WAYFARING LADS WANT TO GO HOME

Two Wanderers from California Seek Aid of Chief Barlow.

THEY TIRE OF WIDE TRAVEL.

Desiring to See the World, They Left Their Mothers and Now Want to Return.

"Chief, we want to go home to our mothers."

It was without whine or whimper, but with a depth of feeling that carried earnestness that two tired, weary and hungrey-looking youngsters walked into Chief of Police Barlow's office this morning with the above declaration, and sought his help.

The boys are Christ Whitthorne, aged 16 years, and Harry Bade, aged 17, of Vallejo, Cal.

Fidgeting and discontented under what seemed to them the humdrum of the life in their quiet, little home in California, and fired with a youthful ambition to see the world, they started off bravely enough—and got as far as Salt Lake before their waning courage gave out entirely, and they were ready to admit that they had had a surfeit of adventure.

After they told the story of their travel from California, of how they had tramped, stolen rides, slept as they had a chance and gone hungry several times, and expressed their anxiety to return home, Chief of Police Barlow sent them to the boys' ward, where Matron Gifford and Jailer Wilkinson saw that they had their first good meal since they left the home tables. While the lads were literally gorging themselves, Chief Barlow telegraphed the parents in Vallejo that the boys were stranded, and asking that transportation be sent so that they could return home. They will be cared for by the police until some word is received from the parents.

HOME ON A MONTH'S LEAVE.

Lieut-Commander H. A. Pearson Back From Trip Round the World.

Lieutenant Comamnder H. A. Pearson, of the battlship Illinois, is in Salt Lake for a month's vacation. Commander Pearson arrived Saturday and has gone to Draper where his father lives, to spend some time with the family. Commander Pearson was with the Atlantic fleet in its trip around the world, and had the distinction of being detailed with a squad from the battleship Illinois to go to Messina, Italy, to get the body of the American consul, who had perished in the earthquake. The men from the Illinois landed at Messina at 9 o'clock in the morning, found the body of the consul by 3:30 p. m. and had prepared the corpse and placed it on board a vessel for shipment to America the same night.

The men detailed to find the body were exceptionally fortunate in their search, as the amount of debris and wreckage of buildings piled in the streets was something awful to contemplate. Commander Pearson and his associates were directed to the hotel where the American consul slept the night of the quake by the vice consul, who had spent the night in another part of town in a hotel which was fortunately not destroyed. He guided the searching party to the wreck of the hotel and by following the general direction of the force of the quake, the party was able to locate the body of the consul in a few hours. The structure where the consul slept was five stories high, and his bedroom was on the second story. His body was found 60 feet away from the building, thrown out in the general direction followed by the quake. Of this incident the commander relates, the work of search was first begun by the men of a light gunboat, and it was a difficult proposition for the few men on board to work against the mass before them, so it was with cheers that they hailed the approach of the big battleship Illinois, with her 800 men, all of whom necessary were detailed to help clear away the wreckage in the search for the body.

Commander Pearson after resting for some weeks, will resume duty on detail at the construction department of the navy at Philadelphia.

SADIE CLARK OUT ON BAIL.

Woman Accused of Securing Girls for The Stockade Obtains Bonds.

Sadie Clark, whose arrest with that of her mother and two young girls in the stockade early Saturday morning, brought to light a revolting case of social depravity, was arraigned before Judge J. M. Bowman this morning on a charge of abduction and procuring a minor girl for immoral purposes, the girl mentioned in the complaint being Amanda Price, aged 17. After a waiver of the reading of the complaint the time for pleading was set for Wednesday morning, and the woman released under $500 bonds.

POLICE SURROUND HOUSE.

Precautions Effectually Taken to Prevent Another Escape of Lamaine.

John Lamaine, who gives his age as 27 years but of more youthful appearance, was arrested this morning by Sergt. Beckstead and Patrolmen Curran. Betts and H. D. Lyon, and is held under suspicion of having been implicated in the theft of a large quantity of tools from John Koempfer at 63 south Seventh West street, April 9.

