MANCHESTER.

—Owing to the break in the railroad, New York papers of Wednesday did not arrive here until Friday night of last week.

—More grading and walk laying have improved the appearance of the grounds around the new church.

—Farmers having anything to sell should advertise in the JOURNAL at 10 cents per line.

—Rev. P. S. Pratt will please accept our thanks for a copy of the JOURNAL for January 10, 1871.

—Go and hear Whitmore & Clark's Minstrels to night. There is no better troope travelling.

—Col. M. S. Colburn, Robert Ames and party killed five deer during their recent ten days trip in the Adirondack region.

—Will the select men leave the bridge over the brook near C. B. Munson's house in its present condition till the town has to pay heavy damages, or will they have it repaired now? We shall see.

—Whitmore and Clark's Minstrel troupe are to play at Music Hall to-night. They are well spoken of and will undoubtedly draw a crowd out.

—A party of young people from this village paid a visit to Wells last week. They think it is a fine place in which to while away a few days.

—There will be a special meeting of Adoniram Chapter, R. A. M., on Wednesday evening Sept. 13th. Candidates will be balloted for, and work on two or three degrees.

—The concert of the little colored sleigers on Friday night did not draw a very full house. They sang several pieces very well, and with proper cultivation their voices can not be excelled.

—We send some of our delinquent subscribers a gentle reminder this week. If any of these winged messengers should by chance, be sent to any innocent ones we hope no offense will be taken.

—Mr. Zera Hard brought into our office last week, a potato vine which measured eleven feet and three inches in length. The potato grew in the shade and the length of vine was acquired in a struggle for more light.

—A typographical error in the census table of homicides during the year ending May 31, 1870, made its appearance in an associated press despatch in nearly all the dailies stating that seventy-three had taken place in Vermont. The number should have been set opposite Virginia. No homicides whatever were returned from Vermont.

—A matched game of ball was played on Saturday between a picked nine of the Seminary boys and a nine from the village, composed mostly of members of the Atlantic club. The game was very well played, the Seminary boys beating by a score of 19 to 15. Loveland Munson umpired the game.

—Mr. Brownson will move his glove manufactory into the basement of the Court House in a few days. He has recently engaged the services of Mr. Gillespie of Gloversville, N. Y., who is an excellent workman, and we learn that Mr. Brownson intends, also, to enlarge the business. He already gives employment to about twenty girls and women in the work of sewing. He manufactures a very nice article and will fully keep up the good reputation which the Manchester gloves have heretofore obtained.

—On Tuesday night of last week some sacrilegious scamps gratified their evil propensities by carrying off the steps of St. Johns Church and committed other abominations. A reward of twenty-five dollars has been offered by the church authorities for the arrest and conviction of the offenders. It is no small crime and it is to be hoped that the guilty parties may be detected. For the good credit of Manchester we would say that such occurrences are very rare in this vicinity.

—Some of our exchanges have been talking of late about counterfeit greenbacks of the denominations of fives and tens and even as high as twenties, and some of them even files, and telling how to detect the spurious from the genuine. Such talk may all be well enough but we would just like to know where they have seen them, for if they depended on their own resources, our word for it, their biggest bills would be from patent rubers and long suffering washerwomen.

—Drs. John Battis and Geo. N. Wyman have again commenced the sale of Dr Anningus History of the Reformation. This is a standard work and sells rapidly. They have sold and delivered one hundred and seventy volumes in two or three towns. The book has heretofore been published in several volumes, but is now issued in one, which places it within the reach of all.

—The advertisement of Prairie Weed Balm, in our paper to-day, is not only of interest to consumptives, but to every one afflicted with coughs or colds. Its discovery is of interest, as showing the beneficence of nature in supplying to animals an instinct allied to the reasoning powers of man. Combined with the inhalation of Prairie Weed Balm, it has proved most efficacious.

