KUHIO PLANS TOUR OF KAUAI

Decides That He Cannot Afford to Let Garden Island Vote Go to Rice Without a Fight—Politics Warming Up Generally Around the City—Democrats Fear Effects of That Recall Petition.

After announcing, through the mouth of his lieutenant, Rev. Stephen Desha, that he would not bother going to Kauai after votes, because he would not need any Garden Island support, Kuhio has changed his mind and is convinced now that he will need every vote he can get, on Kauai or anywhere else. He has therefore planned an invasion of that Island and will visit Kauai first on his swing around the Territory.

He has postponed the opening of his personal campaign until after the mass meeting called for tomorrow evening at Asia Park, but from Wednesday on the Prince will, for him, be busy. He will spend the end of the week in and around Honolulu. Early next week he will leave for Kauai, to be absent some days. Returning to Honolulu, he will tranship for Maui, and after having toured the Valley Isle will proceed on to Hawaii. He will take two weeks for his circuit of the Big Island, then return to Honolulu to end up his primary campaign.

These details were given out yesterday by the Prince's campaign manager, John Wise.

Democrats Appearing.

Yesterday found a few Democratic candidates for nomination in the open. Jesse Ulihi, who lives in the eighth of the fourth, has announced his desire to be on the Democratic ticket for supervisor. He is campaigning energetically against McClellan and Petrie particularly, inasmuch as these two supervisors did not join hands with Pacheco and Wolter in the work of firing every Republican on the city payroll.

Capt. John Kaluahine, who has forsaken a life on the ocean wave on his schooner to become an employe of L. L. McCandless on his Koolau homestead, is circulating a petition asking him to run for the house of representatives on the McCandless ticket. The captain was in the city yesterday with the news that Link is certain of a majority of the votes on the Koolau side, with Kuhio a bad second. Rice has a following, but none know anything about Carter. They don't even know the former Governor's name, according to Kaluahine. In the mayoralty matter, the genial captain says that Cohen is at least two luaus in the lead of Lane, while Fern is "make."

For the House.

Having the signatures of A. F. Judd and forty-nine others on his nomination paper, "Chefa" Willie Crawford will formally file his application for a place on the primary ballot, among the aspirants for fifth district representatives, today, according to what he told yesterday of his success to date.

A candidate for the house on the Republican ticket from Kauai announced himself yesterday in the person of J. K. Lota, who is now the representative from the Hanalei side of the Garden Island. Mr. Lota states that he received sufficient encouragement at the recent evangelical convention on Maui to justify him entering the primaries, even though his theological studies will keep him in Honolulu until the end of August.

That Recall Petition.

There are a number of very sore Democratic leaders in the city over the publicity given in The Advertiser to the famous petition sent on to the President regarding Governor Pinkham, the real leaders of the party being disgusted that the antics of some of their party members should become generally known. No list of signers has yet been made public, but prominent among them are the names of T. J. Ryan, John M. Bright and Frank C. Benevedes. Previously announced as among "the leading Democrats of Hawaii" are M. C. Pacheco and "Too Bad Jack" Kalakiela.

Inasmuch as the petition refers to the Portuguese immigrants into Hawaii as "peons" and as "most undesirable," and inasmuch as it declares that the new tariff is not hurting the sugar industry of Hawaii, reports to the contrary being only the Pinkham-inspired lies of the Republican press, the real Democratic leaders fear that the petition is going to be an awful boomerang when the campaign warms up.

The report in circulation that C. W. Ashford was the author of the screed was very emphatically denied by Mr. Ashford yesterday. "Did I write the petition to the President? I most certainly did not," he says, adding: "I did not sign the petition, nor have I even read it yet."

CAN YOU AFFORD THE RISK?

Where you ever seized with a severe attack of cramp colic or diarrhoea without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarhoea Remedy in the house? Don't take such risks. A dose or two will cure you before a doctor could be called, and it never fails even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

Owing to the illness of one of the jurors, the hearing in the Joe Doyle case, scheduled for half-past one o'clock yesterday afternoon has been postponed until this afternoon at the same hour. Mrs. Edna Furgeson Doyle, one of the many women who have been married to Doyle, will be the first witness called.

CONVENTION FOR COUNTY CALLED

G. O. P. Will Formulate Platform for City Candidates Next Monday Morning.

The official call for the Republican county convention, to meet on Monday next, was issued yesterday by R. M. Duncan, vice chairman of the county committee, as follows:

Pursuant to Article IV. of the Rules and Regulations of the Republican party of the Territory of Hawaii, notice is hereby given that the delegates to the Republican territorial convention held July 13, 1914, from the fourth and fifth representative districts, comprising the City and County of Honolulu, shall convene on Monday, July 27, 1914, at 10 a.m., in the makai pavilion of the Alexander Young Hotel Building, Honolulu, T. H., to formulate a Republican platform for this county.

