A Mother's Love.

Some day,
When others hold your thick brown hair
And press your lips in rich red love,
When others call you "blue" and "fair,"
And lend your hands and kiss your face,
You'll not forget that for above
All others is a mother's love.

Some day,
Young strangers in far distant lands,
In your new home beyond the sea,
When all your days are hard demands
And children pulling at your knee—
Others, as at your side they grew,
How I have loved you, you will know.

Some day,
When you must bear life's heavy loss,
You will remember other years
When I, too, bore beneath the cross,
And with my sorrows wept with tears,
In each dark hours by my child
Within their shadow I have prayed.

Some day,
Your daughter's voice, or angle, or eyes,
Or face will suddenly remind
Then you will smile to your surprise
And your soul will be blind
In that dear one's heart to find
Which we at evening used to share.

Some day,
A friend, a song, a word may be,
A link between to strange and weak,
As, then, when life's tempest roar
And let your heart to "mother" look
My love is with you wherever—
You cannot get beyond my prayer.

Some day,
As longed it cannot be long,
I shall with glad hope rise will
Are the glory and the song,
For your mother's love, dear heart,
After each's parting and each's pain
Never to part, never again.

Miscellaneous.

He who is himself incapable of fear, is a natural terror to others.

Tobacco smoke blown in the ear is the sovereign remedy for the earache.

Girls we love for what they are, young men for what they promise to be.

The Emperor of Austria weighs 143 pounds, while his wife tips the scales at 184.

The Boston public library now numbers more than 400,000 volumes.

If you want to gain a reputation for accuracy, and to be universally credited, if not lauded, blurt out the plain truth on all occasions.

The great seal of the United Kingdom is cast with yellow wax for English documents, red for Scotch and green for Irish.

An Illinois man hoped his wife's earache, costing $2 in a factory ticket. She went to her father's house, and her ticket was after from $2000. Ladies will please cut this out and paste it in their cases.

Nature is a book of sweet and glowing poetry, and in every illuminated page is excellence and goodness of God are divinely portrayed.

By the census of 1881 the population of England and Wales was 25,968,237, in Scotland, 3,735,573; of Ireland, 5,174,936.

Crustine bread, recommended for use in time of famine, is prepared by baking a mixture of corn, maize, and powdered flour, the latter being soaked in water.

We ought not to look back, unless it is to derive useful lessons from past errors and for the purpose of profiting by dear bought experience.

A gentleman in search of a man to do some work, met on his way a lady not as young as she once was, and asked her: "Can you tell me where I can find a man?" "No, I cannot," she replied. "For I have been looking twenty years for one myself."

The darkest night that ever fell upon the earth never had the light, never got out the stars. It only made the stars more lovely, kindly glistening, as if in protest against the darkness.

It is proposed in Dresden to collect all steel pens and sell them for the benefit of the education of poor children. It appears that these pens are made out of the best steel, which can be used for the preparation of watch springs, fine knives and even in the manufacture of ink.

Saffranin, one of the new colors, is recommended as cheaper and better than alkanet for coloring oils, pomades, cordials, etc. One part of saffranin is dissolved in a mixture of twenty parts of alcohol and eighty of water. The color is permanent, and is not destroyed by bleach or similar substances.

On January 1, 1882 the national debt of France was 29,082,731,331 francs, equal to about $5,820,000,000, in round numbers. The debt of Great Britain was £763,087,000, or about $3,815,000,000, March 31, 1881. The German Empire has a funded debt of £16,631,000, or about $82,000,000, but has invested funds amounting to over $182,000,000 as a set off. The debt of the United States is about $1,780,000,000, in round numbers.

Socrates called beauty a short-lived tyranny; Plato, a privilege of nature; Theophrastus, a silent cheat; Theocritus, a delightful prejudice; Carneadus, a solitary kingdom; Dionisius said that nothing was so graceful; Aristotle affirmed that beauty was better than all the letters of recommendation in the world; Homer, that it was a glorious gift of nature; and Ovid calls it a favor bestowed by the Gods.

"We hate to be neutral in stirring times when right and wrong are in earnest grapple," says an eastern editor, "but the sight of two women throwing each other in the swamp or contest for our taking a hand in the scrimmage, and we breathe easier when we have fortified our neutrality by placing a few fences between it and the seat of war."

The chief products of Washington Territory in 1883 will be approximately: 300,000,000 feet of lumber, 300,000 tons of coal, 250,000 cases of salmon, 2,500,000 pounds of hops, 1,000,000 pounds of wool, 1,200 tons of cod, $100,000 in gold and silver, 25,000 tons of oats, 150,000 tons of wheat, 750,000 bushels, 30,000 sacks of oysters and 30,000 barrels of flour.

"Do you know, Algernon, my dear, you are old enough to go into society. I desire my son to be popular with the ladies, you know." "Oh, yes, ma," replied Algernon with a sigh, "but when you enrolled such a desired niece as Algernon as my chances for being popular with the girls were thus very large. Girls nowadays take to a fellow with a short name like Ben, Jim or Tom, who plays outdoor games and wears a woolen shirt. They don't want any 'Algy,' not any."

M. Trove publishes in the Monitor Industriel a plan for diminishing boiler explosions, which he points out—as has previously been shown—are due to leaving the boiler full of water, which by boiling parts with its air. M. Trove advises the injection of air into the heating the water, and the use of a thermometer, which would indicate whether the vapor pressure is below that to be expected from the temperature of the water.

A new invisible ink has been introduced by Dr. Wiedemann. It is made by intimately mixing, linseed oil 1 part, water of ammonia 20 parts, and water 100 parts. The mixture must be agitated each time the pen is dipped into it, as a little of the oil may separate and float on the surface, from which, if taken up by the pen, a stain would be left on the paper. To make the writing appear, all that is needed is to dip the manuscript in water, when the paper dries the writing will vanish.

The French medical journals have recently been discussing the relation of the teeth to the brain, and their conclusions are of considerable importance to all brain workers. It seems to have been clearly established that excessive and prolonged mental labor causes the teeth to decay by consuming the phosphates which would otherwise nourish the dental structures.

Acme. Office of a pompous doctor who knows it all. Enter a tired man, who drops into a seat, and says that he wants treatment. The doctor puts on his eye-glasses, looks at his tongue, feels his pulse, sounds his chest, and then draws up to his full height and says: "Same old story, my friend. You can't live without fresh air. No use trying it. I could make myself a corpse. Has you are doing by lounging, if I sat down in my office and didn't stir. You must have fresh air; you must take long walks, and train up by staying outdoors. Now, I could make a drug store of you, and you would think I was a smart man, but my advice to you is to walk, walk, walk."—Patient: "But, Doctor—Doctor. "That's right. Argue the question. That's my reward. Of course you know all about my business. Now, will you take my advice? Take long walks every day, several times a day, get your blood in circulation?" Patient: "I do walk, Doctor. I—" Doctor: "Of course you do walk. I know that, but walk more. Walk ten times as much as you do now. That will cure you." Patient: "But my business—" Doctor: "Of course your business prevents it. Change your business so that you will have to walk more. What is your business?" Patient: "I am a letter carrier. Doctor (paralyzed.) "My friend, permit me to once more examine your tongue."
