Attachment to Newspapers.

A strong attachment of subscribers to newspapers is fully confirmed by publishers. "Stop my paper," words of dread to beginners in business, lose their terror after a paper has been established for a term of years. So long as a paper pursues a just, honorable and judicious course, meeting the wants of its customers in all respects as far as the profits of the office will permit, the ties of friendship between the subscribers and the paper are as hard to break by an outside third party as the links which bind old friends in business or social life. Occasional defects and errors in a newspaper are overlooked by those who have become attached to it through its perusal for years. They sometimes become dissatisfied with it on account of something which had slipped into its columns, and may stop taking it; but the absence of the familiar sheet at their homes or offices for a few weeks, becomes an unsupportable deprivation, and they hasten to take it again, possibly apologize for having it stopped. This we believe to be the common history of all established newspapers. No friendship on earth is more constant than that contracted by a reader for a journal which makes an honest and earnest effort to merit his continued support. Hence the newspaper which is conscientiously conducted becomes a favorite in the family.—[Baltimore American.

CHLORAL IN TOOTHACHE.—Dr. Hage, in a letter to the Medical Journal, states that for some time past he has employed chloral hydrate, not only as an internal sedative in dental neuralgia and caries, but also as a local application for a carious tooth. A few grains of the solid hydrate, placed on a quill point, introduced into the dental cavity, speedily dissolved and the pain was either deadened or effectually allayed. A second or third application of the remedy may be necessary.

Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales have been invited to attend the Boston Jubilee.

Thomas A. Scott.

Years ago Thomas A. Scott was employed at $100 a year as tollman on a Pennsylvania canal. By speculating in the canal company's script, and a most rigid economy, he managed to save something. Subsequently, obtaining a subordinate position on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, he, by strict attention to business, and the exhibition of administrative faculties of a high order, attracted attention at headquarters, and was promoted to the position of Superintendent. An exchange thus relates his present standing: "Thomas A. Scott, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, is President of five roads, including the Union Pacific; Vice-President of twelve, including the Pennsylvania Central; Director of thirty-three, and General Consolidator of the balance. He keeps four secretaries busy looking after his iron, oil, silver, gold, quicksilver, lead, slate, coal, steel and wild land interests; devotes a few leasure moments to steel rail and locomotive manufactories, steamship lines, bridge-building and engineering; finds relaxation in running the Pennsylvania and Virginia Legislation, and entire repose in directing Congress, the President, and the Supreme Bench, in all that relates to his claim of road throughout the land.

Does Advertising Pay?

"Without the aid of advertisements I could have done nothing in my speculations. I have the most complete faith in 'printers' ink.' Advertising is the 'royal road to business.' "—Barnum.

"My success is owing to my liberality in advertising."—Bonner.

"Advertising has furnished me with a competence."—Amos Lawrence.

"I advertised my productions and made money." — Nicholas Longworth.

"Constant and persistent advertising is a sure prelude to wealth." —Stephen Girard.

"He who invests one dollar in business should invest one dollar in advertising that business."—A. T. Stewart.
