MIDDLE DISTRICT OF TENNESSEE—NO. 18.

AN Amended Information having been filed in the United States District Court for said district, by Horace H. Harrison, Esq., United States Attorney, for said district, on May 13, 1865 against all the estate and property, moneys, stocks and credits of W. S. Whiteman, late of said district, and particularly all his right and title to and interest in the property hereinafter described, for and during the period of his natural life, to-wit:

LOT No. 70, in plan of the city of Nashville, on east side Public Square, fronting — feet in said Square and running back — feet to the river, on which lot stands three houses, one numbered 64, now occupied by Wm. Blood & Co., one numbered 66 and one numbered 68, the last two now occupied by the United States Military authorities, as Commissary depots or stores.

LOT No. 84, in the plan of said city, on Line street with the two story brick dwelling thereon now occupied by Capt. Dan. Carey.

LOT No. 86, in plan of said city, on the South east corner of Cherry and Line streets, now occupied by Dr. Knaffle.

LOT No. 91, in the plan of said city, on the corner of High and Madison Streets, in West Nashville beyond Jefferson street, the only house thereon being now occupied by Geo. H. Chalfant.

LOT No. 135, in the plan of said city, and the building thereon being the same now occupied by Geo. W. Pennell.

One lot on the corner of Line and Bostick streets in Watkins' addition, with the improvements thereon, being the same now occupied by Mrs. M. A. Hunley.

25 feet Lot No. 8, in the plan of said city, fronting on Water or Front street, running back 70 feet, the small improvement thereon being occupied by Hardy Horn, a colored man.

42 feet of Lots No. 7 and 8, in the plan of said city, adjoining the last named lot, fronting said 42 feet on Water street and running back 70 feet, owned jointly by said Whiteman and one Micajah Willkinson.

LOT No. 142, in the plan of said city, on High street beyond the Cemetery.

40 feet of Lot No. 139, in the plan of said city, on Alley near the state Capitol.

—Acres, in Davidson county, about 8 miles from Nashville, on the Whites Creek pike, on which is situate the steam saw mill and house, adjoining, known as the "Whiteman Paper Mill," and all the machinery connected therewith.

—Acres and the Steam Saw Mill, and other improvements thereon, lying about 12 miles from Nashville, in Davidson county, on the top of what is known as "The Ridge."

—Acres lying in the county of Davidson, and State of Tennessee, about 14 miles from Nashville, on the Whites Creek pike, opposite the Race Track, with the improvements, formerly owned by Mrs. Page and known as the Page tract.

—Acres in Coffee county, in this district, about 6 miles west of Manchester, being a part of the tract known as the "Old Stone Fort Tract," and being conveyed to William Garrett to said Whiteman, and being the same tract on which said Whiteman, in 1861, erected his powder and paper mills.

ALSO, the interest held in the Commercial Insurance Company, a corporation chartered by the laws of the State of Connecticut, of which the principal office and place of business is at Nashville.

And against all persons hereby intervening for their interests therein, alleging that the right, title and interest of said Wm. S. Whiteman, for the natural life, of said Whiteman, to and in said real property as the said Alphabet of Commercial Insurance Stock, and the other personal property above mentioned had been seized in said district, on land, as forfeited to the United States, for causes mentioned in said Information, and praying that process issue to enforce the condemnation thereof. Now, therefore, notwithstanding the pendency of said Court, I hereby give public warning to all persons interested in any of said property to appear before said Court, on the 3d Monday in October next, at the Federal Court Room, in the Capitol at Nashville, at 10 o'clock a. m., then and there to propound their claims and make their allegations.

DR. VELLOC'S Pink Cerate

FOR THE EXTERMINATION OF Body Lice, Crab Lice, and other Vermin, and for Common Itch, Camp Itch, Barber's Itch, Psoriasis, Scald Head, Tetter, Dandruff in the Hair or Beard, AND ALL OTHER Diseases of the Skin.

PRICE, $1 PER BOX.

THIS CERATE HAS BEEN IN USE BY THE FRENCH ARMIES FOR THE PAST FIFTEEN years and there is no French soldier who does not know its value.

