2,300 U. S. CAPTIVES IN CAMP RASTATT

Red Cross Man Cables They Are in Good Condition and Will Be Free Soon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Twenty-three hundred American prisoners of war at Camp Rastatt, Germany, were reported "well organized, well clothed and morale excellent" in a cablegram today to the American Red Cross from Lem G. Levy of the prisoners' relief section, who has just visited Rastatt.

This message from Mr. Levy gave the first definite news received on this side of the situation at the big Rastatt camp since the signing of the armistice. Its favorable nature was regarded as particularly gratifying in view of varying reports concerning the treatment accorded prisoners by the Germans. The despatch follows:

"Found 2,300 American prisoners well organized, well clothed, morale excellent, and found the large camp at Rastatt well provisioned.

"The German General Inspector of the Fourteenth Army Corps is willing to deliver them at Rastatt railroad bridge at once, and will transfer nineteen American officers from Karlsruhe to take charge during the journey. Recommend that train be ordered to that point immediately so that delivery may be made forthwith with this probable number of American prisoners.

"W. W. Husband, head of the American Red Cross prisoners' relief work in Copenhagen, is starting into northern Germany, and we hope to complete arrangements to send a delegation into southern Germany.

"We have received advices of a substantial number of American prisoners coming from Villengen into Switzerland and are making all arrangements in our power for their reception."

Lists of Americans in German prison camps are still being forwarded to the War Department, although it is assumed that most of the men in all camps have been released.

The following list was made public to-day by the War Department:
