Majority of Senate Required

Prior to the senate going into secret session, Senator Rice moved the adoption of the rules of the session of 1913 as the permanent rules of the senate for this session, with amendments to the effect that the matter of the introduction of bills come under the head of resolutions, and that it require a majority of the senate to confirm appointments by the Governor. This was carried. There have been times in the senate when a majority of those present, when appointments were considered, was enough under the rules to confirm such appointments.

Copies of the Laws

A communication was received from the secretary of the Territory anouncing that required copies of the laws of the Territory were ready for distribution among the members of the senate.

House Concurrent Resolution 4 was adopted by the senate yesterday afternoon. This provides for the appointment of four members from the senate and four from the house, who, with the speaker of the house and the president of the senate, and the Governor, the territorial secretary and the delegate to congress, will have the management of the entertainment of visiting congressmen and other distinguished persons.

Signed by the Governor

A communication was received from the house announcing that the senate's amendment to House Bill 2 had been concurred in and the bill passed on third reading as amended. The bill had gone "upstairs," and, late in the afternoon, received the signature of the Governor. It appropriates $30,000 for the entertainment of visiting congressmen and other distinguished visitors, and the senate amendment provided that expenditures from the fund be made in the discretion of the territorial secretary "with the Governor's approval." The house had no objection to "with the Governor's approval" going into the bill. Nor had the Governor any objection to signing it.

At 3:30 p. m., the senate adjourned to meet at 1 p. m. today.

House Holds Short Sessions

Two short sessions were held by the house of representatives yesterday, the only feature of the day being that the members, for once, failed to introduce any bills or resolutions.

In the first disagreement between the house and the senate the former body gave in to the latter, concurring in the amendments made in the senate to H. B. 2 (Watkins), which appropriates $30,000 for the entertainment of members of the senate and house of congress and other public officials. The senate amendment provides that the disbursing of this fund by the secretary of the Territory shall be subject to the approval of the governor.

After concurrence by the house the bill was sent to the governor, who approved and signed it early in the afternoon, whereupon it become known officially as Act 4 of the Session Laws of 1915.

JAPAN AND CHINA SETTLING ISSUES

Prospects of Peaceful Adjustment of Questions Involving Shantung Seem To Be Bright

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

PEKING, February 26.—The outlook for a peaceable adjustment of the questions at issue between Japan and China has improved distinctly in the developments of the situation during the past few days. In the various conferences being held here and in Tokio between the representatives of the two nations the basis of a compromise is being worked out.

The most important step in this direction was disclosed yesterday, when Japan gave indications that are regarded as definite that she will not insist for the present upon the acceptance by China of the whole group of general demands originally made.

The exceptions which are not to be pressed include the points over which China based her claim for resistance through her representative in Tokio.

DARDANELLES FORTS ARE BEING REDUCED

Great Britain Announces That Russia Will Be Allowed To Seize Constantinople

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)

LONDON, February 26.—The bombardment of the Dardanelles forts has been resumed, according to an official announcement from the admiralty yesterday, the announcement being accompanied by the statement that the forts at the entrance of the narrow waterway already have been completely reduced, leaving the way open for the passage of the battlecruisers towards the inner forts and Constantinople.

With the report from Winston Churchill of the success of the Allies in opening the way toward Constantinople came a significant statement from the foreign secretary, Sir Edward Grey, who announced that Great Britain was now in agreement and accord with the desire of Russia for an open passage for her ships of all classes between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, a passage that heretofore, under the terms of the treaty of 1841, enforced by Great Britain and France, has been denied to any Russian warship.

The announcement is taken to mean that Great Britain will force the Dardanelles and allow Russia to seize Constantinople and become a Mediterranean power.

FRANCE AND FRENCH AFTER BIG CONFLICT

Emile Boutroux Thinks Republic Will Come Out of War Better and Greater

PARIS, Feb. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—"France and the French After the War" is the subject of much speculation by philosophers, scientists and doctors. Emile Boutroux, the French philosopher, thinks France will come out of the trial better and greater in spite of all of the destruction of life and property.