It was also used extensively by the allied armies in the Crimean war, and such were the benefits derived from its use that it has acquired a world-wide reputation, and no soldier who knows of its merits will be a single week without a box in his knapsack, as by the use of this Cerate he does not run a single risk of the various troubles to which a soldier is subject, as by using it on his clothing, he escapes entirely the annoyance of vermin, and the diseases of the skin enumerated above, and after they have made their appearance, it is but little trouble, with the aid of this Cerate, to rid himself of those disagreeable troubles.

The proprietors have gone to a great expense to procure the original recipe of Dr. Velloc, with the directions, and the apparatus for manufacturing the Cerate, as it has been made by the original inventor and have procured the Sole Agency of the United States,

And have selected a depot for the manufacture of the article in Nashville, so as to be

Near the Army of the Cumberland,

And also a depot in Washington for the accommodation of the Army of the Potomac,

So as to place the Cerate in reach of every soldier in the service of the United States.

As the article is decidedly

The Soldier's Friend,

We will endeavor to have it always in reach of every soldier.

The Pink Cerate is for sale by all Druggists and Sutlers in Army Goods in Nashville, and by the Proprietors.

Sent by mail, post-paid, to any address, on receipt of $1 25.

All orders by mail should be addressed to T. W. Farnsworth & Co., successors to C. L. Bartow & Co., Box 284, Nashville, Tenn.

Testimonial.

Having seen some of Dr. Aborn's Surgical performances, and his very extraordinary success in removing all chronic and other diseases after all other means had failed, it affords me great pleasure to bear testimony to what I have seen and know.

The Doctor has enjoyed very unusual facilities for acquiring a most thorough knowledge of the human system, both in this and other countries, and his special ability to detect the nature of the disease, as well as his sound judgment in applying the proper remedy, account for his unparalleled success.

To all persons laboring under diseases that may have been pronounced incurable, I would say, (as one who sympathizes with suffering humanity) lose no time in availing yourself of the means of cure at the Doctor's rooms.

SUNDAY, MAY 21, 1865.

To the Methodists of Tennessee.

On ce more, kind brethren, I assume the task of addressing you. Not that I regard my opinions of such paramount importance, or that their publicity would enhance, on that account, the value and preciousness of the truths and sentiments in behalf of which they are uttered. The principles and views to which I now wish to call your attention, have no need of "letters of commendation," to recommend them to your unbiassed judgment. They are such, we believe, as shall live, survive and flourish in perennial freshness when their opposites and centrairies shall, for ages, been buried beneath the restless and destroying hand of time. Like the dimly shining stars of morning, hid away behind the thin veil of a summer's cloud, but faintly seen, with their feeble light by the lonely watcher. So these views and sentiments concealed for the present, they may be, by the clouds of prejudice, will in days to come, come forth like those stars all radiant and bright, and as they higher and higher ascend toward the zenith grow brighter and brighter until our whole church shall rest under their benign and sweet influence. They derive their value and efficiency of themselves not of the hand that gives them expression and form.

Moreover I speak because it is an endeared prerogative of every member of our noble church to freely canvass and discuss those questions and policies which have for their aim and end the welfare and perpetuity of our organization. You will, therefore, regard whatever is entertained in this as well as that in the former epistle as proceeding from no factious spirit, but only from a disposition to contribute my small aid to forward the car of truth and the cause of our church. And while it is a right, a privilege, guaranteed to us, we should consider it a service of duty.

