DAILY LEADER

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Reminiscences and Anecdotes.

From a chapter of the artist Carpenter's reminiscences of Mr. Lincoln in this week's Independent we take the following;

HIS SENSITIVENESS.

I do not recall an instance of his referring to any act of his administration with anything like complacency or the least sign of self satisfaction. I watched him closely during the political excitement previous to the Baltimore Convention, to see if I could discover signs of personal ambition, and I am free to say that, apart from the welfare of the country, there was no evidence to show to my mind that he ever thought of himself. And yet he was very sensitive to the opinions of his friends. A governor of a western state, true and loyal as the best, at a certain juncture conceived himself for some reasons aggrieved by the President. Having occasion to send in the names of two officers for promotion, he said, in his note to Mr. Lincoln, that he hoped whatever feeling he might have against him personally would not prevent his doing justice to the officers in question. Mr. Lincoln had been utterly unconscious of having given offence, either by lack of appreciation or otherwise, and he seemed greatly touched by the aspersion. He said that, if he had not been asked to say which of all the loyal governors had been the most active and efficient in raising and equipping troops, if he had made any distinction, where all had done so well, it would have been in favor of the governor in question. At another time, when several conflicting delegations were pressing the claims of different candidates for a position of importance, he said that he had been so troubled about the matter that he had that day refused to see one of the candidates, an old and dear personal friend, lest his judgment should be warped. "If I were less 'thin skinned' about such things," he said to me, "I should get along much better."

THE WADE AND DAVIS MANIFESTO.

When he had thought profoundly, however, upon certain measures, and felt sure of his ground, criticism either public or private, did not disturb him. Last year, upon the appearance of what was known as the "Wade and Davis manifesto," an intimate friend and supporter, who was very indignant that such a document should have been put forth just previous to the Presidential election, took occasion to animadvert very severely upon the course that prompted it. "It is not worth fretting about," said the President; "it reminds me of an old acquaintance who, having a son of a scientific turn, bought him a microscope. The boy went around experimenting with his glass upon everything that came in his way. One day, at the dinner-table, his father took up a piece of cheese. 'Don's eat that, father,' said the boy, 'it is full of wrigglers.' 'My son,' replied the old gentleman, taking at the same time a huge bite, 'let them wriggle; I can stand it if they can.'"

THE TREASURY SECRETARYSHIP.

I never saw Mr. Lincoln manifest so much excitement as on the day following the resignation of Mr. Chase as Secretary of the Treasury. This step, it will be remembered, took the country entirely by surprise. It was known that the finances were in a precarious condition, and much anxiety was felt, especially in Washington, as to the successorship. Mr. Lincoln, without consultation or advice, so far as I could ever learn, sent into the Senate the name of ex Governor Tod, of Ohio, on the afternoon of the day Mr. Chase resigned. This nomination was not popular, and great relief was experienced the next morning when it was announced that Governor Tod had declined the position. Mr. Lincoln passed an anxious night. He received the telegram from Governor Tod, declining the nomination, in the evening. Retiring, he laid awake some hours, canvassing in his mind the merits of various public men. At length he settled upon the Hon. Wm. P. Fessenden, and soon afterward fell asleep. [illegible] and wrote the nomination. John Hay, the Assistant Private Secretary, had taken it from the President, on his way to the Senate, when he encountered Senator Fessenden upon the threshold of the door of the room. As Chairman of the Finance Committee, he also had passed an anxious night, and called thus early to consult with the President, and offer some suggestions. After a few moments' conversation Mr. Lincoln turned to him with a smile, and said: "I am obliged to you, Fessenden, but the fact is, I have just sent your own name to the Senate for Secretary of the Treasury. Hay had just received the nomination from my hand as you entered." Mr. Fessenden was taken completely by surprise, and, very much agitated, protested his inability to accept the position. The state of his health, he said, if no other consideration, made it impossible. Mr. Lincoln would not accept the refusal as final. He very justly felt that, with Mr. Fessenden's experience and known ability at the head of the finance committe, his acceptance would go far towards re-establishing a feeling of security. He said to him very earnestly, "Fessenden, the Lord has not deserted me thus far, and he is not going to now—you must accept!" They separated, the senator in great anxiety of mind. Throughout the day Mr. Lincoln urged almost all who called, to go and see Mr. Fessenden, and press upon him the duty of accepting. Among those was a delegation of New York bankers whom I had the honor of introducing to the President. In the name of the banking community, they expressed their satisfaction at the nomination. This was especially gratifying to him, and, in the strongest manner, he entreated them to "see Mr. Fessenden and assure him of their support."

MR. LINCOLN AND SECRETARY STANTON.

Entering the President's room about 11 o'clock one evening, I found him alone, seated at the long office table, with a large pile of military commissions before him, which he was signing one by one. Sitting down beside him, he remarked, "I do not, you see, pretend to read over these documents. I see that Stanton has signed them, so I conclude they are all right." Pausing here, he read a portion of one, beginning with the name of the individual "——— is hereby appointed Adjutant General with the rank of Captain, &c.—E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War." "There," said he, appending his own signature in the opposite corner. Thus he went on until he had finished the lot; then, rising from his chair, he stretched himself and said, "well, I have got that job 'husked out;' now I'll go over to the War Department, and see if there is any news." I walked over with him, and recollect thinking how exposed he was to the danger of assassination—yet it was his practice—often so late as one or two in the morning!

