up to public tender. ... are two more on the tapis and that parties are only waiting for the arrival of the new cutnage to get their claws on it. The public must emphatically demand that this system come to an end, and that the coming contracts be properly advertised and tendered for. It is a perfect outrage upon the hard working mechanics of this country that things are managed as they are.

Are all the tax assessors appointed on the plan adopted in the case of Mr. Frank Brown? He was put on the list without his own consent and he was most ... when he heard of Minister Keyes's action. He positively refused to have anything to do in any way with the present Ministry. The fact is, all responsible men keep aloof from the present incumbents of power.

The son-in-law we notice figures as tax assessor for Honolulu; of course he has exceptional abilities which fit him for the post, why cannot we have a thoroughly competent man, who knows something of the value of property, the more entitled a man is for a place, the more likely he is to get it. Our merchants must be exceedingly satisfied.

Taken as a whole the tax-assessors are a queer lot and planters, householders and merchants should protest against having men of such calibre set to do such important work.

The editor of the P. C. A., whoever that intangible individual may be, seems to be exercised about a salary that was paid to Mr. Atkinson. That salary was earned for work done, it was given to that gentleman as an equivalent for his giving up a remunerative private school, and as long as he was in charge of the public establishment he returned his full quid pro quo to the Board. When he took charge of the school the establishment did not pay for the principal's salary, the last biennial report of the Board of Education showed that the establishment had not only paid the principal's salary, but had pretty nearly paid the salary of the more important teachers. Under any circumstances the salary has never had the slightest influence upon the political opinions expressed in this paper. Two thousand dollars or no, the views of this journal remain the same, and will remain the same.

The GAZETTE is not the exponent of Mr. Atkinson's opinions, it is the exponent of a definite party, without the support of that party it could not live. The proprietors of this journal are perfectly satisfied with the amount of patronage which it has received and is receiving, and feel assured that as long as it continues in the course marked out, as long as it is the exponent of freedom of thought and speech it will continue to receive that support.

The story of the "Good Samaritan" comes very pertinently before us after reading the animadversions upon the religious papers of Honolulu, published last week in the Saturday Press. We thoroughly agree with our contemporary, that a religious paper is not a political organ, but it is an organ whose efforts should be used to promote public morals. It is not advancing the standard of public morals to pass by like the priest and the Levite on the "other" side when the poor wayfarer has been fallen upon by thieves. Hawaii nei has been fallen upon by thieves in the shape of drunkenness and debauchery, and it is the duty of those who represent the great Christian denominations here to wage relentless warfare against these foes. It is not entering into politics to rebuke by word and deed those who are the ... Yet we grieve to say that so far as the religious press is concerned, they have quilted their shirts about them and "passed" on the other side. High place or power should make no difference. It was as wrong for King Kalakaua to sanction the disgraceful kiss of the coronation as for Opunui to perform it, and it was a dereliction of duty on the part of the religious press of this city not to denounce it. Not so do the great religious papers like the New York Independent act; not so did the great Fathers of the Church act. St. Ambrose of Milan, when informed of the evil deed of Theodosius the Great, was satisfied that a timid silence would render him the accomplice of the Emperor. He wrote, and made him feel, he spoke; for when the Emperor presented himself at the great church of Milan he was stopped in the porch by the bishop. He declared to Sovereign that private contrition was not sufficient to atone for a public crime. "You have imitated David in his crime," said the Bishop, "imitate then his repentance." And the Emperor did.