"So many human lives taken, so many masterpieces of the past reduced to powder, so much artistic and material wealth annihilated, stupefies us and leaves our souls in incurable pain," he says. "All these sacrifices, however, may in certain ways contribute directly to the betterment of life in our country.

"Our cities and the country contain a great many unhealthy habitations," he declares, "that we were unable to decide ourselves to demolish. We hesitated before the difficulties and before the expense. War has put us face to face with the accomplished fact. Unhealthy and incommodious buildings have disappeared and will be replaced by constructions conforming to hygienic laws and to te needs of modern life. Many defective conditions of our existence will thus be improved by the reconstruction that will be imposed upon us.

Death Awakens Life

"Death awakens life. After 1870 France pulled herself together and pushed out vigorously in every direction. What shall be its power of development after this terrible trial, above all if the issue is favorable to us!

"The cause of the low birth-rate," Monsieur Boutreux thinks, "resides primarily in selfishness and the disposition to consider only the present or the immediate future. With confidence in the future, with a vast distant perspective opened up, there is awakened a desire to glorify one's self in one's descendants * * * A vast career will open up before science, before art, literature and before practical activity in all its forms.

"Measures that are most contrary to the indifference of yesterday are today accepted without objection, such as the prohibition of the traffic in absinthe. Civilization has been loaded down with a thousand fictitious needs foreign and harmful to nature; a great many of them are so many chains upon nature and as many causes of fragility and weakness. Now, all at once, lacking all these superfluities, we feel no sense of privation. We are conscious, on the contrary, of reentering upon full possession of our strength and of being better able to dispose of it for the accomplishment of useful work.

War Teaches Virtues

"War," he says, "not only liberates us from selfish passions but teaches positive virtues; the value of decision, intrepidity, sacrifices of life to honor and to the fatherland; it requires of us patience, and this people who were thought incapable of supporting in silence long and painful trials, this people of whom its enemies said that 'they would come to their aid by insurrection' remained calm and resolute * * * The French, it was said, were not apt to act collectively. Their incurable individualism precluded vivacity of mind and talent except to combat one another. Examples they have given of unity and the efficiency of collective effort," Monsieur Boutroux thinks, "will have as important an effect upon France of the future as any other of the lessons of the war."

From the medical standpoint, Prof. Chauffard of the Academy of Medicine, before the Alliance d'Hygiene Sociale, speaking of the mobilization order and comparing it to one of the great physical phenomena which constantly trouble the universe, like earthquakes, tidal waves, etc., says that "the manner in which France supported the shock augurs well for the health of the race after the war.

French Are Adaptable

"Adaptation," he says, "is the greatest law of biology, for we live and preserve our physical and moral life by adaptation only. He who is incapable of adapting himself succumbs * * * The French race adapted itself admirably to this unforeseen danger, and to realize this it is only sufficient to remember what Paris and what France were at the moment the mobilization order was published. For the calm confidence with which each one went to his duty we are indebted to a quality that we did not know we possessed, perhaps to that degree, nervous stability, to the mastery of ourselves, to the control that we have not lost of our nervous system.

"In a collectivity," he says, "there are always a certain number of individuals who suffice for their daily life, but who are unable to accomplish a more arduous task or to support an unforeseen shock. When the hour of the trial arrives those succumb. They lose their heads. During the first days of the mobilization a number of such subjects profoundly troubled mentally, arrived at the hospitals, but in reality their number is proportion to the number of healthy subjects was very small and many of these troubles were of very short duration. The trial was severe, but it was to our honor because it bears witness that the French race has not degenerated.

What War Involves

"We knew by long experience that war involves the outbreak of a great many diseases, and we were very agreeably astonished during the first three months of this war that sickness was very rare in all our sanitary stations. The army in barracks reflects the state of health of the civil population with which it is associated. If we were not at war we should now see the diseases of the season appear in all our garrisons, but on the contrary, the army in action is remarkably free from them, and, fortunately, in proportion to the dead, the wounded and the sick there will remain a far greater number who have escaped all the dangers. These will come back hardened, more resistant than they were before, enabled, ripened and better tempered physically as morally."

