CAPT. BROGAN NOT ON TRIAL.

Dive-Keeper Franchi Not Allowed to Air His Grievance.

But a Host of Friends Said His Place Was Orderly.

President Alex. Meakim is on his vacation at Deer Park, N. J., and Commissioner Fitzpatrick was not at all well, but these things did not seem to interfere with the hearing on the motion of Mr. Meakim that the Board of Excise revoke the license of Louis Franchi.

Franchi is the keeper of the dive at Bleecker street and South Fifth avenue where "The" Allen was stabbed in a brawl by John Carraro, "the Jap," last month.

President Meakim's motion was made on newspaper information as to the very bad character of Franchi's place.

A prize-fight is said to have taken place within its sacred precincts recently, and the stories of the untoward performances of dissolute women, white and black, and the thieves, thugs and other notorious characters that make it their rendezvous, were only a prelude to the furious fight in which "the Jap" nearly killed "The" Allen with an icepick.

The hearing began last week, but was adjourned until to-day because of the absence of Commissioner Meakim. But Mr. Meakim went away on his vacation, and left word that he had no evidence to add to that of Capt. Brogan and the several officers who testified to the bad character of Franchi's place.

Therefore the case was with the defense to-day, and the hearing began at 11.15 o'clock before an audience that not only filled the chamber, but overflowed into the antechamber.

Franchi, clad in a suit of blue serge and an outing shirt, sat beside his lawyer, C. E. Le Barbier and whispered to him in an earnest way, almost hissing at times.

Mr. Le Barbier began with a motion for a dismissal of the charges.

This was denied, and then the lawyer said he'd recall Capt. Brogan for cross-examination.

The first question asked was:

"Captain, are there any other disorderly places in your precinct?"

Capt. Brogan reddened and objected. The question was ruled out and then the lawyer asked:

"Does you know Otto Zoeffel's place?"

This was ruled out too, and then a number of citizens were called to tell what they knew of Louis H. Franchi and his place.

Truckman Maurice Burns, of 100 Gold street, knew all about the place and would stake his reputation as a truckman on its respectability.

Cyprien Gouset, a French confectioner at 105 South Fifth avenue, had frequently called at Franchi's and thought that it was an orderly, respectable place.

Matthews, the wine merchant at No. 5 Bridge Vaults, Frankfort street, had lost track of Louis H. Franchi the past five years, but said his business reputation was first rate.

George Bessanti, who works for Matthews, had known Franchi fourteen years and his father before him, and thought he kept a respectable place.

Louis Gandolfi, who keeps a "place" at 124-126 South Fifth avenue, thought Franchi was a gentleman.

None of these witnesses had ever seen any fighting in the place nor women soliciting on the street near by or in the saloon.

Franchi then took the stand in his own behalf and after he had told that he was twenty-six years old, he was asked:

"Do you know Capt. Brogan?"

"Now, I may as well tell you on the start," said Judge Koch, "that if you are going into the charges made by Mr. Franchi against Capt. Brogan as reported by the newspapers, we can't allow that. Capt. Brogan is not on trial here."

This rather took the lawyer aback, for Franchi charges that these complaints against him are due to police persecution growing out of his refusal to pay $100 last Christmas to a messenger alleged to have been sent to him by Capt. Brogan.

Franchi proclaimed vehemently, in answer to questions, that his was the most orderly place in the Fifteenth Precinct; that he never sells a pint of beer nor sells liquor after 1 o'clock in the morning, nor on Sundays.

Commissioner Fitzpatrick asked:

"What were your personal relations with Mr. Theodore Allen last Fall?"

"I never had five cents' worth of relations with him outside of selling him drinks," said Franchi. "He is not very nice—friendly with me, but we never had any hostilities."

As to the charge that his place was a resort for thieves and the like Franchi said:

"There have been thieves sent in there to be seen there by Capt. Brogan, I believe. But I don't know the people that are named by the police.

"As to that sneak thief, Willet, that Officer McCord speaks about—that man was killed last Fall at Thompson and Grand streets, and yet McCord swears he saw him in my place last week."

