THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Both at Albany and at Washington action in regard to the World's Fair is taking place. At the State capital there was a little demurring to the immediate consideration and settlement of the question. Some Senators urged that they wished to study the bill. This will only occasion a few days' delay, as the question is to be considered next week. But any needless procrastination is to be deeply deplored, as the granting the ten millions by the Legislature at Albany will have the most beneficial effect in Washington.

THE WORLD'S petition will be printed in the Congressional Record to-morrow. The Fair workers in Washington for New York profess confidence that all will be well.

The sooner it can be settled the better. It will be found that the erection of the buildings and the general preparations for the World's Fair will take all the time that can be had before 1892. In spite of Mr. PLATT, the people want it in that year.

THE DEADLY CAR STOVE.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company has maintained that deadly feature of car travel, the stove. They claimed exemption from the State law, which enjoins steam on all roads over fifty miles in length, on the ground that they only had twenty-six miles of rail in this State.

Happily, Judge INGRAHAM in the Supreme Court, Special Term, has given judgment for the State, and the General Term has sustained him when the case was appealed to it. The horrors of the deadly car stove are great enough for a road like this to wish to avoid them, without attempting to screen itself under a technicality of the law. Everybody will be glad that the road failed in this miserable policy.

The sugar magnates held a meeting of several hours' duration lately. Of one thing the public may rest assured, that they were not taxing their brains to devise a scheme for supplying sugar to the world at the greatest advantage to the purchasers. Monopolistic bonds to weld together the Trust were probably put upon the anvil and hammered well.

Yet monopoly is opposed to public opinion, and, theoretically, can hardly escape the State statutes of criminal law. What, then, are these magnates to be called, and how should their deeds be named?

Those who have watched, with some vexation, the wanton hilarity of BENJAMIN PETER HUTCHINSON, the jolly cornerer of Chicago, whenever he has pinched the country, and who have dropped a large amount of money, will feel a little mirthfulness themselves at learning that "Old Hutch" has been "done" by an insignificant clerk in his employ quite unknown to fame to the extent of $60,000. Instead of a feeling of pride in such a clever employee, the old man has locked himself up and swears and sulks dreadfully.

England is suffering from a plague of rats. The fields are overrun with the rodents, and the injury they are inflicting is very serious. In 1815 Nova Scotia was nearly paralyzed by an invasion of mice. They ruined the crops. The cats were the only animals that thrived and waxed fat. Where is there a regiment of Pied Pipers who may patrol the length and breadth of Albion and lure the hateful rodent to destruction? The rat poison men should do a rattling rating business.

SPOTLETS.

Sappo-re-na-o is dead. He has gone to hunt in the Indian Reservation of the "Sweet By-and-By."

The Brazilian Republic has some wire-pullers. The Telegraph Department has been robbed of 90,000 pesos.

Boarder—You've guessed it; but how did you know?
Mistress—I knew you must be by the familiar way in which you handled those three links.

BEATEN HIGH UNTO DEATH.

Salesman Downes Found Terribly Mangled in the Street.

No Clue to His Assailant or His Motive—Downes May Die.

Policeman Thomas Smith, of the Eighty-eighth street station, found a well-dressed man leaning against the area railing at Duffy's undertaker shop, at 1831 Third avenue, early this morning. His face and clothes were covered with blood.

The man was dazed, and gazed stupidly and speechless at the officer when addressed.

It was 1 o'clock. The man could not have come very far in that condition. He could not have been beaten so in a fight without a rumpus that would have been heard a long way off. Yet Officer Smith had passed the spot less than five minutes before, and had not been out of hearing since.

Duffy's store is at One Hundred and Second street. Policeman Smith's beat was from One Hundredth street to One Hundred and Fourth street.

Smith summoned aid with a rap of his club on the stone flags. There was no appearance of a struggle about the street, and no other blood than had dripped from the strange man where he stood. He had lost a good deal of the vital fluid.

