TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Flutterings of the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS answer a great want. Their action on the Bowels and Skin is also prompt, removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

HE FEELS LIKE A NEW MAN.

"I have had Dyspepsia, with Constipation, two years, and have tried ten different kinds of pills, and TUTT'S are the first that have done me any good. They have cleaned me out nicely. My appetite is splendid, food digests readily, and I feel like a new man." W. D. EDWARDS, Palmyra, O.

Political Nominations.

Memphis, Tenn., September 20.—P. T. Glass, democrat, for 9th congressional district. There were 2,667 ballots taken, and it was only by abolishing the time-honored two-thirds rule that Glass was nominated. Great dissatisfaction prevailed, many delegates bolted, and now Hon. Emerson Etheridge will run as an independent.

Chicago, September 20.—J. P. Algeldt, democrat, fourth Illinois district.

Schnectady, N. Y., September 20.—Edward Wemple, democrat, renominated, 29th district.

Look Out For Him!

New York, September 20.—W. B. Dinsmore, president Adams express company; J. C. Largo, president American express company, caution the public of the United States against a person singing himself "J. T. Lloyd," who is now canvassing the country and representing himself as publishing a railroad map, and presenting what purports to be the endorsement of the companies named. The endorsement was given more than twenty years ago, and was long since withdrawn.

An Unsatisfactory Schedule.

New York, September 20.—Schedule in the assignment of Gouverneur Paulding, Gouverneur Kemble, Peter Kemble and James Paulding, comprising the firm of Paulding, Kemble & Co., manufacturers of machinery, Broadway and Cold Springs, New York, to Charles J. Nourse, jr., which was filed to-day, show the total liabilities as $301,756; nominal assets, $743,361; and actual assets $32,025.

The Tallapoosa Vindicated.

Washington, September 20.—The court of inquiry appointed to investigate the circumstances of the collision between the Tallapoosa and the Baltimore schooner finds the Tallapoosa did all in her power to avoid a collision, and complied with the law in all respects, and that the blame for collision rests with the schooner. The department approves the finding of the court.

JOHN H. STARIN'S GOLD.

AN EX-CONGRESSMAN'S CAREER.

From Country Doctor to Millionaire—Seven Millions in His Coffers—His Generosity and Resemblance to "Brother Jonathan."

[N. Y. Journal.]

From a country doctor with an annual income of $1,000, chiefly in bad debts, John H. Starin has become the High Admiral of the commerce of the New York rivers and canals. He even once held a postmastership at twenty dollars a year, and thought himself more than fortunate. This sum of twenty dollars paid for his year's clothing and left him sufficient wherewith to "spark" the pretty young girls of Sammonsville, in Fulton County, New York.

How different are his surroundings now. Look at his beautiful mansion in West Thirty-eighth street, furnished with costly ebony furniture and its thousand and one evidences of the vast wealth of its owner, and then compare it with the humble cottage in which he first saw the light of day sixty years ago. That Mr. Starin often recalls his early poverty has been clearly demonstrated in the last few years. There are those who say of Mr. Starin, and of all such men, that their liberality is a carefully calculated advertisement; that the free excursions given to the newsboys, the police and the veterans of the rebellion serve to advertise the excursions for which the public pay; that the frequency with which the papers are called upon to mention Mr. Starin's name attracts the public to Coney Island, and that this generosity, like virtue, is its own reward and pays an ample interest upon the original investment. If this were all true it would not be a fault in Mr. Starin. On the contrary, the world would be very much brighter and better and happier if many other men would choose the same mode of advertising themselves and their business. The advertisement which gives a day's pleasure to the poor, ragged newsboys, to the much-pestered police and to the veterans who are forgotten and neglected by the country they faithfully served is an excellent thing to indulge. It is safe to say, however, that Admiral Starin has no such ulterior views in his benevolence. In business he can drive as shrewd a bargain as any of his critics, but out of business he is a sort of all-the-year-round Santa Claus, delighted in giving because it is his nature, and happiest when he has succeeded in making others happy.

Mr. Starin was born at the little village of Sammonsville, in Fulton County, on August 27, 1825. He received a classical education, due to severe pinching and sacrifice on the part of his parents. Young Starin determined to become a doctor, and in 1842 he commenced the study of medicine, but he soon found that his talents were more practical than professional. Three years later he opened a drug store in Fultonville and continued it for over thirteen years. In the meantime he took, of course, taken an interest in local politics, and from 1848 to 1852 he was the Postmaster of Fultonville. His drug store was the centre of the politics and gossip of the county, and when the Republican party was organized Mr. Starin became one of the earliest and most enthusiastic supporters of the new platform. The defeat of General Scott cost him his Postmastership.

It was in 1856 that Mr. Starin turned his attention to the freightage business on the Erie Canal. At first he hired canal boats; then bought them; then built them. From canal boats he took the easy step to steamers, and from the Erie Canal he came out into New York Harbor and Long Island Sound. Year by year his fleet of vessels increased in size and importance. At first he carried freight only; then he began to develop the passenger traffic, and now he has the two branches of transportation under his control.

Although Mr. Starin has left Fultonville these many years he is by no means forgotten there, nor has he parted with his material interest in the county. Twice his old fellow-countrymen have elected him to Congress, and three years ago his name was presented to the Republican State Convention as a candidate for Governor. With his usual generosity he gave way for Secretary Folger, and Mr. Starin seemed thoroughly well pleased that he did. His son-in-law, Mr. Howard Carroll, the well known journalist, with less prescience, accepted the nomination for Congressman-at-large against General Slocum. He was defeated, and did not ask "Is General Slocum here?" the day after the election.

Mr. Starin's double life as a metropolitan and a rural is evident on his exemption. He is a director of the North River Bank here, and of the Mohawk River Bank also. To peel a portrait of Mr. Starin one has only to take the usual picture of Brother Jonathan, grate the lines in his face and chin full and make the body a trifle rounder, and there is a capital portrait of the ex-Congressman.

Last night at the Metropolitan Hotel one of Mr. Starin's friends said to a journal reporter: "With all of his wealth, and to put a moderate limit upon it it is not less than $7,000,000, he has no valet; his hours of life are too simple and unaffected; nor he has numerous clerks and hundreds of other employees, and he is always ready for these men, with whom he is brought into the most frank and intimate intercourse and relations. To hear his clerks speak of him to see their eyes glisten with pride and pleasure when they are permitted to utter his praises; to note the affectionate respect and esteem with which they refer to him—these are the best possible proofs that the public man, who has made himself so popular, is no less worthy in private life and in his private relations, and that his generosity is as genuine as it is remarkable.