"That closes our case," said Lawyer Le Barbier, and the hearing was over.

The full Excise Board will decide in a couple of weeks whether Franchi shall continue to sell liquors at his place.

EIGHT PAPERS INDICTED.

The "Tribune" Escaped by Not Publishing Electrocution Details.

The Grand Jury to-day brought in indictments against the editors or publishers of all the morning newspapers that printed detailed accounts of the electrocution at Sing Sing, July 7, of the four condemned murderers, Slocum, Wood, Sadler and Jugiro.

The indictments are against Joseph Pulitzer, of THE WORLD; William M. Laffan, publisher of the Sun; Bradford Merrill, managing editor of the Press; George W. Turner, of the Recorder; John A. Cockerill, editor of the Advertiser, and Charles E. Miller, managing editor of the Times.

The Tribune is omitted in the indictments, which are drawn under the provisions of section 507 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and charge the indicted newspaper men with the misdemeanor of having printed the news of the quadruple execution in defiance of the Electrocution law. The indictment alleges:

"And afterwards, to wit, on the eight day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and ninety-one, at the city of New York, in the county of New York aforesaid, the said name of editor, of the said city and county, did unlawfully publish, and cause and procure to be published in a certain newspaper published in the said city of New York, called the name of newspaper, a certain account of the details of the said execution, beyond the statement of the fact that the said Joseph Wood, Harris A. Sadler, James J. Slocum and Seidlico Jugiro were, on the said seventh day of July in the year last aforesaid, duly executed according to law in the said prison, which said account is as follows, that is to say—here the article is set forth—against the form of the statute in such case made and provided and against the peace of the people of the State of New York and their dignity."

ORDER OF FOX BITES.

Members Have Their Right Hands Cruelly Branded.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Aug. 4.—A prominent order of this city has just made a discovery that astonished him.

He has three sons, ranging from nine to fifteen years, and on the back of the right hand of each he noticed a wound about an inch in length and half an inch in width.

Their wounds proved to be the initiatory mark of the "Order of Fox Bites," an association existing among boys for mutual aid in time of squabbles, fights, &c.

Any boy who cannot stand the branding of his hand is regarded as unworthy to membership.

Sympathy for Striking Smelters.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 4.—A citizens' mass-meeting is announced for to-day to express sympathy for the striking smelters. Everything is now quiet and no trouble is expected to-night.

Dr. Worcester Accepts Union's Call.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 4.—The Rev. Dr. John H. Worcester has formally notified the Directors of the Union Theological Seminary of his acceptance of the Professorship tendered him.

THIRD AVENUE PAVERS QUIT.

Over 3,000 Men Affected by the Cable Road's Troubles.

Quarrymen May Be Called Upon to Support the Strikers.

The ranks of the striking rammers and pavers was augmented this morning by the men employed on the Third avenue cable road. These men had been at work until yesterday, when orders were issued that they should stop operations beginning this morning.

Not a rammer or paver is at work now from the Battery to One Hundred and Forty-ninth street and Robbins avenue, except on odd jobs which the men will be allowed to complete. No new jobs will be undertaken until the trouble is ended.

It is estimated that about six hundred rammers and pavers are affected by the strike in this city, and from 2,000 to 2,500 quarrymen outside the city.

Should the trouble not be ended in a few days, the granite men, building material men and other kindred trades will be called on to go out on strike and thus assist the rammers and pavers. This, however, will only be done as a last resource.

The streets where the strike is in operation and work has been suspended are One Hundred and Forty-ninth street and Robbins avenue, Third and Sixth avenue and Broadway, along the line of the cable roads; West Sixty-fourth street, West Twenty-third street and Washington street, in fact, on all the streets where paving was being done.

STONE HANDLERS OUT, TOO.

Besides the pavers, handlers and cippers, a number of stone handlers are out, because there is no work for them to do.

The strike was ordered by District Assembly No. 49 because of the firms of Booth, Pierce & Co. and Booth Bros. & Co. employing non-union men. Twenty boats loaded with stone belonging to these firms are tied up and will not be unloaded until the trouble is ended.