What more appropriate time could be selected than now to draw up the reins of our minds and bend the energies and powers of our understandings to those subjects that so immediately relate to our spiritual as well as temporal happiness. Now that the whole nation from shore to shore, from mountain top to the vale below is draped in the habiliments of mourning and robes of honorable respect. In these hours of sorrow which surely comes to every breast, whether in the city full or the country waste, in consequence of the irreparable loss which we have sustained, there will be moments of sober thought, and cool, impartial calculations. You cannot fail to allow your minds, at such a season of grief, to run back on the road of life over which we have just traveled and search out primarily the cause of so dreadful a calamity. Hostile division, hate and spleen, bearing their legitimate fruit as ever, has always been in every age, susceptible of producing evils of as marvelous and infamous nature. It ever bears a banner red with the blood of innocency and dark with a multitude of crimes. And while the heart mourns, while the shadow rests heavily upon our bosoms, let us learn how solemn, how fraught with suffering and mischief, how dark and repulsive is that spirit teaches us to hate our northern brethren, and ostracise ourselves from them, that seeks by insidious airs and the tongue of deception, to raise bitterness in our hearts towards them, to divide, to separate ourselves from and look upon them as unworthy of our trust and association. I appeal to you, aged and venerable men of God, who so soon must disappear from the scene of this earthly frame, whose locks are wet with the dews of many summers, whose voice now low and tremulous, and the fitful flame of whose life burns low to the socket, ready at the master's call to go out in death forever, did you not enjoy yourselves with those brethren before the spirit of division entered into your minds? and those of our younger brethren?

And ye, reverend ministers of Christ, whose burning eloquence glowed and warmed the vast multitude, that hung entranced upon your words, did you not enjoy yourselves, when in days of yore, you sat down by our brethren of the North in the Conference Hall, and retired together to the same chamber of consultation. Did you not find them as able, as efficient, as far-reaching, as generous, as broad in heart as yourselves? When they spoke, did not their words flash with as much fire of eloquence as your own? Were they not as ready in debate, as flowing in speech, as eminent in learning, as pure in character? Did not the multitudes bend over the altar, with equal interest, with the same breathless attention, while one of their number lifted himself up to some imperial thought, and argument vast? I have no doubt what your response will be. You can but answer yes. The history of our General Conferences, upon due examination, will be found to contain unbroken testimony to your answer. Look into their books of sermons and they will exhibit as much of those high qualities that constitute true greatness of mind and heart, as any ever published in our States South. And after all enquiry, there will still be left a minority who will persist in denying to them their just meed of praise. Yet the judgment of mankind, history, a record of just, clear and impartial decisions, drawn from what things are, rather than what they seem, will declare, in unmistakable terms, the equal capacity, learning, genius, eloquence, of our brethren North, with those of the South. It may appear pedrile to some that we should pause to consider the question, "whether the southern church has abler men than the northern" but knowning as I do how wide spread such a doctrine is—and the habit such a view has had upon our people South, "to cause them to think more highly of themselves than they ought to think, to be puffed up above measure," it becomes necessary for us to look at it in the testimony which our own church history offers. It may tend likewise to lower our pride and make us feel that this whole people are one—one in energy, one in capacity, and equal to each other in all those elements that make a nation great and happy, and men able and renowned.

Do you not, leaders of our church, when you let your minds revist the scenes of other days, where, after four years of arduous and severe trial in the vineyard of God, you meet those veterans of the cross, witnessing the happy faces and cheerful countenances, feeling the warm grasp of friendship, and hearing the welcome, "God bless you," when you go over these hours, remaining only in memory's waste, do you not regret they never return, and can you not express yourself in the familiar couplet,

"What peaceful hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still;
But they have left an aching void,
The world can never fill."

Divided, severed as we are, we are deprived of their friendly aid and wise counsels. Who can say we can do without them? Do we not need their prayers? Do we not want their sympathy, their advice, their knowledge, to help us. If we could have done without them in the past, we cannot afford to do without them now. Our church edifices are despoiled, our means to erect new ones limited, in some districts none at all, our publishing interests and periodicals disarranged, in truth, the entire paraphernalia of a complete and successful organization broken up, and left to ourselves, it will require many years before we shall be capable of carrying forward to any great degree the cause of God, and thereby the restoration of civil rule. These difficulties, with others which may suggest themselves, will create an adverse tide against us, and it will demand the loftiest genius combined with all the individual resources of our church, to stem the torrent and outride the storm. I am not prepared to say such an effort would be fruitless, but what could learning, genius if you please, and individual sacrifice, however cheerfully given, do against "resources and numbers." Other contestants, entering the field unencumbered with equal embarrassments would be capable of out doing us and leaving us far in the rear, to drag along with feeble churches and weak memberships, until perhaps they would sicken and die, and the organization, like some once towering and magnificent building, crumble into dust by its own weakness.

