PRESBYTERIAN TEACHERS MEET

Rev. Dr. Day, Professor of Hebrew, Makes Bible Interpretation, His Theme.

SCRIPTURAL LITERATURE.

Says it is the Outgrowth of National Self-Consciousness—Some Conceptions of God.

The second session of the Presbyterian school teachers' twenty-fourth annual convention was held this morning, in the chapel of the Salt Lake Collegiate institute, with a good attendance. In the absence of Rev. Dr. Paden from the city, Rev. Dr. McKinley of Boise, conducted the devotional service.

The principal event of the day was then taken up in the lecture by Rev. Dr. T. F. Day, professor of Hebrew in the San Francisco Theological seminary, his subject being "Bible Interpretation." This was the first of a series of lectures to be delivered on this subject and continuing daily during the meeting of the association. For the time being, the teachers posed as the Freshman class in a theological seminary, and were given instruction in fundamental principles of theological study calculated to give them a broader conception of the Bible than the average layman is supposed to possess.

BIBLE INTERPRETATION.

The lecturer stated that he had for the last 15 years been deeply interested in the Presbyterian mission work in Utah, which he considered among the best fruits of Christian labor. He then branched out into his subject, calling attention first to the danger of superficial treatment in the interpretation of the Scriptures, and the necessity of guarding against it. The speaker brought out also, in introduction, that there is no line of study in the Bible that can be exhausted; and at the same time there need not be any conflict between any two of these lines, though some care must be taken to preserve unity of thought, action and purpose.

Methods in taking different points of view of any Biblical question were discussed, especially the differentiation between these two points of view, remembering that given the same point of view, and we see the same things in the distance. There is something to be considered in the perspective, the adjustment of parts in bringing to light major and minor facts. Then, the particular lines of thought that appeal to us individually will come up for our consideration.

POINTS OF DISCUSSION.

The point of view taken in this morning's discussion was life and its experience, as applied to biblical interpretation in general, but with special application to the life of the Israelitish nation. In Israel's life, Jehovah made a national selection, the selection of a people through whom he might fulfil His purpose for the whole world's sake.

Abraham was given a view of God's plan for the future, and he understood that Jehova's purpose was wise, viz., that the world should be saved through the Israelitish nation; that God had selected that nation was the theater in which to disclose or reveal Himself. There is no definition of revelation unless we bring in God as revealing Himself, His nature; and this revelation was an ever growing experience in Israel's life, the result of this self communication from the Most High. We would not have the Bible but for this conscious, underlying experience of communication with Jehovah. The life of revelation is its fruit, and the Bible is to be the most fruitfully studied as the outgrowth of revelation.

BIBLE LITERATURE.

The lecturer made special reference to the literature of the Bible, calling attention to the fact that literature is the outgrowth of national self consciousness; and the non-civilized races having no national consciousness, they have no literature, and recollection of them is transient and uncertain. Israel became self-conscious under the able tutelage of Moses, and then came its splendid literary monuments born of a consciousness of having a distinct mission in the world.

The speaker made a point of literature being the efflorescence of the individual thought and life, the character of its flower being determined by the moral and intellectual status. Biblical revelation is mediated in experience, transmuted into human thought and feeling, and this has taken form in Scripture. It tells us what has taken place in the development of the soul. In fact, the life blood of the human soul has passed into the Bible. Doctrines are the result of final and continuous self disclosure of God in revelation. As the soul is going into despair, the revelation bursts in upon it, with a new and vivid stage of experience, followed by new thoughts of God which take possession of it; and this is called doctrine.

CONCEPTION OF GOD.

The lecturer made a difference between Monolatry and Monotheism, the former taking historical precedence and forming Israel's first conception. Under this aspect Jehovah was a God of war, a tutelary deity, a patron God. Monotheism is a more general and intelligent conception, Jehovah appearing as sweeping the earth with his besom, and his law ruling over all. This latter conception was the result of an intellectual and spiritual struggle, a deep spiritual experience. Prof. Day called attention to the inability of many students at first to comprehend what their instructor taught. But gradually a growing conception of the theme and its bearings assumed a more concrete and tangible shape, and by persevering attention, the full flower and richness of the subject burst upon the student mind. The lecturer said the Bible was not set up on a plane by itself, as was the Book of Mormon and some other sacred books of the ethnic religions, but was thrown among the run of current literature to stand or fall according to its intrinsic merit. The question has been, Will it stand the test? Experience proves that it will.

CALESTHENIC EXERCISE.