MAY EXTEND TO BROOKLYN.

A rumor was in circulation that the strike would extend to Brooklyn, and also that the contractors were going to put a non-union gang to work. Inquiries, however, revealed that there was no truth in these reports.

Secretary William McNair, of District Assembly No. 49, was seen at his office this morning by an EVENING WORLD reporter.

He said he thought that the trouble would soon be ended. If Stevedore Fitzpatrick was thrown overboard by the contractors everything, according to Mr. McNair, would be harmonious.

"We had a great time yesterday and this morning," said Mr. McNair. "A friend of the Booth people went around a number of saloon joints and said he had been told to order the men who were out for return to work, as the trouble had been settled. Many of them did so, and we had to send agents around to these places and order the men out again.

"Fitzpatrick, the stevedore on whose account the strike was inaugurated, says that he unloaded stone yesterday and was doing it today. He thought he would be able to get all the work he wanted.

"A large number of contractors are affected by the strike, among them being Messrs. Grimmalds, Smith, Kelly, McCullough, Garvity and Pollock. They would be greatly pleased by the ending of the strike.

CONFERENCE OF CONTRACTORS.

This forenoon a conference of the contractors with the foremen of different gangs of pavers and rammers is being held at Brown Brothers' office, 149 Bank street. It is hoped by the interested that a peaceful settlement of the whole difficulty will be then and there effected.

Commissioner Gilroy was asked this morning what was being done to compel the contractors who are engaged in repaving streets to go on with the work.

Mr. Gilroy said, "I do not know. I shall do everything that can be done under the laws to compel the contractors to do the work as rapidly as possible.

"On Twenty-third street the concrete foundation is laid and is ready for laying the stone on the north side between Fifth and Ninth avenues.

"The contractors are under sufficient bonds, but whether or not this delay will count against them I am not in a position to say at this time.

WANTS HER HUSBAND'S WILL.

Philo White's Widow Thinks His Friends Have It.

PHILO J. WHITE'S WILL.

I, Maria Elizabeth White, the only lawful widow, and dead or married, as reported? My husband died three years ago last Sunday. Members of Seventy-first Regiment, who were present can testify to his death. I have a will, too, for Bradford Prince was mentioned three times in connection with it. Number of box, key, password, name of safe and safe's proof, everything given five weeks before he died. A liberal reward offered for exposure of parties suppressing my husband's will. Parties that secured my papers that have and are going on either at Troy, Albany or this city before or since I first advertised in Tribune, July 26, 1890. Mrs. M. W. F. Wilson please take notice. Communications, 244 WEST 22D ST.

This morning's WORLD printed the above advertisement, and an EVENING WORLD reporter sought the author of the curiously worded document. She is Mrs. Maria E. White, and her apartments are on the top floor of the flat-house 244 West Twenty-second street. Sombre garments of modest wordly material encased Mrs. White's diminutive figure and attested to her widowhood. She is not over forty years old.

Her grievances date from the death of her husband on Aug. 2, 1888. He was in the silk business at 456 Broadway and left a valuable estate.

There were bonds and stocks and money, Mrs. White says, on deposit in a downtown safe-deposit company, and a lot of real estate in Warrensburg and Johnsburg, N. Y. The latter, Mrs. White says, has been sold and she has benefited by the sale.

But the bonds and stocks she hasn't seen. Her nephew, she said, cries on her husband's will. It feels sure he made one, but thinks some of his friends are keeping it out of her sight. She makes serious accusations against several lawyers.

Mrs. White is an excitable little woman and talks quite aggressively. She will probably make it very uncomfortable for some folks.

REPUBLICAN PANIC IN NEBRASKA

The Alliance President of the Senate Threatening to Run Things.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 4.—Gov. Thayer is in Detroit, at the Gen. Russ announcement. Lieut.-Gov. Dave Mercer's whereabouts is not known. He is not in Lincoln, and is supposed to be at Detroit also, or at least out of the state. Under the constitution the President of the Senate is Acting Governor in that case.

