Kapapala were successful in finding it in full action, and resembling very much the eruption of 1872, with a central jet of lava thrown some 250 feet high, and a molten lake extending over a part of the summit crater, which is about one and a half miles in length. Kilauea, it is said, continues very active, with frequent new outbreaks of lava streams, rendering a visit there at this time very attractive. No earthquakes reported of late.