The remainder of the session was occupied by Miss Donnie Thompson of Ogden, a teacher in the Brigham City Presbyterian school, in leading a callisthenic exercise, the performance of which by some of the teachers was the occasion of merriment. Miss Thompson is a very attractive young woman, who in the year that she has taught, following her graduation from the Ogden High school, has made progress that has attracted commendatory attention.

THIS AFTERNOON'S SESSION.

Prof. Day was the first speaker at the afternoon session, his theme being "Studies on Personal Work." The talented lecturer is lecturing on this every afternoon, during the convention, as in the mornings he is speaking on "Bible Interpretation." This afternoon the immediate topic under the general theme was "The Work and the Worker." The following points were made: Presuppositions—(a) The need, (b) the incentive, (c) the responsibility. (Jhonston 1-21; Trumbull, 3-10). The object to be sought. (Booth, 25). Conditions of fitness—(a) The spiritual basis, (Booth, 1-18; Torrey, 7-13; 104-121). (b) the moral attitude toward (1) the inquirer, (2) the truth, (3) God. (Johnston 22-28, 36-42). (c) knowledge of principles; skill in using them. Tact.

For Discussion—What is the meaning of "He that winneth is wise?"

What is the baptism of the Holy Spirit? Compare definitions.

Is some phase of personal work possible to every Christian?

Prof. George B. Sweazy, principal of the Collegiate institute, followed Prof. Day, his topic being "Our Educational Standards." He was followed by impromptu speaking on the themes presented during the day, and this evening Rev. Dr. G. W. Martin of Manti will make a public address on "Christian Life and Continuous Revelation," in the First Presbyterian church.

CARE OF PATIENTS.

State Board of Health Issued Bulletine Notice Today.

The state board of health published the following bulletin notice today, relative to care of patients suffering with contagious diseases:

In view of the fact that in cases of contagious diseases much unnecessary hardship is caused by the quarantine of an entire family, including the breadwinner, and also that all members of the family are thereby endangered, it is strongly recommended that in towns of 1,000 population and over, the authorities shall provide a building which shall be used for the isolation of contagious cases to which they may be immediately removed and there taken care of by a nurse or member of the family. The original premises could then be disinfected and other members of the family released. It is earnestly hoped that this suggestion will be generally followed. Much saving both to the municipality and to the individuals would unquestionably result from the entire feasible and common-sense measure, aside from the paramount consideration of its great effectiveness in the prevention of disease. (For law relating to location, see Sec. 4278 and Chap. 36, laws of 1903.)

The following rule relating to diseases among animals has been adopted by the state board of health:

It shall be the duty of all veterinary surgeons, stockowners or other persons having knowledge of tuberculosis, glanders, actinomycosis, anthrax, or other communicable disease affecting domestic animals, to immediately report the same to the town board of health, when within the limits of a town, and to the county board of health when outside the limits of a town; and it shall be the duty of the said board to at once notify the secretary of the state board of health of the existence of such diseases stating kind of animal and name and address of owner or person in charge. Tests for glanders and tuberculosis will be made by the state board of health without charge.

AMUSEMENTS.

Grand.—"All the Comforts of Home," from the pen of William Gillette, is the bill at the Grand theater for the last half of the week, commencing last night. Patrons of the house have wondered if Miss Harper would be as clever in comedy as in heavy roles, and they were in no wise disappointed in witnessing that lady's work last evening. She covers the range from emotional to lighter roles in a manner most pleasing. The support given Miss Harper was good, especially that of Mr. Detrick. A good sized audience witnessed the performance. The house was very comfortable, notwithstanding the excessive heat that was felt outside. The ice blast and fans are effectual in keeping the auditorium pleasantly cool. "Blue Jeans" will be the next attraction, and will fill the boards four nights and one matinee.

* * *

Orpheum.—Commencing with tonight the management of the Orpheum announces that each Friday evening during the season will be set apart as society night. This week's bill continues to draw good patronage and the various comedy acts from Macart's monkeys to the roller skaters get a good hand. Next week there will be three European acts as features.

* * *

Casino Park.—At Casino Park, the Zinn Travesty company continues to pursue the tenor of its tropical ways, the "Upside Down Dance" and other features, pleasing the patrons who attend.

AT THE RESORTS.

Women of Woodcraft.—The local organization of Women of Woodcraft are holding a meeting today at Lagoon. The principal speaker of the occasion is Mrs. J. S. Bryan, of Oakland, who is a special organizer. The lady is here in the interest of the work of the order and will visit the various societies in the state in a campaign for increase of membership. She is a representative of Grand Guardian Mrs. C. C. Van Orsdell, who is attending a meeting of the National Fraternal congress at Montreal, Canada.

