READ THE EVENING WORLD'S
BASEBALL EXTRA
IT HAS ALL THE SPORTING NEWS.

MONDAY---THE WORLD'S HALF-RATE SITUATION DAYS---SATURDAY.

The EVENING EDITION World.

THE WORLD
Daily Prints More Exclusive News,
SOCIAL, POLITICAL AND GENERAL,
Than All the Other
NEW YORK NEWSPAPERS COMBINED.

PRICE ONE CENT. NEW YORK, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1891. PRICE ONE CENT.

LAST EDITION.

STARVED TO REVOLT.

Terrible Condition of an Oppressed Peasantry in Russia.

They Rise Hopelessly Against Brutal Tax Collectors.

Feeble Ranks Opposed to Trained Soldiers of the Empire.

(SPECIAL CABLE NEWS SPECIAL.)

ST. PETERSBURG, June 4.—The distress among the peasantry is an terrible problem to solve. The Empire affords no help in its extremity.

In Illinois, Minnesota, the peasants already suffering, sacrifice and only of money but of grain, and Canadians have already died of hunger in Saratoff, Simbirsk, Samara, Nizhni Novgorod and Penza during the last four weeks.

The Minister of the Interior has issued a circular relative to the press, forbidding all allusions to the famine.

Bands of peasants are now scouring the country in search of work, but finding little, pounce houses of the officials sent to collect the taxes.

In Simbirsk and Samara these officials, finding the wretched inhabitants entirely destitute and unable to pay, ordered them flogged. This led to remonstrances, and these proving of no avail, the unfortunate peasants rose en masse and attacked their oppressors, wounding three. An attack was then made upon the coin magazine.

The Governor of Simbirsk being apprised of the affair despatched a strong force to the scene of the disturbance. On their arrival the troops found that the mob, armed with scythes, pitchforks, reaping hooks and stones, were in a very pugnacious mood, and made a stubborn resistance to all attempts to disband them.

A fierce engagement then took place, during which several were killed and many wounded, while hundreds were thrown into prison.

The latest telegrams announce that the rising has finally been put down, but there are fears of serious outbreaks in Kazan, where the distress is even greater.

To add to the prevailing gloom, the crop reports coming from different parts of the Empire are of the most disheartening character.

The protracted drought and bitter frosts that prevailed during the month of April, together with the violent winds that swept over the greater part of European Russia, have practically destroyed all agricultural produce.

The Governor of Kherson, in Southern Russia, a hundred miles from Odessa, reports that the Winter crops have actually disappeared from the ground and that the Spring wheat is dying for want of rain.

From Tavsov and Kieff the same news regarding the agricultural outlook is received.

Tragic Week for Spanish Bull-Fighters—Four of Them Buried.

(DUPLICATE CABLE NEWS SPECIAL.)

MADRID, June 4.—The past week will long be remembered as one of the most tragical periods in the history of bull-fighting in Spain.

Two matadores and one banderillero have been killed in the bull-rings of Madrid, Aranjuez and Cordova; five others have been wounded and one disabled for life.

To complete this chapter of accidents a picador was thrown by an infuriated bull with such violence against the barrier of the ring that he has since died from concussion of the brain.

Yesterday was virtually made a public holiday, on the occasion of the burial of the dead bull-fighters. The funerals were conducted with great pomp, the comrades of the dead men, journalists, amateurs of all ranks and many officials joining the cortege.

Ex-King Milan Can Give Sir Gordon Cumming Points on Baccarat.

(DUPLICATE CABLE NEWS SPECIAL.)

PARIS, June 4.—Ex-King Milan, who has not left his gambling habits behind him in Servia, has, during the past two days, been wooing the Goddess Fortune in one of her semi-public temples here with unusual success.

He is credited, on the best authority, with having won 141,000 francs ($28,000) at baccarat.

French Financiers to Take Portuguese Tobacco Monopoly Bonds.

(BY CABLE TO THE EVENING NEWS ASSOCIATION.)

PARIS, June 4.—A contract has been signed by Senor Cavalho, the Portuguese Minister of Finance, with a syndicate of French financiers by which the latter agree to take 60,000 of the nine of Portugal's monopoly bonds at 350 francs, with the option of taking the remaining 60,000, but at a higher price.

BONDS FOR BRIDGE TERMINALS.