Lamaine was arrested at his home, No. 136 north Eighth West street following several attempts to secure him. On the former occasions the young man had always been able to elude the officers, but this morning, the squad of patrolmen, under the direction of Sergt. Beckstead, worked quickly in surrounding the house, and Lamaine was caught just as he was making his escape through the rear door.

The tools stolen included five saws, six chisels, five planes, a spirit level, hammers, files and a number of other carpenter's tools.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED.

The domestic relations of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aline, who maintain a rooming house at 55 east Second South street, reached the breaking point this morning, when the wife, Zoe Aline, had her husband arrested on a charge of battery. Mrs. Aline alleges that her husband has repeatedly abused and mistreated her, and that after threats made she is now in such fear of her life that she is afraid to have her husband released upon bonds, and asked the police that he be held in custody.

BIKE RIDERS HAULED IN.

Five Luckless Pedal Pushers Caught Riding on the Sidewalks.

The cyclist is now in the same class with the fast driver and violator of the street ordinances, and five luckless ones found themselves facing the desk sergeant this morning because they had failed to heed the bicycle ordinance which prohibits riding on the sidewalks during the period beginning May 1 and ending October 1. The ordinance in its restriction prohibits bicycle riding on any sidewalk within the city limits during the period mentioned, and Bicycle Policeman Dan Grundvig, on his new motor cycle, is out to see that the ordinance is enforced.

DEATHS OUTNUMBER BIRTHS.

Unusual Showing in Weekly Report Of Health Board.

As the result of the marked increase of contagious and infectious diseases, the death rate in Salt Lake is growing rapidly. For the week ending Friday, the deaths outnumbered the births according to the report of the city board of health. There were 37 deaths and 36 births. Of the number of deaths, 29 were males and eight females. The births show that there were nine males and 17 females. Nine bodies were shipped here for burial.

During the week 56 contagious diseases were reported, as against 37 for the previous week. The cases were distributed as follows: Thirteen cases of smallpox, eight cases of diphtheria, one case of typhoid fever, 20 cases of scarlet fever, four cases of measles, eight cases of whooping cough, and two cases of chickenpox.

There are now 37 houses under quarantine on account of scarlet fever, 14 on account of diphtheria, and 20 on account of smallpox. Nine smallpox patients are still confined in the isolation hospital.

SORENSON FILES REPORT.

County Horticultural Inspector Takes Up Enforcement of New Law.

John P. Sorenson, county horticultural inspector, submitted his monthly report Saturday to the county commissioners. Before enforcing the new law condemning and destroying diseased fruit, deputies were sent out to instruct the fruit growers in regard to spraying trees and attending to the fruit. His report is as follows:

"In the month of April the deputies worked a total of eight days, as follows: One, fourteen days; one eight; one five; and one twenty-six days. Three of the deputies were largely engaged helping me to inspect and fumigate nursery stock that was dug up and shipped from the nurseries; also in inspecting and fumigating about sixty shipments containing 58,000 trees coming from outside the state.

"These imported trees came from nearly every state in the union, and came in all kinds of conditions, from good to very bad. The trees from the west, Oregon, Washington and California, averaged good. The trees from Alabama, Ohio and Nebraska were very fair; from the other states, very poor; and from Kansas, Oklahoma and New York, very bad.

"There were also received this spring about half million seedlings to be planted to make trees of in the future. There were delivered about four hundred and fifty thousand trees from our county nurseries this month, the most of which were sent out of the county and a large number out of the state.

"The deputies not engaged in inspecting nursery stock were looking after the pear blight, and informing apple raisers about the necessity of spraying as soon as the blossom falls, as all the wormy or diseased fruit found on the market hereafter will be condemned and destroyed according to the requirements of the new horticultural law."

QUARANTINED IN SLEEPER.

Passengers Fumigated but Patients Remain in Hospital on Wheels.

After fumigation the 26 passengers on the tourist sleeper at the Denver & Rio Grande depot this morning, Dr. Samuel G. Paul, assistant health commissioner, allowed them to go on to the coast. The sleeper is being held as a temporary hospital, however, for Mrs. Maude Tomlinson and her five children, one of whom has scarlet fever. So far the health department has been unable to find a place to which the sick child can be removed.

