THE LYRE.

"He touched his harp, and nations heard, entranced."

GREAT BRITAIN.

Hear you the British Lion bold?
A royal beast is he,
His paws encircled fain would hold
The power of earth and sea.
Behold him stretching out his claws
Preparing for attack,
For to enforce Victoria's laws
By scratching China's back.

He'd scratch poor China into rags
And bite the Emperor's nose,
Because 'tis Opium he dislikes,
Its smuggling would oppose,
And not content his nail to stick
Deep into heathen hides,
He sets his whelps to try to pick
Our Eagle's tail besides.

We thought the hair upon his neck
Was plenty long and tough
But lo! he wants our Maine to take
He's'nt got Maine enough!
But let him touch it if he dare:
He'll learn it to his cost,
Our bird's got claws as well as he,
When in her talons rest'd.

She'll teach our British foe likewise
Who burnt the Caroline,
That we can play the game again
Our father's play'd Dagoyne.
So let the Lion just beware
If he would save his skin,
And not provoke us lest he get
Ten thou and bullets in.

O that Great Britain's haughty lords,
Who revel in their wealth,
Could feel the woe and the distress
That now around them swells.
That they would strive to stay the tide
Of misery that beats,
On their poor starving subjects now
Who'rs suffering in the streets.

They'd find enough of work to do
And means to spend their gold
Without their compassing the earth
The nations to control.
Let Queen Victoria tend her babes
In peace and quietness,
And have the nations to repose
And their own subjects bless.

Arouse ye Nobles let the poor
Your charity partake,
Ye shepherds of the Church likewise
Your nymps lies awake,
How can ye thus your head behold
In want and in distress,
And stop your ears against their cry
Amidst these scenes of death?

Ah such is Monarchy, and such
The fruits of royal pride,
It seldom looks but to itself
Or cares for close side,
Alas! poor Ireland I could weep
For thy poor sons oppress'd,
And for the English lab'rer too
To see him so distressed.

Ye lords who rule in Parliament
The strikes at your door,
That you should throw away the wealth
Which should support the poor.
Trouble, repent reform your ways,
You suffering country heed,
Lest Heaven visit you in wrath,
Your sure destruction speed.

Thus would I with a trumpets voice,
To Britain's lords proclaim,
Their high transgression and its doom
In spite of her great name,
Then to my country would I turn,
And with just pride would say,
Thankabe to God that I was born
In free America. J. J.

RELIGION.

What is religion? Not that which, meteor like, shines for a brief period and then fades and disappears. Not who talks most, prays longest, sighs deepest, shouts loudest, reproves with the greatest severity. Not that which can reject the widow's petition, the orphan's cry. Not that which deceives in bargain, deals closely with the poor, withholds the just requital of labor, breeds jealousies, alienates friends, embitters enemies, betrays confidence, promotes sectarian strife, and renders evil for evil.

Pure religion and undefiled before God and the father, is this: to visit the fatherless and the widows in their affliction, and keep ourselves always unspotted from the world. Pure religion is a vital principle—a fountain of living water springing up in the soul, and cleansing it from the pollutions of sin.

A radiance shining into the heart, giving new light, new life, new principles of action, and new modes of action—giving higher aims, brighter hopes, and sweeter joys.—Pure religion teaches us to love our enemies, to pray for them, and in all things to render good for evil. It requires us to act on principles of perfect justice. All things whatsoever we would that men should do to us, it teaches us to do so to them. To do justly, love mercy and walk humbly before God.

Fragment of Time.

ALWAYS HAPPY.

An Italian Bishop struggled through great difficulties without repining, and met much opposition in his Episcopal functions without betraying the least impatience. One of his intimate friends, who highly admired those virtues, which he thought it impossible to imitate, once asked the prelate if he could impart the secret of being always happy.—"Yes," replied the old man, "I can teach you my secret, and with great facility; it consists in making a right use of my eyes." His friend begged him to explain himself. "Most willingly," returned the Bishop. "In whatever state I am, I first look up to heaven, and remember that my principal business here is to get there; I then look down upon the earth, and call to mind how small a space I shall occupy in it when I come to be interred; I then look around into the world, and observe what multitudes there are who are in all respects more unhappy than myself. Thus I learn where true happiness is placed, where all our cares must end, and what little reason I have to repine or complain."

Public opinion is often a mighty tyrant when it interferes with private affairs. The lightest surmise is to it equal to the heaviest accusation—the meanest prejudice to the wisest laws. It judges without evidence, and condemns without appeal—it drives away such as have sinned and would return penitent. It hurries on those who otherwise would never have consumated folly by crime.