It is extremely gratifying to find that the more the condition of affairs on our plantations is investigated, the better light do they show up in. The moment any one becomes practically acquainted with the working of a plantation, all the farrago of ill-natured nonsense and downright lying which has appeared in the columns of the Gazette is swept from his mind and he acknowledges how villainously our planters have been traduced. It is fortunate that the gentlemen forming the Sugar Commission have extended their tour hitherward. There are two points in the investigation, viz: whether the Hawaiian Islands have exported to San Francisco higher grades of sugar than the treaty contemplated, and secondly, whether the merchants here have imported sugars from foreign countries and re-shipped them to the United States as Sandwich Islands sugars. The former charge has been investigated already and the collector of the Port of San Francisco decided in our favor; we have no doubt that the present commission, even though its members might be hostile to us, will agree with the decision of the Collector. Figures have been given again and again on this subject, until there cannot be a particle of doubt by any fair thinking man. Our merchants are not a set of frauds; it is doubtful whether any place can show as clean a commercial record as the Honolulu merchants; their desire is not to hide, for there is nothing to hide, but to show their manner of conducting this sugar trade as fully as possible.

With regard to the importation and re-exportation of foreign sugars, the most simple refutation has been given by Minister Daggett: nothing could be clearer or more decisive. Consul McKinley has also treated of the matter in his very able report to the United States Government; ex-Minister Comly has done the same thing; and yet in spite of what their own officials have told them, there are fanatics in the East and paid perverseiers in California who will insist that a fraud is being perpetrated. Let then this commission examine fully, every one interested in the prosperity of the islands is glad to see the gentlemen land, and will be only too happy to give them access to all the information they need. The more thoroughly they investigate, the more clearly will it appear that the Hawaiian planters and merchants have been most outrageously traduced by an unscrupulous foe.

The term "white invader" was invented and first applied, so far as this Kingdom is concerned, by Mr. Gibson, as one of several devices for sowing enmity among the various races dwelling in these Islands. It first appeared some little time after Gibson had been hired by Bush, with public money, to be invariably loyal to His Majesty, &c., vide bargain dated 26th August, 1880. Another phrase, intended to serve the same purpose, appeared about the same time and from the same source, where the white population was styled "a lot of foreigners, mostly without votes," and was most emphatically intended to represent the "invader," not as a "new and inevitable grass seed spread broadcast over the Islands to their benefit," but to teach the native believe that the invasion was that of the grasshopper.

The white invader is worse off than he formerly was, in these respects. He is

R. H. A. S. SHOW.

The show held under the auspices of the Royal Hawaiian Agricultural Society, on the 19th and 20th inst., on the grounds at the foot of Richard street has had its season of success and the members of the organization are reaping the benefits in the shape of unusual praise for their well directed efforts in getting together and placing in presentable form a large variety of exhibits in horses, cattle, poultry, dogs, fish, dairy products, agricultural products, fine specimens of fruits and flowers, agricultural implements, specimens of domestic manufactures in the shape of carriages, wagons, an omnibus, a new planing machine, etc., etc., etc.

The grounds on which the show was held, was the unfinished land at the foot of Richards street, and on which shade for the reception of exhibit horses, swine, poultry, dogs and pigs had been erected. A board fence surrounded this enclosure, entrance being had by the general public who deposited their quarter admission fee, through a gateway on the Richards street side. The first display that attracted attention of visitors was the exhibit of horses, this department being the largest, and containing some splendid specimens of horse flesh represented by trotting, running and pacing stock of creditable record, saddle and carriage horses, draught horses and a fine showing of native born and bred mares, geldings, fillies and stallions, and one native mule. The exhibit in this department was a most notable one and would have reflected credit on a much larger community than Honolulu, whose stock was more available. Opposite to the horse shed was the shed for neat cattle, and here, was also a fine exhibit of stock, which though not large in numbers, was of most superior quality, there being Holstein, Durham, Jersey and Ayrshire. Two Chinese buffaloes and a fine pair of working oxen attracted attention as also did a year old Durham bull, native born. Beside of the cattle sheds was arranged compartments for the exhibition of swine, dogs and poultry, and although the exhibits of dogs, were numerous, those of poultry, and swine were rather meagre, and gave a fine exhibit of pigeons, attracted but little attention.