Mrs. Tomlinson and her children were on their way to Los Angeles from Sheridan, Wyo., when the child became sick. A physician was on the train who was called to examine the child and diagnosed the case as scarlet fever. When the train was at Green River, the operator telephoned to Salt Lake in regard to the case and asked the health officers to see about it. Until a place can be found Mrs. Tomlinson and her children will be allowed to occupy the sleeping car.

ELEGANT FURNISHINGS ORDERED.

For the New Ship Cafe at Saltair.

Since the announcement was made by the Saltair management that the floating cafe would be installed this summer at this favorite resort, no efforts have been spared to get the best equipment possible for this big attraction. A matter of providing the throngs with cozy, comfortable chairs and substantial tables received their special attention. After much looking around the order was finally given to the Dinwoodey Furniture Co. The order for chairs is said to be the largest ever given to any local furniture house. The special quality demanded made it necessary for the Dinwoodey Furniture Co. to place their order with a big chair factory in Vienna. The tables will be in keeping with the scheme of the entire Cafe, and by the opening day, May 29, everything will, in all probability, be in readiness to receive the guests at the Ship Cafe.

YOUNG BRIDE DIES ON HER HONEYMOON

Sarah Stewart Bettilyon Succumbs to Asthmatic Attack in Seattle.

BODY ARRIVES TOMORROW

Aged Husband, Who is Totally Deaf, Accompanies it on Train Due Tuesday.

Just one week to the day after leaving this state a bride, Mrs. Sarah Vie Stewart Bettilyon's body will arrive from Seattle for burial in her last mortal resting place.

On Tuesday, April 27, a couple applied to the county clerk of Weber county at Ogden, for a marriage license. They were Cary Bettilyon, of Salt Lake, aged 61, and Sarah Vie Stewart, aged 29. The marriage was performed by an attache of the clerk's office and was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Ross C. Davis, also of Salt Lake. The same evening the bridal couple left on a trip to the northwest.

On Saturday following, Mrs. J. S. Houtz, a sister of Mrs. Bettilyon, residing at 451 south Third East street, received a message from Seattle stating that her sister was dead, and that her body would arrive in Salt Lake Tuesday, on Oregon Short Line train No. 10.

Mrs. Bettilyon's death was caused directly by an acute attack of asthma. She had suffered with chronic asthma for years. Last October she was stricken with appendicitis, undergoing an operation at Groves Latter-day Saints hospital. The operation was performed by Dr. George W. Middleton, assisted by Dr. Samuel H. Allen. She survived the operation, but the singular fact was discovered by the surgeons that her heart was situated on the right side, but this fact was not made known to her relatives nor herself. Several weeks ago she suffered another attack of asthma, again going to the Groves Latter-day Saints hospital. She recovered two weeks ago from her last attack, and was married to Mr. Bettilyon last Tuesday.

SEIZURE WAS SUDDEN.

The last attack af asthma occurred during the trip from Pocatello to Seattle. A stop was made at Portland, but her suffering continued unabated. At Seattle medical aid was again called, and Mr. Bettilyon was assured that while the attack was severe, his wife was in no danger. However, Mrs. Bettilyon soon lapsed into unconsciousness, and it was realized that her condition was serious. She passed away on Saturday, and the body was sent from Seattle to Salt Lake yesterday, being accompanied by Mr. Bettilyon, and Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Mr. Bettilyon came to Utah from Pennsylvaina about three years ago. He is a pearl diver, and on one of his trips to the fresh water pearl fisheries of the Mississippi, it is said, he brought back about $3,000 worth of pearls. He is totally deaf, and understands lip movement, but most conversation is carried on by writing. He is said to be worth about $60,000, and according to a disptach from the northwest, he is said to have announced that he married suddenly because there "had been trouble in the family."

Mr. Bettilyon has a son in Salt Lake, who is connected with the Halloran-Judge real estate department.