Marvelling much, the officers took him to the station, where Sergeant Reed questioned him, while a call was sent out for an ambulance. The man was rational enough, though growing weak from loss of blood, but would say nothing further than that he was James Downes, forty-nine years old, single, and that he lived at 195 East One-hundredth street, and was a salesman. The one reply he made to all inquiries about the manner in which he was hurt was:

"I gave him a bluff and got the worst of it."

Surgeon Kopp, from the Presbyterian Hospital worked nearly an hour over the man to get him in shape for the ride to the hospital. His nose was broken, and his right eye fearfully bruised and cut. In all probability he will lose it. There was an ugly cut on the right side of his head, and the whole face was beaten and battered. It looked to the surgeon as if some one had stamped on his face and ground an iron heel in his eye.

On account of the crowded condition of the Presbyterian Hospital he was taken to Bellevue. When the ambulance got there he was in a state bordering on collapse, and his condition was critical.

Capt. O'Connor's detectives are working hard to find out what is behind the case. They are sure that the man was not assaulted in the street, but somewhere in a house near by, and was flung out after having been "done up."

What sort of a midnight mystery is burrowing behind this crime will perhaps be found out to-day.

LOOMIS APPOINTS MR. HAGAN.

The Tammany Leader Made Deputy Street Commissioner.

Ex-Assemblyman Edward P. Hagan, the Tammany Hall leader of the Sixteenth Assembly District, has landed in a nice berth at last, after being mentioned as a possible candidate for Police Justice for three months.

He was to-day appointed Deputy Street Commissioner by Street Commissioner Loomis in place of Wm. Robbins, who was elevated to the position by Commissioner Coleman shortly before his retirement.

The salary of the position is $3,000 annually.

Mr. Hagan is forty-two years old and was born and brought up in the Sixteenth District. He has served seven terms in the Assembly. He was first elected on the Tammany ticket in 1879.

In 1879 he beat Gen. Spinola on the Counties' ticket. He was elected again as a County Democrat in 1884 and 1885. Since then he has represented the District in the Assembly as a Tammany Democrat. Once he ran for the State Senate, but was defeated. His last term expired term expired on Jan. 1 last.

UPHAM WANTS TO FIGHT.

But $500 is Too Small a Purse to Tackle Godfrey For.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 25.—Arthur D. Upham, of New London, middle-weight champion of Rhode Island and Connecticut, has declined the offer to fight Jim Godfrey, the colored pugilist, before the Gladstone Club, of Providence, for $500, claiming the stakes are too small.

If they are increased to any reasonable amount above that sum he is willing to meet Godfrey.

Upham would be willing to try conclusions with Middle-Weight Jack Davis, of Boston, and is also anxious to tackle Sailor Brown or any other Eastern man of his size and weight.

HANGED HERSELF IN HER ROOM.

Elizabeth Hanasch Commits Suicide While Temporarily Insane.

Elizabeth Hanasch, fifty-four years old, of 1303 Washington avenue, was found hanging in her bedroom this morning.

She was cut down at once, but life had been extinct for many hours.

She had been despondent for some days, and it is supposed that she became temporarily insane.

JIMMY MITCHELL KNOCKED OUT.

Tom Monagan Whips Him in Seven Rounds, at Dallas.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 25.—Jimmy Mitchell, of Philadelphia, was knocked out in seven rounds last night by Tom Monagan, of Pittsburg.

The fight was for a purse of $750, and was a desperate battle with two-ounce gloves.

Baroness Offerman's Narrow Escape.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—A despatch from Brunn, the capital of Moravia, Austria, says that just after the Baroness Offerman left her carriage to do some shopping this morning a sudden wind blew the chimney of a neighboring factory over upon her equipage, killing the horses and injuring the servants.

The Baroness is a beautiful woman who was engaged to the Archduke Rudolph, the Emperor breaking off the match.

After Pneumonia
And attacks of la grippe, typhoid fever, scarlet fever or diphtheria, the patient recovers strength slowly, as the system is weak and debilitated and the blood poisoned by the ravages of the disease. What is needed is a good reliable tonic and blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has just the elements of strength for the body, and vitality and richness for the blood which bring back robust health and make the weak strong.
"After recovering from a prolonged sickness with diphtheria, and needing something to build me up, I took two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I felt good results from the first dose. It seemed to go from the top of my head to the ends of my toes. I know Hood's Sarsaparilla is a good thing."—H. H. STRATTON, Druggist, Westfield, Mass.

