Alfred Best, Jr., writes to the "News:" "In a report given to the "News" of an accident occurring Wednesday evening it was made to appear that I was guilty of carelessness and an indifference as to the fate of the child involved. Kindly publish my version of the affair. A little child, not realizing its danger, suddenly ran in front of my horse while I was driving up Main street. Before it was possible to stop, the boy came in contact with the buggy and was thrown down. A gentleman standing near carried him into the Union block. I got out with the intention of investigating, but the gentleman returned and informed me that the child was uninjured; that no blame was attached, and that I could drive on, and I did so."

100 VOLUMES OF THE STANDARD DICTIONARY!

This rare work of nearly 2,400 pages, each volume weighing 17½ pounds, beautifully bound in embossed leather, issued by Funk and Wagnalls of London and New York, is now on sale at the Deseret News office. One hundred volumes have just been received. This is the work in the compilation of which Dr. James E. Talmage was engaged as one of the 200 editors. Its thoroughness is well illustrated by its treatment of the single word "Quorum," as follows:

"Quorum:" 1. Such a number of persons of any deliberative or corporate body as is necessary for the legal transaction of business; unless otherwise ordered, a majority. 2. (Eng.) Certain designated justices of the peace commissioned as JUSTICES OF THE QUORUM, without the presence of some one of whom the others could not act. 3. Mor. Ch. A council or organized body of the priesthood; as, an Elders' quorum; the quorum of the First Presidency. 4. Necessary constituents. (L., of whom, gen. pl. of "qui" (who,) from the Latin words "quorum unum—A. B. esse volumus" (of whom we desire A. B. to be one) forming part of ancient commissions, as of justices.

This rare dictionary is offered at $12 per copy. A limited number can be had for Church pay, and our schools and colleges are asked to correspond with us at once should they desire a copy.

HE STOLE THEIR FUNDS.

Porter of Silver Club Gambling House Runs Off With Cash.

He Took All the House Had, $682, and Left for Parts Unknown—The Club is Ruined.

The Silver club gambling house is no more. Its existence suddenly terminated yesterday when George Cameron, a faro dealer, skipped off with all the cash, amounting to $682 in all. The amount is very small for a gambling house but it was all the proprietors had.

The club was owned by G. S. Welch and Joe Powers. For about five months Cameron has been employed at the club as dealer and porter. Every day it devolved upon him to carry the house's funds from the "Lone Star" gambling house where the money was kept for safe keeping. Yesterday he got the money about 12 o'clock and left for parts unknown. No trace of Cameron can be found. He has a wife and child residing here.

George Halliday, a respected and useful citizen, died at his home in Santaquin yesterday at the age of 77 years, and will be buried at that place tomorrow afternoon, his funeral commencing at 1 o'clock.

The deceased was a native of England and came to Utah in 1853, first settling in Salt Lake City, where he resided until 1864, when he moved to Pleasant Grove, where he made his home for several years before locating at Santaquin. His life was one of activity and he filled with zeal and credit many responsible positions, ecclesiastical, military and civil, a more extended account of which will appear in these columns. He leaves an aged wife, thirteen children, and fifty-five grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

WANT TRACT DETACHED.

Piece of Land at Mouth of Emigration Canyon Not Good City Property.

A petition has been filed in the Third district court by Le Grand Young, the Henry Wagener Brewing company, M. C. Moon and James Thompson, praying that a certain piece of land at the mouth of Emigration canyon, east of the Fort Douglas military reservation, be detached from Salt Lake City corporation. The petition recites that the tract in question is a rugged and rough expanse stretching up the mountain side; that it is five miles from the business center of town, and receives neither fire nor police protection; that it is not and never can be used for building purposes, and that the reservation cuts it off from the city.

SMITHY BENBROOK HAS LEFT TOWN

Well Known Gambler Departs for Cape Nome Gold Fields.

NO ALIMONY FOR HIS WIFE.

Was to Have Appeared in Court Tomorrow on an Order to Show Cause—Status of Case.

Smithy Benbrook, the gambler, who was this week cited to appear before Judge Hiles tomorrow morning to show cause why he should not pay his wife $100 a month alimony, pending the determination of the divorce suit, has taken his departure for Cape Nome. Smithy, it is claimed, is not in contempt of court, for when the citation order is returned to Judge Hiles tomorrow he will be represented by his attorneys, Powers, Straup & Lippman.

The order of the court required that he should not dispose of his property, but Smithy, by his attorneys, will endeavor to prove that all his belongings were shipped to Seattle several days before the citation order was served upon him.

NO SUMMONS ISSUED.

Benbrook filed the divorce complaint against his wife, who was then in San Francisco, several weeks ago, but no summons was ever served upon the defendant. He based his suit on the ground of desertion and his attorneys say he had a good case. During the couple's separation Benbrook is said to have allowed his wife $75 a month, and, it is claimed, he would have increased this amount had the divorce been granted.

LOVED ANOTHER WOMAN.

Some time ago Benbrook became enamored of Mrs. Minnie Nugent, a dashing auburn-haired widow, and wanted to marry her. But there was a stumbling block in the road—the wife in California. Smithy was informed that to marry again before the first marriage contract was annulled, meant a term in the State prison, and in order that his Cape Nome-honeymoon trip should not be interfered with, he commenced divorce proceedings.

WAS ON TO HIS GAME.

