SPECIAL NOTICE.—Hereafter individual bills of any employee or proprietor of this paper will not be allowed as an off-set against accounts for advertising. All bills against the APPEAL will be paid on presentation, and no bill will be allowed unless contracted by me or by my authority. JOHN AINSLIE,
Cashier and Business Manager

TO THE PATRONS OF THE APPEAL.—Subscribers are requested to report any irregularities in the delivery of the APPEAL at the Counting-room. Carriers will be furnished weekly with certificates authorizing them to collect subscriptions. H. J. MANSFORD,
Superintendent of Circulation.

NO BAIL.—Jas. Galvin, charged with shooting officer Fenton, had a hearing before Justice Hall yesterday, and was fully committed for trial without bail.

PERSONAL.—Ex-Gov. I. G. Harris has come to this city to reside, and will have his office in the Bulwer block. He looks in fine health, and if he does not look as if he had had to be slightest interest in the election.

SERENADE.—The C[illegible] accompanied the procession yesterday afternoon, on its return call upon the APPEAL office with the cheerful air of "Dixie." A similar compliment was paid our neighbors of the Avalanche.

DISAPPEARED.—One of the long eared species (color, black), the property of Mr. J. C. Baker, mysteriously disappeared from the front of Mr. Apperson's store on the night of the 31, and has not since been heard from. The owner wants his mule muchly.

GONE.—Mr. Jas. Reilly, having business in the Greenlaw block, on the night of the 31, left his horse hitched to a post and entered the building. Returning in a few moments, he found the animal gone and could find no trace of him. Information was at once given to the police, but as yet the animal has not turned up.

BARGAINS.—It is well known to our stock dealers that the stable of Joyce, on Adams street, is always filled with stock. A gay young fellow went there yesterday, proposing to buy a horse. He mounted a fine animal to try his speed and rode off. Horse, rider and saddle are gone. Good bye!

THE WRONG PLACE.—In a paragraph, published yesterday morning, we stated that a row took place in the house of Thomas Joyce, on Front Row. It appears we were misinformed; the altercation took place in a house adjacent to Mr. Joyce's.

GAVE IT BACK.—We are informed that Barhour Lewis, one of the County Commissioners, jerked a Conservative ticket out of the hand of a negro who was going to deposit it. He gave it back when commented by a white man who offered him the alternative of a slap in the chops.

STEALING BAGGAGE.—A disappointed Beecherite, who rejoices in the name of William Irwin, was tried before Justice Hall yesterday, charged with stealing a satchell, containing a quantity of clothing, from a room over the store of Spicer & Anderson. The evidence was conclusive, and William was sent up accordingly.

THE WEATHER.—The weather yesterday was mild and pleasant; the snow has almost disappeared, and the Indian summer has fully set in and promises that we shall have old Sol's genial rays to brighten our way through the dreary, dismal winter of our discontent. As we have a Democratic Mayor and Board of Aldermen, we are not so discontented or hopeless after all.

WEARING OF THE BRICKS.—Two colored damsels, who probably desired to wear the nether garments, took a pair of unmentionables from the house of M. Hammer yesterday morning, for which offence they were arrested and brought before Justice Miller, who, in his wisdom, thought they were in jollies for the consideration of the Grand Court. They gave their names as Jeles and Melinda Gilbert.

THE CITY IN MOURNING.—Yesterday morning among "the wee sma' hours," the city was shrouded in the deepest gloom. Our reporter was returning from the Sheriff's office, where the election returns were received, and found the lamps all extinguished. It was the general surmise that Mr. Fitch, Secretary of the Gas Company, felt as if he needed sympathy on account of his defeat for the Mayoralty, and put the city in mourning.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street and 293 Main street, have received: New York Ledger, Chimney Corner, Literary Album, Metropolitan Record, Frank Leslie, Boston Pilot, Sunday Times, Sunday Mercury, New York Clipper, Irish Citizen, Irish People, Saints Zeitung, New Yorker, Democrat, Irish American, London Lancet, New York Weekly, Budget of Fun, Turf, Field and Farm, Kelly's Weekly, American Artisan, Dime Illustrated and Sporting Times.

THE CHAIR.—The following courteous and highly appreciated note will speak for itself, without our multiplying words of thanks for the compliment, and the flattering terms in which it is conveyed. The superb present will be sedulously guarded and be treasured as a gift of no slight significance:

MEMPHIS, January 1, 1868.

Gen. Albert Pike:

Dear Sir: It affords me great pleasure to announce to you, that the chair voted for at the Hebrew Ladies' Fair, was awarded to you, as the editor of the most popular newspaper of this city. Your acceptance of this slight token of the esteem in which you are held, is asked in the name of the ladies whom I have the honor to represent.

