POTOMAC

Captures the $1,000 Race from Loantaka at Brighton.

MAKING A NEW RECORD.

Airshaft Defeats His Field Handily for the Opening Event.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

BRIGHTON BEACH RACE TRACK, July 27.—Racing was continued at Brighton Beach to-day with an excellent card of six races. The feature was a meeting between Potomac and Loantaka. This attracted a large crowd, nearly 10,000 people being present.

The heat was intense, and the grandstand was worse than an oven. The ocean, which can be seen from the rear of the grandstand, was like a mirror—not a ripple disturbed the serenity, and the heat came up from the hot sand like blasts from a furnace. The crowd nevertheless was bent on enjoying the sport, and they went to work with a will to pick the winner of the first race. Firefly was made the choice and was heavily backed by Jimmy McCormick and his friends.

The old gelding was not in a running humor, however, and despite Tommy Flynn's efforts refused to do better than third. Airshaft, whose good race on Monday was overlooked, won at the juicy odds of 8 to 1. Centaur, a 20 to 1 chance, landed the place money, just beating the favorite out a neck. The performance of Sandstone may have escaped the notice of the judges, at any rate nothing was said. His jockey tried hard for last place and came very near getting there.

Stowaway, Brookdale and Pansy were even-up chances in the second race, and that the talent's selection was a wise one was proven by the horses finishing as named above. Stowaway carried the most money and he won easily.

Just after this race it was discovered that the Hanover Club had selected. They were on for the first time to-day, and it is presumed that they made book with the deliberate intention of welching.

An examination of the sheets showed that the book had won $250 to the race. One of the sharpers was captured and $101 found on his person. He was locked up. His confederates got away with about $500. The Association made good the amount bet by the public in the book.

The third event was what the talent termed a "dog" race. It resulted nevertheless in a fine finish between Thiers L. and Bon Voyage, the former winning by a head.

Thiers L. was backed down from 10 to 1 to 6 to 1 and owner Leach is credited with winning quite a snug sum. Bon Voyage was second choice. Adalgisa colt was also heavily played and he was third.

BROKER SHOT DEAD.

His Murderer a Customer, Who at Once Commits Suicide.

Difference Over a Stock Transaction the Cause of the Tragedy.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—A startling murder and suicide has caused great excitement in business circles here.

Charles H. Page, of the firm of E. D. Page & Co., brokers, at 132 South Fourth street, has been shot dead.

His murderer was Ronald Kennedy, a customer of the firm.

Kennedy was sixty-five years old. His shot was accurate and his victim died almost instantly.

After firing at Mr. Page Kennedy turned his weapon on himself and blew his brains out.

The tragedy occurred in Mr. Page's private office, where the broker was sitting when Kennedy came to the place.

E. D. Page was in New York on business, and the only person in the office, besides the murderer and his victim, at the time of the tragedy was E. D. Hallowell, a clerk.

Hallowell was feeling ill from the heat and had gone upstairs to lie down when the shooting occurred. He has been eight years with the firm, and was the only person who knew anything of the transactions of the two dead men.

He says that it is two years since Kennedy first came to the office and began dealing on 10 and 15 per cent. margins, chiefly in Atchison. For several months his ventures were profitable and he made from $15,000 to $20,000. Then the tide turned. Atchison suddenly dropped and Kennedy lost as much as he had made in about the same length of time.

Hallowell declares that the firm only bought and sold as directed by Kennedy, who deposited Pennsylvania Railroad stock as collateral. When the speculator lost this was sold to cover the margin.

The dead broker always kept Kennedy's accounts, according to the clerk, and generally had some difficulty in making his customer understand them even when they were in his favor.

Hallowell declares that Kennedy came out about even on his ventures. For a year past he has dropped into the office occasionally, sometimes without speaking to any one, and generally examining the "ticker." He was regarded as a crank of the harmless variety, and had never made any threats.

Trouble over stock transactions undoubtedly led to the tragedy.

Kennedy's address was given as 110 North Eleventh street. Inquiry showed that the murderer had boarded at that number for five years.

He was a quiet man, and had told the landlady that he came from New Orleans, where he was engaged in the wholesale and retail dry-goods business during the war.

When Kennedy left home this morning his landlady noticed that he seemed somewhat nervous, and it is now supposed he was premeditating the crime.

The murdered man was a brother-in-law of W. M. Burr, of the brokerage firm of Parkinson & Burr, 20 Broadway, New York.

Mr. Burr was not in when an EVENING WORLD reporter called this afternoon, but his confidential clerk volunteered the information that the only advices received of the tragedy were over the telephone.

"The assassin," said the clerk, "was not a customer, but a crank, who entered Mr. Page's office and, after a few words parley, shot him in the brick.

"Then, turning the revolver upon himself, the assassin blew out his own brains."

The murdered man was married eight years ago, and leaves a widow and one child eight months old.