President Kelyher, who is a strong Alliance man, slipped down to Lincoln yesterday afternoon and announced his intention of ascertaining whether Makers was in the state. He said that if he found that he was not he would assume the duties of Governor and run things until Mr. Thayer returned.

He said that he would probably call a special session of the Legislature to pass a maximum freight bill. The Republican officers at Lincoln are panic-stricken, and the wires are kept hot calling on Thayer and Majors to return and save the State from Alliance usurpation.

DETROIT AND THE VETERANS.

Biggest Crowd the City of the Straits Has Ever Seen.

Superb Arches Adorn the Streets on the Line of Parade.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—This is a day which will be long remembered by the grizzled veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic. As the opening day of the twenty-fifth annual encampment, it marks a quarter of a century in the growth of the organization, and every soldier realizes that it must also mark the apex in the prosperity of that great order, which year by year has enveloped in its fraternal fold every State of the great Union, from Maine to Texas and from Florida to Washington.

It has therefore been the desire of all the prominent leaders of the organization that the twenty-fifth encampment should be the most successful in the history of the G. A. R., and the parade alike the most magnificent the order has ever known.

Certain it is the multitudes which are assembled in Detroit to-day are larger than the city of the Straits has ever greeted before, and in the magnificence of pageantry and the beauty of decorations to-day a parade is without precedent in the years that have gone.

Promptly at the hour appointed, and with a military precision which showed the volunteer soldiers had forgotten none of their severe training, the posts assembled on the line of march. Four magnificent arches erected by the citizens in different parts of the city marked the line of march. The Peace arch at Fort and Gerswold streets, through which the procession first passed, bore the inscription: "Cheerily on, courageous friends, to reap the harvest of perpetual peace."

And on the opposite side was the inscription: "Their prowess brought us peace; undying be their fame."

Another arch tribued Jefferson avenue. A magnificent peace and war arch at the intersection of Woodward and Jefferson avenues, was a veritable work of art. It was built upon the plan of the famous Eiffel Tower of Paris, and was a double arch looking through to either avenue.

The first thing to strike the eye on this arch was the fluttering flag held by the eight figures surmounting the tower—a white flag, with a square of red in the centre. It was one of the numerous designs used by the Signal Corps attached to the armies of the Union, by which messengers were sent long distances from the code of signals.

An excellent picture was given of the firing on Fort Sumter on one side, and on the other sides were represented the surrender of Lee and the famous march down Pennsylvania avenue in Washington on the occasion of the last review.

"Triumphal arch" displayed in wood the insignia of the various corps of the Union Army.

The procession started from Woodward and Atkinson avenues, Commander-in-Chief Veazey and his staff remaining in the lead until the reviewing stand was reached.

The stand from which the Commander-in-Chief and his staff received the parade, was situated on "Campus Martius" on the east side of Woodward avenue.

On Illinois, the home of Lincoln, the home of Grant and of Logan, was conferred the honor of the right of march. But it was not because of these illustrious names that the Prairie State was so honored, but because of one whose service to the veterans of the State and nation dates since the war—Dr. B. V. Stephenson, the founder of the G. A. R. Stephenson was born in Wayne County, Ill., 1822, and died in Menard County Aug. 30, 1871, aged forty-nine years.

An umbrella corps, 300 strong, was a feature of the Illinois Division. In the corners in square of blue umbrellas represented each State in the Union, and red, white and blue umbrellas in columns served to represent the stripes of the flag.

As each division passed beneath the triumphal arches little girls, appropriately decked in the National colors, showered the vets with bouquets.

The enthusiasm which greeted the Second, or Wisconsin Division, of 700 strong, was unbounded. In the front rank, and borne high in the air on the top of a flagstaff was perched "Old Abe," the stuffed eagle which became a part of Wisconsin's history a quarter of a century ago.

BATTLE AT A LUMBER CAMP.