THE THEATRES NEXT WEEK.

List of Attractions in the Play-Houses of Two Cities.

Julia Marlowe to Be Seen in "As You Like It."

Miss Julia Marlowe will appear as Rosalind in "As You Like It," at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, on Monday night. This ever-popular Shakespearian play will be thoroughly well presented. Eben Plympton will appear as Ingomar, Minos Levick as the melancholy Jaques and Charles D. Herman as Oliver.

Miss Margaret Mather will play in "Romeo and Juliet" at Mr. Hammerstein's Harlem Opera-House on Monday and Saturday evenings; on Tuesday in "The Honeymoon; Wednesday and Friday in "Leah, the Forsaken," and at the Saturday matinee, "The Lady of Lyons."

D'Oyly Carte will arrive in a day or two in this country, and his presence will give a new turn to "The Gondoliers," Gilbert and Sullivan's latest comic opera, now running at the New Park Theatre. In the mean time the managers report that the production has been doing a very satisfactory business.

"Aunt Jack" is extremely prosperous at the Madison Square Theatre. During the past week numbers of theatre parties have attended the performance. A delegation from the In and Out Club, of Brooklyn, applauded Mrs. Agnes Booth's admirable work as the susceptible heroine.

W. J. Scanlan, the Irish comedian, will begin a two weeks' engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre on Monday night, appearing in Jessop and Townsend's Irish drama, "Myles Aroon." In the company will be Mattie Ferguson, Nannie Weatherby, Charles Mason, Thaddeus Shine and little Constance Wallace.

"The Two Sisters," a melodrama by Denman Thompson and George Ryer, will be seen at the Windsor Theatre on Monday night. The piece will be presented by an excellent company, including Frazer Coulter, Emily Stow, Jessie Roselle, George Ryer, W. H. Currie, May Merrick and Lavinia White.

"A Midnight Bell," the best of the works from the pen of Charles H. Hoyt, will begin the last week of its run at the Bijou Theatre on Monday night. There are many very excellent features in "A Midnight Bell," and it is full of humorous interest from beginning to end.

"The Senator," at the Star Theatre, is crowding that house at every performance. Mr. Crane has rarely had a part that fitted him better than that of Senator Hannibal Rivers. The play is surely a money-maker, and its run at the Star Theatre will undoubtedly be extremely profitable.

"The County Fair" is doing a large business. Neil Burgess has just purchased a flat-house at the corner of Eighty-second street and Central Park, which is a proof that Aunt Abigail Pike pays well. A matinee performance for the Boston Lodge of Elks will be given on Wednesday afternoon.

"The Fugitive" will be the attraction next week at H. R. Jacobs' Third Avenue Theatre. The company will be headed by Mr. Mason Mitchell, and the play will be presented in a very elaborate manner. The usual matinees on Monday, Thursday and Saturday will be given.

"The Prince and the Pauper," at the Broadway Theatre, is a great success. Lillie Elsie Leslie in the dual title role gives a charming performance; the others in the company are good, while the production itself leaves absolutely nothing to be desired. Wednesday and Saturday matinees are given.

"The Charity Ball" is still the attraction at the Lyceum Theatre. It is doing such an excellent business that there is no talk at all of its success. Indeed, it is quite probable that, like "The Wife," the play by the same authors, "The Charity Ball" will run through the season.

Most of the leading orchid growers throughout the country will be represented by rare specimens of these beautiful flowers at the annual orchid show, which opens at the Eden Musee on Feb. 18. The great Winter garden will be entirely given over to the floral exhibition, which will be a very large one.

"Blue-beard, Jr.," has been attracting large audiences to Niblo's during the past week. The ballet of the birds and insects is said to be an exact duplication of ballets at Her Majesty's and Drury Lane Theatre, London. The company seen in "Blue-beard, Jr.," is well balanced and competent.