Passing through another gateway the visitor's attention was attracted by an exhibit of farm carts from the establishment of Mr. Frank Brown. Entering beneath a circular tent, the spectator was met with a view of the general exhibit, there attention being first attracted by the heavy throng around a fine specimen of the Rowe scale capable of weighing any quantity of matter from ¼ of a pound to 400 pounds weight, the specimen of which was brought into commission by the Hawaiian Post Office Department. Beside the scale were fat people and heavy people, and men and maidens in entertaining their exact avoirdupois. This scale, with a varied assortment of agricultural implements, prominent among which was the Moline gang, machines, scales, trucks, household furniture, fancy work, &c., &c., &c., exhibit of Messrs. Dillingham & Co., and the assortment of articles presented was one of the attractive features of the show. As a natural result this firm received a first prize for the "Best show of Agricultural Implements."

HORSES, CATTLE & COMMON ANIMALS.

Adjoining the exhibits above mentioned, was that of Messrs. Castle & Cooke, who, through lack of space, were crowded only to show agricultural implements. The exhibit of this well known firm consisted of Horses, viz: 1 Clydesdale, 1 Percheron, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 inch and 10 inch breakers, 2 farrow plows, large and small, 12 inch and 14 inch Prairie Queen plows, No. 2, 12 inch and 14 inch Sole Mill plows, and their well-known Steel Farrow plows, Hunt's Improved Corn Shellers, Planter plantation tree to the firm's order. Corn knives, large and small, made expressly for these Islands, Wood scrapers, 1 inch 30 inch and 36 inch reversible Wood Scrapers, 1 Hall's Scrapers. This first was awarded the first prize for bows.

EXHIBIT OF R. C. HALL & SON.

Messrs. R. C. Hall & Son, by Mr. W. W. Hall, exhibited a large assortment of steel plows, made for them by the Moline Plow Co., from patterns furnished by Mr. Hall and specially adapted to the requirements of the trade in these Islands. Hall's heavy double mould board Farrow plow, weighing 120 pounds, was much admired by planters and was favorably commented on. Exhibit consisted of 1 Hall's Improved Sod Plow, 1 Farrow Plow, 1 Iron Age Cultivator, 1 Moline Cultivator, 1 Hawaiian made Ox Yoke, Neuman, Iron bowls, 1 Corn Cutter, Hunter's patent, ready for shoes, 1 Hall's Tools, Fork, 1 Hall's Spade, 1 Hall's Shovel, 1 Hall's Garden Cultivator, 1 Hall's Rice Sickle, 2 Cane Knives, No. 1 & 2 Hall's Rice Hoe, 1 Lane's Plantation Hoe. This firm received the first prize for Plows.

G. VOGT'S SHOW CONTINUED.

"Hawaiian home manufactures" would have been a good motto for Mr. Vogt to have placed in a conspicuous position on the fine exhibit of his own handiwork which he presented to the stage of a well lighted and well looking booth, capable of accommodating a total of about twenty people, and displaying the artistic handiwork of Mr. Carpenter, Mr. Wall's painter, a neat wagonette, a trolley car, a hay rack, a hay cart, a hay rake, and a hay tedder, which latter received the first prize for best wagonette and top buggy.

J. A. MOSSMAN EXHIBIT.

The exhibit of carriages presented by Mr. Mossman, the proprietor of the Honolulu Carriage Repository, deserved a better position than that allotted to them, but the space required for a proper display of the really fine carriages of foreign manufacture presented to him was not available, there being only room for a few of them in the rear of the flower stands and not in general view. The carriages shown by him were of Kent's manufacture, adapted for use in this climate and consisted of 1 Victoria, 1 Victoria Cabriolet, 1 Victoria Cabriolet, 1 top buggy, 1 Brewster top-cart, 1 Hill's patent top-cart, 4 New wagons and 1 Eureka top-cart. To Mr. Mossman was awarded a first prize for "best two-wheeled top-cart," and a second prize for "Victoria."

THE MOSSMAN HORSE SHOW.

