FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES
 And Sore Eruptions. Large, Hard and Red. Caused Itching and Burning. After Two Weeks
HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT
 "For several years I was troubled with pimples and sore eruptions on my face. The pimples were large, rather hard and red, and after a while festered and came to a head. Then I would open them but they would stay red and fester up again and so on. They were scattered all over my face and caused a great deal of itching and burning and my face was greatly disfigured."
 "After using all the remedies that I could get my hands on, I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used them according to directions and after about two weeks the pimples were gone and I was healed." (Signed) Vincent Harbeck, Weaverly, N. Carolina, August 1, 1915.

SAVES DAUGHTER
Advice of Mother no Doubt Prevents Daughter's Untimely End.
 Ready, Ky.—"I was not able to do anything for nearly six months," writes Mrs. Laura Braucher, of this place, "and was down in bed for three months. I cannot tell you how I suffered with my head, and with nervousness and womanly troubles. Our family doctor told my husband he could not do me any good, and he had to give up. We tried another doctor, but he did not help me. At last, my mother advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I thought it was no use for I was nearly dead and nothing seemed to do me any good. But I took eleven bottles, and now I am able to do all of my work and my own washing. I think Cardui is the best medicine in the world. My weight has increased, and I look the picture of health." "If you suffer from any of the ailments peculiar to women, get a bottle of Cardui today. Delay is dangerous. We know it will help you, for it has helped so many thousands of other weak women in the past 50 years. At all drugists."

EDUCATION COST IS ON INCREASE
Tenth Annual Report of Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching Shows That Charge of Tuition Alone Has Advanced About One-Fifth—Study of Legal Education Has Been Made.

