PACIFIC COAST BID MADE FOR OLYMPIC GAMES DURING 1916

Los Angeles has stolen a march on San Francisco, and while the city at the Golden Gate has been grabbing everything in the athletic line that it could see, Los Angeles has taken a long chance and reached out for the 1916 Olympic games. Maybe the chance offer will bear fruit, and maybe it will not, but the Angelenos are after it just the same.

Latest reports from Berlin, where the games are under schedule for 1916, are to the effect that Count von Francken-Sierstorpff, vice chairman of the German Olympic committee, has not only not relinquished the games, but is showing every indication of holding on to the 1916 date. He has been in communication steadily with Baron Pierre de Coubertin, president of the international committee, and who is now in Lausanne, Switzerland, and insists that there is yet no reason why Germany should relinquish its claim to the honor of holding the games. The time for the games is a year away yet, Count von Francken etc., declares, and the war may be ended long before the dawn of the Olympic year.

This is the general German attitude in the matter, and until Berlin cancels its right to holding the games in 1916 the international committee cannot transfer them to any other place.

Los Angeles is the third American city to put in a bid for the 1916 sport festival, New York and Philadelphia having previously offered to provide all that was necessary for the great world contest. Los Angeles, in its request for consideration, mentions its climate and tourist crowds as chief assets, and adds that the opening of the Panama canal brings the Pacific Coast within as easy reach of the Old World as is the Atlantic seaboard.

BEGIN BUILDING OF MAMMOTH MOTORDROME

Work has been started on the mammoth motordrome and sports amphitheatre which has been proposed and discussed for New York for the past five years. This project, which is expected to rival the Brookland track of England and the Indianapolis auto speedway, will be located on the grounds of the old Coney Island Jockey club not far from the ocean front in Brooklyn. A two mile track capable of permitting auto speeding in excess of 100 miles per hour and a series of stands to accommodate about 200,000 spectators will be in readiness for the first meet in the autumn.

The new sport center will not be confined to automobile racing entirely, for the plans call for baseball, polo, foot ball and lacrosse fields. Space will also be allotted to tennis courts and other outdoor games. It is the intention of the promoters, who include in the board of directors many men prominent in automobiling and amateur sports, to provide sufficient space for both contestants and spectators for all forms of athletic competition for years to come. Facilities of this type have been lacking for several years and it is expected that with the completion of the new sports field there will be revival of many feature events in the sporting schedules of New York each year.

MAJOR LEAGUES TO GET WITHIN LIMIT

Nationals and Americans Must Cut Rosters and Many Ball Players Will Be Canned

NEW YORK, April 25.—(By Associated Press Special Correspondence)—With the close of the present week clubs of the National League will enter that period of the playing season wherein the squad is restricted to twenty-one players. This rule adopted by the annual meeting of the senior league December 8, and reaffirmed at the schedule meeting February 9, will have a deciding bearing on the pennant race this summer. Under the new regulation the total registration of the eight clubs will be 168 players between May 1 and September 1. At the beginning of the season the roster of the league showed 254 players on contract so that more than eight players will have to be dropped before next Saturday to conform with the new rule.

The average at the opening of the 1915 pennant race was thirty-one players per club. In order to be within the limit by May 1, each club will have to dispense with the services or approximately ten players. Many of these clubs have already anticipated the effect of the rule and began dropping players before the close of the spring training trips. A few were given unconditional releases but the majority were sent back to the minor league clubs for further developments.

In this connection it is the opinion of big league baseball magnates that the present crop of recruits has not been up to the standard of past years. In a few isolated cases green players taken to the training camps have shown sufficient promise to warrant additional coaching and attention but the general average has not encouraged the idea that there were any Ty Cobbs, Walter Johnsons or Jake Daubets in the camps.

The American League clubs will have a five player advantage over those of the National League for the junior league rule permitting an enrollment of twenty-five players per club was not rescinded to conform with the new regulation in vogue in the National. As a result there will be less curtailing of lists in Ban Johnson's circuit for the eight American League clubs had but 242 players under contract at the opening of the baseball year. This gave an average of thirty players per club and necessitated the dropping of but forty players in order to conform with the league code in this respect.