This convention will adopt a county platform and nominate the members of a new county committee, to have charge of the fall campaign.

Want Advice.

"Inasmuch as the county convention will deal with things of the city and county only, and as these things have been the topics of discussions, debates and resolutions innumerable from the various district improvement clubs, I think that some concrete suggestions from these organizations are now in order for the benefit of the convention delegates," said George G. Guild, one of the delegates yesterday.

"The county now has control of the streets, bridges, parks, waterworks, sewers, garbage, police and about everything else governmentally that directly affect the citizens, and it is extremely important that the platform of the party be drawn in such a way that the citizens will know just what our candidates in the county propose to do in the handling of these important things. Now, for the past two years these matters have been before the various improvement clubs. The members have debated on the qustions raised; special committees have gone into the problems and made reports of their findings, and club elections have been held with city affairs as the issues. It would seem that many who have taken active parts in the welfare of their respective districts ought to be well posted on what the city needs and ought to have some concrete ideas to place before the convention delegates.

Send In Some Planks.

"I believe that these improvement club leaders, the majority of whom are naturally Republicans, should give the delegates the benefit of their advice, inasmuch as the Republicans desire to advance the best interests of the city and county in their platform planks.

"These district improvers should hunt up their precinct delegates and lay their idea before them, or draft out some desirable planks and send them to the secretary of the convention. We want some new ideas and want to pledge our candidates to stand for what is best in the interest of the whole city and county."

LEITER PARTY TO STAY SOME TIME

The Leiter party, due here this week aboard the chartered yacht Niagara, the property of Howard Gould, is to visit in and around Honolulu for several days before proceeding on to Balboa for the passage of the Panama Canal. Word to this effect was received yesterday by H. P. Wood of the promotion committee from the Yokohama branch of Thomas Cook & Son.

In the party, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, are Blain Elkins, son of Senator Elkins of West Virginia, and his bride; Col. C. C. B. Cotgrave, Dr. W. B. Marbury and Miss Williams. It is possible that the Niagara will make a side trip to Hilo, in order that the party may make the trip to the Volcano.

MAY LIGHTER ROCK FROM WAIPIO CLIFF

(By Mutual Wireless)

HILO, July 20.—(Special to The Advertiser)—There is an apparently well-founded rumor in circulation here that the breakwater contractors will bring the rock for the work from a quarry to be opened up on the cliff shore at Waipio, near Kukuihaele. The rock is to be transported to Hilo by the use of lighters.

Local contractors and others familiar with the breakwater requirements are not inclined to credit this reported move on the part of the new contractors. It is pointed out that the cost of installing a plant to open the proposed quarry would be excessive, even if the operation of such a quarry were found practicable.

PACK McFARLAND ON WAY TO HAWAII

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Packy McFarland, premier welterweight boxer of the world, was a passenger in the Tenyo Maru, en route to the Orient yesterday.

SHIPPING TYPE OF PINES HERE

Experiment Station Has Shipment of Picked Plants from Florida and Cuba.

J. Edgar Higgins, horticulturist of the Hawaii experiment station, whose services have been "borrowed" for a year by the Porto Rico experiment station, will be back in Honolulu on the August transport. Since completing his work in Porto Rico he has investigated the pineapple industry in Cuba and Florida. It is anticipated that he will bring back with him many new ideas which will prove of value and assistance to the pineapple growers of Hawaii. Mr. Higgins is now in California, looking into the cold storage shipment of pineapples and other tropical fruits.

New Pine Varieties.

Dr. E. V. Wilcox stated yesterday that the station has received plants of a dozen of the very finest varieties of pines grown in Florida and Cuba. These include the Ruby, Sugar Loaf, Cabazona, Trinidad, Black Jamaica and a number of named strains of the Queen variety. These new pines are all exceptionally fine table fruits. The Smooth Cayenne, now grown to the exclusion of all other varieties in Hawaii, is not an absolutely satisfactory shipper, on account of its tendency to "break down" in transit if too ripe when harvested.

Table Varieties.

