THE THREE HORSEMEN.

Three horsemen halted the inn before,
Three horsemen entered the oaken door,
And loudly called for the welcome cheer
That was wont to greet the traveler here.

"Good woman," they cried, as the hostess came,
A buxom, rosy, portly old dame,
"Good woman, bow's your wine and beer?
And how's your little daughter dear?"

"My house is ever supplied with cheer,
But my daughter lieth upon her bier!"

A shadow over the horsemen fell;
Each wrapped in thoughts he could never tell;
And silently one by one they crept,
To the darkened room where the maiden slept.

The golden hair was rippling low
Over a forehead pure as snow,
And the little hands so closely pressed
Clasping a cross to the pulseless breast.

"I loved thee ere the death-chill lay
On thee, sweet child," and one turned away;
"I would have loved thee," the second said,
"Hadst thou learned to love me, and lived to wed."

"I loved thee always, I love thee now,"
The third one cried as he kissed her brow;
"In the heavens to come our souls shall wed.
I have loved thee living, I love thee dead."

Then silently out from the oaken door,
Three horsemen went to return no more.

POINT CLEAR.

If any of the celebrated summer resorts of the North and East could boast the advantages possessed by Point Clear in Mobile Bay, what a continuous rush of pleasure seekers there would be from the South. How our migratory population would spend its money, and bear with stoic indifference the dangers and difficulties attendant upon a trip there. There is consolation in the thought that the Southern people are learning wisdom in this regard—are coming to appreciate the beauties of their own neighborhoods, the advantages of their own seaside watering-places. Nature has done much for Point Clear, and man recognizing the rare beauty of the location, and its peculiar advantages, has not been slow to place there every necessary adjunct to a delightful summer residence.

Upon its snowy, firm, sloping beach, the white-capped surf rolls in graceful curves, with ever a musical murmur, and the glorious breeze, fresh from the gulf, comes laden with the perfume of the sea and with life for the invalid. Not even Newport boasts finer surf bathing.

Within a hundred yards of the hotel are caught in abundance the most delicious varieties of fish that swim in the Gulf, and oysters, soft-shell crabs and shrimp are found in unlimited quantities. There are pleasant rides and drives in the adjacent woods, which are filled with game. Swift and swift sailboats are in attendance, and billiard tables and ten-pin alleys in convenient proximity.

Capt. H. C. Baldwin, the proprietor, is a whole-souled Southern man, and those who enjoyed his hospitality last season will bear willing testimony to his ability to keep a first class hotel in every respect. He deserves especial credit for the scrupulous cleanliness of his house, and for having the best cooking in the South.

Parties leaving here in the morning by the Mobile road connect with the swift and beautiful steamer Annie at Mobile, and arrive at the hotel wharf in time for dinner. The sail down the bay is delightful, and the Annie runs like a deer. The rates are very moderate. For particulars, address Capt. H. C. Baldwin, Mobile, Ala.

Washburn's Art Studio.

Those of our readers who wish to experience a genuinely delightful surprise should take the first opportunity of visiting the new photographic art gallery which Washburn has just fitted up at No. 109 Canal street.

The use of superlative adjectives in newspaper descriptions has come to be so common that it is the habit among readers to make allowances for exaggeration and verbal extravagance, and, realizing this, we are at a loss to find fitting words to use in speaking of this really superb studio, which occupies the two upper stories of that handsome structure which has taken the place of the old Bank of America.

The entrance is itself imposing and unique, and extends an invitation to the educated eye which is difficult to resist. It is a forcible suggestion of the beauties to be seen within—beauties to which it is impossible to do justice in the scope of brief notice like this. After ascending the stairs one is ushered into a reception room which, we really believe, has no equal in this country, either in dimensions or elegance and cost of furniture and decorations. The carpet is of the finest texture and loveliest design, the numerous and luxurious easy chairs and lounges are covered with bright brocades and satin—irresistibly inviting to repose—while the exquisitely decorated walls are hung with gems of photographic art, each one of which is a special and most interesting study.

Though there are numerous visitors, not a sound is heard, for every foot-fall is hushed in the downy carpet, and around everything there is an air of elegance and refinement which is exceedingly grateful. One scarcely knows which most to admire, the evidences of a rare taste displayed in the ornamentation of the studio, or the numerous art treasures which greet him at every turn.

Upstairs are located the "dark room," the "silver room," the "skylight," the "toning" and "retouching" rooms, all of which are spacious and most admirably arranged. The skylight is especially fine, and with the improvements made by Washburn, the finest possible effects are obtainable there. Nothing has been left undone to ensure the most perfect work, and to give the amplest satisfaction.

An artist of great merit has been brought from Paris whose whole time is the retouching of negatives—a very delicate and nice art of itself, by the way—and just here we may add, that in this one particular the many photograph establishments in this country are lamentably weak. The work done by Washburn, however, speaks for itself, even to the uninitiated in art, while to the connoisseur it is a delightful study. The chemical effects in his pictures are wonderfully fine, and their finish, even in the minutest detail, exhibits the nicest care and most delicate manipulation.

GUN AND LOCKSMITH.—Parties desiring a locksmith can find a very trustworthy and experienced workman in Mr. F. Busch, 23 Commercial Place, where he can be found at all times to attend to work at the shortest notice. Mr. Busch does any kind of work in his line, such as bell-hanging, putting up iron railings, repairing vaults, locks and copying-presses, making duplicate keys, etc. See his card in another column.