WITNESS TO THE SAVIOUR.

The heavens gave witness. A new star passed through the sky at his incarnation; and at his crucifixion, for three hours the sun was darkened.

The winds and seas gave witness, when at his word, the tempest was hushed, and rough billows smoothed into a calm. At the same word the inhabitants of the waters crowded around the ship, and filled the net of the astonished and worshipping disciples.

The earth gave witness. At his death and at his resurrection, it trembled to its centre.

Disease gave witness. Fevers were rebuked; the blind saw their deliverer; the deaf heard his voice; the dumb published his glory; the sick of the palsy were made whole; and the lepers were cleansed at his bidding.

The grave gave witness, when Lazarus came forth, and when many bodies of the saints which slept arose.

The invisible world gave witness. Devils acknowledged his divinity, and fled from his presence. Angels ministered unto him in the desert, the garden, and the tomb. A multitude sang an anthem in the air, in the hearing of the shepherds; and as our risen Lord ascended up into glory, they accompanied him.

O yes, he is, as the apostle affirms, "The great God, even our Savior."

SIR WALTER SCOTT'S ADVICE TO HIS SON CHARLES.

"I cannot too much impress upon your mind that labor is the condition which God has imposed upon us in every station of life. There is nothing worth having, that can be had without it, from the bread which the peasant wins with the sweat of his brow, to the sports by which the rich man must get rid of his ennui. The only difference betwixt them is, that the poor man labors to his appetite—the rich man to get an appetite to his dinner. As for knowledge, it can no more be planted in the human mind without labor, than the field of wheat can be produced without the previous use of the plough. There is indeed, this difference, that chance or circumstances may so cause it, that another shall reap what the farmer sows! but no man can be deprived, whether by accident or misfortune, of the fruits of his own studies; and the liberal and extended acquisitions of knowledge which he makes, all for his own use.

"Labor, my dear boy, therefore, and improve the time. In youth our steps are light, and are ductile, and knowledge easily laid up. But if we neglect our spring, our summer will be useless and contemptible, our harvest will be chaff, and the winter of old age unrespected and desolate."

GRAMMER SCHOOL CONVERSATION.—'Robert, what's the matter with you?'

'Got a bad cold, Sir.'

'What part of speech is cold?'

'Cold is an adjective, Sir.'

'How do you compare it?'

'Positive cold, comparative cough, superlative coffin.'

'A good boy, Bobby: now take this fip, and run over to Quacky Donk's, and get a stick of his hound candy, least you should find yourself in the superlative.'

A YOUNG FELLOW OF PLEASURE.—'I say, Wildgoose,' said an old Sobersides, 'did you ever see a little kitten in pursuit of its own tail? Round and round she goes, now on one haunch and then on the other, gravely kicking and grinning—and all for what?—Why, if it sat still, there's its tail under its nose. Now that's the moral of a young fellow of pleasure.'

Mr. Crutchfield a distinguished member of the Virginia legistature, has been excused, at his own request, from serving on any of the standing committees, in consequence of his lameness.

Children are inquisitive bodies—for instance: 'What does cleave mean, Pa?' 'It means to unite together.' 'Does John unite wood, when he cleaves it?' 'Hem, well it means to separate.' 'Well, Pa, does a man separate from his wife when he cleaves to her?' 'Hem, hem, don't ask so many foolish questions, child.'

From the Bellows Falls Gazette.

☞There is a strange disease prevalent amongst horses, particulary team horses, in this vicinity and we aprehend the evil is extending. Some whole teams are affected, and many valuable horses have died. As it is not known what the disease is, no particular remedy can be applied. When taken, there is a stiffenest of the joints, followed by swelled limbs, body and head, and some are blind.

From the Boston Daily Advertiser.

MR. EDITOR:—I am induced from a fondness for that noble animal the horse, to give you for publication, a recipe, which was found eminently successful last year, at the South, in curing the terrible disease then prevalent amongst the horses there; which, I find, has recently made its appearance here also; killing already many valuable horses in this city.

The disease is not described in Veterinary books, but it is highly infectious, and fatal if neglected. The symptoms are swelling of the legs—inflamation and weeping of the eyes—a good deal of fever, and sometimes a running of the nose.