The cultivation of the table varieties of pineapples is conducted on a large scale in the West Indies, heavy shipments being made throughout the year to the American and European markets. Doctor Wilcox considers the outlook good for building up the fresh pineapple shipping business, especially when the fruits that are known to be good shippers are more generally cultivated. Some of these new table varieties have deep orange colored flesh, and are both more aromatic and more highly flavored than our own Smooth Cayenne.

Wiping Out the Work of Hundred Years, Says Louisiana Sugar Journal.

"The crime of the century" is what the Louisiana Planter editorially calls the Wilson policy of free sugar, inasmuch as the Underwood tariff legislation is now destroying the work of a century in "wiping off the face of the States of the American Union our great domestic sugar industry." The Planter says:

"When President McKinley hurriedly accepted into the American Union the Hawaiian Territory on the request of the few white people living in Hawaii, his motives were questioned and thought to be either reckless, or that his action was insufficiently considered. Later on, when the Spanish war was impending and active negotiations were going on with Spain, Mr. McKinley's opponents charged him with having been unduly inconsiderate of the rights of Spain at that time and to have permitted the United States to be carried into war with Spain in a manner unfair to Spain and very much as though an effort was made in the direction of actual conquest. Anyway, we find that we now have the Philippines and Porto Rico on our hands as the result of that war, and very many competent people believe that the United States would have been better off without them.

"When Mr. Roosevelt, anxious to secure a route across the Isthmus of Panama, found his negotiations with the Republic of Colombia difficult, he found the state of Panama willing to secede. It is presumed that he did not promote the secession of Panama and its revolt from the control of the Colombian government. Anyway, he finally secured the Panama Canal Zone, now occupied by the United States as the route for the great Panama Canal. That many persons doubted the propriety of President Roosevelt's action in that matter is evidenced by the fact that the present administration is endeavoring to console the Republic of Colombia by a treaty giving that Republic certain rights in the canal and by the payment of a sum, stated to be about twenty-five millions of dollars.

"These mistakes of the administrations cited are thought by many to have done the United States more injury than it has ever experienced in any other way since the organization of the American Republic. Now, another, this administration, that is endeavoring to palliate the injury that the United States may have done to the Republic of Colombia by the summary seizure of the Panama Canal Zone, this same administration has insisted upon and has effected legislation that is wiping off the face of the States of the American Union our great domestic sugar industry, one in which the State of Louisiana has been engaged for more than a hundred years, in which it has invested directly and indirectly for many years fully one-half the entire capital of the State and an industry which has also occupied directly or indirectly one-half the people of the State. The Undtrwood Tariff Bill and the legislation leading to free sugar is thus destroying the work of a century and we may fairly term it the chief crime of that century. There may be reasons lying behind it all, but no where in the history of the world do we read of any such devastation resulting among highly civilized, cultivated people as this disastrous legislation has developed in our own State of Louisiana which now lies prostrate, endeavoring in some way to gather together its forces and to rehabilitate itself along new lines, if such a thing be possible.

PLANTATIONS ARE SEEKING FERTILIZER

Jack Bean Found to Meet Requirements for Enriching Soil—Seed Now in Demand at Prices Ranging From $60 to $100 Per Ton.

There is a good market right now for jack bean seed and small farmers will be able to sell considerable quantities to the plantations. Clean seed is worth $60 to $100 per ton.

Dr. E. V. Wilcox states that the territorial marketing division has had calls for ton lots from some of the plantation managers.

This new demand comes as a result of the green manuring experiments that have been conducted by the Honolulu Sugar Planters' Association Experiment Station. Many trials have been made in growing fallow crops of the different legumes and also in planting various species of beans and clovers between the rows in both plant and rattoon cane. Where fallow crops are grown the beans are turned under. Where they are planted in the cane rows they are simply allowed to stand until the cane overtops and crowds them out when the surface soil is enriched by a rotting mulch of leaves and stems.

The one big problem to the solution of which the entire energies of the experiment station staff are being directed is how to increase the cropping capacity of the soil. Far too much dependence has been placed in the supreme efficacy of commercial fertilizers as a means of insuring fertility.

Much Judgment Needed.

Commercial fertilizers are good, but the planter who rests his entire confidence in them can be compared to the man who becomes obsessed with the idea that he can make a race horse out of any scrub horse by feeding him a certain brand of condition powders and properly training the animal. As it takes a good many generations of fast runners to make a breed of race horses that can be depended on to give results for time and money spent on training them, so farmers and planters must build up a soil and make it rich and strong and capable of making the best use of the commercial fertilizers that are then added to promote the rapid growth of crops.

Physical Qualities of Soil.