This week Messrs. Danziger will offer to the public a large and varied assortment of dry goods at prices that will satisfy the closest buyer. Many of the goods have been purchased by this enterprising firm very cheap at bankrupt sales in New York, and despite the large crowds that daily throng this popular house, they still have a very large stock on hand, which they are selling at a very reduced rate.

The Council met this day at 12 o'clock m., pursuant to adjournment.

Present: Hon. Ed. Pilsbury, Mayor, presiding, and Administrators Brown, Cavanac, Denis, Diamond, Edwards, McCaffrey and Rengstorff.

Communication from the Mayor.

The following communication from the Mayor was read and received and his action approved:

MAYORALTY OF NEW ORLEANS, City Hall, May 19, 1877.

James Barry, Chief Warden;
James Lynch, Assistant Warden;
Robt. Barry, Clerk;
P. O'Brien, Warden;
James Moore, Carpenter.

These suspensions are made in consequence of the serious allegations embodied in the report of the Grand Jury, to which I invite your attention, and which seem to me to demand an immediate investigation.

ED. PILSBURY, Mayor.

At the request of the Administrator of Police the Mayor appointed as a committee to investigate the charges with reference to the Work-house, Messrs. Diamond Dennis and Edwards.

Ordinances and Resolutions Offered.

By Mr. Brown:

1. An ordinance providing for the payment of the Crescent City Police for the month of April, 1877. Read twice.

There is no excuse for buying a cheap or old machine at $25 when $40 gets one of the latest improved Singer's, with all attachments. Office, 91 Canal street.

Yesterday we noticed the office of W. H. Barnett, money broker, No. 38 St. Charles street, opposite St. Charles Hotel, thronged with parties to settle their taxes and licenses, which was occasioned by his liberal allowance of discount on warrants received for same. Mr. B. buys these warrants from first hands over the counter, and of course, is prepared to offer larger inducements than any one else. We would advise those concerned to see him.

The demand for money was moderate to-day both in bank and on the street, and commercial paper was unchanged. Under the decline at New York, Gold gave way ⅛c, but only one sale was reported. Foreign Exchange followed the course of Gold, closing ⅛c lower for sterling and ½ ⅌ cent for francs. The movement was quite limited. New York sight was unchanged. Stocks were strong. State Consols gave way ¼@⅜ ⅌ cent, while Premium Bonds advanced about ⅛ ⅌ cent. The sales in both were of liberal extent. Warrants receivable for State taxes and licenses ruled at about previous rates, but nothing was reported in other warrants or City Police Certificates.

We continue to quote: Exceptional commercial paper 8@— ⅌ cent per annum discount; A1 do. 9@10; second grade do. 12@15; collateral loans 7@8; first class mortgages 8½@9½, and second grade do. 10@12.

Gold opened at 106⅛@106¾, against 106⅞ at New York, and after a quite limited business closed at 106⅜@106⅝, against 106¾ in that market. The only sale reported was $3000 at 106¾.

Foreign Exchange followed the course of Gold, closing ⅛c lower for sterling, and about ⅛ for francs. The movement in sterling was limited, and nothing was reported in francs.

The sales of Sterling were confined to £10,000 bill of lading at 519@519½, £1500 bank at 521½, and £1000 do sight at 524.

At the close sterling bills were quoted at 517@518½ for bill of lading and A1 clear, and —@522½ for bank (bank counter rate —@523), and francs at 4.85 for commercial, and nominal for bank.

New York sight was unchanged. The sales comprised $70,000, embracing $20,000, $35,000 and $35,000 private bankers at ¼ ⅌ cent. premium.

The banks continue to check on New York at ⅜ ⅌ cent premium, and commercial sight was still quoted at ⅛.

The market opened with only a moderate inquiry, and the sales during the morning were of limited extent, but later in the day the movement became more animated, and the sales summed up the fair amount noted above.

Nothing transpired to indicate any quotable variation in prices. Factors generally adhered to their pretensions, and although buyers occasionally obtained some concessions, offers being accepted which had been previously refused, yet, on the whole, the previous improvement was fully maintained. The dispatches reported Havre unchanged, but holders pressing sales, and New York steady at a loss of yesterday's advance in spots, and lower for futures, which closed at a net decline of 12-100@16-100c in the winter months, and 8-100@11-100 in the spring and summer. There were no telegrams from Liverpool, where business was suspended by the Whitsuntide holiday.

The Exchange makes the amount on shipboard not cleared (before to-day's exports of 8763 bales), 34,741 bales, embracing 15,416 for Liverpool, 15,414 for Havre, 1127 for Bremen, 502 for Spain, 1229 for the Mediterranean, 470 for Mexico, and 583 for coastwise ports, leaving in presses agreeably to its account at 12 m. 129,181 bales, only a part of which is on sale.

At noon, to-day, Middling was quoted at Galveston at 10⅝c; at Mobile at 10⅝c; at Savannah at 10⅝c; at Charleston at 10½c; at Wilmington at 10c; at Norfolk at 10⅝c; at Baltimore at 10⅞c; at New York at 10⅞c; at Boston at 11c; at Memphis at 10⅝c; at Augusta at 10c; at Philadelphia at 11⅛c; at Cincinnati at 10⅛c, and at St. Louis at 10⅛c.

The Exchange reports: "Sales 3500 bales. Market steady."

The world's visible supply was set down at 2,895,895 bales, against 2,920,670 last week and 2,779,2.9 last year, showing an increase compared with last year of 116,616 bales, against 111,666 last week and 25,240 the week before.