Davis County At Lagoon.—The Davis County Sunday schools gave their annual outing at Lagoon yesterday and turned out 2,000 strong to celebrate the day. The youngsters did not come alone but brought their bigger sisters and their cousins and their aunts and enjoyed a holiday of sports and amusements until the last trains brought the crowd homeward at 10:30 o'clock.

The principal event of the program was a ball game between the Junior baseball teams from Layton and from Bountiful, and it packed the bleachers. Both teams were well supported in the stand, but Bountiful had a hard time producing the goods on the field. After nine innings the score stood 16 to 15 in favor of Layton, whose team clearly showed the effect of longer practise. Following a luncheon eaten under the pavilion which was packed with picnickers, the young folks congregated on the dancing floor and in the roller skating rink for the evening. The Layton baseball team and 300 rooters came down from Layton for the game on the first train to be run from that town over the Bamberger road, the Ogden extension to that point having just been opened.

UTAH MISSION OF METHODISTS.

The Book Concern and the Great Fund it Holds in Trust for Church Work.

A TRIBUTE TO THE MORMONS.

"No Matter What We Think," Said Dr. Spencer, "They Have Done Much That is Magnificent."

This morning's session of the Utah mission of the Methodist Episcopal church was presided over by Bishop Moore, the greater part of the time being taken up by addresses by Dr. Spencer of Kansas City, editor of the Central Christian Advocate of San Francisco.

Dr. Spencer spoke largely on the subject of the Methodist Book Concern, outlining its plans and methods of work and the great good to the cause of the church resulting from its efforts. Something like $3,500,000 in property is held in trust by this concern, the income of which is devoted to taking care of superanuated ministers. The concern is in excellent financial condition, and the prospects for a long continuation of the work are favorable in every way.

Referring to the Central Christian Advocate, Dr. Spencer said that the experiment of producing the paper at a cost of $1 per year had been tried, but had been given up as impracticable owing to the great cost of getting out the paper. Prices of labor and material were both increasing steadily, and the margin of profit even at the present subscription rates was very small.

AS TO THE MORMONS.

Dr. Spencer then referred to a conversation which he had recently with an elder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in which he obtained considerable insight into the wrok being done by the latter body. "No matter what we may think of their belief," said the doctor, "the fact remains that we must all pause to admire the magnificent results which have attended their efforts—results all the more remarkable when we come to consider the circumstances under which much of their labors were performed. The grit and tenacity of purpose of the men who in the early days turned the desert of Utah into a garden spot of the west furnish an example to the world, which the world cannot disregard.

The early settlers who founded this country, and later the indomitable pioneers who later laid the cornerstone of the civilization of the west are largely the descendants of the best blood of Great Britain, and at this day we are safe in saying that the best blood of the world at large is represented in the great west."

Bishop Moore then took the stand and spoke briefly on the importance of the part played in the work by church papers, and urged all his hearers who were not already subscribers, to become such without delay.

THE SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER.

Dr. Bovard opened his remarks with a reference to the recent San Francisco disaster. "On the morning of the fire," said the doctor, "the entire issue of the California Christian Advocate, lay on the table ready for distribution. A few hours later, not even the building remained to mark the spot where the work of once printing it had been carried on. My chief regret in the matter lay I think in the fact that out of the entire issue, not even one copy remained as a sample. Some days later my assistant come into my temporary quarters and tendered for my inspection a perfect copy of the lost edition, and the sense of personal satisfaction which I experienced upon getting my hands on that copy was almost enough to repay me for all the worry I had gone through. Next week the paper came out as usual, although the shifts we had to resort to to accomplish this would in themselves take hours to recount. I still have the one remaining copy of the "earthquake edition" and later intend to have it reprinted and distributed as a souvenir of the occasion.

"The Methodist Book concern lost heavily in the fire, but [illegible] a complete new stock was on hand, new quarters had been secured, and incredible as it may seem, the amount of business which they have since done has been almost as large week by week as before the catastrophe occurred."

CITY WILL RECOVER.

Continuing, Dr. Bovard said that San Francisco would not succumb to the disaster which had overtaken her, great and far reaching as its effects had been. San Francisco's harbar alone was sufficient to ensure this fact, and if anything further were needed the spirit of the people as evidenced by the way they are taking hold of the work of rebuilding their city, was sufficient to guarantee such a result.

HURT CHURCH WORK.

The effects on church work, however, were most appalling. Men who for years had been friends and backers of the churches, found themselves bankrupt on a day's notice, and money for the necessary repairs, etc., was only obtained with the greatest difficulty. The worst of this was now over, however, and hereafter a steady trend in the right direction may be confidently looked for.

