Little Minch Raises Cain, but Gets a Run Just the Same.

TEA TRAY'S GO-AS-YOU-PLEASE

Seven Races at Jerome To-Morrow —Long Branch Handicap.

The racing at Brighton Beach yesterday was squarely up to the mark, and no one could complain that the best horses did not win. There was some grumbling over the delay at the start in the third race. It was nearly three-quarters of an hour before the horses got away. Little Minch, the worst actor at the post that turfmen ever saw, raised Cain. Starter Rowe, however, believes that every horse that comes to the post shall have a fair start, and in this he is to be commended.

* * *

Tea Tray won his first race yesterday. He only had 98 pounds up, and these were Billy Lakeland's instructions to Weber, the jockey: "Let him run as he pleases. If he wants to go out in front let him go. You sit still and hold on." Weber did as he was told. He sat still, and Tea Tray went out in front and romped in a winner by twelve lengths.

* * *

Little Minch kicked at Eclipse while the horses were at the post in the third race yesterday. He missed Eclipse but caught Bender, the jockey, and lifted him clear off his horse. Bender was not hurt seriously.

* * *

The Monmouth Park Association will shift to old Jerome to-morrow and seven races will be the attraction.

* * *

The report that "Dare-Devil" Billy Fitzpatrick, the jockey, had died in Chicago, fortunately proved untrue. "Fitz" is getting around all right and will be ready to ride in a few days.

* * *

Fires have become so frequent in the vicinity of Morris Park that Mr. Morris has commenced to organize a fire department. Two thousand feet of hose and two hand engines will constitute the apparatus.

* * *

Charles Reed has decided to sell out his entire stable with the exception of the fillies Annie and Reilly, whom he will reserve as breeders. The colt Fairview is lame and will be shipped to Tennessee. The others will be put up at auction.

* * *

Jimmy McLaughlin had the mount on Volunteer in the last race yesterday, which caused the bookies to offer only 3 to 5 against him. The money came in on Little Minch quantities that at the close she was at 4 to 5 and Volunteer at 4 to 5. Little Won.

* * *

Take a friendly tip and wear baseball shoes at Brighton. Those toboggan slides are becoming very glassy.

Secretary Crickmore, of the Monmouth Racing Association, announces the following weights for the Long Branch Handicap, at a mile and a quarter, to be run at Jerome Park to-morrow: Tenny, 130; Riley, 125, Judge Morrow and Kon, 123, each; Firenze, 122; Tristan, 120; Prince Royal, 118; Banquet, 116; Clarendon, 114; Rhomo, 112; Diablo and Stockton, 107 each; Inverness, 106; Cynosure, Reporter and Carroll, 105 each; Revolt, Rey del Rey and English Lady, 104 each; Montague, 103; Chatham, Uncle Grande, Onaway and Dr. Helmuth, 100 each; Westchester, 98; Judge Post and Rhoda, 97 each; Lavinda and San Juan, 96 each; Kildare, 95; Reckon, 93; Sirocco and Luna, 90 lb. each.

DR. BEERS CENSURED.

Coroner's Inquest Upon the Alleged Autopsy on Kumpf's Body.

The Coroner's Jury to-day brought in a verdict of accidental death in the case of Antonio Kumpf, killed in Hoe & Co.'s Works on June 29, and on the body an illegal autopsy was performed.

The jury censured Dr. William H. Beers for refusing to deliver up the body on a Coroner's order.

VALDES PLEADED GUILTY.

Acknowledged the Theft of $30,000 Worth of Diamonds.

Recorder Smyth Hears His Story and Remands Him for Sentence.

Young William C. Duncan, alias E. Valdes, who stole $30,000 worth of diamonds from his employers, Lewisohn & Co., of 41 Maiden lane, last January, sold $2,000 worth of them, deposited the rest in the Astor House safe and then mysteriously disappeared, is a very much broken up young man to-day.

He appeared at the Astor House late last night and asked for his package, not knowing that his crime had been discovered. Inside the next hour he was locked up in a cell at Police Headquarters.

The hotel clerk recognized him when he gave the name of Valdes.

He was arraigned before Recorder Smyth, in General Sessions, this morning. He is only seventeen years old, tall and loose-jointed, with a smooth, boyish face, dark hair and blue eyes.

He wore a stylish gray suit, and his bronzed face showed that he had been living a great deal out of doors.

In fact he has been cutting a wide swath in Spain, Morocco, Algiers, Italy and France. He left New York Jan. 27 and went directly to Lisbon on a vessel sailing from Brooklyn, and there met some wealthy Americans, with whom he travelled all over Southern Europe and Northern Africa.

He had $1,300 in his pocket, the proceeds of the diamonds he had sold, and got $500 more from his new friends when that ran out by representing that he had wealthy relatives in this country.

When he got back to Philadelphia two days ago, he had a letter of introduction to a diamond broker named Marsh, in that city. He made arrangements with him to take the spoil which he had left in the Astor House and supposed was still there, for he had not read the dispatches published during his absence. He came on here yesterday afternoon to get the diamonds.

When asked by the Recorder what plea he offered to the indictment found against him last January, he said, in a trembling voice, that he had no lawyer and had seen none of his friends.

Lawyer Berlinger was assigned by the Court to appear for him, and after a few minutes' conversation with him the young man said he would plead guilty to larceny in the first degree as charged in the indictment.