The richness and staying qualities of a soil depend on its physical condition and the amount of organic matter which it contains quite as much as upon the actual mineral elements of plant food which chemists find in the soil or can add to it. The continual application of chemical fertilizers tends to decrease its cropping capacity. On the other hand, the cumulative application of organic manures produces a tendency to increase the use that can be made by crops of all the plant food in the soil.

The point is that chemical fertilizers are like the condition powders and oats that a trainer feeds his ponies. They serve to get speed and friskiness out of a plug scrub, but they don't break any world's records. The increased speed does not pay the cost of getting it and after the race he only has a scrub that is going to require more and more training to even develop speed enough to haul the family carriage.

The Hawaiian planters have been growing cane year after year on the same land, putting their trust in condition powder and oats until now the good old Lahaina cane no longer responds, and they say the variety has run out.

Lahaina Cane Still Good.

As a matter of fact when they plant Lahaina cane on new land that hasn't been dosed up with commercial fertilizers for twenty years the crops are as good as they used to be and both cane and soil respond with pristine vigor to the "condition powders." The local scientific experts believe from long observation and experiment that the fundamental cause of this "letting down" of Lahaina and other standard cane varieties is that it is the soil and not the cane that is getting "played out." A number of plot experiments that have been made in the last ten years prove this pretty conclusively. Wherever care has been taken to add to the organic constituents of the soil by plowing under green manure and trash the soils have grown richer and stronger year after year. The crops have become heavier and better from year to year instead of showing decreasing averages.

Jack Bean a Great Aid.

Getting back to jack beans and small farmers, the experiment station workers have found that this plant is about the most satisfactory legume that has been tried in the cane fields on account of its erect habit of growth and its heavy leafage. The cowpea would be ideal except that it is a runner and would not be crowded out by the cane. There are two species of jack beans, the white seeded Cannavalia ensiformis and the brown seeded Cuban form, C. gladiatus. The white seeded jack bean is the one that has given the best results in the cane fields. From the small farmers' standpoint this crop yields about 1500 to 2000 pounds of clean beans per acre and requires about seven months to mature. The method of cultivation will have to be worked out by the farmers.

Dr. E. V. Wilcox said that the jack bean is remarkably free from the attacks of plant lice and Japanese beetle, pests which sometimes ruin the cowpea crop. Farmers should not rush into this cultivation or tackle the crop except in an experimental way, until it is determined where and how it can be grown for seed production to the best advantage.

GRAFT COMMISSION TO WIND UP WORK

(By Mutual Wireless)

HILO, July 20.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Dr. H. B. Elliot, chairman of the Hawaii graft commission, is a passenger on the Mauna Kea for Honolulu, to attend what is expected to be the final meeting of the commission preparatory to preparing the report to be presented to Governor Pinkham.

PLEASANTON HOTEL TO BUILD ANNEX

The Pleasanton Hotel is to be enlarged by the erection of a new wing, which will cost about $32,000.

Hon. William J. Robinson, Judge of the Third Circuit Court, yesterday granted the petition of the guardians of Rudolf A. Isenberg and Alexander H. Isenberg, minors, that $32,000 should be spent for increasing the size of the building and $8000 for new furniture, in order to make the Pleasanton Hotel large enough to handle the usual traffic during the tourist season. In the opinion of the guardians this expenditure of funds on behalf of the minors constitutes a good business investment. Work on the new annex will be commenced at once, now that the court has granted permission.

CHAUFFEUR HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

S. Nishimara, a Japanese chauffeur on the Taisho auto stand, was held responsible for the death on Sunday morning at the Queen's Hospital of Chang Wah Ick, a six-year-old Chinese boy, by a verdict rendered last night by the coroner's jury. The report is signed by Sheriff Rose as coroner, James Barringer, Jas. T. Copeland, Edwin R. Lang, M. Harper, Ed Schott and Levi Perkins.

Divested of technical terms, the cause of the child's death, as stated in the certificate of Dr. N. B. Emerson, county physician, was a general crushing of the chest organs and rupture of the heart.

The evidence adduced at the inquest was to the effect that Nishimara, at the wheel of automobile number 1236, while backing into the Taisho auto stand, on King street near Liliha, knocked down and ran over the boy, the left rear wheel passing across the child's body. Three Japanese, one Chinese and a Hawaiian woman were interrogated by the coroner's jury.

While the coroner's jury rendered practically an open verdict, finding Nishimara responsible, but not alleging any negligence or culpability, the sheriff last night placed a charge of manslaughter against the Japanese. He will be held in custody until the question of bail can be settled by the circuit court.