—Letters remaining in the Post Office at Manchester, Sept. 5th 1871: Gentlemen, Mr. Joseph Wood, Wallie Brown, Mr. Domini M. St. John, John McCarthy, Rev. Mr. McDonald, P. P., Wm. L. McKee, Mr. Ward Cheney, Mr. Andrew A. Merrian, Mr. A. J. Fitch, Mr. Armidas Houle 2, Horatio B. Joy.

Ladies. Mrs. Harriett Wells, Mrs. Addie Bladon, Mr. Alice Brewer, Miss Hattie Hurd, Mrs. C. Y. Kendall 3, Miss Sallie M. Hall.

WM. B. BURTON, P. M.

—The next meeting of the Bennington County Union of Good Templars will be held at Factory Point, Nov. 1, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m. The following includes the programme reported by the Committee: 1st, Report of Secretary; 2d Miscellaneous Business 3d, Report of the W. C. T. on the state of the order, and temperance in the county; 4th, Report of Lodges; 5th, Consideration of questions—general deportment of members. 1. Does the genius or character of our order imply an obligation upon its members to observe the Sabbath, and to refrain from the use of profane language. 2. The duty of our citizens in regard to political questions morally considered. 3, What are some of the principal hindrances to the progress of our order. 4, Should men be held accountable to law and punished for crimes they commit while intoxicated. Resolved, That the present prohibitory law of this State is calculated to dry up the streams of misery and vice, and open the fountain of happiness and purity; it therefore appeals to the christian and philanthropist for a more rigid enforcement. 6. Address in the evening by several speakers. Our Union is open to all Good Templars. It is earnestly desired that each Lodge be fully represented. Per order,

COMMITTEE.

FACTORY POINT.

—The road on the hill near P. Wyman's Mill is in very bad order. The recent heavy rains have washed off the gravel and left the bare marble chips. This road should be repaired at once as the damage to carriages going over such places is very great.

DORSET.

—We learn that W. B. Sheldon is about leaving home for the Albany Law School. Friend Sheldon has been studying law in your village for the past year, and his friends there will unite with us in wishing him all success at school, and an extensive practice when the time comes.

EAST DORSET.

—The picnic of our Roman Catholic brethren in the grounds of their parish priest, Rev. T. J. Gaffney, on the last Tuesday in August, was largely attended by visitors from abroad as well as our own citizens. The place of entertainment is as picturesque and well adapted to such festivities as it is possible for it to be. A beautifully wooded hill with all varieties of sunny open slopes, dark ravines, and level plateau. The parsonage has been very much improved under the tasteful supervision of its present occupant; it has been painted a soft shade of brown which harmonizes well with the green trees and vines which embower it. A charming little fountain tinkles and drips in its basin at one side of the house, and long borders of brightehued flowers light up the well kept walks and drives. Early in the morning the cheerful multitude began to assemble, and a goodly sight it was to see. They came singly and in groups, on foot and in overflowing open wagons, all ages and sizes, but all with holiday faces and bright holiday attire. "Rale auld Irish gintlemen, all of the olden time," with their portly dames; blooming maidens, toddling little folks, and plump babies in their mothers' arms. Truly it was a group for a painter, though we fear the poor photographer who plied his task so faithfully will hardly be rewarded for his trouble. A more motley group could not be devised. Here was the stout old country woman attired in substantial dress and shawl, deep bordered cap, overshadowing bonnet, and with a sturdy independence of style and manner bespeaking a hearty contempt for new fangled ways; and there was a gay young lass with flowing hair, muslin dress all ruffles and flounces and catch-ups according to the latest freak of fashion, daintily shod and with quite as much "Grecian Bend" and "Penguin Droop" as her Yankee sisters. Nor were contrasts of costume confined to the fair sex. What could be farther apart than the short-waisted, long-skirted coat, which has done wedding and funeral and Sunday service for quarter of a century, the bell-crowned hat and ample trousers which marked the "auld countryman," and the dashing modern costume of the young beaux? There were many onlookers too, who were not of the flock—stray sheep from other folds, and even of "black sheep," we greatly fear, at least one or two handsome and fast young fellows, not in the least averse to flirtations with the blooming Irish girls, but with never a drop of honest Irish blood in their veins, is of Irish humor in their natures. There were beautiful tables spread under the trees loaded with edibles as attractively prepared and set forth as one could wish, and an abundance of lemonade, soda-water, and lemonade. Nothing stronger was visible, to say the least. The only flask of suspicious fluid which your reporter saw was in the hands of a simon-pure Yankee. But the great attraction was the platform for dancing. Hither flocked the old and the young, the grave and the gay. A kind of musical free Railroad was in attendance, and the never-to-be-dispensed-with fiddle. There was dancing of every description; the "pas seul" executed with abundant gesticulations and tremendous force by a single excited and inspired son of Erin, a dance wholly performed by men, which was perhaps the droll est feature of the occasion; giddy round dances, and the more sedate and enjoyable quadrille and cotillion. The spirit of the dance was infectious and if there is any such thing as caste in these Arcadian realms, it was banished at least for the hour, while the Yankee boys and girls tripped it gaily along with our newly naturalized countrymen. The almost cordiality and good humor ruled the day. Of course every body laughed when some energetic Hibernian obeyed the dictates of the poet in "Finnigan's Wake," to "Well the floor, your feetures shake!" and every body applauded when "the music almost killed itself to keep time with the feet" of some of the nimble young folks, but nobody thought anybody meant to be anything but civil and neighborly.

