The Chimney's Song.

Over the chimney the night-wind sang,
And the startled maiden no more knew
The whisper stopped as the babe she lulled,
And thought of the years that long where fled,
And, as her recollections back she turned,
"I have the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang,
And startled a maiden no more knew
The voice with that to chiming the black, night through—
"'Tis merely a fancy that just then blew,
And we hear the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang,
And startled a maiden no more knew
And the maiden, as she sat on the hearth below,
Saw, in blushing, "It merely meant,
And I hear the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang,
And startled a maiden no more knew
But the past flowed, and startled, for he
Who sang, and wooed, and sinned, is there,
And she said, "It is not the wind in the chimney,
It is—and that sings in the chimney."

Boston Ledger.

Visit of the King of Hawaii to the Japanese Church, Yokohama.

The following report of the addresses made at the Japanese Christian Church, we clip from the Japan Gazette.

The King was received at the station by Dr. T. W. Goble, on behalf of the church, and escorted in a private carriage to the church, nevertheless the Governor's carriages were awaiting the King's pleasure at the station. At the church the King and Colonels Judd and Armstrong were met by the church officers, and conducted to seats on the pulpit platform.

The proceedings commenced by Mr. T. W. Goble.

Owing to the fact of my having been born in Hawaii, and now being a resident of Japan, though not a missionary myself yet intimately associated with the missionary work, both there and here, I have been thought a proper person to make a few explanatory remarks to the foreign friends here present, as to the nature of the occasion that now brings us together.

As designated in the programme, it is "the ninth anniversary of the organization of this first native church in Japan." His Majesty the King of Hawaii's presence here to-day is in response to the wish of the native members of this church to avail themselves of the opportunity to express through His Majesty to the native Christians of Hawaii their thanks for the generous gift of one thousand dollars contributed by the Hawaiian Christians for the building of the first native chapel in Japan. This donation, with additional amounts from private foreign sources, has provided them with the use, free of all expense, of this beautiful House of God in which we are now assembled; and which, for upwards of four years past they have steadily worshipped in.

To the time this donation was made, we have understood, was so early as 1873, or the year of Commodore Perry's first making a treaty with Japan. So long ago as that, and before all other nations did the Christians of Hawaii feel an interest in Japan, and though twenty-eight years have since past, the Japanese Christians who have only had an existence one-third of that time, hope it is not improper, nor too late to make acknowledgement of this sense of obligation to their unknown and loving benefactors, through the august person of His Majesty the King of Hawaii as the opportune occasion of the His Majesty's first visit to their land. And I am sure His Majesty's condescension in allowing them so to do offends no less pleasure to their foreign friends, than to the grateful native Christians themselves, and we believe, will prove grateful to His Majesty's Christian subjects when they learn of their Sovereign's gracious interest in the Christians of Japan for whom they have manifested so deep and so practical an interest.

It is my duty to translate a religious paper published at Honolulu which makes grateful mention of the presence of His Majesty, and of the honorable attentions accompanying him on this visit, at the recent dedication of the first Chinese Church in Honolulu. An edifice costing $10,000, one-half of which was the donation of the Chinese converts, and the remainder of friends to the islands. It is an agreeable circumstance that among His Majesty's last public acts on leaving his Hawaiian Kingdom, and now among His Majesty's first public acts in his ancient Empire of Japan, should be an exhibition of His Majesty's interest in that which concerns the highest welfare of any people.

Thus once I speak the hearty good wishes of all the friends present when I bid Your Majesty welcome to this your own expressive Hawaiian longest, Aloha!

LONG MAY HE WITH THEE!

Allow me to present to Your Majesty the Rev. Okuno Masahisa, who will convey to Your Majesty, in Japanese, the expression of the grateful sentiments of the native Christians. This address will afterwards be rendered in English, for Your Majesty's benefit, by the Rev. Ikaho Kanichiro; and Your Majesty's address in reply will afterwards be rendered into Japanese, for the benefit of the native Christians, by the same interpreter.

