HILO, Dec. 25, 1899.—The Hilo Jockey Club, which is supposed to be composed of the sporting men of Hilo, and incidentally of the sporting fraternity of Honolulu, gave a Christmas Day horse race, which was a success in every respect except that the Honolulu horses won three out of four races. The Hilo horses were all beaten by Honolulu horses, and the Hilo boys lost a good deal of money. The Honolulu boys came down in force, and had a good time, and the Hilo boys had a good time, and everybody else had a good time except those who had bet on the Hilo horses.

There were four races run, and the Honolulu horses won the first, third and fourth races. The first was a half mile dash, and was won by Kaiser, a Honolulu horse, with Hilo Girl second and Kaiulani third. The second was a mile and a half dash, and was won by Kaiser, with Hilo Girl second and Kaiulani third. The third was a half mile dash, and was won by Kaiulani, with Kaiser second and Hilo Girl third. The fourth was a half mile dash, and was won by Kaiulani, with Kaiser second and Hilo Girl third. The time was good in all the races, considering the condition of the track, which was very heavy. The Honolulu horses were all in good condition, and showed the effects of good care and training. The Hilo horses were not in good condition, and showed the effects of bad care and no training. The Honolulu boys had their own jockeys, and the Hilo boys had theirs. The Honolulu jockeys were all good, and the Hilo jockeys were all bad. The Honolulu horses were all good, and the Hilo horses were all bad. The Honolulu boys had a good time, and the Hilo boys had a bad time. The Honolulu boys came down in force, and the Hilo boys were not in force
