A GOVERNMENTAL CRIME.

That is What Senator Gallinger Calls Congressional Inactivity.

HE SAYS THAT THE GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE BUILDING IS NOT SAFE AND OUGHT TO BE CONDEMNED—THREE THOUSAND LIVES IN DANGER—IT'S UNSANITARY CONDITION.

Should there ever be any great catastrophe in the government printing office, as there may easily be at any time, Congress will not be able to excuse its inaction as to a new building. The condition of affairs in that big and for the most part unsafe structure has been made plain in THE STAR and has frequently been referred to by Senators and Representatives.

Another warning was uttered yesterday. Senator Gallinger was its author. The Senate was considering the bill providing for the public printing and binding and the distribution of public documents when the New Hampshire Senator arose and said:

RESULT OF HIS OBSERVATIONS.

During the Fiftieth Congress it was my privilege as a member of the other house to be brought in contact with the government printing office and to learn something of the details of the work there carried on. One thing impressed me more than any other during the investigation of the office then had and that was the necessity for a new printing house for the government. I wish to devote a few minutes of time to calling the attention of the Senate to the urgent necessity that exists today, not only for legislation to codify the laws relating to printing, but more especially for legislation that will create a printing office that will be adequate to carry on economically and properly the work of the government in this direction.

After leaving Congress I was exceeding gratified to learn from the public prints that an appropriation had been made for the purchase of a site with a view to constructing a printing house for the government. But I learned with great regret upon returning to Washington that for some reason or other that appropriation was not available and that the construction of a new building was apparently as remote as it had been three years before.

COMPARED WITH OTHER PRINTING ESTABLISHMENTS.

A week or ten days ago I passed through Printing House Square in New York city. I looked with admiration upon the magnificent structures that private enterprise and private money have built for the purpose of accommodating the great newspapers which we are in the habit of reading every morning. There was the superb building which the Tribune association has constructed, the elegant structure recently built by the World, and the buildings for the other great newspapers in that city, all of which have been built by private enterprise and with private means. I recall to mind the fact that in the city of Boston the Globe and the Herald have palaces for the purpose of carrying on the work of those newspapers, where the operatives have every possible convenience, where sanitary arrangements are carefully attended to and where the comfort, happiness and care of the people who work in those buildings are looked after in every detail, and I remembered that the other large cities of the country are equally well supplied with modern printing establishments. Then I my mind wandered back to Washington and I saw the rickety old building over there on H street, the largest printing house, I believe, in the world, where nearly three thousand men and women are employed, and I could not but feel that in contrast with what private enterprise has done the condition of the government printing office is a disgrace to the Congress of the United States.

BAD SANITARY CONDITION.

Mr. President, not only is the government printing office an utterly inadequate building so far as its capacity and comfort are concerned, but if my observations have been correct its sanitary condition is extremely bad. It could not well be worse in that respect, and there is also great danger, according to the opinions of those who ought to know the facts, that some great calamity may befall the 3,000 people who are employed within those walls. I do not wish to be an alarmist, but nevertheless will venture to say that that printing house is not safe and ought to be condemned. There is danger every day that it may fall to the ground with the weight which is imposed upon it. I have it from a trusted official of the government printing office that he has risen from his bed at night and gone to that building for the purpose of examining it, fearing that it would be crushed by the weight that is necessarily placed upon its floors.

Mr. President, it is a crime for the government of the United States (and no other word will properly characterize it) to put 3,000 men and women within the walls of a building whose sanitary condition is as bad as that, and which is as unsafe as that building is.

A NEW BUILDING NECESSARY.

I simply wanted to emphasize that point in rising at this time, and to say to the Senate of the United States that whether this legislation, of which I approve, is passed or not, whether the laws relating to the government printing are collated and put into proper form or not, an imperative duty rests upon the joint committee on printing and an equal duty rests upon the Congress of the United States to see to it that an appropriation is forthcoming that will give to the government a building adequate and proper in which to carry on the printing work of the country. I trust that a liberal appropriation for that purpose may be made at an early day and that the disgraceful condition of things that now exist may be wiped out.

Then, Mr. President, all the operations of the government printing office can be carried on under one roof. The superintendent of documents, provided for in this bill, can have a local habitation in immediate proximity to the other departments of the office and genuine economy will be practiced through the use of modern appliances, comfortable work rooms and intelligent supervision. It will be my most earnest desire during the time I shall be a member of this body to see the consummation of this much-needed reform, and certainly no effort of mine will be withheld to aid in its accomplishment.

ALEXANDRIA.

FUNERAL OF A FIREMAN.

The Columbia Steam Fire Engine Company, with representatives from all the other fire companies of the city, moved this morning to the residence of the late John T. Nugent on King street and escorted his funeral to St. Mary's Church, where solemn requiem mass was celebrated and funeral rites took place. The Young Men's Catholic Sodality Lyceum also joined in the line and the interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. The fire bells and the bells of the Catholic Church were tolled during the funeral solemnities.

CLOSE OF EVANGELIST DELLA'S SERVICES.

The close of the services of the Rev. Mr. Della at the Trinity M. E. Church protracted meeting, drew last night to that church such a throng as has never assembled there before. All the side rooms were opened and these as well as the auditorium and galleries of the church were packed by an audience anxious to hear the farewell words of the young evangelist.

GOOD TEMPLARS IN COUNCIL.

The District Lodge of Good Templars held its regular meeting here yesterday, elected officers and received reports, conferred the degrees of the District Lodge upon some thirty candidates, &c. The District Lodge is also engaged, through a committee, in enforcing the laws of this commonwealth and of the United States in restraint of the liquor traffic, and reports were made of several convictions. In the evening a templars' reunion took place at a most enjoyable meeting of Italian Templar.

NOTES.

Rev. Dr. Schwoy of the Lutheran Church here has been on a visit to Baltimore in order to assist in the establishment of another Lutheran Church there.

The corporation court has made a decree of sale in the case of Desmond agt. Desmond and has dismissed the bill to set aside assignment of the effects of "Last Chance" saloon at the ferry wharf.

Chairman of the St. Louis Committee.

The action of the Missouri republicans at the Sedalia convention of league clubs held last week secures the chairmanship of the St. Louis committee to Col. John McFall, father-in-law of Mr. Richard Sylvester of this city. Col. McFall was chairman of the committee when the republicans made such heavy gains in the state. He has many friends in this city.

"A RAMBLE IN ROME" (illustrated), the subject of Father Hughes' lecture, tomorrow evening at St. Peter's Lecture Hall, 2d and C streets southeast. Admission, 25c.

Frederick Alers Hankey, M. P. for the Chertsey division of Surrey, England, died yesterday, aged fifty-nine.
