WOOL GROWERS.

A Meeting Held at the Metropolitan Yesterday, and a State Society Organized.

A meeting of Minnesota wool growers was held at the Metropolitan hotel yesterday afternoon, a large number of sheep raisers being in attendance. The meeting was called to order by Mr. R. C. Judson, who stated that the first subject for consideration would be the formation of a temporary organization. On motion Mr. D. F. Akin was nominated for the position of temporary chairman. On motion Mr. J. Pound was elected temporary secretary. Upon taking the position of chairman, Mr. Akin explained that the meeting was for the purpose of organizing a society to protect and advance the interests of sheep raisers.

The following named gentlemen were then appointed to serve as a committee on by-laws and permanent organization: Messrs. R. C. Judson, C. F. Irwin, A. Wilson, Hugh Durham and T. C. Jewett. A committee consisting of Messrs. E. J. Woodard, Hiram Van Ess and J. D. Scofield were elected to confer with a special committee of wool growers on the enactment of a protective dog law. After a short absence the committee on by-laws reported a constitution, the by-laws of which were acted upon separately and adopted, as follows:

Section first provides for a president, three vice presidents, secretary and treasurer, whose duties shall be defined by separate by-laws approved by the directors and officers of the society.

Section second provides for a board of directors consisting of fifteen members, the officers to act as members ex-officio.

Section third provides for an executive committee consisting of seven members, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

Section fourth provides for the enactment of rules, regulations, amendments, etc., by the board of directors, nine of whom shall constitute a quorum.

Section fifth provides for a membership fee of $1, to be paid annually.

Section sixth authorizes the executive committee to arrange and provide for all public shearings, the action of said committee to meet the approval of a majority of the officers.

Section seventh provides that vacancies in the board of directors shall be appointed by the officers of the association, and for the filling of vacancies in the executive committee by a quorum of the directors.

Section eighth provides for the annual election of officers.

Section ninth provides that amendments to the constitution shall be made at the regular annual meeting.

Section tenth provides for the holding of special meetings, subject to the call of the officers and any two members of the board of directors.

Section eleventh provides for the holding of the annual meeting on the first Wednesday after the third Tuesday in January of each year.

Section twelfth provides for the election of officers by ballot, unless by unanimous consent of the members.

The committee appointed to confer with the legislative committee on agriculture on the enactment of a protective sheep law, submitted the following resolution:

Resolved That to encourage the raising of sheep and wool it is necessary that all dogs should be subjected to the jurisdiction of the law; and second, to make such a law operative and effective all dog owners should be listed by the assessor of the State, and subjected to the payment of an equitable license annually, such license money to constitute a fund for the reimbursement of owners of sheep that have been killed or injured by dogs.

On motion the resolution was adopted.

It was moved and carried that the meeting proceed to the election of permanent officers. The election of president by ballot was then taken up, resulting in the choice of Mr. William Fowler, of Washington county.

The ballot for first vice president resulted in the election of Mr. D. F. Akin, of Farmington. Mr. Hiram Van Ess was chosen second vice president on the first ballot. On motion the chair was authorized to cast the ballot for third vice president in favor of Mr. J. D. Scofield. The ballot for secretary resulted in the election of Mr. R. C. Judson. On motion the president was authorized to cast the ballot for treasurer in favor of Mr. J. H. Pound.

The election of a board of trustees, consisting of nine members, the officers to act as such ex-officio, was then proceeded with, resulting in the election of the following named gentlemen:

C. A. DeGraff, Janesville; E. F. Irwin, Richfield; T. C. Jewitt, Litchfield; Hugh Durham, Rosemount; Abel Wilson, Richfield; E. J. Woodard, Richfield; J. G. Bass, Shakopee; W. W. Wilkin, Owatonna; A. C. Kimball, Dayton.