Wednesday matinees will be given at the Academy of Music, beginning with the coming Wednesday. This will not interfere with the Saturday matinee, Miss Beaman Thompson is not very fond of matinees, but "The Old Homestead" is doing such a phenomenal business that they have been found necessary.

Richard Mansfield will present "Prince Karl" at Palmer's Theatre on Monday night. This by many people has been considered his most enjoyable production. During the past week "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" has attracted large audiences to Palmer's Theatre.

"Clemenceau" has been so well received at Amberg's Theatre that it will remain as the attraction at that house during the coming week. Mme. Clear-Delia will resume her impersonation of the Countess Dombronska. "Clemenceau" is in five acts by Alexander Dumas.

"What Nellie Did Saw on Her Trip Around the World" is the title of a song that will be sung at Tony Pastor's Theatre next week by the entertaining Mr. Tony himself. A number of other enjoyable features are also announced. Tony Pastor's performances are always full of merit.

William Terriss and Jessie Millward will present "Roger La Honte" at H. C. Miner's People's Theatre next week. This is the play that ran for some weeks at Niblo's quite recently. In it Mr. Terriss appears in a dual role, and Miss Millward in the leading feminine part.

"The Brigands" is as popular as ever at the Casino. The opera is so delightfully presented and so admirably sung that it is not astonishing that it should have reached its former success. Miss Lillian Russell will shortly sing the "Chanton de Fortunio" in Italian.

"Prince Lavender's Reception" will be continued at Koster & Bial's Concert Hall next week. Among the specialty features will be the Venetian Troubadours, consisting of eight women; Arthur West, Hawkins and Cottner; Duncan, the ventriloquist; the Tissots and Col. Clipts.

"Shenandoah" is doing a very large business at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre. The two hundredth performance is announced to take place at this house on Feb. 24. Mr. Bronson Howard's war play has certainly won fame for itself. It is presented by an excellent company.

"The Seven Ages" at the Standard Theatre is certainly a charming production. The scenes are all picturesque and charming to the eye; the costumes are gorgeous and tasteful. Henry E. Dixey as the Duke and the lean and slippered Pantaloon does the best work he has ever done.

"The Exiles," Victorien Sardou's melodrama, will be the attraction next week at Daly's Grand Opera-House. It was seen at Niblo's during Easter week, and met with much approval. "The Exiles" is produced in a very elaborate manner, and the cast is a good one.

The exercises entitled "The Battle of Gettysburg," at Fourth avenue and Nineteenth street, will have to be recognized in reports of the year's amusements. This is the second season of its sojourn in New York, and satisfactory business has been the general rule. The cyclorama has certainly been "vindicated."

Boucicault McCaffrey will begin the second week of his engagement at Worth & Hilner's Palace Museum, Monday. In the language of the management he will "do" the Bowery, lift the scalps and illustrate different ways of fighting. The usual line is still on exhibition. It will be weighed next Thursday, and the guessing contest will close Wednesday night. Other features at the Museum will be the Venetian troubadours, Thomas Haley, the tattooed boy; Capt. Thornton and his wife, Gloucester, with his trained birds; Malvina Alma, the "Queen of the Air"; gymnastic by George Williams, the little boy; Prince Bach, the colored midget; col. Pickett Nelson and John Nelson, the giants. The delightful Jan Specialty Company will give a large entertainment.

The Arizona Joe company will be the attraction next week at Weed & Colliver's Comedy Theatre, appearing in the sensational comedy-drama called "The Black Hawk; or, The King of the Vaqueros." Arizona Joe will be well supported. There are matinees at this house Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

There will be plenty of entertainment next week at the New London Theatre in the Bowery. T. L. Brooks's "Muldoon's Picnic" will be given. Then there will be Beatrix Hamilton, John Russell, Harry Maynard and Matt McElroy, Nellie Morgan, Diamond and Hart, Carrie Maynard, Hughes and Lindsay, Frank Manning and T. L. Brooks.