Yours truly, J. H. JUDAH,
Chairman Committee on Fair.

We return the sincere and heartfelt thanks of the Editors of the APPEAL to the ladies who have so gracefully honored us by asking our acceptance of that which we shall chiefly value because it comes to us as a testimonial of their esteem and approbation.

To those too indulgent friends whose votes were cast in favor of the APPEAL, we are most grateful and obliged. We have no right to assume the gift to be an evidence of the general appreciation of the APPEAL; but we may be permitted to accept it as a token of the approval of the Kind friends and with their approval and that of the lovely ladies who have so greatly honoured us, we may be [illegible]

THE VICTORY

GRAND CELEBRATION

Immense Procession.—A Large Meeting

SERENADES, ETC., ETC., ETC.

The Conservative element of our city celebrated yesterday the glorious triumph achieved at the polls on Thursday in the election of their Mayor, Wharfmaster, and a large majority of the Board of Aldermen. They could not contain themselves, and by public demonstration showed the joy they really felt. About four o'clock, a large crowd assembled on Jefferson street, between Main and Front. The old Memphis brass band, under the direction of Prof. Smith, discoursed sweet music. Col. Monsarrat announced that the procession would form on the east side of Court Square, to which the assemblage at once repaired, where the procession was formed under the direction of Col. John Donovan, Chief Marshal, and paraded through the principal streets, bringing up at the Greenlaw Opera House, where a monster meeting was held. Col. Monsarrat, the Chairman of the Executive Committee, on taking the chair, made a short but pertinent speech, alluding to our victory and the future prospects of the great Democratic party. The Mayor elect, Hon. John W. Leftwich, was the first speaker, and, in substance, spoke as follows:

Fellow-Citizens: This celebration is most complimentary. I do not take it to himself. The battle has been fought upon principle by the people. Having a desire to give us once more the principles of constitutional liberty, they are here to-day to celebrate a victory, the importance of which is not felt even by all of our own citizens. It will have its effect throughout the length and breadth of this broad land.

The Mayor elect dissected fully the Franchise law, showing that the old citizens, who were denied the right to vote, had as much stake in the community, and were as true and loyal as those who blew their blatant blasts as to their loyalty, and should not be denied of their just rights. He paid a high compliment to his Irish and German fellow-citizens for the part they had taken in securing the victory for his party, and he had no doubt that at the ensuing August election the noble State of Tennessee would give ten electoral votes for the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Even Gov. Brownlow could not mistake the handwriting upon the wall. He pledged himself to work for the interests of the people, and asked their co-operation during his administration. He did not believe that the negro ought to vote, but at the same time he entertained toward the colored race the most kindly feelings. He had been born and raised among them, and would never do aught to injure them in any particular. Mr. Leftwich retired amid loud cheers.

Col. C. S. Cameron was next introduced, and received with hearty cheering. He complimented the Democratic party upon the great victory they, as free white men, had achieved, and that, too, without much assistance of an organization; but thank God, the black pall had been removed, and the Anglo-Saxon race had asserted their rights, and elected their Mayor without money. It was the free spontaneous will of the people. The weak minded Conservatives who flew the track came in for their share of praise, such as it was. The victory just gained was truly the work of the people. He doubted not that on the second Tuesday of November next there would go forth from this country one universal shout for liberty and a white man's government. If the party would but be true to themselves, success was beyond the possibility of a doubt.

Attorney General Wallace next spoke, and delivered a short but forcible address, which was well received.

Capt. A. T. Lacey being called for, said he had never despaired of success. He had always been confident of electing a Conservative candidate. He had been asked to withdraw in favor of Mr. Fitch, but he stoutly refused. His object in withdrawing was to promote harmony and consolidate the party.

Col. John Donavan being loudly called for, appeared and denounced the no chance men—he had never been of that class—the Loyal Leagues were but a shadow, we had beaten them yesterday, and he hoped forever. The victory of yesterday was a lesson which would teach them better manners in future. The election of yesterday would have its effect, not only here, but in Washington and all through this broad land. He did not wish to draw comparisons, but glorious old Finch had, so usual, done her duty. He counselled all to be true, and never split.