For a country, as might be said, in its infancy as yet, in relation to other countries in the varied productions of the garden, the display presented on the tables was most creditable, the only drawback being that the exhibitors in the various departments and placing would be offered no an excuse. The display consisted of specimens of flowers and ferns "from all the gardens round," notably the collections of roses by Mr. J. O. Berger, Mrs. Thurston, and Mr. Wood, the latter having large collections, Hon. Mrs. C. R. Bishop, and some beautiful Magnolias from Mrs. C. F. Ward. The parlor of Mr. C. Afong contributed a number of curious plants and specimens of vegetable growth, which was an amount of the production. In this department prizes were awarded as follows: Carl Wehrfritz, 1st prize for collection of 70 roses in pots; A. Jaeger, 1st prize, collection of bulbs; A. Jaeger, 1st prize for collection of ferns; A. F. Judd, 1st prize for collection of palms; A. F. Judd, 1st prize for collection of cycas; A. F. Judd, 1st prize for collection of plants; A. Kidwell, 1st prize for general collection of plants; A. Kidwell, 1st prize for geraniums; A. Kidwell, 1st prize for collection of cactus; A. Kidwell, 1st prize for collection of cactus; F. W. Macfarlane, 1st prize for single rose, Louis Philippe; J. S. Cleghorn, 1st prize for collection of asters; C. O. Berger, 1st prize for collection of roses; Hon. Mrs. Bishop, 1st prize for 6 ferns, 1 fern, and collection of maidenhair; S. B. Dole, 1st prize cut flowers; J. Kidwell, 1st prize collection of begonias.

VEGETABLES EXHIBIT.

Prizes were not invitably displayed on the tables, the exhibit consisting only of some few bunches of grapes, and a small lot of peaches by Mr. Philip Milton, a beautiful bunch of bananas and some very large mangoes by Mrs. J. Ward, some fine specimens of pineapples, by Hon. A. F. Judd for Miss Irene B. Manila oranges, by Mr. C. A. Bolstein, and a small lot of love apples. Mr. F. Waldron Burchell exhibited slips of 12 varieties of fruit trees. The first prize awarded was to Mr. Philip Milton for best grapes and peaches.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

Butter was the only dairy product exhibited and of that article samples of the non-demonstrative article was presented by Prince Kauoi, Miss Widemann, Madame Dowsett, Mrs. Thurston and Mr. Wood, and the prizes were awarded as follows: 1st prize to Miss Widemann and Prince Kauoi, 2d prize to Mrs. Thurston and Madame Dowsett.

MISCELLANEOUS PRODUCTS.

The exhibits in this department were enough considering the number of plantations on the Islands that might have, through their agents, contributed specimens of sugar cane at least. Specimens of manufactured products of sugar, molasses, syrup, etc., should have presented an interesting competitive display. As it was, the exhibits shown consisted of a specimen of the Rowe plant, for which Mr. C. C. Coleman took the first prize; a specimen of cane from the Waimanalo plantation, first prize; largest collection of sugar-cane sticks, Hilo Plantation, first prize; best single stick of sugar cane, Hilo Plantation, first prize; best 10 sticks, Hilo Plantation, first prize to C. Afong for best sample of sugar, second prize to Waimanalo Plantation, first prize for best sample of rice to Waimanalo Plantation, first prize for preserved fruits to Dr. Anders.

THE HORSE AND CATTLE SHOWS.

As before stated the premium number of entries seemed to be numerous for the show of horses and cattle and which was well worthy of the attention of the visitors on account of the variety and fineness of the stock exhibited. Prizes were awarded as follows:

HORSES.