The following sections were added to the constitution and by-laws:

Sec. 13. The secretary shall give such bonds as the executive committee shall require, and shall receive all money paid by the members of the society, and shall pay the same into the hands of the treasurer, and keep the minutes of the meetings of the association, and submit his report at the annual meeting.

Sec. 14. The treasurer shall give such bonds as the executive committee shall require, and keep all money of the association, and disburse the same by order of the secretary and president.

It was moved and carried that the constitution be adopted as a whole.

The board of directors elected the following gentlemen as an executive committee, to meet in the same place at 10 o'clock next Thursday: Wm. Fowler, H. Van Ness, H. Durham, J. Schofield, C. A. DeGraff, A. Wilson and C. F. Irwin. Mr. Woodard moved that the next annual meeting be held in Minneapolis, at the time stated. Carried.

It was moved and carried that the committee on legislation be petitioned to enact an amendment raising the bounty on wolves from $3 to $10. The members were then requested to pay the membership fee of $1, the subscriptions, in all, amounting to $21. On motion, the meeting adjourned.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Gen. Andrews Contrasts This Country with the Leading Nations.

An interesting lecture was delivered by Gen. C. C. Andrews, in Representative hall, at the capital building, last night, on the subject of "Civil Service in the United States and other countries." The speaker's residence abroad as minister to Norway and Sweden, together with his comprehensive knowledge of the subject, drew together a large audience, the lecture being received with marked attention.

Upon being introduced by the Hon. H. R. Denny, the speaker said that in referring to the civil service systems of different countries, it would not be in a fault-finding spirit. Flattery was the worst form in which to administer a corrective. France was at one time overwhelmed with this species of praise, and had not been cured until the memorable event of Sedan, since when her national prosperity had been unparalleled.

In order to show that civil service reform was a subject not recently taken up by him, Gen. Andrews quoted from his report of 1876, on the civil service of Sweden, as published by our government, in which he expressed the belief that the United States had much to gain in prosperity at home and reputation abroad, by a reform in its civil service. The statement of Ex-Secretary McCulloch was cited, that only half the customs duties lawfully due were actually collected, and he argued that if the service was taken out of politics and put on a business footing, it would admit of a great reduction in taxation.

The testimony of the superintendent of the United States assay and United States treasurer at New York, was quoted, showing that by placing the civil service on a business basis, the number and expense of officials and employes might be reduced at least one-half. If a complete system of reform could not be had, the speaker was in favor of accepting such measures as could be obtained, providing the system was more thoroughly legalized, and not subjected to the will of the President. The principles advanced were that subordinate officers and employes should be appointed without regard to party or politics, and that after appointment the officers should be excluded from taking an active part in politics. The speaker thought that a rigid inquiry should be instituted into the moral character of the applicant, and an impartial test as to qualification. He also thought that the system should be such as to make it possible that the self-taught child of the humblest laborer should have as a fair a chance as that of the millionaire.

In referring to the civil service of Sweden, attention was directed to an officeholder in the city of Stockholm, who annually collected over $20,000, and received a salary amounting to $500 per annum. It was the piggishness of the system of rotation that led Senator Douglas to remark, during Buchanan's Presidency, that all the official heads should come off at once, thereby causing only a single squeal.

Horace Greeley had once said that it would be cheaper for the government to board the Indians at a first-class hotel than to leave them to the unscrupulous mercies of political agents. The government expended over $7,000,000 annually to support 250,000 Indians, many of whom were self-supporting, in addition to which millions were expended annually in carrying on Indian wars. At the same time the United States incurred the resentment of 2,000,000 Danes rather than pay a fraction of that sum for the Island of St. Thomas.

Reference was made to the civil service systems of Belgium, Holland, Norway and Sweden, England, France and Germany, showing that the system of seniority in appointments and continuance in office during usefulness and good behavior, was conducive of much more beneficial results than could be obtained from rotary or "political" system.

On motion of Mr. Campbell, the speaker was accorded a unanimous vote of thanks.