If attended to in time, it readily yields to the following treatment, viz:—Bleed the horse freely in the neck mouth, or nose:—I prefer the latter; and give immediately a cathartic ball, composed of sulphur, copperas and nitre, in the proportions of three of sulphur to two of copperas and one of nitre; the ball as large as a pullets egg. Then give freely a strong solution of glauber salts—as much as the horse will drink for two or three days, and the cure will be complete. The forage given after the symptoms appear, should be, of course, the lightest and most cooling kind; such, for instance, as cornfodder and chopped-straw, with a few oats, &c.

DOMESTIC FOWLS IN WINTER.

One of the greatest errors that prevails in the management of the domestic fowl, and one which must be destructive of all profit, is the common practice of leaving them to "shirk for themselves" during the winter months. There is no animal on the farm that better repays good keeping than the hen, and with it, there is none that affords so much profit on the capital employed.

The hen should have a close warm roost, for there are few creatures that suffer more from the cold than fowls. They should have a box of gravel, sand, ashes, &c. for them to roll and dust themselves in, to prevent the attacks of those insects to which fowls are subject: they should have access to pulverized limestone or limestone gravel, as this will give material for the shell, and contribute to the health of hens; they should have abundance of water, clean and pure, for few animals will drink more frequently or eagerly than hens, if water is within their reach; and no one need expect healthy fowls, or a plentiful supply of eggs, who does not pay strict attention to their supply of food. Indian corn, peas, buckwheat, oats or barley, may be fed to fowls. Potatoes, steamed or boiled, are excellent food for them, but must be fed while warm, as fowls will not eat cold potato, unless driven to it by hunger. Fowls should have access to a warm yard in the sunny days of winter, as warmth is particularly invigorating to them. If confined for any time in a close ill-ventilated room, they will become diseased and feeble, and will require extra attention to repair the evil generated.—Cultivator.

GREAT YIELD OF CORN.

We find in the Union Agriculturist, a communication from Col. Joel Walker, of Belvidere, Ill., giving an account of corn raised by him the past year. The kinds selected for the experiment were the Chinese Tree corn, 12 rowed; Yellow Dent, 12 rowed; and New Jersey, 8 do.

"The ground was highly manured, at an expense of $3 per acre, lightly plowed and otherwise prepared in the ordinary manner. The seed was planted in hills four feet apart; number of kernels to the hill not remembered. The crop is harvested, and the result is as follows:

Chinese Tree corn,	160½	bush.	shelled,	per acre.
Yellow Dent,	170	"	"	"
New Jersey,	99¾	"	"	"

To be sure there was no mistake, each parcel was measured twice; and as the editor of the Agriculturist has vouched for its accuracy, it may be considered one of the most enormous yields on record. Colonel Walker also planted a small quantity of the Brown corn; and from its fine appearance and yield, expresses the opinion that it will one day supercede every other variety.—Such yields of corn as this, and some of those recorded in our December number, for which premiums were awarded by our county societies, will make Kit Cornbill, who in his communication in our last, insinirated his doubts of the reality of such crops, open his eyes wider than ever.—Albany Cult.

The Annual Course of Lectures at this Institution will commence on the Second Thursday of March next, and continue thirteen weeks.

The fee for all the courses is $70. Students, who have attended two full courses of the lectures at this, or any incorporate school of Medicine, will be required to pay $10. Graduation fee, $15. Doctors of Medicine are admitted without fee. No Matriculation fee is charged.

Board, in living room, fuel, lights, and washing, may be obtained in good families at from $1.50 to $2.25 per week.

Students who are unacquainted in the village, can by calling at Dr. Palmer's office on their arrival, obtain directions respecting boarding houses.

In presenting this announcement, the trustees of the Vermont Medical College feel ass red that the next course of lectures will fully sustain the reputation which the Institution has so uniformly maintained. The character of the Gentlemen who occupy the several Professorships—the additions which have been made to the museum, chemical apparatus, and Instruments of the College—the creation of a new Professorship (General and Special Pathology) the increased facilities which will be afforded for the prosecution of Practical Anatomy—the completion of the new college Edifice, and its admirable adoption to the purpose for which it was designed, warrant the belief that the course of instruction in its value and extent will be equal to that of any Institution in the country.

For further knowledge of the College, Students are referred to Dr. H. H. Childs, Pittsfield, Mass., Dr. A Clark, N. Y. City, or to Dr. B. R. Palmer, Woodstock Vt.