The dead woman, Sarah Vie Stewart Bettilyon, was known to a wide circle of friends in Salt Lake and in Panguitch and Tropic, in Garfield county, her former home. For a number of years she had made her home with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Houtz, and besides the latter she leaves three sisters and a brother at Tropic, Mrs. Louisa Bybee, Mrs. Jane Ahlstrom, Mrs Dee Cope an Joseph Levi Stewart.

COMMITTEE NAMED.

Governor William Spry appointed Fred J. Kiesel of Ogden, John Henry Smith of Salt Lake, T. C. Callister of Milford, Caleb Tanner, state engineer, and J. W. Houston of Salt Lake as a committee to meet with the officers of the National Irrigation congress. It is the purpose of this committee to arrange measures to be presented at the convention that will bring the most benefit to Utah. The congress will be held in Spokane, Aug. 9 to 14.

WOOL STORAGE PLANS.

President Cosgriff Leaves for Chicago In Interest of Movement.

President J. T. Cosgriff of the Commercial National bank, and president of the National Wool storage company will leave later in the week for Chicago, where he will remain for the next six weeks in the interest of the storage company, whose great warehouse is now completed. Mr. Cosgriff is very much gratified at the outlook on the woolstorage proposition, as the far western interests are lining up solidly in favor of it, and Boston and Philadelphia are being forgotten. There are even some growers who are refusing 19 cents for their clips, preferring to ship to the Chicago storehouse instead, and run chances of not making a higher figure.

INTRUDERS SCARED AWAY.

A broken window in the rear of the Sparks Candy company, 223 South West Temple street, together with several small boxes of labels found disturbed on shelves near the window, gave evidence this morning of an attempt to rob the wareroom or store. It is thought the burglars, presumed to have been boys, were frightened away as investigation proved that nothing of any value had been taken.

QUARTET OF INEBRIATES.

Demonstration of Multiplication Table: 4x1 Equals 4.

Four unfortunates, stricken with the glare of the sunshine after the storm—and maybe the languorous heat of "bottled goods——" fell victims to the alluring shade of Plum alley yesterday afternoon, and then to the police. It must have been a peculiar atmosphere that hung in Plum alley yesterday, since the four were found where only one was looked for.

A telephone call to the police that a drunk man was lying in Plum alley took Sgt. Roberts and Patrol Driver Moore to that little byway. They had just picked up the man pointed out to them, when another was noticed lying near by. Then a Chinaman came to the front with another find of a drunk underneath a stairway, and he had hardly been bundled into the wagon when the fourth was brought to light.

The four of them will be given a chance to explain their predicament to Judge Bowman this afternoon.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

It has been decided, at the suggestion of the regents of the university, to submit the proposed incidental fee of $5 which every student will be expected to pay on entrance to the university, to a secret ballot of the students, the desire being to make no mistake about making the change. The fund raised in this way will go to foster and sustain student activities.

The department of education of the university has recently completed arrangements in the course of study, making it possible to grant special teachers' certificates to students wishing to teach special high school subjects. There has been a great demand throughout the state for high school teachers, that has been hard to fill with competent persons. The scholastic requirements for high school teachers' diplomas has kept many good special teachers out of the profession, and the department has seen fit to make it possible to provide the state with teachers most competent to teach special subjects.

Students preparing for the profession of high school teaching are required to take a great amount of educational work. This special course provides that the student shall make a major of the subject he wishes to teach and professional work consisting of psychology, science of education, secondary education, and secondary training. The required work in chemistry and physics in the engineering courses is sufficient and the work in the medical course is ample for teaching biology in high schools. Hence students in these schools who find it necessary to teach will only be required to take the prescribed work in education.

A secondary training school is to be opened next September for practise work in secondary training. The present preparatory school will be eliminated, and only students holding normal scholarships will be enrolled. The work of the secondary training school is to be more regularly organized than the preparatory school has been in the past, and the aim of the school will be to illustrate the special methods of teaching and to bring theory and practise directly under one supervision. The board of regents has appointed Prof. Milton Bennion director of the secondary training school.