This improved condition of the survivors, Dr. Chauffard thinks, will more than offset the decrease in the birth-rate, due to the many deaths, and for that reason he considers that the general physical condition of the French race will be improved by the war.

METHODISTS SHOW GROWTH IN ISLES

Korean Pastors Give Banquet At Union Grill In Honor of Bishop Hughes

Three sessions were held yesterday by delegates for the Hawaiian missions at the annual conference at the First Methodist Church. Bishop Hughes presided at all the meetings. At the early morning session, which convened at nine o'clock, reports were heard from the committees which examined preachers still on probation and in every instance the candidates were advanced.

Korean Enrollment

Dr. Syngman Rhee, principal of the Korean School, reported an enrollment of 108, of which three are Filipinos and the remainder Koreans. Doctor Rhee reported that the purpose of this school was to Americanize young Koreans to prepare them for higher education on the mainland, from which they would return to their native country as missionaries and teachers. The text books of the public schools are used at the institution and correct English is taught, both in the schoolroom and on the playgrounds.

Two Thousand Members

Later in the forenoon a statistical session was held, at which reports were heard from secretaries of the various missions as to membership, number of baptisms, church buildings and parsonages and their values, Sunday-school work and Epworth League societies. All the reports showed an encouraging advance over last year. New membership reports showed an increase of 442, which brings the Methodist congregation of the Islands up to 2200 in round numbers.

Year Closes With Deficit

At the afternoon session Treasurer R. H. Trent reported the receipts for the year as $22,000 and that the year closed with a slight deficit. He reported that all the Korean and Japanese churches were rapidly approaching the self-supporting stage. When adjournment was taken it was to next Sunday at two o'clock at the Methodist Church, when Bishop Hughes will ordain four Korean pastors as deacons and baptize a number of children. The bishop at that time will also make announcements of his appointments.

Banquet at Union Grill

Last night Bishop Hughes, Dr. W. H. Fry, Dr. J. W. Wadman, Rev. E. E. Brace, R. H. Trent, O. H. Walker and others prominent in the conference movement were guests of honor at an elaborate banquet given by the Korean pastors at the Union Grill.

GERMANY IS ACCUSED OF INCITING TREASON

PARIS, Feb. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The government has ordered a judicial inquiry into the distribution by mysterious hands of circulars containing odious outrages against the president and unpatriotic sentiments under the title: "They deceive us and they lie to us." The distribution of these circulars was first noticed in the southern part of France, but has now reached Paris. They are thrust under doorways, into letter-boxes and every conceivable place where they are sure to be found. An official note declares that Germany is the instigator of the distribution and declares that any one contributing in any way to the spread of the allegations contained in the circulars shall be punished as a traitor.

BLIND FRENCHMAN LOSES SEVEN SONS IN BATTLE

(Correspondent of Associated Press.)

GENEVA, February 10.Seven sons of an elderly blind Frenchman named Chopard, of the village of Chauffout, near the Swiss frontier, were called to the colors last August and marched away to war. For a long while the father heard nothing from them. Becoming alarmed he applied for assistance to the bureau here for the exchange of information regarding prisoners in Geneva. The seven sons had been killed, leaving fourteen children and four widows.

'FLY BOB' HELPLESS IN BURGLARY CASE

Pussy-Foot of Police Department Was 'Hands Up' When Marauder Vanished

The home of Mrs. Henry Ginaca, in King street, was broken into last Tuesday at one o'clock in the afternoon by one of the prisoners employed in keeping the lawns of Thomas Square free from leaves. Mrs. Ginaca was engaged at the telephone in conversation. As she said "goodbye" and was about to hang the receiver up, she heard a roller curtain suddenly unwind in one of the bedrooms. Hurrying to the room she saw a man in convict clothing jump through an open window. He had cut the cord holding the curtain, when he heard Mrs. Ginaca hang up the phone. Neighbors saw the man running down King street toward Thomas Square.