Imp. Stallion for carriage use, 1st prize, Kennedy; C. H. Judd; 2 do Kang William; 2 McKenzie. Imported Stallions for saddle use, 1st prize, Tetangh; C. H. Judd; 2d prize, Wainwright; C. Lucas. Native Stallions for all work, 1st prize, Kettle Lee; R. R. Macfarlane. Special prize for Stallions Thoroughbred, 1st prize, Frontier, Best native Stallion over 4 years old, 1st prize, Captain Lucas; 2d prize, Kettle Lee; 3d prize, Kang Lauoe, W. H. Rice. Best native Stallion under 4 years, 1st prize, Prince Henry; A. F. Judd. Honorable mention to colt, 1d months old, of W. H. Rice; Best Mare, 1st prize, Kaiulani, Prince Kauoi; Mouse, H. J. Agnew. Best imported mare for saddle, 1st prize, Lady Woodbury, R. R. R. Princess Liliuokalani. Best imported mare for draught use, 1st prize, R. R. Princess Liliuokalani; 2d do, Dowsett. Best native mare, 1st prize, Lady C. L. Judd. Best gelding, native, 1st prize, Rowe; R. R. R. Princess Liliuokalani; 2d do, Dowsett. Best native mare, C. H. Judd; 2d do, Cornwell. Best Stallion under 4 years, 1st prize was awarded for native mules. Best pair native horses, 1st prize, Black stallions under 4 years, W. H. Rice. Best pair female horses, native, 1st prize, pair bays, W. H. Rice; best pair native, 1st prize, Kitty, H. Waterhouse; this class was added by the judges.

NEAT CATTLE.

Best imported Durham bull, C. H. Judd; second do, L. McCully; best Angus Bull, J. I. Dowsett; best Jersey Bull, H. R. Macfarlane; best Holstein bull, L. McCully; best Ayrshire Bull, Stephen; best native bull, 1st prize, Waterhouse; best Jersey Bull; native, G. Dillingham; best Durham grade cow, native, Queen Branch Co.; best Jersey and Ayrshire grade cow, L. McCully; best native cow, Hon. Mrs. C. R. Bishop; best imported Durham grade cow, R. Dillingham; best imported Holstein cow, L. McCully; best native working cow, Gouger Stiff.

The place allotted to the swine for exhibition was the worst feature of the show, the hospitable being small, roughly made slatted house, and we admitted that it was a hard matter for an observer to judge of the merits or points of but few of the specimens shown, the animals being in most cases somewhat ill-tempered over the accommodation offered, and many evinced dissatisfaction at the awards made, notably in the placing of the inaugurated boar pig. The prizes awarded were: first prize Mr. Max Rolton's entire sire, second prize Mr. C. S. Wilcox's Gordon Setter; dog Major, and diplomas were given to Max Rolton, setter sire; R. Robinson, 1 pair Gordon setter dogs; C. S. Wilcox, Gordon pointer dog Kiss; W. J. Brodie, 1 English mastiff bitch; Miss S. Clarke, Pomeranian Hound; Geo. Wadsworth, pointer; J. R. S. Spencer, first prize for best sample of pigeons, second prize to Waimanalo Plantation, first prize for best sample of rice to Waimanalo Plantation, first prize for preserved fruits to Dr. Anders.

hounds; G. Vogt, pair Blue Skye terriers and 3 pups.

SWINE.

Nearly all the exhibitors of swine received prizes, as follows: Best imported Boar, 1st prize, Gaspar Silva; 2d prize, H. R. Macfarlane. Best imported sow, 1st prize, R. Gerke; 2d do, R. Gerke. Best litter of pigs, 1st prize, R. Gerke. Best fat pig, native, 1st prize, His Majesty.

POULTRY.

Considering the number of people who have been interested in the raising of fancy fowls on the islands, and especially in this city, the exhibit in this department was most meagre and the exhibits of the fowls entered, was not as good as regards arrangement and location as it should have been for the small number displayed. The most noteworthy portion of this department was the display of pigeons by Mr. Archer who exhibited three varieties, amongst them the (letter) carrier pigeons. Following were the prizes awarded: Dominick fowls, 1st prize, H. R. Macfarlane. Hawaiian Game, honorable mention, R. F. Robertson. Vigorous cross of game cocks, three kinds, 1st prize Horace Crabbe. Game cock and hen, honorable mention, J. K. Kanoa. Cochin Chinas, 1st prize, C. Lucas. Three varieties of pigeons, 1st prize, J. Archer; honorable mention, Robertson. Honorable mention, R. Lindsay.