It was estimated that there were nearly a thousand people on the grounds during the day. These represented all of Father Gaffney's extensive parish, and many from neighboring ones. There were present also Fathers Boylan of Rutland, O'Dugn of Burlington, and Hammett of Granville, mingling with their flocks in the most genial manner.

There was an admission fee of twenty-five cents, so that the affair was a pecuniary benefit to the Romanist society here, enabling them to pay the snug little sum of $800 on their church debt.

The day was cool and beautiful and in every respect the people had a good time. Success we say to every effort to brighten the laborer's life, to lighten the pressure of daily toil and care, and to promote kindly feeling among those who are neighbors and who should be friends.

—As to other news:—the new store of Plym Ames is progressing finely. Some curious phenomena have attended this improvement to our town. As soon as the foundations of the new building were laid, the old store, which has served our needs well for the past nineteen years, slowly and with many a creak and groan turned half way round on its foundations and stood for several days all awry and forlorn, the picture of consternation and distress. Then as slowly and painfully it turned back to its original position. In these days of earthquakes this performance is perhaps not without precedent, but it is to say the least alarming. Whether the upheavings were produced by physical causes, or, as some tell us, of a spiritual nature, and inspired by a fearful demon of Total Depravity, it becomes us all to be admonished thereby.

—Messrs. D. L. Kent & Co. are shipping a large quantity of marble to San Francisco, in fulfillment of an order recently received by them.

—A flying visit from Major Wood last week resulted in the sale of his farm here to Mr. Lyman H. Gifford.

—A little son of Mr. George Witherell fell over the high perpendicular rock west of the marble mill of D. L. Kent & Co., to-day, injuring him severely, and perhaps fatally. F.

DANBY 4 CORNERS.

—The Sabbath School concert of the M. E. Church for the month of Sept. came off last Sabbath. The school was well represented by teachers and scholars, the entire service being devoted to the Sabbath School. The programme consisted of reading a poem (original) by Mrs. William Vail. Dialogues, singing &c. Repeating texts of scripture by the entire school. Then followed remarks by Rev. Mr. Eastman, G. K. Bucklin, J. H. Vail and P. Holton. It was a highly interesting occasion for all present. The Sabbath School here is on the increase. It is numbering now about 70 scholars. Parents and the older ones are beginning to take more interest than formerly.

J. C. W.

WALLINGFORD.

The committee of the Wallingford graded school think they have been very fortunate in securing the services of an experienced teacher, from New Hampshire, Mr. Otis S. Johnson, to take a general supervision of the school and teach in the highest department. He has entered upon the work with manifest zeal, looking forward to permanency. The room for the higher department has been fitted up with Robert's school furniture—single desks. The school opened under favorable auspices, Monday, Sept. 4th. W.