The Brooklyn Theatres.

The very title of the play which will be produced at the Criterion Theatre next week, "The Fatmen's Club," is suggestive of merriment. J. P. Stewart's comedy, which is built around the adventures of gentlemen of large proportions, who constitute a club, is replete with humorous situations and some snappy dialogue. Prominent among the supporting company is Miss Nellie Page, who formerly played in Brooklyn with Evans and Hoey in "The Parlor Match," and jointly starred with Joseph J. Dowling.

A particularly pleasing feature in "Old Jed Prouty," which Richard Golden will present for the first time in Brooklyn at Col. Sinn's Park Theatre next week, is that every character in the play is drawn from life. The scene is laid in the quaint New England village of Rockaport, Me., where Mr. Golden was born and spent the early years of his life. Dora Wiley, well remembered for her work in comic opera, heads the support.

One of the most humorous of all the farces the ingenious brain of Charles H. Hoyt has contrived is "A Parlor Match," which comes to the Grand Opera-House next week, with Charles E. Evans and William Hoey as the principals. The six years which the "Match" has been before the public haven't dimmed it a particle, but seem rather to have added to its popularity. The character of Old Hoss, in the hands of Will Hoey, is a positive creation.

The most ambitious effort the career of the popular comedian Nat Goodwin has yet shown was his production of "A Gold Mine." With one stroke Mr. Goodwin put aside the ideas of burlesque and mimicry and stepped forth as a comedian of the strictly legitimate order. Next week the patrons of the Amphion will be afforded an opportunity of seeing this successful comedy, with Mr. Goodwin and a number of clever people in the cast.

An engrossing story of the manners and customs of the people of the far off India has been used as a groundwork for the spectacle of "Kajanka," which will begin at the Lee Avenue Academy next week. The special features introduced form almost an entire show in themselves, and George Melville, the clown, sees that the humorous end of the show is not neglected.

Oliver Doud Byron is announced for next week at Jacobs' Brooklyn Theatre in his renowned drama, "Across the Continent." All the sensational features will be reproduced, with new scenery and mechanical effects. Miss Kate Byron will be at the head of an evenly balanced company.

The late Bartley Campbell's play, "My Partner," is underlined for next week at Jacobs' Lyceum Theatre. The touching story of life in the far West is well known to the average theatre-goer and has lost none of its interest. The same company now at the Brooklyn will be seen.

The acrobatic specialists, "the Farnum Brothers," head the long list of attractions at Zipp's Casino for the coming week. Others on the bill are Josie Layton, Frank Clayton, Josie Farnum, Bertha Germain, a maid of mighty muscle, and Minnie Schuil, who will continue the popular song, "Globe-Trotting Nellie Bly."

200 CIGARMAKERS STRIKE.

Rose & Co. Attempted to Cut Schedule Prices.

More than 200 cigar makers in the factory of D. E. Rose & Co. of 18 and 20 Fulton street are on strike to-day on account of an attempt made by the firm to cut schedule prices from 10 to 15 per cent.

The men say that Rose tried to take advantage of them in this, the coldest part of the Winter, and cut their earnings or force them to leave the factory.

To-day the men hired a hall and held a meeting at which it was decided not to go work at the reduced prices. A committee was sent to the employers, but they refused to withdraw from the stand they had taken, and there was nothing else to do, but to declare a strike.

About one hundred of the workmen, only twenty-five of whom are working on cigars, refused to go out, but it is thought that unless the firm accedes to the demands of the men the factory will be vacated by all.

Mr. Rose says he has enough stock on hand until the season opens again. He adds that he knew the men couldn't get work elsewhere, as this is the dull part of the year.

ONE OF THE FARRELLS' FIX.

Held for the Death of a Man Put Out of His Saloon.

John Farrell, one of the well-known Farrell brothers, of the Fourth Ward, and saloon-keeper at 22 Chatham square, was brought to the Coroner's office this morning to answer concerning the death of Michael Mahon, a bill-poster, who died last night immediately after Farrell had ejected him from his saloon.