RUSSELL'S STOMACH BITTERS, may be used in Wine or water.—These celebrated bitters are composed purely of vegetables of the most innocent yet specific virtues. They are recommended particularly for restoring weak constitutions, cleansing and strengthening the stomach, and increasing the appetite—also a preventative against the cholera morbus, fever and ague, removing nausea, vomiting, heart burning, weakness in the breast, pain in the stomach and other symptoms of flatulence and indigestion. One box will tincture one gallon. Price 25 cts. a box.

RUSSELL'S ITCH OINTMENT.—This choice and safe ointment is said to be superior to any now in use, for that disagreeable and loathsome disease, the ITCH. This Ointment is so certain in its operation that no person troubled with the above disorder ought to be without it. It is a remedy for cutaneous eruptions, scorbutic affections of the head, or any other breaking out which arises from sharp humors in the blood. Price 25 cts. a box.

RUSSELL'S VEGETABLE BILLIOUS PILLS, or family physic, for general use, in cases of Jaundice, morbid derangement of the stomach and bowels, loss of appetite, foul breath, costiveness, Piles, and all diseases arising from biliary derangements,—also for correcting the state of the blood, and cleansing the system of foul and vicious humours. These pills are a mild cathartic, producing neither pains nor griping, and are therefore a valuable and highly approved medicine, and are pronounced as such by the most distinguished physicians. Each box containing 38 Pills. Price 37½ cts. a box.

Russell's celebrated SALT RHEUM OINTMENT.—This is compositional by the best and safest remedy ever yet offered to the public for that obstinate disorder SALT RHEUM. Where other means have failed, it has succeeded, and the fact that it has been extensively used by eminent Practitioners speaks volumes in its praise. It is equally efficacious in all diseases of the skin, scald head, ring worms, and the most inveterate itch, &c. &c. Numerous certificates might be obtained, but the proprietor chooses that a fair trial should be the only evidence of its superior efficacy. Price 50 cents a box. For sale by Peck & Spear and Robert Mosely, Burlington; Dr. C. L. Miles, and Hall & Cook, Hinesburgh; S. H. Barnes, Charlotte; L. Janes, Georgia; L. Tyler, Essex; Fuller & Huntington, Richmond. Also, by the druggists and merchants generally throughout the state. y2 9w.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS.—Dr. Goodale's the most popular remedy ever known in America. Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam is the most valuable remedy, now in use for coughs, colds, asthma or phthisic, consumption, whooping cough and pulmonary affections of every kind. Its sale is steadily increasing, and the proprietors are constantly receiving the most favorable accounts of its efficacy. The following new certificates are offered for public examination.

AN INTERESTING CASE.—Extract of a letter from Mr C. S. Clay, Kingston, Ulster co., N. Y., to the proprietors. "Yours of the 9th inst. was duly rec'd. A remarkable cure was effected by the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam in the winter and spring of 1835. The person, Mr. Moody, had been sick a long time with the consumption. His physicians had given him up. He was reduced so low as to be unable to help himself, and was raising a large quantity of blood when he commenced using the Balsam, which has effected a complete cure, and he is now as hale and hearty as ever he was. Mr. Moody has removed from this county, but he has promised me a more detailed account of his case, which I will forward you. C. S CLAY.

Kingston, N. Y. June 25, 1838.

Extract of a letter from Dr. Jacob Myers. The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam has been sold in this county for two years, and the medicine has gained an uncommon celebrity, for it seldom, if ever, fails of having the desired effect. I am by no means in favor of the many nostrums, most of which are impositions upon a credulous public, but that which I know by use to be efficacious, I cannot help but give my approbation thereto. A counterfeit preparation has been offered here by a travelling Agent, of Comstock, N. Y. and those to another article vended here that is strongly suspected to be spurious.

JACOB MYERS, M. D.

Millington, Juniata co. Penn. May 3, 1837 From Dr. Samuel Morrell, to the Proprietors of the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam. I am satisfied that the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam is a valuable medicine. It has been used in this place with complete success in an obstinate complaint of the lungs, accompanied with a severe cough, loss of voice, and the raising of much blood, which had previously resisted many approved prescriptions. After using the Balsam one week, the patient's voice returned and he was able to speak audibly. This case occurred some time since, and the man is now engaged not only in active but laborious business. Respectfully, &c. S. MORRELL.

It is now more than six years since I was brought very low by an affection of the lungs, and my complaint was declared to be incurable by a council of three physicians. I was then restored to as good health as I had enjoyed for many years, by using the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam. Since my recovery I have recommended the Balsam in a great many cases of lung complaints, and so far as I can learn, it has not in a single instance been followed by much benefit, and in many instances it has effected cures when all else had proved. SAMUEL EVERETT.
