A THOUSAND MILES OF WIND.

Tail End of a Gale Blowing Forty Miles an Hour To-Day.

New Yorkers awoke this morning to find themselves in the embrace of an ice gale from the northwest, which Sergt. Jesunofsky says is the atmospheric filling in of the vacuum caused by the Cape Hatteras cyclone of Wednesday.

The latter is still hanging around the Newfoundland coast and causing high winds all through New England.

At Block Island and Sandy Hook it was blowing 46 miles an hour all night, while the gale whistled over the metropolis at the rate of 32 to 36 miles until 6 o'clock this morning, when it lost its grip for a couple of hours, but recovered again, and at 9.30 had reached the maximum velocity of 48 miles.

At 11 o'clock, however, it had decreased to twenty-eight miles, and by sunset Sergt. Jesunofsky is confident it will have gone "for good."

New York has experienced more wind in the last three days than at any similar period in four years. Yesterday 800 miles of wind blew over the city, and to-day the total will probably reach 500.

The wind also caused local thermometers to drop from 32 degrees at 8 P. M. yesterday to 21 degrees at 8 A. M. to-day, but at 10.30 the mercury had risen to 25 degrees.

Fair and slightly colder weather is promised to-day and to-morrow. Throughout the country it is generally fair to-day. Albany had three inches of snow in the last twenty-four hours.

Despite the furious gale, few wrecks have been reported.

Among the ocean steamships to arrive today were the Tower Hill, from London; State of Georgia, from Moville, and California, from Gibraltar, all of which report severe weather and a stormy passage.

Strong head winds prevailed on the Sound all night, but the Plymouth, of the Fall River line, and the Narragansett, of the Stonington line, arrived at their piers on time this morning.

The City of Boston and City of Norwich, of the Norwich line, were reported over two hours late. The Fall River boat Providence, which had to put back to Newport on account of Wednesday's gale, arrived here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, returning at 5.30.

Sergt. Jesunofsky announces that another storm is now central over Fort Assiniboine, Montana, and moving slowly eastward. It is hardly expected to bother New Yorkers any, however, as its course seems to be too far north.

WRECKED OFF CAPE MAY.

The Schooner Judah Nelson Driven Ashore During the Gale.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 19.—The schooner Judah Nelson has gone ashore here. There was a heavy gale during the night, and at dawn the vessel was seen fringed in ice sheeting.

The captain and crew were rescued by the life-saving people. All are safe, though much exhausted.

The schooner was laden with lumber and was bound from New Bedford, Mass., where she is owned, to Philadelphia.

The vessel is a total wreck.

Capt. Benson was seen by THE EVENING WORLD correspondent and said he had lost his leeboard, and before he knew it he was in Turtle Gut Bay.

He believes the cargo can be saved.

FREE LECTURES A BIG SUCCESS.

No Truth in the Statement That They Are Abandoned.

The statement in a morning paper that the free lectures had been abandoned by the Board of Education is untrue.

"It is true," said Commissioner Miles M. O'Brien, Chairman of the Lecture Committee, to-day, "that the first course closes with the lectures in the several school-houses last night. The second course, however, will begin in January, and they will continue until the close of the season.

"The lectures are too valuable an aid to the education of the people to be abandoned, and THE EVENING WORLD is to be congratulated that it secured the passage of the new resolution to-day. Twenty-two Boards have now adopted the first course this season.

"The reason for ending the course now is to give the people who attend the lectures an opportunity to enjoy the holiday week.

"A lot of people are working people who are idle engaged in the stores now open during the evenings as clerks or in doing their Christmas shopping."

IS IT A CRY FROM THE DEAD?

A Message in a Bottle Purporting to Be from a Wrecked Steamer.

The police of the Eighteenth Precinct, Brooklyn, are to-day somewhat excited over what some of them think is a message from the sea.

Shortly before 11 o'clock last night a man rushed up to Policeman John McCarthy, and delivered to him a bottle, which he said he had found on the beach at the foot of Fifty-fifth street, Bay Ridge.

Upon examination the bottle was found to contain a small slip of paper, on which was written the following:

"We are adrift, about one hundred miles from land, in latitude 43 degrees north, longitude 25 degree west. We are the survivors of the steamer Gambia, which foundered Aug. 19, and in the confusion the captain was lost overboard. Only two days' provisions left and one-half keg of water.

"JEROME FARANGE, First Officer.

"Aug. 15, 1890."

The young man who claims to have found the bottle gave his name as John McCarthy, residing on Forty-third street, near Third avenue.

The only steamer Gambia known at the Maritime Exchange plies between Antwerp and African ports. She was in port at Antwerp from July 21, 1890, to Aug. 19, 1890. Since then she has made a voyage, arriving at Antwerp Nov. 25 last.

NEXT YEAR'S POLICE FUNDS.