Reported Bloody Clash of Louisiana Ranchmen and Robbers.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—Another account of the riot between "whites" and "Red Bones" at Lock, Moore & Co.'s lumber camp in Louisiana, in which fourteen men were reported killed, is to the effect that the trouble was caused by the breaking out of an old feud between a band of robbers known as the Asworth gang and the cattlemen of that section.

The former, it is said, had been committing depredations upon the community for quite a time and had killed a number of cattle. They had been notified by the ranchmen to desist and leave the country, but the gang continued their proceedings, and at last they were caught and the fight began.

The "Red Bones" are the leaders of the cattlemen.

A man named Welsh, it is said, led the gang of toughs and killed three men in less than a minute's time. A late report increases the number of killed to sixteen.

THREE HELD FOR MURDER.

Mrs. Dolle Saw McLaughlin Struggling With Two Men.

William H. Halliey, William H. Halliey, jr., and William Burke, who are under arrest in connection with the murder of William McLaughlin in East Eighty-ninth street on Saturday night last, were before Coroner Schultze to-day.

He remanded them till this afternoon, when Coroner Levy will hold an examination.

Mrs. Julia Dolle, of 542 East Eighty-ninth street, who was a witness of the shooting, was present.

She said she saw three men struggling in front of 414 East Eighty-ninth street. One of them—she does not know which—stepped out in the gutter.

One man said, "Will you give up?" Another said, "Give a fellow a chance." The elder Halliey was not there, she said.

WRECKED BY TOUGHS.

They Clean Out a Hoboken Saloon and Shoot the Proprietor.

Shortly after midnight this morning three toughs wrecked Ferdinand Stephen's saloon at 120 Monroe street, Hoboken, and shot the proprietor. His wounds are not dangerous.

They had previously gone out without paying for drinks and when they attempted it the second time Stephen refused to serve him. Then they began hurling stone-match boxes at him, and wound up by throwing beer kegs around until they had completely wrecked the place.

When Stephen tried to escape three shots were fired at him, one taking off a piece of his ear, and another striking his right hand. A fourth shot was fired without effect out of the ground that had gathered outside.

Two of the men, Louis Voight and Howard Wright, of 97 Madison street, were arrested and held for trial. The third man escaped.

FOREIGN NEWS OF THE DAY.

William O'Brien's Fight Against a Judgment in Bankruptcy.

Australian Bank Failure—The Kaiser Going Home.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

DUBLIN, Aug. 4.—Further action was taken in the Bankruptcy Court here to-day in the case of Mr. William O'Brien, against whom proceedings to adjudge him a bankrupt were taken while he was serving two concurrent sentences of six months each under the Crimes act.

The basis of the action was the failure of Mr. O'Brien to pay the costs of the action for libel brought by him against Lord Salisbury at the Manchester Assizes in July, 1889.

The Registrar in Bankruptcy to-day issued an order granting Mr. O'Brien a further extension of three days in which to show cause why a decree in bankruptcy against him should not be issued. Mr. O'Brien will fight the matter to the bitter end, as should a decree be issued declaring him a bankrupt he would be debarred from sitting as a member of the House of Commons.

BUSINESS CIRCLES SHOCKED.

Bacher's $4,000,000 Failure the Sensation of the Day.

When a man falls for $4,000,000 it is apt to create quite a commotion in the business community, and that is the result which has followed the announcement of the assignment of Abraham Bacher, the note broker and dealer in commercial paper, of 285 Broadway.

Mr. Bacher's failure is to-day the great sensation of the hour in business circles, especially in the dry-goods district, and it is said that several banks which did business for him are heavy losers.

Besides his dealings in commercial paper, Mr. Bacher was the principal partner in the firm of A. Bacher & Co., dry goods commission merchants, and he owned a big cotton mill at Glastonbury, Conn.

During the past year, it is said, he handled about $15,000,000 in some of the best commercial paper made, and his profits were very large. So far as his assignee, Mr. Benjamin F. Einstein, of Townsend, Dyett & Einstein, lawyers, of 247 Broadway, can estimate, Mr. Bacher's liabilities are about $4,000,000, of which $2,500,000 are direct and $1,500,000 contingent.