Mahon went into Farrell's saloon, which is in front of the Chatham square station of the Elevated railroad, and called for a glass of ale. Farrell was behind the bar at the time. After the drink had been served, Mahon put it to his lips and threw it on the floor.

"If you don't like the stuff we sell, don't come in here again," said Farrell.

Mahon wanted to argue with Farrell, and he was promptly ordered to leave the place. This he refused to do, and Farrell took him by the arm and led him to the door.

As Mahon stepped to the sidewalk, he fell backward. Farrell lifted him and laid him in the next doorway. As he did so the man died.

Farrell grabbed his hat and coat and ran to the Oliver street station house and gave himself up.

Two witnesses, Ida Canton, of 15 Chrystie street, and Andrew Klingman, of 60 Catherine street, substantiated Farrell's version of the affair. Several officers of the Fourth Precinct saw Mahon earlier in the day. They say he was intoxicated. He was unmarried and lived with his sister at 48 Mott street, where his body now lies.

Farrell is said to be worth considerably over $60,000, and the combined wealth of the three brothers, John, Patrick and Thomas, is estimated at over a quarter of a million dollars. They are all saloon-keepers, and have lived in the Ward for thirty-five years, where they bear a good reputation.

Both the morning and evening took the testimony of Ida Canton and Andrew Klingman, as well as of Farrell himself, and placed Farrell under $2,500 bonds to appear at the inquest next week. His sister-in-law, Ellen A. Farrell, of 84 Bloomfield street, signed the bond.

English Judges and the Grip.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The grip has made a serious onslaught upon the English judiciary, and eight of the leading London judges are at present hors de combat, including Chief Justice Coleridge, His Master of the Rolls, Lord Esher, and Lord Justice Bowen.

Leaving New England.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—The Tyler Tube Manufacturing Company, of South Boston, have decided to emigrate to Washington, Pa. Mr. Tyler says that New England manufacturers cannot compete with the Pennsylvania mills, fuel and other materials costing too much for transportation.

Nervous and Sleepless.
There is one sure way to cure nervousness and sleeplessness, and that is by the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great brain and nerve invigorant. This wonderful remedy is Nature's own nerve tonic and sleep producer, and is perfectly harmless, being made from pure vegetable medicines. It may be given to infants, children or the most delicate invalids without fear. It soothes, calms and quiets the weakened, irritable and overwrought nerves, producing perfect repose and refreshing, natural sleep; at the same time it builds up and tones up the weak and shattered nerves and gives renewed life, strength, vitality and vigor to the system. It is for sale by all druggists for $1.00 per bottle.

ONLY A SHORT LEAD NOW.

Miss Cafferata Takes Second Place, Close Behind Miss Liebman.

The Watch Contest Grows More Interesting Every Day.

The struggle for popularity between the candidates in THE EVENING WORLD Lady Teachers' Contest grows more and more interesting. Miss Liebman still leads with 32,027, while Miss Cafferata jumps into second place with 30,525, relegating Mrs. Burns to third place with 29,785.

Close behind, in fourth place, is Miss Jarecki with 26,252. Miss Mayer's vote has increased to 18,683 and she is still fifth, while Miss Alyea continues sixth with 4,152.

Any lady teacher in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut can be a candidate in THE EVENING WORLD'S contest. The teacher receiving the largest number of votes will be presented with an elegant gold watch, purchased from Edwin A. Thrall, of No. 3 Maiden lane. Mr. Thrall thus describes the prize:

The watch is one of the finest of movements. It is full-jewelled, with rubies, lever escapement and nickel finish. The cases are hunting cases, 18 carats fine, and very heavy.

They are made from nugget or antique gold, with twelve pigeon-blood rubies, twelve fine sapphires and twelve fine diamonds imbedded in the gold of the case. The price will be $400.

The watch is now on exhibition at Brentano's, 5 Union Square.

In all cases, where possible, indicate the number of the school, as well as city, with which the candidate is connected.

All votes must be on the ballot printed below. Cut out the blank, properly fill out and sign it, and send it to THE EVENING WORLD.