I do not behold any difficulty in the way of our church restoration. We shall go back to that church in which our fathers and now sainted mothers lived and rejoiced in their day. The church of Asbury and Wesley, of Jesse Lee, Hope Hull, Cosden, Taylor, of Phillip, Wager and Coleman, and a host of others too numerous now to speak of, whose illustrious services will be remembered to the last period of recorded time. Their spirits, bending from their celestial habitation, implore us to return to that church which God did so abundantly bless in their time. Yes, there is a something about it that draws our hearts to it. We shall carry the same discipline, the same organization with us, deprived only of the element of our discord, and the source of our national woes. We will be happy in it. There they stand ready to receive us. They will reciprocate our feelings and actions, and there will be re-enacted those heaven-born scenes recorded by the Evangelist Luke. "And he arose and came to his father. But when he was a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion on him, and ran and fell on his neck and kissed him. And the son said, Father I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son." But how affectionately, and with what feeling the father responded. "But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet, and bring hither the fatted calf and kill it, and let us eat and be merry."

"Buried be all that has been done,
Or say that naught is done amiss;
For who the dangerous path can shun
In such bewildering world as this?
But love can every fault forgive,
Or with a tender look reprove,
And now let naught in memory live
But that we met and that we love."

As ever, your brother,

W. R. CHICHOW.

MORTON, CRAIG & CO., Commission, Receiving, & Forwarding MERCHANTS,

No. 21 West Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

WE have formed a partnership under the above name and style, for the purpose of doing a General Commission, Receiving, and Forwarding Business, and beg leave to submit to our friends and the trade generally, as much business as prudence, that we are prepared to receive, and give our prompt attention to consignments, and to the interests of those who may favor us with their business.

We also propose—and have arrangements to make it a special and permanent feature of our business—to purchase goods on orders for merchants and others doing business in the South and West, on the Eastern and Northern cities, which we offer as a source of convenience and profit to those availing themselves of our services. We therefore solicit orders with entire confidence that satisfaction will be given.

Prompt attention give also to receiving and forwarding goods.

Deeming it unnecessary to use the names of prominent friends in almost every city of the Union, we refer with pride and confidence to our late official positions, and to those who have known us longer and best, in our native section, for the promptness and fidelity with which we may be expected to discharge our duty to all who may intrust their business and interests in our care.

We respectfully invite all businessmen, and friends from other sections of the country visiting this city, for their convenience, to have their letters addressed to our care, and to make our office their headquarters during their stay in the city.

Officers and soldiers having Trade Permits for Tennessee, can be facilitated in their business arrangements by calling at our office.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Herald's Washington dispatch says the report of Gen. Wm. F. Smith, and Jas. Brady of this city, commissioners appointed to investigate the civil and military administration of affairs at New Orleans, was made to the President and Cabinet on Wednesday of this week, and it is understood that one of the results of their statement is the removal of Gen. Banks from command in the city, which is said to have been ordered yesterday, and his supercedure by Gen. Canby, who is to be restricted to purely military matters, leaving civil affairs to the control of Gov. Wells.

The Times' special says all reports of the removal of Gen. Banks are unfounded.

NEW YORK, May 20.—One of the Herald's correspondents with Gen. Wilson's cavalry column, writing from Macon, gives very interesting sketches of the present condition of affairs in Georgia, civil, military, social, and personal; all the people nearly, where the national troops are stationed, profess to be good Unionists. They admit that they have been conquered, and have no desire for a continuance of the war. So great is the security and good order instituted in all places occupied by Gen. Wilson's forces, that the citizens are loud in praise of the favorable change from rebel rule. There is a great scarcity of food throughout the State. Starvation is imminent, not only to the poor but to many of the rich; and some bread riots have occurred. General Wilson has commenced issuing rations to the needy in various parts of the country.