GRANT.

During the battle of the "Wilderness," last summer, for three nights he did not close his eyes in sleep! Much of the time he was at the War Department listening to the click of the telegraph. His appearance at this time was enough to excite sympathy in the hardest heart. At length the clouds lifted, and the sunshine came out. He greeted a friend with the words, "It is all right. Grant is making his points!"

About this time we were talking one day of the operations of the army, and I asked him how General Grant impressed him, as compared with other commanders. Said he, "The great thing about Grant is his persistence. He will never give up so long as there is a chance in the world!" How perfectly the result of the campaign vindicated this judgment is now the most glorious page in our history!

A Distinguished Snob—He Endeavors to do the Agreeable to Gen. Grant.

Of course this miniature world would not be completed without representatives of the Snobocracy being present, and very naturally there are a number of this class here. One of the most prominent of the number distinguished himself above his fellows on the occasion of Lieutenant General Grant dining at the Union Hotel during his recent visit to Saratoga. Unfortunately the snob had purposely secured seats adjoining the one occupied by the invited guests. He first intruded himself upon the attention of the General by inviting him to drink a glass of wine—no previous introduction having taken place.

The General at first seemed disposed not to recognize the attention, but finally reluctantly put the wine to his lips, in the vain hope that he would not be intruded upon again. But no. The same individual, a few minutes later, stepped to the General's side. "Did he know Absalom Grant, of St. Louis? Deuced clever fellow—rich as Croesus—a cousin, perhaps—you must know him?" "No, I have not that honor," responded Grant. "That is very singular." "Don't know him," again responded Grant, in his peculiarly freezing style, such as he can so well adopt to get rid of bores, and which would have sent any ordinary man reeling back to his seat, there to remain during the remainder of the dinner. But this did not stagger his questioner; and after making some common-place remarks, again became seated. The guests, sympathizing with the General, certainly hoped this would be the last demonstration.

But no. After a little period the General was approached again. Snob said the had a splendid pair of blacks, with white rosettes and white streamers on head-stalls—handsome turnout as any in town. It was at the service of the gallant General to ride out to the lake." Grant said that he was already provided for, and again the would be familiar man subsided into his chair. This, surely, thought all was the last.

But no. They were doomed to disappointment and mortified again, this time with a commision from a lady! who wished to kiss General, provided Mrs. Grant would give her consent. The proposition was indignantly spurned by Mrs. Grant, who heard the singular request, and thus ended the impertinent fellow's conduct at the dinner table. Fortunate for him it was, that some of the diners in that hall did not know what was going on at the time.

An opportunity to purchase a superior class of saddle and draft animals, at far less than their true value, is now offered to the public.

Though the majority of them are sound and serviceable, they are no longer required in the army, and must be sold.

Many of the mules were bought at the beginning of the war, when young, accompanied the armies in all their marches and camps, and are thoroughly broken, hardened by exercise, gentle and familiar from being constantly surrounded by the soldiers.

Animals will be sold singly.

Sales to commence at 10 A. M.

Terms—Cash, in United States currency.

JEFF. DAVIS HAS BEEN CAUGHT.

The war is now about played out,
Great changes have been wrought,
Our gallant boys are coming home;
Jeff Davis has been caught.
Huzza! huzza! now hang your banners out,
Huzza! huzza! let all the people shout.

The way the rebel chief was caught
Is laughable indeed;
He tried to run in petticoats,
But he did not succeed.
Huzza! huzza! hang all your banners out,
Jeff Davis has been caught, let every one now shout.

Our boys did think it very strange,
A woman should retreat
With a great coat on and in hand,
Until they saw his feet.
Huzza! huzza! our boys have got good sense;
'Twixt gaiter shoes and stogy boots they know the difference.

Oh, crinoline, we think you fine,
For you would not conceal
The flying rebel President,
When he did show his heel.
Huzza! huzza! there's nothing half so fine
To show a foot and ankle off, like well raised crinoline.

Your days are numbered now, old Jeff,
You surely cannot hope,
Or have a better card in view,
Than the end of a stout rope.
Huzza! huzza! Jeff Davis has no show; crimes in view.

The boys who caught Jeff Davis,
We'll welcome one and all,
And treat them to a fine new suit
At ISAAC'S UNION HALL!
Huzza! huzza! fling the starry banner out,
Our gallant boys are coming home, let all the people shout.

IMPOTENCY CURED,

AFTER ALL OTHER TREATMENT FAILS.

DR. A. GIBSON,

Formerly of New York City, will pay one hundred dollars for the proof that he cannot cure the above-named diseases. He will pay the same sum for the proof that any other Physician in the United States treats the same diseases with equal success.