Proposition to Come Before the Apportionment Board.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment will to-morrow consider the proposition to issue bonds for $500,000 for the improvement of the terminals of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The money, one half what the city is required to pay for the purpose under the provisions of the act passed at the recent session of the Legislature.

JUDGE WILLIAM ALLEN DEAD.

A Venerable Member of the Massachusetts Supreme Bench.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 4.—Judge William Allen, one of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, died yesterday, late at night.

He was seventy-six years of age and one of the oldest judges in the country.

A BETTER NIGHT FOR SIR JOHN.

Condition of Canada's Premier but Little Changed To-Day.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

OTTAWA, June 4.—This morning's 9 o'clock bulletin from Sir John Macdonald's bedside was encouraging.

"A restless night, but a better night, without the alarming symptoms of Tuesday morning. He is quite conscious and slept a good deal during the night.

"The symptoms generally are as yesterday. His respiration is good, his pulse fair and is of the same character as during the past two days."

JUGIRO AGAIN RESENTENCED.

The Fourth Murderer to Die the Week of July 6.

Roger M. Sherman Appears with Some New and Old Objections.

State Detective James Jackson brought down from Sing Sing this morning Ichiuya Jugiro, the Japanese waiter who murdered Mura Commi by thrusting a carving knife clear through his body, cleaving the heart, in October, 1889.

Jugiro was brought down on an order signed by Justice Andrews, to appear before the General Term of the Supreme Court, when a new time for his execution was to be fixed.

Jugiro reached the brown-stone Court House handcuffed at 10 o'clock. He had been shorn of the long, straight black hair that hung on his shoulders when he was brought down to be resentenced by the late Justice Brady, but, at last, but his stiff black beard was intact, and he was anything but pretty to look at.

Jugiro stood with bowed head in the window of McKenzie Semple's room, while he was eyed by a score of curious people.

The Jap was apparently full of fear. His eyes darted furtively as if he expected a blow and presently tears stole out of his eyes and rolled down his stiff black beard.

Detective Jackson says the Jap does not comprehend these movements, and is apprehensive that his head may be chopped off at any moment.

At 11 o'clock Jugiro was taken to the General Term, where Presiding Justice Van Brunt and Justices Barrett and Patterson were sitting.

Japanese Vice-Consul Kato was in court to act as interpreter if needed, and Roger M. Sherman was on hand with a brief.

District-Attorney Nicoll and Assistant District-Attorney Simms were ready, but it was noon when the Court was at liberty to listen.

Mr. Nicoll moved that a time be fixed for the execution of the sentence of death heretofore pronounced against Jugiro.

Phil Waldheimer arose to say for Jacob Herlinger, one of Jugiro's former counsel, that that gentleman was ill and had nothing to say at this time, any way.

Then Roger M. Sherman arose.

"By what authority do you appear here?" bluntly demanded Presiding Justice Van Brunt of the writ-of-habeas-corpus man who is popularly supposed to act in the interest of the Westinghouse Electric Company.

"By the retainer of the defendant," blandly returned the lawyer. "He is in court, you may question him."

Then Mr. Sherman objected to the fixing of a new time for the electrocution on the old ground, that the lawyer assigned to his defense, Heinzelman, was not a lawyer, and might as well have been a shoemaker, so far as compliance with the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution, guaranteeing every accused person the right of counsel, was concerned.

Mr. Sherman said that the law of nations guaranteed Jugiro, a subject of the Emperor of Japan, the same rights that a citizen of the United States would be entitled to.

Then the lawyer said that he objected on the other ground that the electric dynamo now set up at Sing Sing had a power of only 1,050 volts and 18 amperes, which would overcome only 23,100 ohms of resistance; that the power of electrical resistance in Jugiro, capable of being measured by instruments of precision, is far in excess of that number of ohms, and the Sing Sing dynamo would not kill him instantly and painlessly, but would have the necessary effect of slowly torturing him to death.

Mr. Sherman also called attention to the fact that the Sing Sing dynamo was an alternating current machine, while the statute expressly provided that the death penalty should be inflicted by passing a continuous current of electricity through the body of the condemned sufficient to produce instant and painless death.