MISCELLANEOUS EXHIBITS.

But five articles were exhibited, that could be properly classed under this head, an album of mounted ferns prepared by Miss A. Clark, an exhibit of calabashes and bowls made from Hawaiian wood, by Princess Liliuokalani, horse shoes by J. McLean and J. Doyle, comprising the entirety. Prizes were awarded to H. R. H. Princess Liliuokalani, J. McLean and J. Doyle.

The Society was indefatigable in arranging matters so that strangers and visitors should be pleased and interested with the initial show of the new organization and the officers and members are well deserving of credit for the result of their labors, and when the Society again makes its bow before the public, it is hoped that the patronage will be as good, and the event as successful as that just ended.

Fair Notes

His Majesty and their Excellencies the Ministers of His Majesty were present on the first day of the exhibit.

Their Royal Highnesses Princess Lydia and Princess Likelike, and His Excellency the American Minister were visitors on the closing day of the Fair. A number of the officers of the Benicia were also present.

The Horse sales were well patronized, and Mr. Hugh Hastie who regulated the weights states that he weighed over 300 people. The heaviest person weighed was Mr. Hugh McIntyre, 262 lbs. The lightest weight was a person over 18 years of age was a lady weighing only 52 lbs.

Excellent music was discovered each afternoon by the Hawaiian Band under the direction of Mr. Berger.

The Bulletin is in error regarding the Advertiser's exhibit of its favorite garden vegetable, there having been several specimens from the P. C. A. on exhibition on both days. No prizes.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in ascertaining the decisions of the judges and the names of prize winners during the fair, and the general public had to rely upon information conveyed through the newspapers.

The places allotted to dogs were visited by a number of sightseers, but members of the fair we grumbled at the inability to properly distinguish the entire pets.

The display of magnolias from Mrs. Ward's, and peculiar plants from Mr. Afong's gardens attracted considerable notice.

Messrs. Dillingham & Co., Messrs. Castle & Cooke and Messrs. R. C. Hall & Son had seats placed in front of their exhibits, which were a great accommodation to visitors.

The catalogues issued were very unreliable, many exhibits being presented which were not mentioned on the printed lists and the names of the judges allotted to the different departments were wrongly placed. It was hardly proper to charge for such an incorrect official document.

Mr. Charles Wilkes discover one of his guns here, which had been stolen from his residence some time ago, in one of the coops which had been awarded a prize.

Garden vegetables which should have been largely represented were in a very small minority. Had our local Chinese gardeners been spoken to a better exhibit might have been obtained.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27th, 1883.

One of the most interesting occasions of the season was the meeting here on the 26th inst. of the Army of the Potomac. It was the first representative gathering since the war, and as the soldiers of twenty years ago, marched past the President's stand, many of those gray headed and bowed with the weight of intervening years, it recalled the scenes of 1865, when the Army of the Potomac marched up the avenue and passed before President Lincoln, 200,000 strong. The procession was very brilliant, headed by General Humphreys and staff with corps, flags and band; followed by General Agers with the artillery and mounted officers of the detachment; then the infantry in white coats, blue pants and white Kaiser hats, and the National Rifles in red coats, dark blue pants and white helmets. Among these were the heroes of the day, the veterans, in civilian dress, but who, almost to a man, bore scars on crutches, others with empty sleeves and many with the tattered battle flags they carried before they fought and bled twenty years ago. Before them on a standard was borne a large stuffed eagle which was greeted with cheers all along the line. During the war it was the pet of the Army of the Potomac, followed it through several campaigns. The route of the procession was about a mile in length and included Thomas, Scott and Farragut statues, each one of which was lined with flowers by the passing veterans, terminating at the White House, where they were received by the President who occupied a grand stand draped with flags. With him were members of the Cabinet, Gen. Sherman and other distinguished army officers, superior officers of the diplomatic, justices, senators, etc., with their wives and daughters, the out of doors occasion giving scope for more brilliant dressing than usual. The procession was halted in the East room of the White House, followed in the evening by a meeting at the National Theater, the exercises consisting of a poem by George Alfred Townsend, eulogium Lincoln, and addresses by distinguished officers. Gen. McClellan, who was a failure during the war, though whether owing to having been hurt, or made so by circumstances, is not yet decided, stirred up more bad blood, owing to disparaging mention of Lincoln, and some pleasantry aimed at civil officers, but with that exception everything passed off in the most felicitous manner, the veterans remaining three days and leaving the recipients of constant hospitalities, both public and private.

