98 IN THE SHADE.

Hottest Day New York Has Seen Since the Current Swellering Season Began.

ɔveral Deaths and Scores of Prostrations by Heat Reported.

umidity Makes the Torrid Air Unendurable.

elief Is Not Promised Till Late To-Night, and Perhaps Not Till To-Morrow.

dnut's thermometer at 3.30 o'clock this noon registered 98 degrees, the greatest de attained by the heat indicator this h.

ry's thermometer was a little more con- ate and mutely told the gasping crowds t the weather was only 90 degrees in the ade.

The thermometers, both public and private ave been registering two or three less de- grees of heat to-day than yesterday at the same hour; but it would require a persuasive genius to make any of the sweltering people of New York believe that it is any cooler.

The atmosphere is saturated with 72 per cent. of humidity, an increase of 32 per cent. over yesterday, and this is responsible for the discomfort of the day.

Weather Observer Dunn said yesterday: "I spy cooler weather—but it is afar off."

To-day he prognosticates "stationary temperature till to-morrow morning." By the rules of Secretary Jerry Rusk's Agricultural Department "stationary temperature" means remaining within 4 degrees of the figure recorded at the corresponding hour of the day before, and Observer Dunn says that it will probably be 2 degrees cooler to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock than it was this morning at that hour. Going further, he remarks:

"A cool wave is gradually creeping eastward. It now extends over Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan and the Upper Lake region. It has touched Chicago and St. Louis, so that each was 4 degrees cooler at 8 o'clock to-day than at that hour yesterday. It must reach us by to-morrow night, and I anticipate that Friday night will find us sleeping in 65 to 70 degrees temperature.

"The first effect will be with us what it is to-day in the valley of the Platte and the region I have mentioned, which is a rain area. New York will have small showers to-night, and they will permanently cool the air. To-morrow afternoon we will be visited by grateful rain."

There has been a fall in temperature of from 10 to 25 degrees in the far West, and at Hane, Montana, it was actually at 30 degrees—two degrees below the freezing point—at midnight!

Contrast this with the 84 degrees of heat at Jupiter, Fla., and you have an indication of the greatness of Uncle Sam's farm.

The temperature did not get below 75 degrees in this city during last night, and it was 84 degrees at 10 o'clock to-day on the Equitable Building and 86 at Hudnut's and Perry's.

These sidewalk thermometers reached 88 at 11 o'clock and Prophet Dunn said we should have 92 before the day was done, which would mean 94 or 95 degrees of heat to the people on the street and in the offices, stores and homes.

This is the seventh day in succession since the mercury went up to 90, and has run between that and the 98 mark ever since.

Looking over his records, Observer Dunn finds that twice before in twenty years this week's weather has been equalled. From June 20 to June 25, 1888, the mercury ran above 90 degrees, and in 1870, the year of thousands of deaths from the effect of heat all over the country, the temperature was 98 degrees July 8, 90 on the 9th, 84 on the 10th, 91 on the 11th and 12th, 97 on the 13th, 89 on the 14th and 93 July 15.

The continued heat is having serious effects upon the people. Men and women, obliged to stick to their employments, move about slowly and listlessly. There is hardly energy enough left in most of them to manipulate the omnipresent palm leaf fan. Ice water founts are taxed to their utmost resources, resulting often in prostration and Summer complaint. The latter is reported on every hand.

In the tenement-house districts the suffering is intense. Mothers sit half asleep in loaded doorways with peevish children in their laps. The free dispensaries are the scenes of large gatherings, and THE EVENING WORLD corps of free physicians are working like Trojans.

Street car horses are flagged and dropping by the way. The dead wagon for horses is frequently called for in every precinct, and it is not uncommon to see the men crowd a third dead animal into the already fully loaded wagon, bound for the equine Morgue at Barren Island.

It will take a long time to cool off the pavements and dead walls of the city, heated by the fiery suns of seven days, and meantime everyone who can get away is leaving town for the seashore, the lakeside, the mountains or the woods.

New York seems to be getting much the worst of it to-day. Boston is the only hotter place from Georgia to Newfoundland. At 8 o'clock this morning, when the Weather Bureau thermometer registered 81 degrees here, Boston had 82. New Orleans had only 80 degrees, Pittsburg 78 and Albany, Buffalo and Chicago 76 each, while Memphis reported only 74 degrees of heat, St. Paul 66 and Denver 50 degrees.

We have only a five-knot western zephyr besides, and we have much more humidity than either of these other cities.

The Government Prophet says that New York thermometers will go below the 88 degree point by to-morrow midday, but he is making preparations to escape. He will go for a few days to Hotel Breslin, Lake Hopatcong.

Of the 198 deaths to-day 9 were caused by the heat.

A DIVA AT THE BARGE OFFICE.

An Insane Woman Who Sang Superbly.

She Came from Cincinnati and Was Barred from the Fuerst Bismarck.