RUTLAND.

—On Saturday evening last Superintendent J. R. Faulkner was made the recipient of a handsome gold watch and chain from the employees of the Harlem Extension Railroad. The presentation took place at the Bardwell House, and was made by Dr. Middleton Goldsmith, as follows:

MR. FAULKNER:—The operatives of the Harlem Extension Railroad put upon me a pleasant duty. They bid me say to you with what sincere regret they regard your resignation of the superintendency of the road. But since you have chosen this course, they feel that the present is a proper occasion to express their appreciation of your uniform kindness and gentle and just treatment of them while serving under your orders, and in token of their gratitude and friendship for you they beg that you will accept this watch which I present you, with their best wishes for success in whatever station you may occupy or wherever you may go.

Mr. Henry Clark responded in behalf of Mr. Faulkner, in the following:

Gentlemen:—In behalf of Mr. Faulkner I tender you his grateful appreciation of this testimonial of your esteem, and for the kind words which have accompanied its presentation. Mr. Faulkner bids me say that he receives this gift in the same spirit in which it is tendered, and will ever bear it as a token of the friendship of those who have been so pleasantly associated together. It is ever pleasing to treasure in the memory the hours spent and the labors performed while pursuing a common avocation and mutually serving a great public interest. It is not only in the moments of toil but by the orderings of life the duties devolving on men are varied, and in the hours of rest they mingle together in social intercourse which cements the ties that ripen into friendship. In severing his connection with the road Mr. Faulkner is grateful that his relation to you have been of such a character as to have won friendship and regard as to prompt this testimonial as expressive of your kindly feeling toward him. In accepting this token of your friendship he returns you his heartiest acknowledgements with assurances that in whatever position he may occupy or wherever the fortune of life may lead him, it shall remind him of the pleasant relations he ever sustained to the employees of the Harlem Extension Railroad.

The watch is a one-fourth second stop watch, independent movement. The chain is a massive gold one of elegant design. It was purchased of Ben. K. Chase & Co., costing, including chain, about $425. The following is the inscription placed thereon:

Presented to
J. R. FAULKNER
By employees of the Harlem Extension Railroad,
September 2, 1871.

BONDVILLE.

—The residue of real estate belonging to the estate of Richard Bond deceased, was sold at public auction on Saturday last. Four hundred and ninety five acres in parcels mostly wild land brought in the aggregate nearly $2,000.

—Some weeks since a little son of Crawford Ameden, fell from the chamber down an open stair case, and so injured his head as to produce a slow brain fever, which is expected to prove fatal.

PERU.

—The select school opened on Monday with a good number of scholars and a fair prospect of a successful term.

—Our community has been somewhat stirred up by the unusual occurrence, a law suit. The people of this town are not often vexed with "the law's delay."

RAWSONVILLE.

—We feel worthy of a little notice in the popular Manchester JOURNAL. We occupy a section of north-west Jamaica; a good section for farming and water-power; one and a half miles from Bondville, on the road to Londonderry and Jamaica village. Our village is composed of sixteen dwelling houses rather scattering, and their appendages and outbuildings, school house, store, mills and shops. We number about eighty inhabitants. The most central is John B. Cobb, farmer, grocer and accommodation postmaster; on the opposite corner is the dwelling house and store of Charles H. Landon soon to be in operation, dealing out the necessaries of life. A little east are the nice dwellings of Dr. Pier, Judson L. Rawson and Lyman Rawson; and a little distance north is the grist mill, saw mill and cooper shop of Flint Richardson & son; and still further north on the road to Londonderry, and near the mouth of mill brook are the mills and shops of Benjamin B. Houghton, for chair stuff and other work, where there is a remarkable water-fall of sixty feet in a distance of sixteen or seventeen rods. Our place is comparatively new and inviting business and enterprise. Some new building going on. Our meadows and uplands are fresh. Potatoes very good; some of our corn nearly ten feet high. Very few apples.

FAIRFAX.

—Rev. L. A. Dunn, pastor of the first Baptist church, has accepted a call to the presidency of a college in Iowa.

