POLICE RAIDED THE WAKE.

Five of the Lava Bed Gang Taken from the Dead Leader's Home.

At 1 o'clock this morning a squad of police from the First Precinct, Jersey City, made a raid on the house, 450 Third street, near the Point of Rocks, where a wake was being held over the body of John Costigan, who died Saturday night from a stab wound inflicted by Franz Richardson, and arrested five members of the Lava Bed gang.

The names of the prisoners are James Meaney, aged seventeen, of 89 Colgate street; James Jennings, eighteen, of 402 Third street; Daniel Stiles, twenty, of 156 Magnolia avenue; William O'Mara, seventeen, of 396 Fourth street, and John Mullone, nineteen, of 89 Colgate street.

They are charged with having, together with Costigan, their dead leader, assaulted and beat Frank Richardson, of 396 Third street, Monday evening last, while the latter, accompanied by his young wife, was about entering their home.

The gang had threatened revenge on Richardson in consequence of himself and wife having appeared as witnesses against two of their members. He was knocked down by Costigan, cut in the hand and stoned, and then, as he remarked to Sergt. Snow, at the time of his arrest, "believing his life in danger, he thought it was time to act," he pulled out a pocket knife, stabbed Costigan in the neck, and then he and his wife fled into the house pursued by the mob with stones.

Knowing the desperate crowd to be dealt with, Detective McBride and Patrolmen Hunt, Ryan, Murphy and Fallon were detailed to make the raid and went prepared for any emergency.

Soon after surrounding the house where the wake was in progress, Mullone, one of the parties wanted, went down to the rear yard and ran into the arms of Officer Quinn, who made him prisoner.

Policeman Fallon then quietly made his way up to the room where the dead boy was lying and notified the other four young men that he wished to speak to them downstairs, and upon reaching the lower hall they were pounced upon and captured before resistance could be offered.

Immediately on it becoming known among the friends of the dead man, of whom about fifty males and females were present, there was a scene of wild excitement, and the crowd rushed down the street, swearing vengeance upon the police and threatening to rescue their friends.

The mob hooting and yelling and women screaming ran down the street, when the policemen faced about, revolver in hand, and compelled the crowd to desist from further pursuit.

Mrs. Costigan, the mother of the dead man, accosted Policeman Murphy, who is a terror to the boodlers in this vicinity, and yelled out to him that if she had known that he was one of the policemen in her back yard she would have blown his brains out.

The prisoners were held by Justice Silsing for trial.

A Baltimore Bandit Caught.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30.—After a desperate chase officers arrested Harry Hollman, alias Flick, one of a gang of bandits who have a rendezvous on an island in the Monocacy River, and who have been perpetrating some daring and unique robberies along the line of the Baltimore and Ohio. Their method is to compel men to strip and then give back only the scantiest remnant of their clothing.
