MOTTO in crossing a bridge—"Be sure you're right then go ahead."

"ANOTHER six days work is done." That's from a hymn. Give a hymn its due.

THE norther yesterday was as shy as a young lady after the first kiss from her lover.

THE culvert on Lamar street, north of the Pacific railroad, is partially washed away.

THE weather yesterday was adorable. That's exactly what a young fellow up Pacific Avenue, the other night, said his girl was.

THE tin guttering fell from the eaves of a roof yesterday, up town, during the rain, and the inmates thought the house was struck by lightning.

WE observed a young lady washing dishes at the door, opening on a front street, yesterday. There was a wager in the premises. Her lover bet her she would'nt do it.

THE attaches of this office tender their kindest acknowledgment to Geo. Hawkins, the champion runner of Texas, for some excellent ice cream and cake. Hawkins you're a whale, yes, you're a—a—a mountain, Hawkins, that's what you are!

MORRIS WILSON, at the Market Exchange, has an advertisement in our paper to which we invite the attention of our readers. Morris knows how to do it as well as anybody in his business, is enterprising and deserving of success. We commend him to those who wish anything in his line.

THE block west of the street upon which Mr. Sanger's residence is, is in a loathsome, disease-producing condition. Piles of filth and decaying vegetation and slops are emptied regularly in the block every morning from two or three negro cabins. We ask the health officer in behalf of those living in that neighborhood to see that the nuisance is at once removed.

A BAD practice is that of boys damming up water in culverts and gutters. From this cause a body of water has been obstructed in its passage in one of the conduits on a cross street, in the north part of the city, and the noxious odors rising therefrom have produced in one family two or three cases of serious illness. Mr. Health Officer, your attention again, if you please!

Dallas High School.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Professor Aldehoff, in another column. Forty years as an educator of youth ought to be a sufficient warranty of the ability of the Professor, and sufficient grounds for his claims. Our citizens should see that a proper encouragement is given the gentleman.

A DALLAS young lady, lately graduated, who upon being told that the railroad cards posted up about town belonged to a certain railroad agent, she suggested to her "ma" that night that she should get a larger card basket, as Mr. So and So might call and she, by chance being away, he would leave his card, and it would be a real shame not to have any place to put it. The old lady, being of the practical turn, at once proposed a wash tub.

A DALLAS lawyer went out in the woods yesterday to practice that little argument he intends to make in a few days before his Honor. He had'nt thrown his arms in "the come to me darling" agony more than twice before he observed an old gentleman leave a farm house a short distance off, with a shot gun in his hand. The old gentleman desired to know of the Dallas lawyer if he was calling his wife or his daughter.

THERE is a building in the rear of the Campbellite church used for the most private offices of nature, which has become a source of flagrant offence to residents in its vicinity. It was built as an adjunct to the above church, when it was used for secular school purposes, and as its utility is now abused, it should be removed at once, as persons of both sexes residing in the neighborhood are compelled to pass by it daily.

WE announce with pleasure that the Dallas Board of the Texas Mutual Life Insurance Company has obtained the services of Mr. E. J. Brown as Secretary and General Agent for the Dallas District. Mr. B. comes highly recommended as a gentleman of experience in life insurance, and we doubt not will ably represent the only Texas company in this district.

Read This.

The heavy "ad" on our first page of Mr. C. H. Beauchamp's states clearly and fully the splendid variety and quality of the goods of his house. He occupies the commodious store room formerly used by Dr. Hayes, and is now engaged in disposing of the goods owned by the estate of the Dr.; upon the disposition of which, he promises to open one of the most extensive invoices ever introduced in the city.

Ward's Seminary for Young Ladies.

This institute, located at Nashville, Tennessee, will open its fall session on the first Thursday in September. In the eight years of its existence, it has enjoyed a reputation second to no educational institute in the country, and the attendance has averaged since it was founded, nearly three hundred pupils. It is located in one of the healthiest cities in the United States, and is easily accessible from all points. See advertisement.

THE notice in yesterday's HERALD, in regard to postoffice boxes, seems to be misunderstood. The law in the case, as we learn from Mr. Jones, is this: Letters for one firm or one family are permitted to be put in the boxes. This of course, includes all clerks regularly employed in stores, and such transient persons as may have their letters directed to the firms. None others are allowed in the boxes, it being the intention of the law that no two or more firms or families can have their letters put in one box. To be more explicit, we copy, below, a ruling of the Postoffice Department in the matter, as follows:

"Letters addressed to clerks to the care of the company or firm employing them, should be placed in the box of the firm or company employing them, if they do not object and the box is large enough to accommodate the mail of all of them; if not, the clerks' mail should be placed in the general delivery, unless they rent a box."

THE following is what the St. Louis Journal says of the Great Trans-Atlantic Exposition, which will exhibit on Thursday afternoon and night at Dallas. It is just about what every other paper says of this exhibition, wherever it has been. Remember the date, Thursday, July 24:

"There is now exhibiting on Clark avenue, opposite the Four Courts, one of the best circuses that has ever visited St. Louis, and it is receiving good patronage of the public. Last evening the mammoth pavilion was crowded with thousands of enthusiastic spectators, who repeatedly manifested their appreciation of the performance in loud cheers and applause. So extensive is the programme and so large the array of talent therein combined that it would be an almost endless task to endeavor to enumerate the special performances of each individual artist. All are artists, not a raw and unexperienced hand appearing, and it is just this excellent judgement and foresight in the selection of performers that has given the Trans-Atlantic Exposition the enviable reputation it enjoys."

DALLAS, July 19, 1873.

To the Editor of The Dallas Herald:

I take this occasion to say that I am no longer a candidate for the State Senate. Since the date of my announcement, I have become fully satisfied that my whole time and talent should be devoted to my professional engagements, and that to engage in a political canvass would not only greatly injure those who have employed me to represent them in the courts of the country, but also result in serious personal loss.

I hope some gentleman may be selected as a candidate from this District who will faithfully represent the true interest of the people, and triumphantly bear aloft to victory the standard of Democracy. Respectfully,
NAT. M. BURFORD.