—The New Hampton Institute opened for its fall term on the 24th inst. Eighty scholars are now in attendance and more are expected.

—The M. E. Church have installed as their pastor, Rev. Walter Underwood. Rev. Mr. Eastman, their former pastor, having accepted a situation as teacher in one of the high schools of this state.

PITTSFORD.

—The Episcopal parsonage is beautifully located, getting a fine view from it of the mountain and river, and catching all the sounds from the woods that are so delightful to hear at a distance.

—The Public Library is now settled in Crosby's block with good reading room and all conveniences for such a place. About $500 worth of books has been added lately now making 2600 in number.

—The Firemen's Muster is in progress to day; the town is full of people and engines, and bands are numerous. Will give the results next week.

BENNINGTON.

Cross has some fine photographic views of scenery in this and surrounding towns. They are not surpassed by any scenes in this country or Europe.

—John L. Quackenbush has a pear tree that has ripe fruit and blossoms on the same branches.

—Twenty two invitations to attend the Grand Ball given by Jim Fisk, at Long Branch on Monday, of last week, were circulated in Bennington last week. H. W. Putnam, Esq. and Lady; R. B. Godfrey, and O. A. Adams attended the complimentary festival.

NORTH BENNINGTON.

—The marriage of Mr. J. G. McCullough, Attorney and counsellor at law at San Francisco, California, with Miss Lizzie Hall Park, was celebrated Wednesday evening, Aug. 30, at 8 o'clock, at the residence of Hon. T. W. Park. On Saturday the bride and groom accompanied by Hon. T. W. Park and lady and daughter Lila, sailed from New York for Europe; also accompanied by C. G. Lincoln, Esq. They were passengers on the Cunard steamer Calabria.

—The grand excursion of the Methodist and Baptist Sabbath schools of Bennington and Shaftsbury came off on Wednesday of last week in spite of the rain. Ten car loads left for Troy and the Hudson river.

ARLINGTON.

—A match game of base ball was played on Friday, the 1st inst., between the Stars of Cambridge, and the Ethan Allens, on the grounds of the latter, near East Arlington. The game was closely contested and well played, resulting in a score of 18 for the Stars and 10 for the Ethan Allens.

—The Ethan Allens have challenged the Actives of Bennington to meet them at Centre Shaftsbury, to see if the latter club are as good at playing the national game as at blowing, as per Banner of last week.

—The turnpike up the Green Mountain to the old Kelley Tavern is now passable for teams, and already several excursions have been made by parties in this vicinity to that famous mountain retreat. All speak in the highest terms of the splendid scenery, good fishing and excellent treatment they receive there. The hotel kept by Coulter is A. No. 1, and "George" and his wife know how to treat visitors well, when there.

—The cool weather of the last few days has already turned the tide of summer visitors from our beautiful valley toward their city homes. It seems strange that these parties should be warned off thus early, as it is known by all, yet acted on but by few, that the months of September and October are the pleasantest of the whole year, among the mountains. The scenery at this time being more varied and beautiful, the nights cool and refreshing, the air invigorating and not suffocating, and the days warm enough to vary and keep the contrast fresh in mind. It is strange that comfort seekers do not more frequently try the experiment of an autumn rather than a summer in the country.

SUNDERLAND.

—Merritt Bently, while hunting here on the 2d inst, stepped into a crevice and dislocated his ankle.

—Willie Stillson, a lad nine years old, having climbed on a heavy lumber wagon attempted to get off while the team was in motion, one of the wheels passed over his body, but strange to say he received no serious injury.

—The second nine of the Ethan Allen base ball club played a match game with a picked nine from Shaftsbury on the 2d inst., beating the latter by a score of 35 to 27. Also a friendly game the same day with the second nine of the Rough and Readys of Dorset, beating the latter by a score of 49 to 19. The first nine of the Ethan Allens also defeated the first nine of the Rough and Readys of Dorset, but in playing with the Stars of Cambridge, the Ethan Allens were defeated. The latter game was witnessed by a large number of people, and passed of very pleasantly, notwithstanding the attempts of a small number from a neighboring town to make it otherwise.