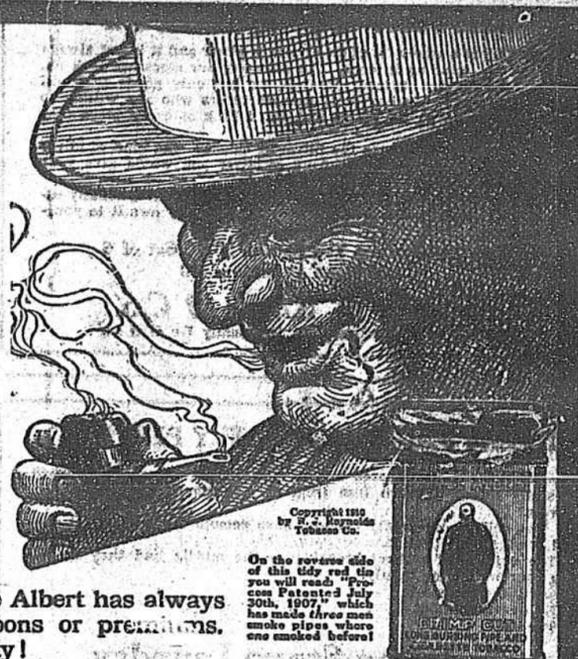

(By Associated Press)
 New York, June 19.—The cost of education, in the matter of tuition alone, is increasing, according to the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, which made public its annual report today. It is just ten years since the foundation was established, and in the statistics it has kept of the charge made for tuition by the representative universities and colleges of the country, it has been found that the charge has increased by about one-fifth.
 "The tendency to increase was active ten years ago," according to the report, "but it was checked by the general financial disturbances of 1907. Since that time it has developed steadily, so that the last four years represent more than half of the advance during the decade. During the present year, following the recent examples at Columbia and Yale, the fee at Princeton has been increased from $160 to $175, and next year the Harvard fee of $150, which has remained unchanged since 1869, will be increased to $200."
 "It may be said that the representative or median fee of our representative institutions has increased, during the decade, from about $80 to about $100 a year, and that the tendency to advance fees is increasing." The report states that $674,000 has been spent by the foundation during the year in retiring allowances and pensions. Twenty-three retiring allowances, and twenty widow's pensions were granted, the average grant being $1,650. The total number of allowances now in force is 327, and the widows' pensions 118; and the total expenditure for allowances since the foundation was established has amounted to $4,225,000.
 A study of legal education, undertaken by the foundation at the request of the American Bar association, has been in progress and practically every law school in the United States has been visited and conditions studied at first hand. The report presents the "first complete list of law schools in the United States," showing that there are 137 resident schools conferring degrees, 16 resident schools not conferring degrees, and seventeen correspondence schools; a total of 164.
 The study of legal education has enlisted the active and at times continuous cooperation of nearly two score deans and professors in law schools and members of the bar. The investigation is not yet finished, and it appears it is proving a difficult task to get all the information which the investigators seek. The question of "when is a law school not a law school" is by no means easy to answer. However, a great deal of important data has been gathered relating to the standards of law school work and the requirements for admission to the bar in the several states. "We hope," says the report, "by proceeding slowly, an inviting comment and advice from many different sources, to make a few fruitful clearings among the deadwood and the tangled growth, the maze of formula, precedent and rule with which this field is at present encumbered." During the year the investigation resulted in the publication of a survey of the case system of teaching in American law schools, by Prof. Josef Redlich of the University of Vienna.
 The Study of Engineering Education, which was undertaken at the request of a joint committee representing the six national engineering societies and which has been conducted with the cooperation of these societies, is approaching completion. The experience and judgment of several thousand engineers have been drawn upon to estimate present conditions in the profession as these might affect the schools, the records of student apprentices in several large corporations have been compared with the records of the same men, some twenty representative engineering schools have been studied minutely, and a group of psychologists and engineers is endeavoring to develop a series of tests which may provide an improved means for judging engineering ability at the student's entrance upon and completion of engineering training.
 The development of pensions for public school teachers has shown remarkable progress, says the report. "State after state is beginning to recognize that it cannot retain its teachers unless it is able to retain its teachers."
 "Since the last year of its foundation, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has been engaged in a study of the systems of public schools. In 1907, the study was begun in Pennsylvania and Washington. The proposed measures for the improvement of the system of public schools in each of these states are being studied and reported on by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

together with observations made at all the institutions in the state which train teachers, by a group of principals of normal schools and professors of education from Harvard, Columbia, George Peabody College and the Universities of Illinois and Kansas, who are cooperating for that purpose with the regular staff of the foundation.
 The report further presents a summary of the legislative results of the foundation's study of education in Vermont, which was made at the request of an educational commission of that state in 1913, concluding "The ability to consider measures for the public welfare in a large, unselfish way was abundantly displayed, and the resulting mass of legislation constitutes a really distinguished proof of the perspicacity and public spirit of the representatives and the people of Vermont."

TOWNVILLE NEWS

 One of the most brilliant occasions of the week when Mrs. L. S. Boleman entertained at her home on Main street in honor of her little daughter "Willie Sue," it being her tenth anniversary. About three o'clock, the little guests began to arrive, the beautiful lawn was soon a lovely picture with merry faces and cherry laughter, several games and contests were engaged in. Some charming music was rendered at the piano by little Miss Mildren Heller. The little guests were invited into the dining room where delicious cakes and cream was served, the dining room was artistically decorated with blue and white, it being the color scheme. Streamers of blue and white ribbon suspended from the four corners of the table up to the chandelier. In the center of the table was a large cut glass vase holding a bouquet of Cape Jasmynes. The little souvenirs were very dainty little blue and white baskets bearing the name of each little guest. After leaving the dining room the little guests were hurried out on the lawn where each little guest was carried out for an automobile ride by the hostess Mrs. Boleman, in her handsome Studebaker. Those present were Misses Mildred and Clair Heller, Sueca; Misses Francis and Antonette Earle "Beaverdam," Misses Vernie Heller, Bernice King, Christine O'Neal, Edith Spears, Lottie Bell Boleman, Louise Shipley, Jessie Lee Crim, May Haxke, Fleeta Earle, Velma Woolbright, Grace McClellan, Vivian Gaines, Schris-lene Gaines, Addie Nicholson, Lucile Supo, Willie Duce and Inez Boleman and May Hanks, Clara Dickson, Elizabeth Wideman, Lulu Bell Carnes, Bessie Mae Prater, Virginia Giles, Susie and Eliza Price, Faby Gray, Eunice Thrasher. Mrs. J. T. Galnes has returned from a visit to relatives at Belton. Miss Alice Price spent the week end with homefolks. Mr. Reese Fant is confined to his bed. We hope for him a speedy recovery. Mr. Broyles was the guest of Misses Myrtis and Eunice Gant at Mountain View Hotel this week. Mrs. Martha Thrasher is on the sick list under the skillful treatment of Dr. J. M. Hobson. She is much improved.

Such tobacco enjoyment
 as you never thought could be yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!
 Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

PRINCE ALBERT
 has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.
 Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P.