The police were notified and one of the men from the McDuffie wing of the police department went out and made an examination of the premises. He was shown two clear and distinct footprints on the bedspread and after calmly surveying this evidence and examining the bric-a-brac and furnishings which had been tossed about, said he was sorry the occurrence happened as it did, but that there was nothing he could do, as the man had gotten away.

A small lacquer box was the only article which Mrs. Ginaca found missing. The bed spread with the footprints thereon is being preserved as a memento of the visit. The box has been returned by a neighbor who found it under a nearby hedge. The prisoner evidently is back at work picking up leaves in Thomas Square and no arrest has been made.

SMART'S LAWYERS AFTER OPPOSITION

Secure Order Requiring Mrs. Knight's Attorneys To "Forthwith" Serve Copies of Motion

An order was signed by Judge Whitney early yesterday afternoon requiring that Elizabeth J. Knight and Clarence H. Olson "forthwith" serve upon Thompson and Milverton, and John W. Cathcart, attorneys for Henry Gaillard Smart, and Antonio Perry, guardian ad litem of Richard Smart, the minor, a copy of the motion filed by Mrs. Knight's lawyers Wednesday afternoon, in which it is claimed that Judge Whitney is disqualified from taking judicial action in the matter of the estate of Annie T. K. Parker Smart, deceased.

While the motion, which called for the order issued by Judge Whitney, does not state in as many words, it is claimed that the failure of Mrs. Knight's lawyers to serve copies of the suggestion of the disqualification of the probate judge was in fact nothing short of professional discourtesy. On this score Mr. Smart's lawyers commented freely yesterday. The motion on which the order was predicated, was worded, in part, as follows:

Copies Called For

"And move the court for an order requiring counsel for Elizabeth J. Knight and Clarence H. Olson, Esquire, to forthwith serve upon the attorney for the said Henry Gaillard Smart and upon the guardian ad litem, Antonio Perry..... a copy of the motion and suggestion heretofore, to wit, the 24th day of February, 1915, filed in the above court and cause by the said Elizabeth J. Knight and the said Clarence H. Olson, wherein and whereby it is claimed that the Hon. W. L. Whitney is disqualified from taking judicial action in the above entitled proceeding."

Hearing Monday Afternoon

Judge Whitney yesterday set next Monday at two o'clock in the afternoon, as the day and hour for hearing argument on the question of whether or not he is disqualified. The question of disqualification arises, according to the view taken by Mrs. Knight's lawyers, in the fact that F. S. Thompson on February 4 nominated Mrs. William L. Whitney as custodian of little Richard Smart until he should attain the age of sixteen years. It is claimed that Mrs. Whitney, with the knowledge and consent of her husband, Judge Whitney, agreed to accept the responsible position. That Mrs. Knight and her attorneys failed to concur in Mr. Thompson's selection and the deal was, therefore, all off, does not seem to figure in the situation.

In charge of Mrs. M. H. Lemon, little Richard Smart was returned to Kamuela, Hawaii, in the steamer Mauna Kea Wednesday morning and is again within the jurisdiction of Judge John A. Matthewman of the third circuit court.

BALE OF COTTON BRINGS $11,500 INTO WAR FUND

LONDON, Feb. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The first bale of wool ever bought by a woman on the Wool Exchange realized a total of $11,500, which will be divided among patriotic funds.

This bale was given by a Sydney (N. S. W.) firm and sold in that city in November for $2,500. The purchasers shipped it to London to be auctioned for patriotic purposes.

Many women were present and bid as eagerly as the men. Starting at a bid of $250, it was sold many times over for various sums, which when totaled reached $8,305. A "sweep" by several wool brokers prior to the auction added to the Sydney proceeds and the final sale of the bale to a woman at 50 cents per pound, brought the total amount realized up to $11,500.