Total of $4,777,515 Appropriated by the Board of Estimate.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment to-day fixed the final appropriations for the Police Department for 1891 at $4,777,515.38. This is an increase over this year's appropriation of $129,723.54, which includes $65,000 for the erection of a station-house in the new precinct to be established on the East Side and $35,000 for the purchase of a site for a new station-house in the Eighth precinct.

The present station-house at Prince and Wooster streets has been declared unfit for use by the Board of Health. It is hoped to secure a site on Sullivan street, near Fifth street.

Although it was thought necessary to make provision for police matrons at the different station-houses, out, as the Commissioners refused to ask for the appropriation, the Board refused to make it.

The Park Board estimates in those of Commissioner Gilsey for the Annex of Police Headquarters will be continued Monday, to which time the Board adjourned.

REFEREES FOR "L" CASES.

Judge Andrews Gives Plaintiffs for Damages a Peremptory Option.

Judge Andrews, in Supreme Court Special Term, to-day made an important decision in the Elevated railroad cases. Before referees in the cases of two cases against the "L" of Amos R. Eno, in which it was ordered that a peremptory injunction issue unless the finding of fact were made.

The Judge said he did not wish to try any more such cases, and he had determined that hereafter, when the parties do not agree to the referee, he will appoint one of judges, so that there will be no further delay.

There was a long argument, which consumed the time of the court, the point being that the road offered to pay the damages if the court would grant a peremptory injunction, but the plaintiffs objected to this, and insisted on payment of damages to property along its line.

NO HIGHER PAY FOR DOCHARTY.

It looked out to-day that an attempt was made at an executive meeting of the Dock Board yesterday to increase the salaries of Secretary Docharty and Assistant Engineer Nicholson from $3,000 each to $5,000.

Action was postponed on motion, but it was understood by President Post for such an increase.

"If I had thought in time," said Commissioner Fullgraff, "I would have gone on the ticket. I have supported the motion, and we would have voted unanimously. I should say at least, which some new man will succeed me in office."

Light was thrown on Fullgraff's extraordinary 4th Dock Commissioner, who received a salary larger than that of a Commissioner.

ROHAN POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED.

Sleuth Detective Jackson this morning positively identified Charles Rohan, alias D'Auford, alias Sale, who is on trial for burglariously entering the house of William Cohen, 175 East Seventy-ninth street, in April, 1885, as a former inmate of Sing Sing, in 1881 or 1882.

Jackson said that he saw Rohan in the District-Attorney's office a day or two ago and spoke to him. Rohan asked him if there were any electrical works at Sing Sing.

This concluded the testimony in the case.

FIRE IN UNION SQUARE HOTEL.

Sputtering Fat Starts a Blaze in the Chimney.

Great excitement prevailed in the kitchen of the Union Square Hotel for a time this morning owing to the breaking out of what was feared would prove a conflagration.

About 8.30 a dozen scullery girls or forty chefs of the culinary department of the hotel were busily engaged in getting the morning breakfast.

One of the cooks was broiling a juicy beefsteak over the glowing coals. The draft in the hood was unusually strong, and sucked from all the spatter of the fat occasionally into the hood.

The hood is connected with the main chimney by a long iron gutter or pipe. The melting of this piece of iron was caused with a great roar which frightened the girls.

The alarm spread to the main chimney, the contents of which also took fire.

The fire department did not notice what had been sleuthing going on till the chimney became incandescent and the roof and with a lofty pillar of flame and smoke was ejected from the hood into the room.

The female scullery girls ran in terror to their rooms to get their wardrobes, while others ran to the street.

The engineer of the building came in and began to throw down the hose line.

A fire alarm had been sent to Hose and Ladder Company No. 3, in East Thirteenth street, and it soon took the place.

The damage was done to the kitchen. It will take about $200 to put the leader and chimney into shape again.

A LONGER LIST OF DEAD.

The Intercolonial Wreck More Serious Than Reported.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

QUEBEC, Dec. 19.—The accident to the Halifax express, at St. Joseph de Levis yesterday, broke the good record of the Intercolonial Railway, which had previously had no really serious accident in its history.

It is believed the cause of the disaster was the spreading of the rails, as the men in charge of the train declare that its running gear was all right at Rivière du Loup.

The train, which went over the bridge, was composed of a second-class car, a smoker, a first-class coach and a sleeper. These fell about twenty feet into the ice-bound and were badly smashed, the second-class car being broken in two.

That so many of the passengers escaped death or fatal injury is remarkable. The number of dead was five; of the severely injured, about twenty.

LATER.—The list of dead in the wreck at St. Joseph de Levis has been increased to seven by the addition of three more:

ALEXIS DESSAINT, Member of the Canadian Parliament from Kamouraska.

MAX DESSAPOL, of Glasgow, N. S.

It is feared that one or two more bodies are still in the wreck and that several of the badly injured passengers will die.

All those dangerously hurt are from the Provinces. Chief Engineer Thomas Wilross, of the steamship Newfoundland, is one of them.
