THE TAX ON INCOMES

Commissioner Miller Expresses His Views on the Method by Which It Will Be Collected.

CONGRESS WILL FURNISH MEANS.

There Will Be Ample Time to Execute the Law After the Appropriation Is Made.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Preparations for the collection of the income tax, authorized at the last session of congres, have been well nigh completed by the revenue officers of the treasury department. Within a few days it is expected that Secretary Carlisle will have passed upon the regulations which Internal Revenue Collector Miller has waiting for him, when, if these are accepted, the machinery for the work will soon be put in operation.

The only obstacle in the way of the department is the absence of an appropriation to defray the contingent expenses. Mr. Miller said last evening, however, that he looked for no difficulty in this direction, as congress will be asked early in the coming session to appropriate this money. The authorities think that the need will be quickly supplied and the appropriation made immediately available. Mr. Miller says between $300,000 and $400,000 will be required to pay the additional deputy collectors necessary to the undertaking. The amount asked from congress will probably be not far from $400,000. The number of men required for the work will be about 300, and these, it is stated, will be appointed from various sections of the country by the collectors of internal revenue.

The government under the arrangement proposed, will have to assume none of the responsibility for the delivery of the income tithes into its coffers. The present organization of the internal revenue service will assume the new duty. The collectors furnish bonds for the proper administration of their offices, as well as for the collection and safe keeping of money. Their bonds will cover the new requirements, and each will be responsible for the deputy collectors appointed for gathering the income tax in his district.

Mr. Miller is unwilling to intimate the nature of the regulations for the collection of the taxes, except that they will provide methods for accomplishing the work. They will largely deal with the matter of bookkeeping, which is probably the most important of all. It is necessary to preserve the strongest secrecy, as the law provides, and it will not be possible for any man outside of the properly qualified officials of the revenue department to know the amount of the income tribute that any American citizen pays. In this respect the rules will be as strict as are observed in the collection of internal revenue at present. The success with which the officials have met in this direction is thought to be sufficient guarantee that confidence will not be violated under the new law.

The regulations, when approved by Secretary Carlisle, will have something to do also with the means to be employed in naming those whose incomes are within the provisions of the act. The gathering of the sworn reports of citizens, who have over $3,500 in yearly income, will be dealt with and the ways will be pointed out, as far as possible, for proceeding with recalcitrant citizens, and with those who are suspected of making false returns. Numerous other details, not provided for directly in the law, but placed within the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, will be remembered.

The treasury mathematicians, up to this date, are unable to give any approximate figures of the wealth that will accrue from the operation of the income law. They admit that this has been a hard year and to start with, they have no fundamental statistics from which to work out this interesting problem. The big volumes of the last census have been consulted, but the perusal of these pages affords hardly a scrap of adequate information about the number of private incomes that will exceed the $4,000 limit. Mr. Miller, in discussing the subject last evening, referred to the corporations, of which they hoped to learn something from the census volumes. He stated that while the list of corporations was given faithfully, it was impossible to ascertain from the reports whether any corporation was on the verge of bankruptcy or annually rolling up millions. In seeking out the individuals to whom the law will apply, a good number of citizens can be eliminated in every section as exempt, but the percentage of eligibles is everywhere a doubtful quantity and will be known only when the internal revenue bookkeepers have entered up their ledgers.

Mr. Miller believes there is little warrant for hasty action in the collection of the taxes, or for undue anxiety. Some months yet remain before the work of collection must be completed, and even an allowance may be made for possible delay on the part of congress in making the necessary appropriation. The income tithes first to be gathered into the great government storehouse are for the present year ending Dec. 31 next. Following that date two months remain to the deputy collectors to make their returns of those qualified to be assessed with the amount against each. This is comparatively ample time while four months remain after the 1st of March, according to the provisions of the law, for the actual collection of the money and the accomplishment of the financial task.

Out in a Blizzard.

Mr. J. P. Blaize an extensive real estate dealer in DesMoines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review. Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive several miles during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, an inside of an hour after his return he was threatened with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever. Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle o fChamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of doces. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to DesMoines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful. For sale by all druggists.

A Cure for Croup.

When on a visit to Iowa, Mr. K. Dalton, of Luray, Russell county, Kansas, called at the laboratory of Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, to show them his six-year-old boy, whose life had been saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it having cured him of a very severe attack of croup. Mr. Dalton is certain that it saved his boy's life and is enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy. For sale by all druggists.

