WHY DID HE SHOOT HIMSELF?

Howard Johnson's Suicide Causes a Sensation in Maiden Lane.

The suicide of Howard L. Johnson, the well-known tobacco merchant, who shot a bullet into his brain at his country home in Ridgewood, N. J., caused a sensation this morning in Maiden lane when the fact became known.

Mr. Johnson was one of the best known merchants in the street. For years the firm of Price & Johnson was located at 110 Maiden lane and did a big business.

Four years ago William M. Price, the senior member of the firm died. Mr. Johnson continued the business until about eighteen months ago, when he closed out the establishment and was succeeded by Wedgmann & Engelberg.

It was supposed that Mr. Johnson retired from active business with a competence. It being understood that his income was something like $15,000 a year.

He was a very fine-looking man about thirty-five years old, with dark brown hair just turning gray and a brown mustache. His military bearing made him a notable figure in the street. He was spoken of as a gentleman, every inch, and was popular with all with whom he came in contact.

With his beautiful wife he lived for the last three years on the pleasant "Englewood" plain at 1147 Lexington avenue, corner of Eighty-first street. They were childless.

Mrs. Johnson's mother made her home with them. Their apartments were sumptuously furnished, and apparently nothing was lacking to complete their happiness.

Mr. Johnson was very liberal with his "tips," and the janitor and hall boys regarded him with affection. They say he was steady in his habits.

The family moved to Ridgewood, N. J., May 2 last. Mr. Johnson having purchased the old Zabriskie homestead on the Paramus. The house is three miles from the Ridgewood depot, and is surrounded by shady and attractive grounds.

Repairs were begun on the old mansion, which was to be modernized, and this, together with the beauty of his wife and his Maiden lane friends made the new comers the subject of the country gossip.

It soon began to be rumored that Mr. Johnson was a hard drinker and that his beautiful wife had reproved him to remove to the country, in order to get him away from temptation.

Mrs. Johnson's brother, a young man named Bradley, came from Chicago to spend the Summer on the place, and the frequency with which one of the Jefferson carriages stood in front of a Ridgewood saloon was commented upon.

Monday evening Mr. Johnson and young Bradley returned home celebrating under the influence of liquor. It is said that Mr. Johnson raved and talked incoherently. He was finally induced to retire.

Shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday morning he approached his mother-in-law on the lawn, and, fastening a flower on her breast, said: "I'll be a good boy for the future."

Then he went to his bedroom on the second floor and closed the door. In a few minutes the report of a pistol was heard.

When the frightened members of the family reached the room, they found him lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

Beside him lay a revolver. The story of his death was plain. He had deliberately put the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger. The ball passed directly through the brain and was found imbedded in the wall.

There was another shot, and the ball crashed through a large mirror in front of which he had stood to shoot himself. The position in death was in testing the reliability of his weapon the suicide chose the latter as his first target, but this of course is only surmise.

Before Dr. Demond, who was summoned, arrived, Mr. Johnson was dead.

The family could assign no reason for the rash act. Mr. Johnson they said, was not in financial difficulties and his home life was pleasant.

Besides he made plans for beautifying his new home, which indicated that he looked forward to life with pleasure.

He was insured for $30,000, but this they said could have nothing to do with his deed.

Coroner Dryes, of Ridgewood, will hold an inquest, but the date has not been set.

World's Fair Site Settled.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

CHICAGO, June 24.—At a meeting of the World's Fair Directors last night, the Lake front site question was finally settled. The question was where to place the art palace over which so much discussion has been had. The directors decided on Jackson Park, thus making a united site.

A resolution was passed reaffirming the action of the late Board of Directors in locating the entire exhibit at Jackson Park; rescinding the action of the committee on Grounds and Buildings in reference to this matter and declaring that any shifting of the plans at this late day is dangerous and would lessen the chances for completing the great work.

RHETT FREE ON $2,000 BAIL.

Acquitted on One Charge, but Two More Indictments Are Pending.

William B. Rhett, who was acquitted by a jury on the charge of abduction, was released from custody at noon to-day. Two additional similar indictments remain against him, based on the affidavits of the girls Polly Morris and Katie Flynn.

Judge Martine committed Rhett to the Tombs after his acquittal last night, where he spent the night, but his counsel, Col. Fellows and ex-Senator Grady, were at the District Attorney's office early this morning, where after a brief consultation with acting District Attorney Bedford, young Rhett was sent for.

The entire party then went before Judge Martine, in Part III., General Sessions, and Col. Fellows moved that bail be fixed on the two remaining indictments against the prisoner.

Judge Martine then fixed the bail at $1,000 on each indictment.

Francis W. Day, of 169 Fulton street, Brooklyn, became his bondsman, qualifying in $30,000 worth of Brooklyn real estate.

Rhett then left the building amid a shower of congratulations from court attaches and friends.

It is not likely that he will ever be called to trial.

Reprieved By the President.