Mr. Sherman then read from his papers the following statement:

"Defendant further alleges that a machine of exactly similar dynamic force now used at the State Prison at Auburn to put one, William Kemmler, to death; that the said machine demonstrated its power to violently throw said Kemmler out of contact with the electrodes from any position into which the skill, strength and appliances of man can bind a human body with the result that an arc was formed between the base of his spine and the electrode which had been firmly secured thereto, so that the muscles of his back were slowly roasted and he was gradually burned to death, being only partially and from time to time unconscious, and that no other result can be caused by any use of said dynamo."

All this availed not, for, at the conclusion of the lawyer's remarks, Presiding Justice Van Brunt said, as if reciting:

"The Court has made due inquiry into the circumstances of this case, in accordance with the provisions of section 505 of the Code, and sees no legal reason why the execution of the sentence heretofore pronounced should not be done.

"We fix as the time for such execution the week beginning Monday, July 6, 1891, and shall address the warrant to the Warden, &c."

The Jap was taken back to Sing Sing, and will sleep in his cell in the chamber of death tonight.

Roger Sherman said strongly, however, that Jugiro was not dead yet.

FIGHT FOR THE IRISH FUND.

Eugene Kelly Says O'Neill Does Not Own Any of the Money.

Richard O'Neill's suit to recover $1,000, Eugene Kelly from disposal of Parnell, Irish fund raised at the prosecution before and offered last November, was heard by Justice Barrett this morning in the Kings County Supreme Court.

O'Neill claims that the money was raised by Mr. Parnell, and that Mr. Kelly promised to hand it to Parnell or to some other person designated by Mr. Parnell.

Eugene Kelly made affidavit that O'Neill's name is not on the subscription roll, and that he is not the owner of the money.

Patrick Ford, President of the Municipal Council, and Secretary Lockwood, of the United Irish Societies, were heard as witnesses.

Lawyer Kennedy argued that Mr. Kelly was only responsible for $100, which O'Neill could recover in a civil suit.

Justice Barrett reserved decision.

PAYMASTER WARD ACCUSED.

$9,000 Shortage on the Delaware and Hudson's Books.

The Accused Man is Sick, but Protests His Innocence.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

ALBANY, N. Y., June 4.—[illegible] the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, [illegible] to be a shortage of about $9,000 over [illegible] against Ward.

As a result, Ward was [illegible] charged of making away with the money.

Ward denies the charge, [illegible] that he can explain everything satisfactorily.

He [illegible] the accident [illegible] this terrible ordeal [illegible] the verge of death. He [illegible] from the subject, [illegible] unmanly murmurs:

"It's all a mistake, all wrong. Why, I could easily get to the office!"

Ward's account is one of necessity more complicated, and none but he can fully explain them.

President William Richards, of the Delaware Company, Ward's bondsman, says he is making a thorough investigation.

Ward has been in the company's employ for twenty years, and is a very popular and highly respected man.

Ward handled about $25,000 a month of the Company's money. He is forty-five years old.

FOR KILLING EMILY TAYLOR.

Seven Jurors Secured for the Trial of Henry C. Fanning.

The trial of Henry C. Fanning, the Ninth Regiment First Sergeant, who is charged with the murder of Mrs. Emily Taylor, was begun in Part III., General Sessions, before Justice Martine, this morning.

Fanning was represented by Attorney Louis Mayer. Assistant District-Attorney Wildman looking after the interests of the people.

Up to 1 o'clock this afternoon, seventeen talesmen had been examined and the following jurors chosen:

J. H. Mandeville, foreman, 110 Ninth avenue.

George P. Schinzel, jr., 248 East Eighty-second street.

George N. Bliss, dry goods, 840 Broadway.

Joseph H. Whitmore, painting and roofing, 217 West Twenty-first street.

Louis Cohen, furs, 150 Mercer street.

Joseph Coulter, dry-goods commission, 1 Greene street.

Otto C. Dunkelder, cigars, 95 Fulton street.

All o'clock the court took a recess.

DIED UNDER CHLOROFORM.

Fatal Attempt at an Operation at the German Hospital.

Elise Weiler, forty years old, died at the German Hospital this morning, Madison avenue and Seventy-seventh street, from the effects of a second dose of chloroform, given as a preliminary to an operation.

Strikers Mobbed Detective Trainor.

