CITY JUSTICES.

R. W. READY. W. P. HYATT.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1890.

OUR PRIME OPPORTUNITY.

The agent of Wells, Fargo & Co. in this city, Mr. S. A. Butler, some six weeks ago addressed a circular letter to the agents of the company at many points, desiring them to make inquiry among local dealers as to the feasibility of handling green vegetables during the winter months if these should be shipped from Southern California. The circular emphasizes the fact that this section is the only one in the country where these things can be had during the months in question, and it also sets out that during the past winter such shipments were successfully made as far east as New York, and to many intermediate points, the consignments reaching their destination in prime condition and selling at satisfactory prices. In answer to these inquiries Mr. Butler has received many answers, a number of which have been handed to the HERALD.

From New York the agent wrote giving the substance of interviews with many dealers. They say tomatoes would sell at $8.00 to $10.00 per bushel; peas and beans at $3.00 to $6.00 per crate of about one-third of a bushel; cucumbers at $1.00 to $5.00 per dozen. From Chicago, Sioux City, Boston and other points come equally favorable advices. The agent at the last named place says there would be a large demand from Christmas to the end of the winter in one and one-half bushel crates. He says asparagus, cauliflowers, artichokes, tomatoes, peas and beans will sell well.

This is the new industry that is destined to enrich this section, nearly, if not quite equally with oranges. To the lists given above may be added early potatoes and cabbages. Large quantities of these were sent east last winter, and the shipments will be increased very much this winter, and steadily grow year by year until trainloads are sent out every day. The Southern Pacific during the current year in nine months to September 30, carried out of the state the following: From San Francisco, onions, 363,650 pounds; potatoes, 8,613,836; other vegetables, 2,297,460. From Oakland, potatoes, 182,720 pounds. From Sacramento, onions, 166,150; potatoes, 4,102,510; other vegetables, 537,170. From Stockton, onions, 40,000; potatoes, 22,400; other vegetables, 80,000. From Marysvillle, onions, 31,300; potatoes, 331,650. From Los Angeles, onions, 185,750; potatoes, 3,278,390; other vegetables, 3,184,440. From Colton, potatoes, 325,540; other vegatables, 22,050. The figures showing the Santa Fe's business in this section are not at hand. They might double up those figures given above for Los Angeles and Colton. Of course that road does not do business for the other points in the state. It seems quite safe to say that Southern California shipped east for the year to date some 12,000,000 pounds of vegetables, principally potatoes, cabbages and onions, with cauliflower, peas, beans, peppers and other similar products added.

For some months past a very vigorous effort has been going on, looking to a great increase in this business, with special reference to the finer sorts of garden vegetables such as those named in the letter of Mr. Sullivan and those named in Liebhe east referred to above. and ths

From the end of December of this year to the end of next March there will be a great deal of this produce to be sent abroad.

Like oranges, not all land here will produce winter peas, beans and tomatoes. The frostless belt along the foothills is the proper place for this industry. Beginning at Santa Monica cañon near the ocean and following along the highest mesa, just where the mountain takes its final spring, is the thermal belt where the least sign of frost is never seen. It lies close to the Cahuenga pass, and comes up to the Rancho Los Feliz. The higher levels of the San Gabriel valley is a similar region, and on both sides of the mouth of the river at Duarte, Azusa and Glendora is as good land for the purpose as there is anywhere. In fact, all along that foothill strip peas and tomatoes ripen all the year. At Azusa and Glendora the people have put in a large crop of peas and tomatoes looking to this winter trade. But it is along the Cahuenga country that the largest activity prevails. The farmers all the way from the Lick tract to Monte Vista have put in a great many peas and tomatoes.

Perhaps the largest amount put in by any one man is on the Rodeo de las Aguas, where A. H. Denker has sowed a great many acres. This ranch is one of the very best in the section for the enterprise. It is above the touch of frost, it faces the rising sun at all points, it has plenty of water and a fine soil. Mr. Denker has taken advantage of these things to put in a great many of these winter vegetables, and expects to reap a big reward.