A HOSS TRADE.

One of the Parties Thinks He Ought to Be Arrested.

Yesterday a party by the name of Ernst Freiman cheerfully walked into police headquarters, and asked if there was a warrant for his arrest there. If so, he was ready to meet all the requirements of the law. A look among the records and files discovered no document bearing his name. He was asked why he expected such attention of the authorities, and then told his story. He stated that a few days ago he'd made a horse trade, which was brought about in this way: In his calling as a peddler he had need of a horse, and about two weeks ago bought an animal, sound in wind and limb, of Bill Webb. The points of the brute attracted the eye of George Baker, second-hand dealer, No. 60 Wabashaw street, who pestered him to trade. After much persuasion he swapped his horse for Baker's with boot to the amount of $10. The trade and transfer was made Wednesday. That same night Baker came to his Freiman's house, No. 108 West Sixth street, and called him out. He commanded Freiman to accompany him at once, and pulled out a revolver as a persuader. Freiman's wife and some friends interfered, and Baker departed. In a short time he returned, and summoned Freiman to the kitchen door. This time he had Freiman's old horse with him, and wanted to re-swap as it were. Freiman declined, and then Baker broke open the stable door, took away the horse formerly belonging to him, leaving the one formerly belonging to Freiman.

If the story was true, it was explained to Freiman that he was hardly a subject for arrest.

"But then," exclaimed he, "I have replevined the horse, and Baker has sent him away."

It was again intimated that this action on his part didn't put him within the grab of the law. He seemed hardly convinced, but as no warrant could be found designating him as a disreputable John Doe, or any other man amenable to the law, he got up and left. But after all not in so pleasant a frame of mind as when he entered.

COURT DOINGS.

Interesting Cases Before Judge Wilkin—The Farrell-Reardon Lumber Controversy, and Gellatly vs. The Odd Fellows' Relief Association.

The district court, Judge Wilkin presiding, had two important cases before it yesterday. The first, hanging fire for two days, is entitled M. B. Farrell vs. Timothy Reardon. The suit is brought to recover $75,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution. The history of the case is pretty well known. Last July Reardon had Farrell arrested on the charge of larceny, complaining that he had stolen a quantity of lumber. Subsequently Farrell was acquitted of the alleged offence in the municipal court. The case on trial is a resultant of the above.

CHARITY, GOOD PEOPLE, CHARITY!

The second case was entitled Ann Gellatly vs. the Minnesota Odd Fellows' benevolent society. The suit was brought to recover $1,000 insurance money, claimed by the defendant at the death of her husband. The defendant set up the defense that John T. Gellatly was not in good standing at the time of his death, having been suspended for non-payment of dues. The whole matter hinged on $1.50, which it was contended that deceased had not paid into the treasury of this benevolent association at the death of one Ross. At the time of the death of this member Gellatly had just returned from Europe, whither he had been for his health. His widow claimed that when he left he deposited $5 to meet all dues, and it was contended this covered all liabilities arising during his absence, and even all such dues after his return, only two weeks previous to his own demise. The evidence for the plaintiff was taken, when counsel for defendant moved to dismiss the case. After a little discussion the motion was granted, and the widow of a deceased member of the benevolent society was deprived of her claim by the oversight of $1.50, not paid during the absence and illness of her husband.

THE COURTS.

Supreme Court.

The State of Minnesota, respondent, vs. John Schmail, appellant.

Syllabus—Section 13 of the village charter of the village of Dodge Center, (ch. 13 sp. laws 1874) construed. In a prosecution for selling intoxicating liquors without a license, the burden of proving license is upon the defendant. Section 162, ch. 65, general statutes, authorizes a justice of the peace to render judgment for costs against a defendant found guilty in criminal proceedings, besides a fine, and by section 153 of said chapter, a like power is conferred upon the district court upon an appeal from a justice.