Mrs. Benbrook, though not served with a summons as required by law, heard of Smithy's action, through the Salt Lake papers, and the result was a correspondence was begun. The letters were not couched, in what some people call, "endearing terms." Mrs. Benbrook was full of business. She saw that divorce and Cape Nome would put a stop to her monthly allowance. Benbrook assured his former love that she need have no misgivings; that while he was going far away, on the ocean to sail, she would receive $100, by every month's mail. This read very nice, of course, but did not seem to satisfy her; she had heard that the mails between here and Cape Nome were very irregular; she knew from practical experience that the call of the landlord, the baker and the butcher was as regular and certain as anything could possibly be. So she informed Smithy that if he would pay her $2,000 down, she would give him a receipt in full. By way of explaining the benefit of this arrangement, Mrs. Benbrook reminded Smithy that the country where he was going to, was known to be very cold; he might get his hands frozen and be unable to write, or he might forget, etc. Benbrook demurred to the $2,000 proposition, when Mrs. Benbrook packed up her traps and came on to Salt Lake.

ANSWER AND CROSS-COMPLAINT.

Upon arrival she hunted up Benbrook and, finding him, gave him to understand that he could not budge one peg until he had made some kind of a settlement with her. Smithy refused on the ground that he had not the wherewith to plank down. The wife then sought Attorney Sam H. Lewis, who drew up for her an answer, cross-complaint and affidavit to the divorce suit. These were filed on Tuesday, and the order to show cause was served on Benbrook by Deputy Sheriff Al Dyer Wednesday. Three hours later Smithy took train for Seattle and by this time is on the ocean wave, feeding the fish, probably.

MAY MEET AGAIN.

Mrs. Nugent, it is said, intends going to Cape Nome, not to marry Benbrook, so she says, but to take care of her young brother, Jack Worley. "He is so young, you know," she is reported to have said when questioned about the matter. "He is the baby of the family, and I don't think he could take care of himself without me."

The order to show cause proceedings will take place in the morning, so the attorneys say, as though Benbrook was here; but as Smithy is now out of the jurisdiction of the court, it can only have one result, and that is Mrs. Benbrook will not get any alimony, and if she is ever divorced it will not be until she herself institutes proceedings.

UTAH VOLUNTEERS.

Want Part of Their Fund Donated to Scofield Sufferers.

The committee on the reception of Utah volunteers held a meeting this morning at Governor Wells' office. In addition to the Governor, there were present General Penrose and Messrs. Letcher, O'Meara, Savage, Whitney and Major F. A. Frant. A letter was read from the Utah society of the army of the Philippines, asking that $1,000 be donated to the Scofield sufferers; the letter was filed. The sum of $121.55 was appropriated to pay for bills incurred by the recent funerals, and on the request of Major Grant, the sum of $150 was donated to the committee in charge of the Decoration day ceremonies to aid in doing honor at the dead Utah volunteers and decorating their graves.

SALESMAN ASSAULTED.

One Drummer Strikes Another in the Face at the Kenyon.

About ten o'clock last night, James Murphy, a St. Louis clothing house drummer, walked up to H. Liebman, a Chicago salesman, at the Kenyon hotel, asked him his name, and then suddenly struck him a blow in the face. Murphy then walked away without saying a word.

It was learned that the assault was provoked on account of Liebman saying unkind things about Murphy's goods.

AN AGED MAN'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Had Reached the Age of 85 Years of Age and Was Yet Strong.

WAS IN A FATAL RUNAWAY

Returning from East Mill Creek with a Load of Hay, When the Horse Ran Away—His Neck Broken.

After having successfully defied the ravages of time and disease for eighty-five years, John C. Eaby's life is demanded, and he has to yield it up in the flash of an eye.

Old in years but remarkably young in strength and vitality, to all appearances prepared to ward off the grim reaper for many years to come, he falls from a load of hay; his neck is broken, and with one faint struggle his ripened spirit is loosed from its mortal tabernacle and takes its flight into the mystic realms.

Mr. Eaby lived at 173 P street, and yesterday morning he hitched his horse to a single wagon, announcing his intention of going to East Mill Creek for a load of hay, and incidentally to visit with some of his old friends, that place having been his home for a number of years. He waved a cheery good-bye to his little grand-daughter, telling her to look for him about 6 o'clock in the evening, and so he started on his last journey, with apparently no foreboding of his impending fate.

He paid his visits, secured the hay at Amos Neff's, and started home. After traveling nearly a mile, having reached Fourteenth South street, his binding pole became loose and he got down to tighten it. As he was getting back on the load he dropped the reins and the horse started down the hill, with the old man absolutely helpless so far as controlling the animal was concerned, and on turning abruptly the aged man was thrown violently to the ground, striking on the side of his head, and breaking his neck.

Justice A. I. Kellar who lived near by, was soon on the scene of the fatality, together with Will Connolly, who witnessed the runaway. Justice Keller brought the body to the city and it is now at Joseph E. Taylor's undertaking parlors. No inquest will be held, as Justice Keller thinks the cause of death to be so apparent that an inquest is not necessary.

John Eaby was one of the rugged pioneer whose courage and sinue helped to transform this western desert into a choice spot. He emigrated to Salt Lake City in 1848, and since that time he has resided in Utah. He was an honest, upright man, who feared God, and loved his neighbor. He was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, October 6, 1814. In his youth he connected himself with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and was with the Church through the stormy scenes of Nauvoo, and witnessed the sacking of that city. He lost his first wife and only child in the cholera scourge in St. Louis in 1847. On coming to Utah he settled in East Mill Creek. After residing there for three years he removed to Salt Lake. In 1862 Mr. Eaby was married to Mary Wickel, who is still living. The offspring of this union who are yet living are John Eaby, Jr., of this city, and Mrs. Eliza Philips of Provo.

The funeral services will be held from the Twenty-first ward meeting house on Sunday next at 12:30 p. m.
