"Praise to the Queen."

BY ARABELLA BOOT.

[Sterling to the kind sympathy expressed in resolutions from Queen Victoria to Mrs. Garfield, the people of America on the decease of Gen. Garfield, President of the United States.]

[England's noble Queen,
Who, in sorrow with grave surprise
Of another land,
Sent with fond hearts will sing,
Throughout the world may ring,
Sweet as Love's tender wing,
Praise to the Queen!"

Most gracious Majesty,
Reigning with honesty,
Love, power and might—
Queen so pure and grand,
Holding with loving hand
Your great and mighty land
Under God and Right—
Our praise has long been sung,
Now on our nation's tongue
Continually;
But when first bowed with grief
Your lamented chief,
Sent words of relief
And sympathy.

Across the ocean wide
Old Queen, Old England's pride,
Your kindness sent
Our hearts have most sweet
Strength when ones who weep
Him now fall's asleep—
Our President.

Yet more our love has grown
In such great favor shown
To this good Queen;
Friendship of the past
Has more secure and fast,
Can may always last,
Calm and serene.

Nations joined as one,
Mother and the son,
England, America—
May it ever be
In this land of the Free
And send across the sea
Love for the Queen—
And good Victoria,
Hearing your "Gloria"
With reverent mien—
Crying the Father of
Joy, and peace, and love,
Mercy from above,
To save the Queen!

Miscellaneous.

Keifer is the owner of many thousands of valuable land in Nebraska.

Mitchell is rapidly recovering from his illness, and in spite of his years is taking a new lease of life.

Oscar Wilde is said to be negotiating with a view to a series of æsthetic lectures in the United States. The fee he demands is $200 a night.

Mr. Beecher's father a little boy writes that his son is growing every day, and sometimes twice.

Mr. Tilde has been invited to visit Boston. A man who dines on a glass of water and sits down to a dinner of pork and beans.

Mr. Moses says that Moody and Sankey are $700 a month during their preaching and tour in England.

Various persons having counted the number in a part recently sung by Madame Patti, which she received $800, finds that she sang forty-six cents per note.

A copy of Luther, until now unknown, has been found in an old Leipsic church. It is bound in gilt feathers, and bears an inscription which identifies it.

In "Macbeth," as played by Frank Mayo's company, Hecate is represented as a young and beautiful woman instead of an old hag. This is an old idea, but has not been used of late years.

Mr. Talmage says that hell is strewn with tobacco leaves. If Mr. Talmage doesn't quit giving so much information on this subject people will begin to wonder where he gets his pointers.

The ex-Empress Eugene is making extensive additions to her new mansion at Farnborough near Aldershot. The least possible cost of these will be $200,000, which proves that something has been saved from the wreck of the Empire.

A good many people will agree with Dio Lewis, who says any poor, miserable fellow can get over the effects of a spree in a couple of days, while a good, healthy Christian may suffer for a week from a Thanksgiving dinner.

The smallest man attending the Atlanta Exposition is General Sawyer. He represents the Key West (Florida) Democrat. General Sawyer is twenty years old, weighs thirty-five pounds, and is only forty inches high. He was born in San Domingo, and was raised in Florida.

Helena Frederica Augusta, Princess of Schleswig-Holstein and the betrothed of Prince Leopold of Great Britain, will be twenty years old on February 17. She is a pretty, round-faced young lady, and has been brought up in the midst of a patriarchal and simple life in her father's castle of Arolsen, the principality has only 54,000 inhabitants.

Edward McPherson has already been four years Clerk of the U. S. House of Representatives. If he lives to complete the term for which he has now been elected he will have had the honor of service as Clerk of the House of any member of that office from the foundation of the Government. Already he has served a longer period of continuous service.

An aged Polish nobleman named Lowacki, who apprented for painting in a Vienna station-house was a member of the Moscow campaign in 1812, was in the battles of Leipsic and Leipsic. He served under Kossuth in the Hungarian struggle and was imprisoned and afterward served during the insurrection under General Siegel.

Campanini served in the army when a mere boy and was afterward apprenticed to a blacksmith. The hard work at the forge developed that robust health which to-day enables him to bid defiance to the effects of wind, rain and over-exertion, which sometimes cause disappointment to a singer and to the public.

Prof. Bastian has found unmistakable evidence in the beliefs of the people of the Sandwich Islands and of New Zealand regarding the origin of the universe and the genealogy of their deities that these people must at some very remote period have shared some way or another the higher culture of the natives of Asia.

Two stations for scientific observation of polar phenomena are to be maintained by Russia next year at a cost of 14,000 rubles. One is to be at the mouth of the river Lena, and the other, of a secondary rank, is to be established on one of the islands of New Siberia, but it will be provided with meteorological and magnetic records.

The three cities in the United States are to be order following, Utica, Dayton, Oakland, San Francisco and Lawrence. The Charleston Memphis, Cleveland, Lynn and Petersburg is the order in the world, and is followed by Galveston, Malaga, Alexandria, Warsaw and Budapesth.

What is that which has three feet but no legs, is all body but no limbs, has no toes on the feet, no head, moves a great deal but never uses its feet for that purpose, has one foot at each end and one in the center of the body? It never walks out but goes with one foot when the hand might be, dragging the other foot behind. Answer—A yardstick. —Detroit Free Press.

M. Gambetta intends to make as his private Secretary M. Berard, Secretary of Legation at Washington. M. Berard has been for thirty years of service. He entered the diplomatic service less than two years ago, and held his present appointment about twelve months. He was for some years after the war, on the recommendation of an English diplomatist, French resident in the German Empire.

Each year on the Prince of Wale's birthday his three young daughters play before him a short dramatic piece to show their progress in foreign tongues. Last year the recitation was from the German; this year it was French. The young Princesses Louise, Victoria and Maud acquitted themselves admirably in their respective parts, and the Prince, complimenting the artists, asked for the name of the author.

In one of the letters of Sir Charles Lyell, recently published, is a charming picture of Queen Victoria's young children playing with spade and hoe and being rigidly paid by their father with day-laborer's wages, that they might get an insight into the condition of the working classes. In another letter Lyell relates how in a long talk he had with the Queen at Osborne he explained, at her request, the principles of Darwinism.

Mrs. Langtry's costume, on the occasion of her recent debut as an amateur actress, was dainty but simple. She wore a dress of a very delicate shade, with little about it, and a panier. Her lace collar fitted the neck and throat; it was the counterpart of the one in her last portrait by Mr. Millais, and her only ornaments were a diamond arrow brooch and a belt with a diamond clasp. On one hand she wore her wedding-ring, on the other a small diamond, and a couple of bracelets decorated her wrists.

The twelve largest land owners, as regards area, in England and Wales are the Duke of Northumberland, Duke of Devonshire, Duke of Cleveland, Sir W. W. Wynn, Duke of Bedford, Earl of Carlisle, Duke of Rutland, Earl of Lonsdale, Lord Leconfield, Earl of Powis, Earl Brownlow and Earl of Derby. The two largest owners in North Wales are Lord Penrhyn and Sir Watkin W. Wynn; and in South Wales Earl of Cawdor and Earl of Lisburne.

The health Department of St. Louis has been energetically urging the question, is vaccination a preventive of small-pox? The conclusion arrived at is an emphatic negative. One firm bases his belief on the fact that not a death from small-pox has occurred in that city for five years, during which period vaccination has been more generally practiced, than perhaps in any other city in the country. During last year alone there were 12,000 vaccinations and in Chicago from small-pox St. Louis has certainly escaped, therefore, an enviable immunity from the scourge.