Sore Throat.

For a sore throat there is nothing better than a flannel bandage dempened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It will nearly always effect a cure in one night's time. This remedy is also a favorite for rheumatism and has cured many very severe cases. 50-cent bottles for sale by all druggists.

THE ANTI-TOXINE HERE.

A Newly Discovered Specific for Diphtheria Reaches New York.

The first trade importation of Bering's diphtheria anti-toxine, the newly discovered specific for diphtheria, has been received in this country, and a New York drug firm is the first in the field with a supply of what, by some physicians, is regarded as a positive cure for diphtheria. Physicians were promptly notified of the arrival of the serum, and a representative of the firm was on hand to answer inquiries and supply the diphtheria remedy. The anti-toxine was only given to physicians who showed proofs of having actual and urgent cases of diphtheria under treatment, these measures being necessitated by the scarcity of the remedy. Its therapeutic value and the opportunities for saving life make it necessary to keep the remedy out of the hands of persons actuated by curiosity or greed.

The diphtheria anti-toxine solution, as discovered by Professor Behring, of Berlin, is supplied in three strengths, designated Nos. 1, 2 and 3. The No. 1 is used in the treatment of diphtheria in children under ten years of age, and for all incipient cases. Nos. 2 and 3 are recommended for use in advanced cases. The injections are made with either a Koch or a Pasteur syringe, and under the ribs, in the loins or the inner surface of the thighs. The anti-toxine comes in small bottles, holding ten cubic centimeters—about two teaspoonfuls. The amount contained in each bottle is equivalent to what is termed 600 anti-toxine normals, and is sufficient for one case. No. 2 contains the equivalent of 1,000 anti-toxine normals. As a prophylactic to persons exposed to diphtheria, it is recommended to inject about sixty anti-toxine normals, or one-tenth of the contents of a vial of No. 1.

To a reporter for the New York Times a member of the drug firm said he was much gratified with the response which physicians had made to his invitation to call for supplies of the remedy, and he was well satisfied with the result of his Sunday's work.

The firm, in contracting for its distribution, waived all commercial considerations, and a merely nominal price was asked for the seven vials, all of which were quickly disposed of. So highly is the remedy regarded in Germany that public collections are made through the press for the purpose of buying the anti-toxine and supplying the remedy free for the treatment of the poor.

Dr. Seneca D. Powell, late president of the Medical Society of the county of New York, said of his purchase and the remedy.

"My attention was called to a letter from the firm stating that they had just received by a steamer a very limited amount of anti-toxine, which they wished to offer to reputable members of the medical profession for immediate use.

"I called and was supplied with a bottle of strength No. 1 at a nominal cost. The fact that this firm has placed at the disposition of the medical profession serum that it had procured at great expense and with great difficulty is of considerable importance. I think it merits recognition.

"Let me tell you why. The only other anti-toxine that I know of is for sale at $50 a dose.

"Do I believe in it? Only by what I have been told by men in whom I have confidence as a result of their experience.

"I am just now sending the serum I procured by special post delivery to a prominent physician of Louisville, Ky., who was matriculated at the post-graduate here. He telegraphed me yesterday: 'My child has diphtheria; send anti-toxine at any cost.' He not long ago said that diphtheria was all around him, and he feared his children would catch it. He then knew that anti-toxine could be bought for $50 a dose and asked me about it. I said that any person who would be robber enough to ask such a sum would be dishonest enough to sell a spurious or a diluted serum.

"I was again told that there was a supply of the material in the market at $50 a dose, and that it was furnished by a physician as a speculation. I am ashamed that any man having right to the title of physician should be guilty of such a vile, unprofessional greed of gain. I cannot give his name, but it will be divulged in the end.

This is not the first importation of the serum. Some of it was brought by physicians to this city last September, and the board of health obtained a bottle of it, I believe. I should favor the application of the city's money to the manufacture of anti-toxine here, and the board of health is the proper department to undertake it.

"In contrast to the money-making propensities of the physician who sells this life-saving remedy at $50 a dose, it is pleasant to relate that one of the men who to-day received a supply of serum, got it for me, having learned that I was looking for some. He refused to receive any pay for it. As I am supplied, I shall, of course, return it to him, and retain a very pleasant remembrance of his act."