AUSTRALIA STILL TALKING OF DUKE AND HIS SWIMMING

Australian papers to hand give further accounts of the wonderful swimming of Duke P. Kahanamoku. The following clipping is from the pen of William F. Corbett, sporting editor of the Sydney Sun:

"Boxers and other athletes from far afield have complained (even Demlen, the Belgian, felt inclined to do so for a day or two recently), that the Australian climate injuriously affected their form. It certainly made lightweights of featherweights, welterweights of lightweights, and so on. This is surely a boost for the climate; it is considered so in California, where the same influence appears to be at work with regard to athletes who go there from the eastern portion of the United States. Whatever ground there may be for visiting boxers attributing loss of form to the Australasian climate Kahanamoku, the greatest sprint swimmer the world has produced, will not return home from New Zealand this month with a grievance against our sunny southern continent. In Sydney he broke the world's 100 yards record, and at Auckland on Saturday last set up new 50 yards figures for swimmers of the world to tilt at by streaking over the dash in 22 3-5 seconds. The previous best—1 second slower—stood to the joint credit of Alick Wickham, the Solomon Islander, who has been in Sydney so long, and is now showing at the Tivoli, and E. R. Small, of San Francisco. Kahanamoku was twice beaten at 50 yards—in Honolulu and at San Francisco—by Small. This great swimming kanaka will have cause to remember Australasia more than favorably, if only for the fact that here he rose above himself; but there are other reasons why Kahanamoku's visit to this part of the world should be among the most pleasant recollections of his life."

Although it was rumored that none of the English professional golfers would visit America this year, it seems to be a certainty that in addition to Harry Vardon, who has decided to play here, at least three or four others will come over in time to take part in the open tournament at Baltusrol, Short Hills, N. J., next June. Edward Ray, James Braid, George Duncan, and J. H. Taylor are expected to make the trip, and their coming will be welcomed by golfers everywhere in this country, where the game is making wonderful progress.

MAUI RACING MEN PLAN GREAT MEET

Expect To Make Twenty-Ninth Annual Event Best and Biggest in History of Isle

Prizes aggregating $1520 will probably constitute the purses to be offered by the Maui Racing Association for its twenty-ninth annual meeting, which will be held on next Fourth of July. Also these prizes will cover ten events, an outline of which has already been made.

At least this is the present plan of the executive committee of the Maui Racing Association, reported in the Maui News. The committee consists of L. von Tempsky, R. A. Wadsworth and Angus McPhee. A meeting of the association is to be called before long, at which the program will be submitted for criticism and final approval.

The tentative program as drafted by the executive committee is as follows:

PROGRAM OF RACES.

Race 1.—Japanese race, half mile; free-for-all. Horses owned and to be ridden by Japanese. First prize, $100; second prize, $25.

Race 2.—Hawaiian bred, three eighths mile. First prize, $100; second prize, $50.

IS BLUE AND GOLD TO ALSO SEND BALL TEAM

According to a wireless dispatch from San Francisco, the University of California baseball team has completed plans for a trip to Hawaii in July and is now awaiting agreement by the Oahu baseball league officials. There is evidently some misunderstanding on the part of the California Varsity aggregation for the University of Stanford is to play here in May and June and two teams so closely following would hardly prove a paying venture. As it is, Stanford's coming is more in the way of an experiment than anything else. If their series prove a success, it will then be time enough to figure on bringing California.

Several months ago California did plan a trip here but gave up the idea and negotiations were then opened with Stanford team. The Cardinal aggregation is due May 26, and will play their first game against Punahou May 29.

MUNICIPALITY MAY TAKE OVER PRIVATE SUBTIERRA WELLS

Rapid Transit and Electric Lighting Companies Offer Artesian Water Supply To City

ACQUISITION WOULD PROVE GREAT BENEFIT

Gain To Public Stands To Be One-Third Present Total Output

Letters were read last night to the board of supervisors from the rapid transit company and the electric lighting company offering to turn over to the city free of cost the large flow of artesian water which they employ in condensing the steam from their engines.

This flow, derived from their own wells, amounts to six million gallons daily. The city consumes daily, from its own sources, fifteen million gallons. In other words, it stands to gain by accepting the offer more than one-third its total supply.

Offer Is Conditional

The offer was conditioned, however, by a proviso that the city supply its own cooling apparatus—the water comes boiling hot from the condensors—and its own pumping machinery for forcing the water into the mains.

Harry Murray, assistant manager of the water department, in submitting the offer, made the recommendation that the two companies install their own apparatus and that the city contract to pay them a set sum for every million gallons, such sum to be determined later. His communication was referred to committee.

Water Supply For Vessels

Another communication from Mr. Murray recommended that the city establish a uniform rate for supplying water to vessels calling at this port. He pointed out that it will be necessary soon to contract with the federal government for another period of years, and that when a contract is signed, the present rates, which vary from six and one-half cents the thousand gallons to two dollars, ought to be levelled to standard. Beginning July 1, 1915, he suggested that the rate be made one dollar and a half the thousand.

This communication also was referred to committee.

RECEIPT OF CABLEGRAM ACKNOWLEDGED BY GREY

British Foreign Affairs Secretary Has Appeal of Hawaii Chinese

Lau Tong, chairman of the Chinese mass meeting held Sunday night, received yesterday by cable an acknowledgment from Sir Edward Grey, secretary of state for foreign affairs for Great Britain, of the cable addressed jointly to President Wilson and Sir Edward by the meeting.