At the offices of Dick Bros. & Lawrence, 30 Broad street, a telegram was received stating that Mr. Charles Page had been shot.

The firm have offices next to the Pages in Philadelphia, and occasionally do some business for them.

"The firm of Page Brothers," said Mr. Lawrence, "is ranked among the first and is very conservative."

Secretary Ely, of the Stock Exchange, said: "The senior member of the firm is a member of the New York Stock Exchange. Charles was not so well known in New York.

The murdered man was thirty-eight years old.

DR. M'GONIGAL.

Annie Goodwin's Slayer Charged with the Death of Another Woman.

He and Mrs. Bale, a Harlem Midwife, Locked Up in the Long Island City Jail.

Dr. McGonigal's Last Alleged Victim Is Mrs. Louisa Webb, of Ravenswood, L. I.

The Coroner's Autopsy Verified the Charge that Death Had Resulted from Malpractice.

The Accused Doctor Committed to Jail by the Coroner to Await an Inquest.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

LONG ISLAND CITY, July 27.—The police of this city this morning arrested Dr. Henry G. McGonigal, who was convicted of causing the death of the pretty cigarette girl, Annie Goodwin, in Harlem by a criminal operation.

DR. HENRY G. M'GONIGAL.

Dr. McGonigal is now charged with having performed a criminal operation on Mrs. Louisa Webb, wife of Frank Webb, of 400 Hamilton street, Ravenswood.

Mrs. Webb, who died yesterday, was the daughter of the late Squire Parsell, who was a well-known politician and official in Long Island City. Mrs. Parsell, mother of Mrs. Webb, notified the police of Long Island City that her daughter had died from the effects of an operation, and implicated Dr. McGonigal and a midwife named Marian M. Dale, of 251 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, New York City.

Mrs. Parsell said that her daughter had given birth to a still-born child on the 16th inst. and that she was attended by Dr. McGonigal and the midwife, Mrs. Dale. Mrs. Webb suffered greatly until her death.

The police arrested Webb, the husband of the dead woman, and he admitted that Dr. McGonigal and the midwife had attended his wife and given her some white powders. Some of these powders were found in his house, at Ravenswood, and are now in the possession of the police.

Webb also admitted that the body of the still-born child had been secretly buried in the back yard at his home.

DR. M'GONIGAL ARRESTED.

Policemen Tully and Sheridan, in citizens' dress, were sent to New York to arrest Dr. McGonigal and the midwife early this morning. When they arrived at the house, 251 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street they found Dr. McGonigal there and also the midwife.

The couple apparently were preparing to make a hasty departure for Chicago. The officers produced their warrants, and told McGonigal and the midwife that they would have to go with them to Long Island city.

Dr. McGonigal at first denied his identity, and also that he had anything to do with the death of Mrs. Webb. He then became indignant and resorted to profanity in giving vent to his feelings.

The Long Island City officers were accompanied by two detectives from Police Headquarters in New York.

Dr. McGonigal and the midwife were quickly hustled into a cab and driven to the Thirty-fourth street ferry. When they arrived at Long Island City they were taken to the Second Precinct Station, where they were placed in Chief of Police Wood's private room. Dr. McGonigal still denied that he had caused Mrs. Webb's death. The midwife

BOLD ROBBERS GET $10,500.

Held Up the Wife of the President of El Reno Bank.

Supposed to Be the Daltons—Armed Citizens in Pursuit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

KANSAS CITY, MO., July 27.—The Star's El Reno, O. T., special says: El Reno was thrown into a fever of excitement at 10.30 this morning by screams for help coming from the of El Reno.

The screams were from Mrs. S. W. Sawyer, wife of the President of the bank, who had just been held up by two robbers, who had Bank also robbed the bank of $10,500.

At 10.30 a stranger entered the bank, stepped up to the cashier's window and made an inquiry about some town lots, and then went to a desk and commenced writing.

In a moment another stranger came to the cashier's desk and, presenting a gun at Mrs. Sawyer's head, demanded that she hand out all the money in the bank.

She stepped to the vault and handed him all the packages of bills in the vault safe and what was in the daily change drawer aggregating about $10,500.

The man who was writing at the desk grabbed the money as Mrs. Sawyer handed it through the wicket and disappeared out the door. The one holding the gun followed quickly.

Mrs. Sawyer screamed several times and fell over in a swoon. The robbers mounted horses and rode away. Mrs. Sawyer was the only person in the bank, the President, her husband, being absent in Oklahoma City. He arrived at home about thirty minutes after the robbery.

The robbery is believed to be the work of the Daltons on account of the manner of its execution. Hundreds of citizens on horse back and in buggies, with ropes and fully armed, are in pursuit.

The robbers had only about fifteen minutes start. They were well mounted and armed to the teeth. They headed for the Dalton rendezvous in the Granite Mountains in the Wichita reservation.

All Will Have to Be Re dvertised and the Work Done Over.