Those foothill farmers find it no unusual thing to pick 500 to 700 pounds of tomatoes from an acre; and five to eight tons of peas. For years they have been making small fortunes from the sale of their crops in San Francisco, and now they are to make large fortunes from similar sales on a great scale in the east. It has been no unusual thing for them to get $200 to $500 for the crop from an acre. This past spring the Chinese gardeners here made $200 to $500 an acre from cabbages.

THAT MARKHAM LETTER AGAIN.

The Evening Express of last night publishes a labored article to show that the "Irish crowd" letter, alleged to have been written by Markham, is a forgery. In the article the following paragraphs appear:

We now submit the Democratic evidence that the alleged "Exhibit H," as thus published, is a stupid, wicked and malicious invention, the work not of one, but of several forgers; who, had they their deserts, would be engaged in the manufacture of jute bagging at San Quentin or breaking stone at Folsom.

In the first place the lines are much closer in one plate than in the other. Put one on top of the other and the second fac-simile is seen to be half an inch longer than the first. Next we see at a glance that the lines are longer by half an inch in the second fac-simile. Put them up before the window one over the other and the clumsy fraud becomes transparent.

The mistake made by the Democratic conspirators in printing the two plates of the alleged Markham letter has made possible the detection of their crimes. First they gave us, on October 17th, a combination letter, in which only thirty-four words were printed as a manuscript fac-simile, the rest being in type. This was followed a few days later by the production of a fac-simile of the whole alleged letter, in which the thirty-four words printed in the first fac-simile were necessarily included.

And now we would like to ask the Herald of this city, which prides itself upon being the mouthpiece of whatever remnant is left of decency in the Democratic party, how it can allow itself to be made one of the instruments in the hands of convicted forgers. The taint of this political crime attaches to all who have had a hand in the disreputable business of circulating this palpable forgery.

The Republican press in its madness goes on insisting that this odious matter shall be ripped up again and again to the injury of its party.

We will begin by reminding the Express that the "remnant of decency" in the Democratic party is quite large enough to stand by the other national party. Our state campaign is not being managed by a thief who stole $31,000 of the people's money. In our local affairs we have no ex-officials fugitives from justice—not one. None of our state senators, justices of the peace, nor others are under indictment for perjury, or other crime. No man on our ticket has a record so foul that the papers cannot produce the facts because their statement would offend all sense of decency in the community.

Now why talk further of this letter as a forgery. The editor of the Express or any other person who wishes to know if this letter is genuine and authentic may satisfy his mind fully on that point, as the HERALD did before it published one allegation as to the matter. Go to the office of Anderson, Fitzgerald & Anderson, and ask to see the bill of exceptions on motion for a new trial in the case of Hallock vs. Markham. There they will find that letter set out in full. They will further find that Markham was put on the stand, and, with that letter in his hand, he was cross-examined as to its contents. He never thought of denying that the letter was his. That letter is word for word the same as the one published by the Democratic state central committee. There is the whole business in a nutshell.

Now as to all the matter above about these two plates. Is it possible the Express is so ignorant of the manner of reproducing these plates, or is the paper consciously deceiving its readers in order to make a few votes for its party? There are two ways of making these plates. One is by the old method of engraving by hand, which gave at best a close imitation of the letter. The other is by one of the processes now in use, the best of which is the photogravure process. This is a species of photography, by which the lines are transferred to the plate, and from this any number of electrotypes may be made. By this process all that can be done by photography in the way of enlarging or contracting is possible. A letter a quarter of an inch high in the original may be magnified so as to be a foot high in the plate. Another plate may be made with the letters half a foot high, or one inch high, or one may be made in which the whole letter shall be imprinted on the size of a dollar, or of a dime. Now that is actually all the ignorant or deceiving person in the Express has made out.

The Republican press has been very foolish about this letter, and Markham has been much more so. The fact that he wrote the letter cannot be doubted by unbiased people. If it had been let alone, certain voters of Irish birth would have been influenced by it; but the effect would not have been so disastrous as it will be now. As it is, the proposition of Markham to cheat his friend Ike James out of part of his mortgage, the fact that he gloried in having sold the mine on cheek, the fact that he used language so foul, so vulgar, in a letter that it cannot be reproduced, have all come out. We do not refer to a blasphemous expression here and there in the letter, but to the grossly vulgar and utterly indecent language.

Another effect of this harping on the letter has been to put Markham before the public in the light of a first-class liar, with a very bad memory. When the letter first came to light in this campaign the Examiner interviewed Markham on the subject. This was October 14th, and at that time Markham said: "Any such letter is a forgery. The whole thing was gone over in my previous campaign, and I offered then as I do now, $1000, for the production of that letter." Then the fact was published broadcast that the letter never saw the light here until December, 1887. Markham, by his previous campaign, referred to his running for congress in 1884. He saw this would not do, so he had to get up another story. A week or ten days later he was at Fresno, and then was interviewed as to the letter. Here is what he had to say on this occasion: "I have never seen that letter, and have never pronounced it a forgery. I never offered $1000 for the production of such a letter". But Mr. Stump, chairman of the Republican state central committee, has said Col. Markham has pronounced that letter a forgery.

Now all these are facts, and we would respectfully suggest to the Express that it investigate that document, a bill of exceptions, in the case of Hallock vs. Markham, and find out if Markham was examined as to this very letter, and if he is lying when he says he never saw it, and if he is lying when he says he offered $1000 for it in 1884, whereas it did not come to the surface until 1887, before it talks of any remnant of decency, and calls a respectable body of men, not one of whom has ever been charged with any crime, forgers.

That letter is not a forgery. Markham wrote it. He crowed over the discharge of the Irish miners. He plotted to cheat Ike James, his friend, out of part of his just dues. He boasted of selling the mine on his cheek. And he used language such as would disgrace a drab—all in that very letter. And before there is any more talk of penitentiaries, it would be well to see that Mr. Markham's political groom is in one for stealing $31,000, and that a good many of the Republican officials here at home are fairly tried and duly punished. Then talk of remnants of decency.

Four Years on Crutches.

For fifteen years I was afflicted with rheumatism, four years of which I was compelled to go on crutches. Words are inadequate to express the suffering I endured during that time. During these fifteen years of existence (it was not living), I tried every known remedy without receiving any benefit. I finally began on Swift's Specific (S. S. 5 CENT DEPOSIT STAMPS.

A New Feature in Savings Bank Deposits.

The Security Savings Bank & Trust Co.

At 148 South Main street, has for the past six months been receiving Children's Deposits in sums as low as 25 cents and issuing to each depositor a pass-book.

As an aid to this department of our Savings Bank and for the purpose of encouraging Small Savings by all persons both old and young, we have decided to introduce what is known as the

5-CENT DEPOSIT STAMP.

We will issue a 5-cent Stamp, about the size of a U. S. Government stamp, bearing the name of our Bank.

To the purchaser of two of these stamps will be given a blank book containing ten leaves, each leaf ruled for twenty stamps.

On presentation to the Bank of one of these leaves with 20 stamps, a pass book will be issued to the depositor showing a deposit of one dollar, which will at once begin to bear interest according to the rules of the bank. Every time a leaf filled with twenty stamps is presented, a dollar credit will be entered in the pass-book, and so on.

In order to facilitate the working of the system and in order to enable all desiring to avail themselves of its benefits, to secure the stamps and blank books we will have agents in various and convenient parts of the city and county, who, on the purchase of two or more stamps, will give to such depositors a blank book. The depositor, when he has purchased twenty stamps and filled one leaf, can send or bring the same to the Bank and secure his pass-book.

This 5 cent feature of Savings Deposits has been successfully operated in many of the European and several of the prosperous and progressive American Savings Banks: notably the Citizens Savings Bank in Detroit.

Believing that it is the province of a Savings Bank to receive and encourage the making of small deposits by both children and grown people as well as to receive the larger accounts of the more well to do, we have decided to adopt this 5 Cent Stamp System as the simplest and most effective way of obtaining the end desired.

We are pleased to announce to the public that in a short time we will publish in the daily papers a complete list of our agents of whom these 5 Cent Stamps and blank books can be obtained.