The meeting then adjourned. The procession reformed and repaired to the residence of Gen. Albert Pike, who was complimented by a serenade, for which he briefly returned thanks. The Avalanche and APPEAL offices were also honored with a visit; the former was beautifully illuminated in honor of the occasion, and Col. John Ainslie, the business manager of the latter, returned thanks for the compliment in his usual off hand style. After which the procession proceeded to the Gayoso House, in compliment to Major General Gordon Granger, who appeared upon the balcony and returned thanks in a few well-timed remarks. The slight indisposition of the gallant soldier prevented him from speaking to the assemblage at length. He concluded by reading a telegram which he had sent to the President in reference to the victory, and the reply, which was received by the multitude with long and continued shouts of applause. The brief but significant messages may be found in another column. A number of gentlemen retired to one of the spacious parlors of the Gayoso, where the proprietor, Col. Cockrell, entertained them in his usual hospitable manner. During the festivities of the evening, Jno. Ainslie, Esq., offered the following toast: "Here's to Gen. Gordon Granger. May the United States ever have an officer as competent to maintain constitutional liberty, and one so worthy to vindicate the honor of its flag." To which the General responded in a short and appropriate speech, in which he held that while during war it was the duty of the soldier to support the government by force of arms, it was also their bounden duty in times of peace to guard and protect constitutional liberty and maintain the supremacy of the laws. Rejoice, all ye lovers of a white man's party and a white man's government for white men. We have squarely beaten the vandals once and are ready and willing to do it again.

THE LATEST.—We are again indebted to Mr. Felix Cross, of the Southern Express Co., for late Nashville and Chattanooga papers in advance of the mails. The boys of the Southern never forget the APPEAL.

ORPHAN'S FAIR.—Last evening the Catholic Fair, for the benefit of the orphans, was well attended, and every one seemed to enjoy the pleasures of the reunion, and to contribute liberally to the benevolent object of the entertainment. With an excellent band of music, the dance was one of the chief features, and gracefully the ladies glided through its mazes. The splendid gold watch to the most popular Railroad Superintendent will be delivered this evening. Up to the present time the vote stands: Col. Sam. B. Jones, 28; A. S. Livermore, 42; Capt. W. J. Ross, 6. The gold-headed cane, to the ugliest man, will certainly be won by J. P. Gallagher, unless competition wakes up. The vote now stands, 39 for him; Thomas Barrett, 10; R. C. Church, 5; Capt. Bell, 1; scattering, 4. The beautiful suit, sack and hat, will be awarded to-night to the most beautiful little miss. At the Christian Doctrine table there is a beautiful dress for a child, of alpaca, trimmed with wreathed coral silk—a superb article, the handiwork of Miss Fannie A. Hoops, who generously donated it to the Fair. The Fair will close this evening, and everybody should attend. On Monday evening there will be a dancing party, tickets one dollar,

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE.—The following correspondence, through the telegraph, will be read with peculiar satisfaction. It is the announcement of most agreeable intelligence to the President of the Nation, by a generous and gallant officer, who, as commandant of this post, has rendered himself particularly acceptable to the citizens. The reply of the President assures us of his sympathy, and that the continued oppression of the white people of Tennessee will not be long tolerated. We shall hail the day of our redemption with all our hearts:

His Excellency Andrew Johnson, President United States, Washington, D. C.:

Memphis redeemed. Leftwich elected Mayor. Peace, order and quiet prevail. Free white suffrage vindicated.

GORDON GRANGER.

WASHINGTON, January 3, 1868.

Gen. Gordon Granger:

Thank you for the good news. Truth and justice must triumph. My faith in the people has not been diminished. The day is not distant when Tennessee will be redeemed.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

SHOCKING MURDER—ROBBERY THE MOTIVE.—On Thursday morning a German named Joseph Wolfinberg, who occupied a small cabin in the Nonconnah bottom, about four miles from the city, was observed sitting on the floor of his cabin. Being hailed and asked if he intended coming to town, he did not speak but pointed to his neck. On a closer inspection it was seen that he had been horribly mutilated, his windpipe severed, and he was only able to breathe through the aperture. The hatchet with which the wounds had been inflicted, was found on the floor covered with blood. He knew who had committed the horrible deed, but could not speak. Dr. E. A. White was called in, but could afford no relief. The man died in the afternoon. His occupation was that of a woodchopper, and it is known that he had some fifty or sixty dollars in his trunk, which was rifled of its contents. He had resided at St. Clair, Illinois, where he married seven years ago, and was afterwards in Price's army. The inquest was in accordance with the facts.

LETTER FROM GEORGIA.

Memphis and Charleston Railroad—Political Condition of the Third Military District—The Georgia Black-and-Tan Convention.

ATLANTA, GA., December 28, 1867.

Leaving the "Bluff City," and particularly the happy spirits connected with the good old APPEAL, last Saturday evening, I found myself in the city of Georgia all sound and safe Sunday night.