He was remanded until Friday for sentence. He is of a good family. His uncle is congressman Whitelaw, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., where his mother also lives.

THE CIGARETTE COST HIM $500.

He Broke a Promise and Received Only Half the Reward.

A young man of this city, who attained his majority recently, found, when he went to the breakfast table in the morning, a $500 bill beneath his plate, says the Middletown Argus.

The boy looked at his father with pleased surprise, and when he began to give utterance to his thanks, was reminded by his father that there was no occasion for any expressions of gratitude; that he had been told, several years ago that he would receive $1,000 when twenty one years old, if, when he reached that age, he could assure his father that he had never smoked or chewed tobacco or drank liquor.

The father then reminded his son that, a few years ago, he had smoked a cigarette, and that that one lapse had cost him just $500.

He then offered to make another bargain with the boy, or, as we should say, young man, to the effect that if, when he was twenty-five years old, he knew no more of the taste of tobacco and of liquor than he now did, a thousand dollars was to be placed to his credit in the bank.

UNREASONABLE WOMEN.

Two Old Grangers Discuss the Perversity of the Sex.

Two old fellows were in the seat behind me in the car. They had just met by accident after a long separation, and having discussed the weather, the crops and the Farmers' Alliance they fell upon domestic matters, says the Chicago Herald.

"You married a Grayling," didn't you?"

"Yes, my first woman was a Grayling. Good woman, too."

"Yes, I bet she was good if she was one of old H ram Grayling's girls."

"Well, she wasn't as good to work as some of the other girls. Now, when it comes to pickin' bresh and helpin' with the clearin' she wasn't much good; said her back gave out—and all that."

"Naw," said the other sympathetically.

"Yes, but then she was better than most women. I didn't do as well the last time."

"Is that so? Let's see: who did you marry the last time?"

"I married that girl of Ben Evans's, you know—the one that used to look so healthy. She got sick with typhoid fever right after harvest two years ago, and lost all her hair.

"When she got well she was always dingin' me for money to buy a switch. Now, my first wife had on a good switch when she died, and we didn't bury it with her. But do you think the Evans woman would put that thing on her head? No, sir. No, siree. She said if I couldn't afford as many hair switches as I could wives I might go to grass for all her. Just goes on talkin' that way, you know."

"Too bad!" said the other man. "She'll be wantin' a new coffin all to herself the next thing you know."

AMERICA'S FIRST STRIKE.

It Was by Cincinnati Iron-workers and Proved a Great Failure.

"Do you know that this Government had been in existence over fifty years before such a thing as a strike was known among the laboring people?" asked Frank Grassner, of Cincinnati, as he leaned thoughtfully against the cigar-stand at the Occidental yesterday, says the San Francisco Call.

"Yes, sir, fifty years, and it was reserved for Ohio to be the scene of the first revolt.

"It was in 1840, in June, I think, that the employees of Wol & Co.'s foundry in Lincin ati struck for an increase in pay, and in a few days it spread so as to include all the iron-workers of the city.

"For more than a month both sides held out, and at the end of that time the laborers succeeded in securing money with which to start a co-operative foundry. They chose a business manager and a superintendent from among their own number, and started out with a great boom.

"At the end of three years they went to the wall, and after everything was cleaned up they were still $300,000 behind.

"As each of the incorporators was personally responsible under the Ohio law for the liabilities of the concern, without limitation as to time, every one of the strikers was compelled to leave the State in order to prevent his savings from being seized to satisfy the creditors. So ended the first strike."

BRIGHT SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Some Queer Replies Given to Geographical Questions.

The following answers given at a public school examination for promotion to the fourth class, are cited by Dr. McLellan in his special report on the Ontario system of education, published in the report of the Minister of Education:

"Quebec is the capital of the United States."

"The Arctic ocean flows into the Mississippi."

"The Pacific ocean flows into the Hudson Bay."

"The Gulf of Mexico flows into the Arctic ocean."

"An estuary is land less than 1,000 feet high above the sea-level."

"A valley is water lying between hills."

"A valley is the top of a mountain."

"A lake is a piece of land with water all around it."

"The products of Canada are oatmeal, turnips and figs."

"A watershed is a shelter place for ships."

The examination at which this astonishing information was brought to light was, according to the Barrie Examiner, held in that town. All the candidates but one secured promotion.

SQUELCHING A MASHER.

A Made-Up Tale That Had a Long-Desired Effect.

There were a dozen people in the post-office corridor yesterday noon, says the Detroit Free Press, when a young woman suddenly turned on a middle-aged man with:

"Why, Mr. Higginson, how do you do, and how are all the family! I saw in the papers that your wife was getting a divorce on the ground of cruelty, but I couldn't believe it. Tell me all about it."

"You—you are mistaken!" he managed to reply after two or three efforts.

"Oh, I can't be!" she artlessly replied.

"But you are. My name is not Higginson, and my wife has not applied for a divorce."

"Dear, dear me! But you have followed me all over the streets for more than two hours, and finally trailed me in here, and all the time I was saying to myself, 'That's Mr. Higginson, whose wife is getting a divorce, because he is so ugly tempered she can't live with him, and he wants to tell me all about it.' I beg your pardon."

There was no need of it, however, as he was making a grand skip for the street before she got to the end of her story.