James M. McCullough's Sons vs. Hollister, Carter & Co.; action for goods sold and delivered. Judgment for plaintiff for $50.25.

A Bogus Decision.

Pursuant to call a number of colored persons assembled in the Pilgrim Baptist church, last evening, to consider the expediency of Senator Windom's colonization scheme. There was a very strong element in opposition to the bill and, in fact, the major portion seemed to be unfriendly to the scheme, but when a vote was taken it was declared to be in support of Windom's hobby. A good many of the colored people say they want to try the question over again, and have their people more fully informed.

St. Paul Academy of Natural Sciences.

The regular course lecture this evening will be given by Chas. S. Bryant, Esq., the title of which is "Man, his origin and movement, as indicated by mythology, language and history," at the hall of the Academy on Wabashaw street, opposite the Opera House. Doors open 7:30 P. M., lecture begins at 8 o'clock. Admittance 10 cents.

CITY GLOBULES.

There are eight more jury cases for trial on the docket.

Liquor licenses to date number 102, or $10,200 in the city treasury.

The court cases before Judge Brill have been adjourned over until next Wednesday, the 25th inst.

The county tax committee meets to day at 10 o'clock to consider application for tax rebates.

Eighth street was fairly alive, yesterday, with fast roadsters. The scene was a perfect sleighing carnival.

Mr. W. T. Van Deyr has assumed editorial charge of the Minnesota Demokrat, (German), vice Mr. Werner Rapp, resigned.

It was contractor J. M. Evenson who had his overcoat stolen at the corner of Seventh and Wabashaw street on Wednesday afternoon.

A handsome and comfortable buffalo robe was stolen out of one of Cook's hacks Wednesday night, at the Athenæum. Report of the theft was made at police headquarters yesterday.

The jury in the case of M. B. Farrell vs. Timothy Reardon, agreed on a verdict at 11 o'clock last night, which will be returned into court to-day. The jury went out at 3 o'clock P. M.

It is reported on good authority, that the numerous friends of Col. Knauff will shortly tender that gentleman a testimonial benefit, in recognition of his enterprise in conducting the Summer Garden theatre. The affair will take place at the Athenæum.

Yesterday Mrs. Henry J. Weber complained at police headquarters, that for the last two or three nights a man has been loitering around her residence, No. 36 Twelfth street, with the presumed purpose of forcing an entrance. The police were notified to watch for the prowler.

The city treasurer received $2,965 worth of cancelled interest coupons from New York yesterday. This pays all interest on the city's bonded debt to the 15th inst. The above is the species of insanity with which St. Paul's judiciary agents—comptroller, treasurer et al.—are affected.

A farmer named Schotts, from Mounds View, drove into Andrew Winter's sleigh, yesterday afternoon, on Wabashaw street near Ninth street. The sleigh lost a shaft by the collision. Schotts was arrested and taken to the station. There he repaired the accident with all the money he had, $1.

A new variety theatre will be opened next week on Robert street. Mr. Frank Kelly, for a long time connected with Col. Knauff's Summer Garden, will have entire management of the new venture. Mr. Kelly's acquaintance with all the professional details of the business guarantees a pleasant amusement resort.

The Opera House will be opened Mardi Gras night (next Tuesday) to present Katerina and Petruchio. The cast of characters has been selected from the best amateur talent in the city, and a most commendable performance may be expected. The sparkling comedy of "Woodcock's Little Game" will be the afterpiece.

Mr. H. M. Wolf, of Albrecht, Lanpher & Finch, furriers, got hold of a hard customer about nightfall, yesterday. He came in, was obsequiously waited on, selected two fur caps, and bulged out of the store without making any payment on the purchase. Capt. Clark was told of the transaction, and is fast on the hat thief's heels to capture him.

The St. Paul gymnasium gives its annual exhibition to-night. A long programme of athletic exercises is prepared, and the arenic amateurs are equally well prepared to make each number pass off with artistic or strengthy skill. Acrobatic feats, boxing, Indian clubs, vaulting and all the skillful exercises of such an exhibition will be presented.