In passing over the Memphis and Charleston railroad, one cannot but be pleased with the gentlemanly conductors and the successful management of that great line of travel. From the President down to the least official on the cars the same urbanity throws its charm over the attention every where and at all times shown to the comfort of the passenger. And all this, it is evident, is not at the expense of his security. Under the watchful supervision of the Assistant Superintendent, C. B. Wallace, who seems to inherit his fitness for the business, every care is taken of the latter, while the travel from terminus to terminus is regular and safe and certain and pleasant. How different was the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, the connecting link between the Memphis and Charleston road proper and the roads leading from Chattanooga. As the traveler passes beyond Stevenson, going East, the change is so apparent as to occasion the feeling that one has made a leap of several degrees in latitude northward, or passed, without a twilight, from sunny day to murky night.

Arriving here in the night we could not see enough of the country through which the Atlanta railroad passes, to discern what improvements have been made or are in progress, or how far the waste of the war has been repaired and the track of the Burner been obliterated. But we are assured that no where is the reparative energy of the people more apparent than in the Cherokee country. This is by some referred to the more energetic character of the people, but, doubtless, much is due to the fact of the greater necessity which was on them. The Ruin in his passage left such complete desolation behind him that to live at all, without repairing the waste, was simply an impossibility.

There is a dull, dead feeling of almost hopeless relief in the swift coming future pervading the minds of the people and visible in its effects on their lives that might be mistaken for apathy to the current of political events—but beneath is the intensest feeling. Here and there may be found one to laugh at the fardical doings of the mongrel body now in session here, misnamed the Convention of the People of Georgia, but even with such you can see that underlying the appearance of mirth is the bitter sense that the farce bears deadly fruit for them. No one doubts that the vengeance of a righteous God will yet sweep off the miserable work being so assiduously wrought, together with the abstract workers. But oh, the suffering in the meantime! that the best and brightest of this land are doomed to endure! The first which will consign the infamous contrivance, its builders and abettors, to the hell of a stinking infamy is as it is certain to come, but the hope deferred maketh the heart sick, and the half despairing calculation of the Psalmist is every day heard—"How long, oh Lord!"

The thing professing to be the highest Court in the State, and which you will have seen has adjourned to the 8th day of January, [illegible] can be conceived more farcically rich than the proceedings of the last day. The political adventurers "liberally voted themselves nine dollars per diem and twenty-five cents mileage, but they cannot raise the money to pay themselves. The great satrap, Radical and military satrap, it is true, drew his warrant on the State Treasurer for $10,000 in their behalf, but that clever officer does not recognize his authority, and cares not to render himself liable under his bond by paying out the money of the State, without legal warrant, to a stranger. So the carpet bags, if anything, are emptier than when they came, though the great "Stinkee" consoles himself with the reflection that the "headquarters in the saddle" is bound to "find rations" for his creatures. Verily, the joke is enough to make Laughing "hold his sides," were it not that the madness who are enacting the farce are swinging their torches over a powder magazine. God grant the poor South an early deliverance. J. B. L.

NEW MEMPHIS THEATER.—This evening Mr. Mayo will close his three weeks' engagement as "Pescara," in the Apostate. His benefit last evening was as brilliant as we expected, although not as numerously attended as it should have been, for there were some unoccupied seats. His representation of "Charles de Moor" was really grand. At the close of the fourth act, where he has cursed his unnatural brother, and dispatched his band to bring him from the castle with one hair untouched, the curtain fell amid the most enthusiastic applause. Mr. Mayo was called out, and gracefully acknowledged the compliment. The intent watchfulness of the audience attested the interest awakened and the excellence with which the great play was represented. It was a fitting close for Mr. Mayo's most triumphant engagement.

THE COURTS.

LAW COURT—James O. Pierce, Judge. The following order of Court was entered of record on yesterday: "At the last motion day of this term, the docket of appealed cases will be called, and the magistrates' judgments affirmed, in all cases where the appellant has not appeared to prosecute his appeal." Counsel who have taken orders on judgments in cases on the Scrap Docket, and have been allowed time by the Court to draft such orders, will hand them in at once to the Clerk for entry. To-day being motion day, the Clerk will call the roll of attorneys, commencing at letter A.

CRIMINAL COURT—Wm. Hunter, Judge. Stands adjourned by the Clerk of the Court to this morning, at the usual hour.

MUNICIPAL COURT—Geo. W. Waldron, Judge—The case set for trial on yesterday, not being reached, will be taken up to-day and disposed of by the Court.

PROTECTION OF FOREIGN-BORN CITIZENS.—A meeting of the foreign-born citizens of Memphis, of all nationalities, in which the participation of the American people is earnestly looked for, will take place at the City Hall, on Thursday, the 9th day of January, 1868, for the purpose of placing before the United States Government the necessity of enforcing as well as establishing the naturalization laws of this country, as laid down and adopted by this Government:
