They Enjoyed the Advertisement.

A rather queer sight in this city the other day was the luggage of a newly married couple. Some practical joker had printed a large number of labels, about six inches long and two inches wide, with the words "Just Married," and pasted them securely on the trunks, handbags, etc., of the happy pair. The joke was not discovered till the party were ready to start on their wedding tour, and it was too late to remove the labels. Perhaps the couple were too happy to wish to conceal their fresh bliss. At any rate the bridegroom carried his handbag, labeled "Just Married," without any attempt at concealment.—Springfield Union.

There are 35,000 persons in the United States engaged in work upon daily and weekly newspapers. Half of them receive from $10 to $35 per week.—E. M. Camp in Century.

A Kiss Variously Defined.

A soldier's definition of a kiss—A report at headquarters.

A sailor's definition of a kiss—A pleasure smack.

A grammarian's definition of a kiss—A conjunction which frequently leads to an interjection.

Where Man Goeth Not.

Johnny (reading aloud a tale of adventure)—And he was cast on a desolate shore, and he did not see the face of a man for years.

Sister Kate—Why, mamma! the poor unfortunate must have been wrecked on Resorters' Beach, where we were last summer. We were there three months, you remember, and didn't see a man the whole time.—Boston Transcript.

Just the Thing.

Mr. Goodheart—Regarding those kittens, my dear, the president of our society says the most humane way to drown kittens is to put them in an ordinary earthen flower pot and then suddenly turn the flower pot upside down in a pail of lukewarm water.

Mrs. Goodheart—Why, yes, that is a good idea, isn't it, because you know there is a hole in the bottom of the flower pot for the poor little things to breathe through.—New York Weekly.

Mr. W. A. Baldwin, a hardware merchant, of Boonville, Dallas county, Ia., says: "For the past two or three years, I have been subject to cramping pains in the stomach, I have tried a number of different remedies; the best one being Chamberlain's, Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, one or two doses of it always cures me."