The cause of the failure is said to be the unfavorable condition of the money market, coupled with a heavy shrinkage in the value of certain Southern railroad construction bonds, of which Mr. Bacher was a large holder.

The assets are placed between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 and consist mainly of the Macon Construction Company bonds, and Georgia Southern and Florida, Macon and Birmingham Railroad and Alabama State bonds.

Mr. Baker lives at 331 West Fifty-eighth street. He is prostrated with grief at his misfortune and refuses to talk about the failure. His friends say that he will pay every cent of his indebtedness.

He stood high in the commercial community and his wealth was estimated at more than half a million. He came to New York from Savannah, Ga., in 1864 and went into the wholesale grocery business in Worth street. He afterwards gave that up for the cotton commission business and for several years operated the Arkwright Mills of Philadelphia, after becoming the assignee of R. Wartzfelder & Co., the prior owners, in 1875.

Mr. Bacher has also operated largely in city real estate, and within the past year entered large transactions in which he was a party have been recorded.

HUNTING MURDERER WEBSTER

Broker Goodwin's Slayer Too Clever for His Pursuers.

Bookmaker Bertram C. Webster, the slayer of Charles E. Goodwin, is still at large.

The police have no trace of him. An alarm has been sent out in all directions from Police Headquarters, giving a description of the murderer.

Goodwin's family live in Minneapolis. The body has been embalmed and will be shipped there.

Goodwin was of a Boston family. He was a nephew by marriage of Edward E. Poor, of the wholesale dry-goods house of Denny, Poor & Co., of 110 Worth street, this city, his mother and Mr. Poor's wife being sisters.

They were Margaret and Mary Lane, daughters of Judge Lane, of Boston. Mary Lane is the wife of Mr. Poor. Mr. Goodwin, the father of the murdered man, who is now on his way to this city from Minneapolis, was formerly in business in this city. Young Mr. Goodwin, who was generally known among his intimates as "Ed" Goodwin, came to this city four or twelve years ago and secured a clerkship at a moderate salary.

FOUND HIS SISTER IN A DIVE.

The Man Who Placed Her There Recommended Her to Israel.

Philip Kirwent, saloon-keeper at 86 Suffolk street, was held in $1,000 bail for trial in the Yorkville court to-day, charged with maintaining a disorderly house at 320 East Seventy-third street.

Jennie Van Cott and Sadie Cohen, the two inmates of the house, were committed to the House of Detention as witnesses.

Kirwent's arrest was brought about in a peculiar manner. Sadie Cohen, who is fifteen years old, disappeared from her home at 30 Bridge street, last Saturday, and her mother could find no trace of the girl.

Israel Cohen, Sadie's brother, was out with a friend for pleasure Sunday, and the two stopped into Kirwent's saloon. Israel alleges that Kirwent told him that there were a couple of pretty and lively girls up at his house, and he advised the two young men to go up there and entertain them.

Cohen and his friend went to the place indicated, and were horrified to find that the missing Sadie was one of the girls. She was taken home. She said Kirwent had placed her in that house, and the saloon-keeper's arrest soon followed.

AMAZONS' DESPERATE FIGHT.

Mrs. Mack Knocks Out Mrs. Haupt and Breaks a Leg Escaping.

Mrs. Annie Haupt is seriously hurt and Mrs. Elizabeth Mack is in the Jersey City Hospital with a broken leg, as the result of a fight indulged in last night.

Mrs. Haupt is fifty-three years old. Mrs. Mack is thirty and lives on the top floor of the house in the rear of Mrs. Haupt's abode at 206 Railroad avenue.

They met last night in the courtyard. Mrs. Haupt's husband, Max, heard their angry cries and saw Mrs. Mack throw Mrs. Haupt against a woodsied. Her head struck a beam and she lay unconscious.

Mrs. Mack ran up to her room, and when Policeman Looney pursued her she sprang from a front window and dropped thirty-five feet upon the hard courtyard, breaking her left leg.