Arrangements have been made at very low rates for the transportation of the invited guests to the Fort Snelling hop, next Monday evening, from their houses to the fort and return to their homes. All intending to go are requested to send their names and addresses to Captain Michaelis at headquarters, so that sufficient carriages may be provided.

Arrangements have been perfected for the inauguration ball to be given by the members of the Great Union band, at Armory Hall, tomorrow evening. The organization is well known for its musical ability throughout the city, and the occasion should meet with that recognition which the high and pleasurable character of the entertainment will undoubtedly merit.

The board of directors of the St. Paul Union Depot and Transfer company, met at the St. Paul & Sioux City offices yesterday, as per adjournment, to discuss plans, location of depot, etc. Mr. Hill, of the St. Paul & Pacific, stated his company would not be able to make distinct propositions until the arrival of Mr. Stevens from Montreal, which would be in a few days, whereupon an adjournment was had subject to call.

Gen. Sibley's son, about twelve years of age, met with quite a serious mishap yesterday morning. He has a spirited pony, and had driven it down town, and when near home, returning, the animal took fright at a piece of evergreen in the road and ran away. The boy was unable to control him, and he ran furiously up Pearl street, and upon reaching the corner of Jackson and Twelfth streets, the sleigh was wrecked, and the boy thrown out, receiving quite a gash upon his head. The sleigh was considerably broken.

The second and final grand carnival of the German society will occur at the Athenæum next Monday evening. Their last masquerade was an eminent success, and the preparations for the forthcoming carnival warrants the assumption that it will far exceed any of the pleasurable entertainments heretofore given by the society. Prince Carnival, with a gorgeous retinue of attendants, will inaugurate the festivities; and his vassals will dignify the pleasurable excitement of the dance with a series of tableaux. His munificence will be exhibited in the donation of $30 in gold prizes to the best costumed individual and groups. The society have determined to surpass all former attempts in the approaching festival.

He Watched an Opportunity.

An instance of mis-placed confidence came to light last evening, which involves the flight of a supposed friend, and the loss of a valuable watch and chain. The parties to the transaction are named, respectively, Phillip La Falle and Henry Madden, fellow cigarmakers, prominently known in connection with this industry, by all the principal manufacturers in the city. A few evenings since, La Falle was approached by his pseudo friend and confidante, and after considerable persuasion was induced to intrust to Madden's keeping a hunting-case silver watch and gold chain, the former being at the time under the influence of liquor. The manner in which the transfer was made attracted the attention of several bystanders, who, knowing the intimacy between the two, and observing La Falle's inebriated condition, supposed that possession of the articles was sought from the most laudable and disinterested motives. Subsequent developments, however, show that the self-imposed trust was most shamefully betrayed, as the ungrateful scoundrel had no sooner obtained possession of the watch than he left the city, taking the first train for Chicago. The watch is valued at $40, and no hopes are entertained of its recovery.

Dr. Riley, in his speech in the House of Representatives on Wednesday, paid a high compliment to Charley Caldwell's (Nos. 62 and 64 Jackson street) generosity. He referred to his place as one to be copied by temperance folks. There, for the insignificant sum of five cents, a glass of beer could be obtained, and with it even a sumptuous feast. Dr. Riley called the turn, for no where outside of San Francisco, not excepting New York or Chicago, can a man get, free of charge, such a meal as is spead at Caldwell's. Hotel diners, with all the paraphernalia of table-ware, don't begin to compare, on the average, with Caldwell's repasts every day in the year.

To Printers.

Proposals will be received by the undersigned on Wednesday, Feb. 26, 1879, for printing 5,000 copies of the constitution and 1,000 copies of the Journal of Proceedings of the Grand Lodge, also for doing other printing and binding needed during the year. For particulars address,

THE MINNEAPOLIS MILLS.