THE ADDRESS.

Your Majesty the King of Hawaii: On behalf of the members of the first church of Christ in Japan, whose ninth anniversary we celebrate to-day, I extend to Your Majesty a most cordial welcome. We feel greatly honored by Your Majesty's presence on such an occasion; and consider it as a token of the interest of the Christians that characterize Your Majesty's Government and people.

History records that Columbus on setting sail on his famed voyage of discovery had Zipangu and the East Indies in view. He knew not a great continent of America, and Your Majesty's beautiful island Empire needed first to feel the life-giving breath of Christian civilization, before they in turn could extend it to our country.

We rejoice in the liberty, independence of your Empire, in your free, constitutional Government, and in your great progress in educational matters. May the throne of Kamehameha and of Iwasa never be held by others than their lawful descendants.

A special duty which rests upon us to-day is this; the time of God in which we meet to-day draws its attention to the generous donation of a large sum of money from the Hawaiian Christians to build the first native church in Japan. This money was intended to the mission of the reformed church in Kumamoto for our use.

By the generous gifts of others which were added to this and the exertion of our first brethren, this church was erected and was dedicated to the worship of God, July 10th, 1875, from which time it has been freely used by us. We well know the worth of that love which was seen in this gift on the part of Your Majesty's people. It is no other than the love of God which led him to send the only begotten son that whoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life. And we are glad to avail ourselves of the opportunity afforded by Your Majesty's visit to this empire to offer through the august person of Your Majesty, to the Christians of Hawaii our sincere thanks.

We have heard of the great success which has attended the preaching of the gospel in your dominions but the cause of Christianity as yet with us is in its infancy. Yet we are happy to tell Your Majesty of more than 70 churches and 4,000 Christian believers. We hope also the day is not far distant when we in turn shall send our missionaries to other islands and countries to proclaim the glorious gospel of the blessed God.

As a trifling token of our high respect for Your Majesty we humbly present Your Majesty with a copy of the New Testament in our language and pray that the high degree of liberty and national political prosperity which has been the blessing of those nations where this book has had its widest influence, may be more and more fully enjoyed both by Your Majesty's people and ours.

In reply to this address, His Majesty said:—It is a source of great pleasure to me, on this occasion, to thank you for the very valuable gift which you presented to me this afternoon. I feel very much gratified by this exchange of love, not only between Hawaii and Japan as nations, but also as between the Christians of my country and yours. I shall ever consider this remarkable gift of the Christians of Japan as a valuable memento of my visit to this country; and I do not doubt it will be very gratifying to the Christians of my kingdom when I return, and when I show them the present you have given me to-day. The Christian religion is the prevailing religion of my people, and I hope the liberal spirit of the imperial sovereign of Japan, and your labors—the labors of the native and of the foreign missionaries—will combine to the progress of the work. With these few remarks let me thank the Christians of Japan for their kind gift. I only regret that my stay in Japan is not long enough to enable me to visit the church oftener.

After the singing of the Missionary hymn in English, the exercises were brought to a close by the benediction in Japanese. On the introduction of many of the leading Japanese personages, the King kindly observed to the young minister who acted as interpreter, that he did not think we had been so surprised. And he showed greater astonishment on being informed that the young girls had made greater attainments in English composition than the young men had done. The perfect kindness of the King's heart was manifested in the hearty handshaking with some old retainers of his kingdom, who related him in the Hawaiian tongue. The impression made by His Majesty's affable and yet kindly bearing was most favorable among all present, both natives and foreigners. And he will be followed wherever he goes by many grateful petitions for his happiness and prosperity on the part of this people, so unhesitatingly on the one on the part of his own subjects.

From the church the King was driven to the Imperial Hotel, and later to the Masonic Hall, and gun, followed by Colonels Judd and Armstrong, who had attended throughout of the occasion, and by some friends, to the station for the 5 p.m. train for the capital.