The Chinese of Hawaii, it will be remembered, petitioned that the United States and Great Britain assist in the preservation of the integrity of their homeland, which they deemed threatened by the demands of Japan.

In reply, Sir Edward cabled: "Your telegram of April 26 received."

No acknowledgment has been received from President Wilson.

CITY TO PURCHASE BIG KANGAROO AND AN ELECTRIC PIANO

Supervisor Larsen Declares 'Young Men' Are Making Fool Out of Board

BUT DESPITE PROTESTS APPROPRIATION PASSES

Instrument and Animal From Antipodes Will Be Installed At Kapiolani Park

Shall the city become the proud possessor of a fifteen-dollar kangaroo and a three-hundred-dollar electric player piano? The supervisors last night favored such an appropriation, although before voting aye Supervisor Horner took off his glasses and wiped the tears of merriment from his streaming eyes.

Larsen was the only supervisor to object, but what he lacked in support he made up in vigor.

"I object!" he declaimed. "I object most emphatically to a lot of young men coming in here and making a fool out of this board. Why, it's a joke.

"What do you think we are here for? This city is not in the business of running circus sideshows and musicales. Why, the next thing we know we'll have the Outdoor Circle in here buying baby dolls for us."

Protest Comes Too Late

Larsen's protest came too late. In fact it was only allowed by courtesy of the chair, for the resolution had passed before he found breath to ridicule it and any debate later was beside the question. As offered by Chairman Hollinger, the committee report was as follows:

"Your committee on public expenditures, to whom a proposition has been made for the purchase of an electric piano and a kangaroo, beg leave to report as follows:

"This property is owned by the management of Ainahau. The electric piano, which is as good as new, is offered for $300 and the kangaroo for fifteen dollars. Your committee believes that it would be a good thing to purchase the piano for the public bath of Kapiolani Park. As it works on a nickel-in-the-slot arrangement, it would soon pay for itself. The kangaroo would be a valuable addition to the small zoo at the park.

"Your committee recommends that $315 be appropriated for the purchase as aforesaid."

Hollinger, Horner and Logan constitute the committee.

Kicks at Appropriation

After having objected too late to the adoption of the report, Larsen again vainly objected to the adoption of the resolution passing the appropriation on first reading.

Supervisor Logan, acting as temporary chairman in the absence of Mayor Lane, defended the resolution. The Bergstrom Music Company, he explained, already had a piano at the baths, which was taking in fifty dollars a month, of which the city received ten per cent. In six months a new piano would pay for itself and become a source of revenue to the city thereafter.

As for the kangaroo, and he smiled when he said it, why not? Other cities maintained zoos. The old royal government had bought black swans and pheasants to stock the pools and parks. Just because a kangaroo happened to have an unusual gait, there was nothing essentially risible about investing in one.

Whole City Will Ridicule

"I don't care whether the piano makes any money or not," rejoined Larsen, sole guardian of gravity. "It's the look of the thing. We're making fools of ourselves, and I tell you we'll have the whole city laughing at us. You see if we don't."

"I suppose the next motion in order will be to ask the mayor to appoint somebody to take care of the kangaroo."

Nobody believed Cassandra, prophesying woe. Why should a world no wiser listen to Larsen? The supervisors didn't, and the resolution passed first reading.

CANNING PLANT MAKES $30,000 IMPROVEMENTS

Hawaiian Preserving Company Erects New Building

Impelled by increasing business, the Hawaiian Preserving Company, of which S. W. Smith is general manager, is enlarging its plant on Iwilei Road. A separate addition, known as a box house, is being erected. The structure will be of iron and concrete and will be 130 by 109 feet in dimensions. The cost will be about $8,000. In addition to this the company is also installing other improvements which will bring the total expenditure up to about $30,000. There will be a new cooker, four new exhaust boxes, two new peeling machines, four new returning tables and an incinerator. Manager Smith said yesterday that he expected the output of the plant this coming season would be 100,000 cases greater than last season.

PUBLIC PRINTING MAY REMAIN HOME

Supervisor Horner Thinks Too Much Work Is Given To Mainland Concerns

Supervisor Horner doesn't see why it is necessary for so much of the territorial printing to be done on the mainland. At the meeting last night of the board, he came out in favor of giving as much of the printing as possible to Honolulu companies, which, he said, were amply equipped to take care of the work.

C. S. McCarthy, the territorial treasurer, wrote to the board, informing it that of the $6000 appropriated by the legislature of 1913 for tax books and blanks, there remained on hand $230.44, but that there also were outstanding bills due mainland printers of $831.44.

Honolulu's share of the deficit, he said, amounted to $302. Arnold moved that the communication be referred to the city attorney before the payment was made. It was so ordered.