The Railroads Building Tracks to Run Through the Second Story of the Buildings.

[Minneapolis Cor. Railway Age, Feb. 13.]

The facilities for reaching the milling district have heretofore been limited, one or two of the roads having had no track thereto, but now all the lines are represented, many of the mills having tracks at both front and rear. The fight between the roads for supremacy has been hotly contested, and has necessitated the outlay of immense sums of money which will result in great saving to the mills in cartage, but will only entail additional expense for repairs and maintenance upon the railway companies. The Chicago & Northwestern, through a local organization, has built an expensive line over a mile in length, along the river bank in the rear of some of the largest mills on the falls. It is understood that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul will use track jointly with the Northwestern, thereby reaching a large number of the leading mills, which both companies have heretofore been unable to approach by a direct track. To offset this advantage the Minneapolis & St. Louis company secured the right of way over the canal, which is lined on both sides with mills, and has constructed a double track elevated railway, reaching to the second story front of the same mills.

This gave the latter company access to all the mills and elevators, with the exception of the new elevator recently built in the rear of the Washburn "B" mill. How to reach this elevator was a problem, but the enterprise and inventive genius of the managers overcame the difficulty, presenting a novel feature in railway construction, and as well in mill architecture. The elevator could only be reached from the south, and directly in the line stood the foundations of the new Washburn "A" mill, which is to be completed for the coming crop. The track could not be laid around the foundations, but the elevator must be reached. Plans were drawn providing for an opening through the second story of the mill of sufficient size to allow a train of cars, locomotive and all, to pass through. This track has already been built, and when the mill is completed that far, the "hole" will be built around it. The track then crosses the street on a tramway and runs between the "B" mill and the elevator, affording splendid facilities for the handling of both grain and flour. This track will accommodate, inside of the "A" mill, six or eight cars, which can be loaded or unloaded at the same time from either side of the opening.

He Must be Provided for in Some Manner.

[Philadelphia Times.]

John F. Hartranft has retired from a term of gallant service in the army and of generally very creditable service in the highest civil positions of the State, that has covered the period of his most vigorous manhood, and it is known that he left the Gubernatorial chair without fortune. He has been tendered the postmastership of Philadelphia by President Hayes, after having won a major general's stars in the field by his courage and skill as a soldier; after having been twice elected auditor general; after having been twice elected chief magistrate, and after having been presented by his State for the presidency in the convention that nominated Hayes. His pecuniary circumstances will probably require him to accept the postoffice in disregard of the very general feeling in this community, and throughout the State, that he eminently deserves a position of greater dignity and emoluments.

Within the last few days it has been suggested that the people of Philadelphia should give to Governor Hartranft, with their own high seal of authority, a position that would be worthy of him and afford a compensation commensurate with his claims upon the public. The postoffice pays only $4,500 a year, and requires all the labor and care that an intelligent and methodical man can give it. The sheriff's office pays $15,000 a year, and would be no more exacting upon a man of Governor Hartranft's prudence and fidelity than the postoffice. Between the two positions all will readily assent to the assumption that the office of sheriff is the one for which Governor Hartranft should be named.

Bishop Whipple.

[New York Sun.]

If Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, could communicate to Congress, the army and the people his love of justice, hatred of oppression and detestation of falsehood, we should have no more Indian wars.

FIVE CENTS A LINE

The GLOBE "Want" and Employment Bureau.

Advertisements in this column are published at five cents a line each insertion, but in order to prove the efficiency of the GLOBE as an advertising medium, and also to aid the unemployed, we will publish for twenty-five cents, a three-line advertisement, of Situations Wanted, Situations Offered, Boarding, Lost, Found, &c., and continue the advertisement until the object sought for is accomplished. For twenty-five cents, the man out of work can advertise for a situation until he finds one.

Each line over the three, to cost five cents per line each insertion.