The associated students of the university held a very spirited meeting last week, at which the officers for the coming school year were nominated, and the redrafting of the constitution was considered. The meeting was opened by singing of America by the choir and students and a reading by Prof. Babcock, after which the constitution was taken up. It was found that the student body has been doing unconstitutional business for the past two years. The constitution provides that the office of secretary and treasurer shall be filled by one person; this has been ignored for some time. The letters awarded the basketball and track men were found to be inconsistent and the wearing of the U by the senior normals is not provided for. It was decided that the entire constitution should be redrafted.

The following officers for the following year were nominated:

President—James Alley, Frank Johnson.

Vice President—A. A. Anderson, C. T. Woodbury.

Secretary—Misses Nora Schekel and Gene Williams.

Treasurer—Robert Goodwin, L. A. Whitmore.

Student Representative on Athletic Council—Harry Alley, V. L. Oleson, Dell Judd, Ed Horsefall and Arthur T. Crandall.

Debating Manager—L. T. Perry.

Editor of Chronicle—D. M. Draper and George Roberts.

Faculty Representative on Athletic Council—Dr. John Sundwall and Dr. A. L. Hartman.

BELIEVE HE WAS MURDERED.

A letter has been received by Chief of Police S. M. Barlow from Rev. D. W. Townsend of Brownsville, Wash., asking for information regarding a brother of Louis Von der Feahr, who is believed to have been murdered at Brownsville March 23. Louis Von der Feahr was an old inhabitant of Brownsville living a bachelor life. On the night of March 23 his house was burned down, and in the absence of any clue to his disappearance or the finding of his remains, it is believed that he was murdered for his savings, his house burned, and the dead body secreted by his assailants. It was understood that Von der Feahr had a brother living in Salt Lake, and information of the latter's whereabouts is sought by the people at Brownsville through the pastor of the Baptist church there.

WEATHER REPORT

Genuine spring weather is finally here. The only disturbance on the map this morning is a moderate low pressure over the upper lakes, which has caused cloudy weather and light precipitation over the lake region, Ohio valley and north Atlantic states. Over the western half of the country fair weather, moderate temperatures and normal air pressure are general. Owing to an even barometric pressure over the Pacific slope, fair weather with an even temperature is predicted for tomorrow.

PLAN TO EXPLOIT RIVERS IN UTAH

Government Agents Investigating Proposition of Navigation on Green and Grand Streams.

STARTED ON TRIP TUESDAY.

Floating Down Stream in a Skiff—Outlook for Commerce on Waterway is Encouraging.

Government agents having in hand the question of the possibility of navigating the Grand and the Green rivers, in Utah, are now in the field and investigations are being made to determine whether these streams could be profitably used for the transportation of commerce up and down their lengths in Utah and Colorado.

L. C. Easton, chief clerk of the Los Angeles department of the geological survey at Los Angeles, and Lieut. Charles T. Leeds, of the government engineering corps, are in Grand county looking into the project. These officials were accompanied by Ross Wheeler, the veteran pilot of the Grand river, and on Tuesday they left in a skiff for the junction of the Green and the Grand.

The investigation to be undertaken by these government officers will extend to the statistics of the production of the country drained by these streams, and whether or not sufficient tonnage could be guaranteed to make the navigation of the rivers profitable. At present there is no commerce on these streams, but the fact that the government has sent out men to look into the feasibility of the project shows that there is reason to believe that river commerce could be profitably carried on between points on the waterways. Statistics recently compiled show that each year 1,000 tons of coal and 1,150 tons of merchandise are shipped into the one town of Moab, and that more than 600 tons of fruit are annually shipped from that point. Under improved conditions the traffic could be largely increased all along the line, and with the consequent reductions in freight rates which would follow water navigation, the people of the southeastern part of the state are enthusiastic that the benefits to accrue would justify the outlay necessary by the government. Capt. Amos A. Frie, corps of engineers, U. S. A., 732 Central building, Los Angeles, has the matter of gathering the data in charge, and he will be pleased to receive any information in regard to the subject.

Some time since a man named Summerill put a boat on the river with the idea of hauling freight up and down the Grand. He started the boat and made several trips, but his boat was wrecked on a sand bar above Moab and he gave up the project.