Detective-sergeant Trainor reported to the District-Attorney to-day that when he arrested Simon Tigerat, a striking cabinetmaker, for whom a bench warrant had been issued, a crowd of the cabinetmaker's friends had attacked him and threatened serious injury. He [illegible] the prisoner into General Sessions, however, where he was released on $1,000 bail.

Thieving with a Razor.

Charles A. Church, colored, was arraigned in court in the Tombs police court this morning charged with robbery. [illegible] to cut off the [illegible] while he was sleeping, and [illegible] the [illegible] in the Bowery [illegible] Church was held in $1,000 bail for trial at the Sessions.

The Questions.

[illegible]

NEW LINE FOR SIR GORDON.

Attempt to Prove that the Baccarat Players Drank Too Much.

Arthur Wilson Admits that the Prince Owned the Counters.

[illegible]

LUMBER WAR WAXES HOTTER.

Dealers Say They Will Negotiate No Peace with the Delegates.

The Entire Association in Conference Behind Closed Doors.

[illegible]

UNCLE SAM—That's a p'ns was an awful worry and tribulation when I had it, but if I ever get hold of another I'll bear the burden more easily.

CITY NEWS TERSELY TOLD.

To-Day's Record of Minor Happenings About Town.

Thrown from a Carriage and Hurt.

Two ladies and a gentleman were thrown out of a carriage on Ocean avenue, Jersey City, early this morning, and one of the ladies, Mrs. Schonberg, of Bayonne, was seriously injured. All the occupants were cut and bruised and were dressed at the police station to have their cuts sewed.

Foundling in a Coal Cart.

John Hansen, of 30 East Sixty-fourth street, found a month-old baby boy in his coal cart at Sixty-fourth street and Second avenue this morning. Patrolman W. Burke, of the East Sixty-fourth street station, found a baby girl on the doorstep. Both were taken care of by the police.

Sam Walker Lost Arm.

Sam Walk, a colored man, of 30 Thirteenth street, Jersey City, was found early this morning unconscious with a mutilated arm in a vacant lot. He had evidently been robbed and thrown through the window of Amanda Johnson's house, which was close by. He lost his arm at a gang of boilerplate that had been adjusting him.

Rev. Dr. Van Dyke's Will.

The will of the Rev. Henry J. Van Dyke was filed in the Surrogate's office this morning. The estate, personal, he was devised to Van Dyke and two friends, namely, Dr. Talbot and Robert Wheeldon, executors and executrix. Dr. Van Dyke's property is left to his widow.

One County Democrat Gets In.

Commissioner Mayer [illegible] County, of [illegible] Assembly District [illegible] Democrat, by a majority of 1,500. Mr. Van Buskirk's Republican opponent was [illegible].

Fire Got the Insurance Co. Parts.

Some one called the fire department to a house at [illegible] this morning. The house is the property of Mrs. A. Rogers, of [illegible] Avenue. A [illegible] occupied the house. [illegible]

Found Drowned in Central Park.

The body of a young man was found in the lake in Central Park this morning. [illegible] Coroner Hoeffler was notified and took charge of the body. The young man was about twenty years old, [illegible] dressed in a blue suit. [illegible]

Spring Stakes Entries.

[illegible]

FOSTER IN WALL STREET.

He Reserves Decision on the Question of Extension.

Secretary of the Treasury Foster is in town [illegible] with New York bankers and [illegible] the feasibility of extending the [illegible] per cent bonds with interest at [illegible] per cent.

The Secretary is shopping at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where he arrived last night with his private secretary, Mr. Holcomb.

On his way from Washington a nervous Indianapolis accidentally knocked Secretary Foster's [illegible] out of the window, and [illegible] a [illegible] wearing an old crush hat that a [illegible] jammed into by a French.

The incident [illegible] appeared in a [illegible] which tipped off the new hightgras [illegible] and imperfection.

The Secretary is looking well.

[illegible] this morning, after last night's [illegible] with Comptroller Thomas, Collector [illegible], Senator Hiscock, Elihu Morgan, Congressman Patterson, Chauncey M. Depew, Cornelius Van Cott, Cornelius N. Bliss and other prominent Republicans, and [illegible] the general discussion with the [illegible].

[illegible] Secretary [illegible] and [illegible] the meaning and [illegible] of the [illegible] interest.

[illegible] Secretary [illegible] a personal [illegible] Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, [illegible] Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, [illegible] Mr. Morrison, of Illinois,