On the same day, 26th, another event of equally strikingly different interest—the anniversary exercises of the National Deaf Mute College. Nothing could be more different than the contrasting the power of speech on the deaf mute. Until within a very few years their only means of expression was the deaf mute alphabet, but at the anniversary exercises the other day, two of the orations were delivered orally. This is owing largely to discoveries and experiments made by Mr. Melville Bell, the father of Prof. Alexander Graham Bell of Telephone fame. Added to the accomplishment of articulate speech, "by which a deaf mute can repeat and utter words can understand what is being said by closely observing the lips of the speaker—One of the features of the day was the unveiling of a bust of Prof. Bell, by Miss Bell, the eminent young sculptor. Mr. Daniel French. It was a gift to the college from deaf mutes throughout the country. President Garfield having been a warm friend and patron of the institution. The oration was by Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, editor of the Deaf Mute's Journal, New York. As he was a graduate before the days of artificial speech, his oration was read for him by Prof. Chickering, Mr. Bell's father-in-law. The bust is a fine piece of the same time most gracefully and wonderfully in the manipulations—not by the use of the alphabet by the fingers, but in broad, expressive eyes. When he had ended, Charles Dudley Warner, author of "Being a Boy" and "Being Neighbors" introduced as a "deaf mute." Mr. Warner rose and said, "this is one of the most surprising things I have ever seen, why, positively it seems to be an orator to be a deaf mute." Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, then spoke, and for his recent defeated speech than in telephone, says that he has recently succeeded by manipulation, in making a dog, a terrier, form a number of the sounds of our tongue, even coming to an end distinctly. "How are you Gardner Hubbard, Esq., of Cambridge, Mass., is a deaf mute. He fell in love with her while teaching her to speak, and on asking permission of her father, was told that it would be a difficulty in overcoming him that it was the end of the daughter he desired, as her parents had always looked upon her as being shut out from the pleasures of a domestic life of her own. Prof. Bell, who is young and handsome, is also a bachelor and has recently erected a superb residence here on Scott Circle. Mrs. Bell is one of the happiest of wives and mothers, and gives a great deal into society, visiting and receiving, and talks about, understanding what is said from the motion of the lips and responding orally.

Washington is looking beautiful beyond description. Besides the numerous circles and squares which are kept in a state of most artistic neatness, there are the Agricultural, Botanical and Propagating Gardens, with a wonderful variety of trees and plants to attract the eye and interest the mind. In the former, over 1,000 bed plants have already to be transplanted to the different parks and reservations. Color is endless variety of variegated foliage, innumerable geraniums, vinces, lantanas, verbenas, and a display by the thousands, covering three times to town in the shape of tulips, crocuses, hyacinths and the earlier and hardier plants have never been equalled in any other city in the country.

Everything that Honolulu is very anxious to have you, I would say that you ought to have one for a week or so, you would then return with perfect complexion, to your harassed lungs and wet cuticle. The other are in high style here for parties and dinners, and at a large evening reception, recently given by Prof. Bell, a great proportion of the illumination was from harmonic gauge with soft tinted shades, placed among and behind pots and banks of flowers, a style—pardon pattern being what it is—ought either to have yes gas nor paraffine or none. We have one, and consequently as there is no competition the gas is exceedingly poor as regards light, and dear as regards price.

Since the visit of Dr. Smith to New York there seems to be less opposition to the Reciprocity Treaty, not only with the public, but with the sugar refiners in Congress.