The Aqueduct Commission this afternoon decided to reject all the bids and readvertise the contract for the new Croton dam at Cornell site, Westchester County, a work which will cost $4,000,000 or $5,000,000.

There were six bids, the lowest being that of the Ryan & McDonald Construction Company, of Baltimore, who offered to build the dam for $3,527,040, which was over $1,000,000 lower than the estimate of the Aqueduct Commissioners' engineer and nearly $2,000,000 below the highest bidder.

The Ryan-McDonald bid was rejected on the ground that it was made in the name of a construction company, which was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia in 1891, with a capital of $100,000, and whose incorporators are mainly employees of Ryan and McDonald. The latter, the Commissioners say, are men of unquestioned financial standing, and if they had made the bid as individuals it would have been unhesitatingly awarded to them.

The Commissioners conclude that the bid was made in the name of the Company to evade and limit responsibility, and it was therefore deemed best for the interests of the city to throw out all bids and readvertise.

Among the other bidders were John D. Crimmins, Michael S. Coleman, Contractor McQuade and others of this city.

Mayor Grant, Comptroller Myers and Commissioner Gilroy, who are ex-officio members of the Aqueduct Commission, voted for the rejection with Commissioners Duane, Tracey, Cannon and Scott.

WORLD'S FAIR ALMOST WINS.

House Vote of 117 to 105 Favoring the $5,000,000 Loan.

Opposition Gets Adjournment with the Final Question Pending.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The World's Fair amendments to the Sundry Civil bill came up again to-day in the House.

As to the Senate $5,000,000 loan amendment, Mr. Holman moved that the House further insist on its non-concurrence, to which Mr. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, made a counter motion that the House concur. Mr. Bingham's amendment was moved to have precedence.

Mr. Bingham's amendment was carried, 117 to 105.

While the recapitulation was in progress Mr. Holman was in the aisle awaiting recognition to move to reconsider. He changed his vote and made his motion, which Mr. Bingham countered with a motion to lay Mr. Holman's motion on the table.

The filibusters then showed their hand. They had been beaten on the square vote and began their dilatory tactics by Mr. Outhwaite, of Ohio, moving to adjourn till Friday. This motion, of course, had precedence of Mr. Bingham's motion, and the situation was further complicated by Mr. Bailey, of Texas, moving to adjourn till Saturday instead of Friday.

The House finally did adjourn leaving the World's Fair matter hung up, the filibusterers being to this extent ahead.

"Pittsburg Phil's" Brilliant Coup Fails to Go Through.

HELEN NICHOLS COUGHING.

A Crank Race-Goer Threatens Father Bill Daly.

That remarkable young plunger, Mr. George E. Smith, whom every one knows better as "Pittsburg Phil," essayed to make another of his brilliant coups at Monmouth Park yesterday. The plunger owns a small stable of horses, but does not start them very often. When they do come to the post, however, then it is time for the bookies to stand from under, for the horses are trained to the hour, and something is bound to drop. The young plunger has already made one brilliant onslaught on the bookies this year with King Cadmus. The colt won by a nose at Morris Park and landed his owner a small fortune. The coup planned yesterday, however, did not go through, and simply because an inefficient jockey was in the saddle. Mr. Smith realized after the race that it is better to take a smaller price with a reasonable certainty of winning than to put up a stable boy and trust to luck. Parvenue was the horse selected to do the trick yesterday. He is the Uncas-Necromancy colt formerly owned by Mr. Withers. Jockey T. McDonald was in the saddle. The plunger made the rounds of the city pool-rooms and got all the way from 15 to 1 down for his money. At the track Parvenue opened at 6 to 1 and went to the post favorite at 8 to 5. The colt ran well for six furlongs, but when the pinch came McDonald was unable to assist his mount, and the $50,000 winning which Pittsburg Phil had in his mind's eye slowly faded away and was lost. It was a lesson to the popular young plunger, and it is safe to wager that when the next coup is attempted either Tarat or Garrison will be riding for Phil's money.

That black midget attached to the Morris Stable, by name William Penn, covered himself with glory yesterday by winning with two long shots and placing another. On Saturday Penn landed Julio a 40 to 1 chance, and owners are beginning to regard him as a mascot.

Only one favorite landed the bets of the talent at Monmouth Park yesterday, and backers of choices went home with empty pocket-s and heavy hearts. Just what frame of mind one bettor came home in was illustrated on the way to the city. The individual in question was sitting on the steps of a car which was whizzing along at a great rate. His knees projected beyond the side of the car and came within an ace of being smashed by a switch-signal. "Look out, there," shouted one of the passengers; "you'll get your leg but off." The man looked up gloomily and answered: "Well, what's the difference? I can't win a bet with it on, and it might just as well be off!"

The horses finishing in the last furlong of the Navesink Handicap must have stopped as they rounded Cape Horn and had a drink. They came staggering down the straight for all the world like drunken men. Demuth was the only horse which ran straight and true. Two of the staggering ones beat him home just the same.