After many years of laborious study and experience Dr. Gibson is happy in being able to announce to the unfortunate, that he has perfected a system of treatment for

of the above, and also all contagious diseases of the Reproductive Organs, with all bad effects arising therefrom, including General

DEBILITY OR NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

Has succeeded in curing cases in this city, none of whom had expended hundreds of dollars with self-styled physicians, who proves to treat all private maladies with success, and without receiving the least particle of benefit.

Dr. Gibson does not boast that he is a member of some College in London or Paris, as perhaps some others do for the purpose of ensnaring the innocent, and who hold out great expectations, never to be realized. But what Dr. G. might boast of is this, that he is able to give entire satisfaction to those who repose confidence in his skill, ability and integrity, and he has perfected an American system of treatment which challenges any Physician of London or Paris, or any patent medicine, to equal for the radical cure of seminal weakness, and all diseases or derangements, both mental and physical, arising from sexual or secret abuse.

Dr. Gibson also claims for his new treatment the following advantages over all other yet discovered:—and, first, the agents used are in no respect disagreeable; he does no relics of the dark ages, such as Mercury, or any other deleterious drug; secondly, no restriction in diet or business is required; thirdly, his treatment is positive and certain in all cases. He wishes it proposed to any one that may think proper, in the United States, and demonstrate the immense superiority of his new treatment over any other now known to the world, in point of speed, permanency, mildness, safety and convenience to the patient.

Dr. Gibson is permanently located in Cleveland, and has during the past five years performed many cures of diseases which had for years resisted all other modes of treatment. References can be given to individuals of the first respectability in Cleveland, Boston, New York and other cities, in regard to skill and integrity in all professional transactions. Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Scrofula, all Diseases of the Urinary Organs, and all Chronic Diseases treated with superior success.

Medicines sent to any part of the country on receipt of ten dollars.

DR. R. GOODALE'S CATARRH REMEDY.

AND MODE OF TREATMENT IS

THE ACME OF PERFECTION,

It penetrates the secret ambush of this terrible disease, and exterminates it, root and branch, forever.

It removes all the wretched symptoms of this loathesome malady, and averts consumption.

It cleans the head, deodorizes the breath, and affords the most grateful relief.

It alleviates more agony and silent suffering than tongue can tell.

It is noted for curing the most hopeless cases, that every known means failed in.

It cures Hay, Rose and Periodic Catarrh, of the most obstinate and violent types.

No form of Catarrh or noises in the ear can resist its penetrating power.

Dr. Goodale's Catarrh Remedy is a harmless liquid, inhaled from the palm of the hand.

Dr. R. Goodale is known throughout the country, as the Author of the only True Theory of Catarrh ever published. Where its Origin—What its Nature—Mode of Treatment—and Rapid Cure in all its forms.

Dr. Goodale's Pamphlet on Catarrh should be read by every one. It can be obtained at our nearest Agency, or by sending a postage stamp to our office.

Price $1 00. Send a stamp for pamphlet.

PRIVATE AFFAIRS,

IN WHICH

All Classes are Interested.

Farmers, Drovers, Merchants, Lumbermen, Mechanics, Miners, Bankers, the rich and the poor, should ask themselves if the slightest hurtful taint, or so-called PRIVATE DISEASE, taint is lingering in their SYSTEMS, if so, they should apply in person, if possible; if not possible in person, by letter, and receive by return mail a plain circular of questions, which will enable any one to know positively just how they stand.

To the intelligent reader it is not necessary to publish the names of the many complications and forms assumed by this insidious disease, yet it may be advisable to mention as most prominent SYPHILIS PRIMARY, SYPHILIS SECONDARY, and SYPHILIS TERTIARY, the latter involving the bones in its deathly pallor.

Every one should know, also, that many of the most obstinate and worst UNCLEANSED THROATS proceed from this cause, and will, if not properly handled, ultimately result in loss of voice. Look to your true interest, and consult by letter, or apply at

UNITED STATES HOSPITAL AND

Private Medical Dispensary,

130 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

Near the Michigan Exchange Hotel.

Where every form of SYPHILIS and all other diseases of the procreative and urinary organs of both sexes are more successfully managed than at any other similar institution in this country. Every one should know that whilst the slightest constitutional contamination exists, marriage is impossible, for the good reason that where offspring arises disease is nearly always entailed. This, therefore, is one of the worst impediments to matrimony.

YOUNG MEN,

Suffering mentally and bodily from certain early improper practices, will find this a Dispensary where there is no uncertainty about getting relief, but where every one of such cases are cured permanently. No books published by nor issued from this institution by which the minds of the young are poisoned and they thereby ruined.

LADIES,

Married or single, requiring a Female Regulator, should enclose one dollar and three postage stamps, and by return mail they will receive, with full directions, the only reliable Female Regulator in use. This Regulator is fast becoming the favorite of ladies everywhere, simply because its action is mild and safe and can always be depended upon in removing obstructions from colds and any other cause.

All correspondence strictly confidential. Letters on constitution should contain one dollar and a postage stamp for answer. Office and rooms arranged that patients never see each other.

Consultation and services at the office, free to the poor, every Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5 P. M. Office and Dispensary open from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M., daily, except Sundays. All necessary surgical operations performed.