SANDGATE.

—Mr. Truman Hurd, one of the oldest residents of this town, left here on Tuesday of last week, to reside with his daughter, in the western part of N. Y. State. Mr. Hurd was born in this town, and is now about 75 years of age, and has resided here during his entire life time, except, about one year. He was a balcksmith, and worked at his trade till compelled by old age to cease labor. He is a man of a genial nature and jovial disposition, and his old friends are sorry to hear of his departure to a new home, to spend his few remaining years. Mr. Hurd's family all left Vermont some years since. His oldest son E. F. Hurd, the founder of the ax manufacturing establishment at Johnsonville, who recently died at Collinsville, left the town nearly 38 years ago. About the same time his son Albert, who soon after found his way to California and succeeded in accumulating considerable property but who has not been heard from since the year 1849 and is supposed to be dead. He has one son and daughter in western New York, where he has gone to spend the remainder of his days, a daughter among the Catskill Mountains and a son in Collinsville, Conn.

—We have noticed in your paper, some items in relation to improvements of dwellings in this town, and, we now have another one to mention, and this, the residence of one of our most wealthy citizens, if not the most wealthy, and one of our shrewdest business men, Mr. John B. Covey. He has commenced the work of improvement, and intends making his dwelling one of the finest in town. He says, he intends to erect a first class store also, and to solicit a share of the trade of his many friends. Success to you, Mr. Covey.

—The farmers here have commenced digging their Early Rose potatoes, and drawing them to market, but the price paid, 35 cents, is hardly what they expected to receive for this favorite variety. It is said it is necessary to dig them now, as by remaining in the ground they commence growing again.

BERLIN.

—We have to record a disastrous flood which occurred on the 29th of August. Many bridges were swept away and much damage was done to our hilly roads. We estimate the damage to roads and bridges at three thousand dollars in town. The railroad was damaged to some extent also. The trains did not run for two days.

—We have very cool nights but no frost yet. Corn needs two weeks of warm weather.

—Our ball players have reorganized and elected E. W. Greenman Capt. and are now ready to try titles with any club in this valley. They played with the Hancock and Stephentown club a few days ago and obtained a victory.

BORBO.

NORTH PETERSBURGH.

—The heaviest rain of the season fell the 30 ult. The Little Hoosac was nearly as high as during the great freshet of 1869, while the banks of the Hoosac were scarcely overflowed. H. G. Brimmer's flats from the bridge to the stave mill, a distance of 40 rods, were completely overflowed forming a continuous sheet of water. The Little Hoosac bridge was rendered impassable for carriages; the east abutment was completely swept away while the west one was settled three feet. Mr. Russell Brimmer has the lumber engaged for trestle under the bridge which will be placed as soon as possible. The Harlem Extension received considerable damage.

—Mr. George Babcock, Section Agent for the T.& B. road, met with an accident while crossing the Little Hoosac on the evening of the 2nd inst. He was driving with two young ladies, who fortunately were afraid to cross the river with him but crossed on the bridge. George being unacquainted with the ford, drove too rods too low where the water had made a gully which upset his carriage and threw down his horse. The cries of the ladies brought speedy assistance, and George was rescued from his perilous situation.

SOUTH BERLIN.

—Mr. Philo Hall commenced sending his milk to J. Burlingson, Sept. 3d. We are shipping from our station twelve cans per day, nine to Burlingson, and three to Cummings, Baker & Co.

—The rain on Wednesday caused considerable excitement in this vicinity, and did much damage between here and Centre Berlin, washing out the railroad for nearly ten rods in length and thirty feet deep. It has been repaired so that trains run over, but very slowly.

CLOTHING.

Oh! Pa, you ought to see how cheap Mr. Millett sells Clothing. Why, just think, he sells whole suits of and men's suits, that look as good as the one you paid $60 00 for at $12 00.

Boy's Clothing for about $6 00

The boy was right. I have got a large and well selected stock and will sell cheap. Call and see the styles.