The minutes of yesterday's meeting were read, and the number of minor reports from the Salt Lake district submitted. The Woman's Home Missionary society met at 2:30 o'clock, and a well attended service was held.

The feature of this evening's service will be the address of Bishop Moore on the subject of China.

STATE RESTS IN DR. STEWART CASE

Motion By Defense for Non-Suit Taken Under Advisement.

ARGUMENTS OF ATTORNEYS.

Occupied Nearly All of the Morning in Judge Dana T. Smith's Court—Dinniny Was Called Down.

The state did not introduce any further evidence this morning in the case against Health Commissioner M. R. Stewart, charged with creating a nuisance by maintaining a city dumping ground in the neighborhood of Third South and Eleventh West streets, so the entire morning session in Justice Smith's court this morning was devoted to the arguments of attorneys on the motion for non-suit and the discharge of the defendant. The motion was made and argued by Asst. City Attys. Dininny and Daly, who are defending the health commissioner, and at the conclusion of the arguments it was taken under advisement by Justice Smith.

It was contended by the attorneys for the defense that a criminal action such as this would not hold good against the health commissioner as he is only a part of the board of health, which is responsible for the creation of the nuisance if any exists. It was also contended that the action could not be brought in this manner, but that charges should have been preferred against the officer before the appointing power and a hearing had, and if the officer was found guilty he should have been removed from office.

Atty. Dininny attempted to argue that there was malice behind this prosecution, but Judge Smith stopped him and informed him that the evidence did not disclose any malice whatever and that his assertions along that line were unfounded. Asst. County Atty. Hanson made the argument in behalf of the state, after which the motion was taken under advisement.

During the afternoon session yesterday, Mrs. Isabella Ireland, Mrs. C. E. Worrell, Mrs. Charlotte Erickson and Mrs. Lizzie Anderson, all of whom reside near the garbage dump complained of, gave testimony showing that the odor from the dump was very offensive and was so bad at times that they were compelled to close all the doors and windows in their homes before they could go to sleep. They said that the lot had been used as a dumping ground by the city health department for five or six weeks and the stench was sickening to them.

Charles Rogers and Lincoln Jones, two garbage wagon drivers, testified that they dumped garbage on the lot under instructions from Health Commissioner Stewart. They stated that the garbage dumped by them consisted of ashes, rags, paper, potato peelings, melon rinds and decayed fruit. They were instructed to cover all the garbage over with ashes but they stated that other wagons dumped garbage there which was not covered up at all.

Sanitary Inspector W. G. Margetts testified that the lot had been used as a dumping ground by the department from July 15 to Aug. 8, and that the garbage men had been instructed to cover up their garbage with ashes. Drivers of wagons not employed by the city also dumped garbage there, he said and that was not covered up.

This afternoon Judge Dana T. Smith denied the motion for a non-suit, made by Dr. Stewart's counsel, and the defense is now introducing its evidence.

EXCURSIONS TO WYOMING

LATE LOCALS.

Bank Clearings—Today's local bank clearings amounted to $789,738.71 as against 731,231.84 for the same day last year.

Governor Invited—Gov. Cutler today received an invitation from the Woman's Republican club of Provo to attend an outing under the auspices of the club at the Provo lake resort on Aug. 23. He will probably accept the invitation.

No Meeting Held—There was no meeting of the committee of the whole of the city board of education this morning as intended for the reason that a quorum was not present, only three members appearing at the clerk's office at the appointed time. Nothing was done, therefore, in relation to considering bids for the construction of the three manual training buildings.

MOTHERS OF BOYS!

Here is an opportunity for you to save half or more than half of your money by anticipating the School Suit needs and buying now. This is the final effort to clean up summer stock in the Boys' Department, and we have gone beyond all bounds of conservativism to make a clean sweep, and the price will do it in a hurry. All the suits offered in this sale are of the sort most desirable for school wear, and it behooves you to be here tomorrow, if possible, to share the saving of this important offer.

BOYS' $3.00 to $7.00 SUITS $2.25
STARTING TOMORROW.

BOYS' $3.00 to $7.00 SUITS $2.25
STARTING TOMORROW.

Just think of it! Your choice of hundreds of this season's best suits, comprising our entire lines at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00, besides a grand collection of small lots and broken lines regularly priced $5.00, $5.50, $6.00 and $7.00, and the first values of the year, now subject to your choice at the insignificant price of Two Dollars and a Quarter. Tomorrow is the Day!

Will you be here tomorrow, or will you allow others to take yours?