It is reported that Mr. D. A. Wells, the distinguished lawyer and political economist—the adviser of the Hawaiians will visit you this summer. In addition to being very interesting, personally, he is a good, if high, talker, and if he will visit you, it is to be anticipated that he will find many, if not all the objections to the treaty untenable.

Cosmos.

New Inter-Island Steamer.

Hon. S. G. Wilder has brought Messrs. J. D. Spreckels & Bro's new iron steamer for the Inter-Island trade. The vessel is being built by Messrs. Cramp & Sons of Philadelphia. She is 200 tons burthen, and is guaranteed to steam 12½ knots an hour. Her dimensions are—length, 130 feet; beam, 22 feet; depth, 10 feet. Mr. Wilder has gone East to take her over and will leave for this port on the 30th inst. She will be well arranged and handsomely furnished, and she will undoubtedly prove a great acquisition to the Islands. The new steamer will leave for Honolulu July 20th.

Princess Ruth's Funeral.

The Last Rites.

The closing ceremonies connected with the funeral of the late Princess Ruth were performed at her late residence on Emma street on the afternoon of the 17 inst., Rev. H. H. Parker officiating, and they were most impressive. The Kawaiahao Church choir assisted in the ceremonies attendant, by singing several hymns. A large attendance was present in the rear parlor in which the body lay in state, and amongst whom were His Majesty, their excellencies His Majesty's Ministers, diplomatic representatives of England, America, France and Portugal, members of the consular corps, officers of the U. S. S. Portsmouth, Government officials. During the services, the coffin remained covered with a black velvet pall on which was embroidered the royal coat of arms and on the top of the coffin, many beautiful wreaths of flowers were in position. The room in which the body lay displayed very few outward tokens of mourning the walls being decorated with clusters of flowers here and there and large bundles of flowers being noticeable in the windows. At a few minutes past 2 o'clock Rev. Mr. Parker opened the funeral services by a prayer, followed by a dirge by the choir. The officiating clergyman then delivered the funeral sermon, in the native language. The choir sang a closing hymn and after a short prayer the large audience retired to their carriages, to take their places in the funeral procession.

A large and very orderly gathering filled the grounds and lined the streets adjoining the residence of the late Princess and accordon of soldiers as drawn up at the intersection of Beretania Emma and Alakea streets. Along Beretania street were ranged members and members of the Fire Department. At 3.30 the pall bearers lowered the coffin with its royal burthen, down the inclined plane that had been erected for the safe transit of the coffin from the house to the hearse, and to removely any delay the coffin was safely housed, and the members of the Fools Society, who manned the ropes by which the hearse was drawn, were given the signal by Gen. Dominis to proceed. A single strain of a funeral dirge by the Hawaiian band gave the general public notice that the service had ended, and that the cortege would soon be en route to that "last bourne." With admirable promptitude, Majors Golick and Ross, of the staff of Gen. Dominis, formed the societies and organizations present into marching order, and at 3.20 the procession started in the following order:

Undertaker.
Mounted Police.
Two Platoons Foot Police.
Marshal of the Kingdom.
Honolulu Rifles Drum Band.
Engineers, Fire Department.

Miscellaneous Carriages.
Cavalry.

The route taken was from Emma to Beretania street to Nuuanu along Nuuanu to the Mausoleum. Kindred had been given from the house along the route as far as the junction of Kukui and Nuuanu. Hundred of people lined the streets over the entire route and were most orderly conducted. The procession was over a mile in the entire half out, the three bands in the procession alternating in the performance of appropriate music. At 4.25 the hearse reached the cemetery and the mourners and others whose presence was allowed took places within the inner enclosure, where the last rites were performed by Rev. Mr. Parker and some beautiful singing was given by the Kawaiahao and Kamehameha choirs, and the dose of which, coupled in the memories of all who witnessed it, will be the last earthly remains of the late powerful and wealthy chieftess Ruth Keelikolani, was laid beside her peers.