Several conferences regarding public matters took place at Macon between Gen. Wilson and Gov. Brown, and the latter, as our readers have already been informed, issued his proclamation calling an extra session of the Legislature, but the General informed him that it could not meet without special permission was granted from Washington.

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—The steamer McCombs with a regiment of cavalry for Kansas City, and heavily laden with Government freight, sunk in the Missouri river yesterday. No lives lost. The boat and cargo are a total loss. Value not ascertained.

CAIRO, May 19.—Gen. Forrest issued an address to his troops on the 9th, announcing the surrender of Dick Taylor, and earnestly advising them to lay aside all feeling of animosity and revenge, and cheerfully submit to the powers that be and go home and be good citizens, and use their best endeavors to restore peace and order.

The Memphis Bulletin denies the story of Forrest's death.

FORTRESS MONROE, May 19.—Jeff. Davis with his family and staff officers, etc., captured in Georgia, arrived here to-day at 12 o'clock from Hilton Head, in the steamer Wm. H. Clyde, convoyed by the U. S. gun boat Tuscarora, Commandant Pranley. Col. Pritchard, of the Michigan cavalry, with a strong guard of his men, accompanied the rebel party on the steamer Clyde Northward to this place, and on arriving here immediately telegraphed to Washington for instructions regarding the disposal of his charge. Rumors have been flying about this afternoon to the effect that the steamer Clyde ran in slong close to the beach about four o'clock this evening and landed Davis and his party on the beach, and from there were marched in the salty port of the water battery in order to escape the gaze of the curious.

The steamer Clyde has just dropped her anchor in the Roads, and there now seems no doubt that Jeff. Davis must have been landed somewhere along the beach. No communication whatever is allowed with the steamer, and it is more than probable that the greater portion of the parties still remain on board. The officer in charge awaits instructions from Washington.

About a week since Colonel Bremetor, of the engineer corps, received orders by telegraph from Major General Barnard to immediately have vacated a room of the casement inside the port for the accommodation of prisoners of State. The work on the casements of transferring them into cells, for which they are admirably adapted, was at once commenced. The work has progressed very fast. The casements, which once communicated one to another, are now hermetically sealed by dry walls of brick. Strong iron bars, and other substantial arrangements of a similar material enclose the windows and doors complete, rendering futile any attempts at rescue. A wide moat encircles the fort, and strong guards of sentinels will be posted in the immediate vicinity of the casements.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The steamer Mississippi, New Orleans 12th, Key West 15th has arrived. The Sand Key and Key West lights were not lighted in consequence of the ram Stonewall being at Havana taking in ammunition, and bring expected to come in to Key West. The Powhatan was sent over to Havana, also the Aries and Dale, to keep the Stonewall from coming out. Great excitement prevailed at Key West in regard to the matter. Steamer Gov. Cromwall from New Orleans on the 11th has arrived.

The Tribune's Washington special says the Rev. Dr. Ryer has obtained the lock of Libby prison for the use of the North Western Sanitary and Soldier's Home Fair. A complete assortment of the arms used in the service, with many captured guns, will also be made up for the Fair; and Secretary Stanton has promised the loan of Jeff. Davis's crinoline.

The Times' special has the following: John C. Breckinridge, Benjamin, and Extra Billy Smith are said to be skulking in the vicinity of Fernandina, Florida.

Sheridan has been sent in the direction of Texas. Kirby Smith, Magruder & Co., will probably soon make his acquaintance.

Gen. Sherman has sent his report to Gen. Grant. He goes very fully into his previous arrangement with Johnston, arguing his own case in his usual vigorous style.

Wm. Orton, collector of the 6th district of New York, has been appointed commissioner of Internal Revenue, Vice J. J. Lewis resigned.

Although Secretary Seward spent an hour in his office to-day he is altogether too feeble to resume his duties.

PETERSBURG, May 20.—The river has commenced rising, the stage of water will be sent this evening.

The pier marks are blocked up by boats and boats.