A carriage drove into the Ellis Island ferry slip just before noon to-day to take the boat to the Immigration Bureau. The boat did not get in for twenty minutes, and while waiting the people standing about were surprised to hear a sweet voice singing a German hunting song in the carriage. The voice was a rich soprano of considerable compass and evidently highly cultivated.

All the people looked towards the carriage, when the head of a woman of about thirty years was stuck out of the window. She wore a black bonnet and waved a palm-leaf fan towards the people to whom she nodded as she continued to sing. When she finished the hunting song she began another German song.

By this time the people were astonished at the strangeness of the proceedings and the excellence of the singing. They crowded about the carriage immigrants, officials, policemen and visitors to Ellis Island. More people came in from the street and formed a large audience around the singer.

She seemed gratified by the appreciation of her singing, and continued to delight her audience with sweet melody. Skipping from church hymns to selections from Tannhauser and different German operas, stopping now and then to bow to the people and blow a kiss to them on the tips of her fingers.

A man was in the carriage with the fair warbler. He was Detective Wenderkin, of Hoboken. The woman said she was Adelina Patti, but the detective whispered that she was insane and imagined herself to be the diva. He said her name was Mary Folsch, and that she came on from Cincinnati yesterday, and bought a ticket for Hamburg on the Fuerst Bismarck, which sailed this morning.

As she was about to go on board the ship at Hoboken this morning she suddenly broke out into song on the pier, and the captain of the steamship refused to let her go on the voyage, claiming that she was insane.

Detective W. Linderkin was instructed to take the woman over to Ellis Island, as it was thought she came to this country last October.

It was difficult to get a full history from the woman. She said that her mother is living at Cincinnati, and that she belonged to a Hanoverian family of some prominence. Her face indicates intelligence and refinement, and she is good-looking.

The detectives thought it was a mysterious case, and said the woman was probably a member of some concert troupe.

Gatekeeper Bigger thought he recognized her as a woman he had seen around the Barge Office last Fall, who was said to be quite wealthy and went down to Ellis Island.

The carriage later went over to Ellis Island.

PRE-EMPTED THE FLAT.

Boy Burglars Stole All Mrs. Miller's Silverware.

William Washington, fourteen years old, of 209 West One Hundred and Eighteenth street, was held in $2,000 in the Harlem Court to-day on charges of burglary and malicious mischief.

He was arrested by Detective Sullivan, of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street squad, and the complainant was Mrs. Hattie Miller, wife of a drummer, who occupies a flat in the same house with the lad's parents.

Washington is charged with entering Mrs. Miller's apartments with three companions during the early part of this month, while she was in the country, and stealing $750 worth of silverware, besides destroying $1,000 worth of furniture in a hide-a-bed.

The lad, it is charged, entered by means of the dumbwaiter shaft, and after eating up all the preserves and other comestibles they could lay hands on, they proceeded to smash the furniture and other household articles.

The youthful burglars carted away all the silverware, which they pawned in various pawnshops in this city. They were discovered July 18 by the janitress, who found the Miller apartment door open.

When arrested young Washington confessed to the burglary, but declared that he only received fifty cents of the plunder.

THE HOUSE AT A STANDSTILL.

But It Has Voted for Final Adjournment on Saturday.

Anti-World's Fair Filibusters Come to the Front Again.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, offered and called up in the House to-day a joint resolution that final adjournment be taken on Saturday at 2 o'clock. Mr. Hatch, of Missouri opposed it because he wanted the Anti-option bill to pass, and Mr. Outhwaite, the leader of the anti-World's Fair filibusters also opposed it. Monday next was suggested as the date for adjournment.

After general speech-making the House refused by 85 to 110 to agree to the amendment, fixing the date of adjournment at 12 o'clock Monday next.

The original McMillin resolution, providing for final adjournment of Congress at 2 P. M. Saturday, was then adopted by a vote of 121 to 51.

The Speaker stated the pending motion to be that made by Mr. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, to table the motion to reconsider the vote by which the House receded from its disagreement to the Senate World's Fair amendment.

Immediately the filibusters came to the front led by Mr. Outhwaite, who moved an adjournment, supplementing this motion with one to adjourn to Saturday. Mr. Cummings, of New York, acted as lieutenant, and moved an adjournment until Monday.

On Mr. Cummings's motion the vote stood Yeas 1, nays 104—two less than a quorum, and the house is at a standstill, having refused to order a call.

The lack of a quorum came from the Republicans refusal to vote. They are letting the Democrats fight it out on World's Fair lines.

The resolution for final adjournment having been laid before the Senate, Mr. Allison said that it would be unwise to take action upon it until the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill became a law, as Congress could not adjourn until that time.

He suggested that the resolution should lie on the table for the present, and it was so ordered.

WALL ST. STOCK REPORTS.

Buying Shares on Favorable Crop Statistics.

Coalers Particularly Strong, Though Another Advance Is Denied.

Western Union and Missouri Pacific Lead in the Later Trading.

WALL STREET, Thursday, July 28.—The bulls went to work in earnest this morning. Having been assured that recent reports about damage to the corn crop were unfounded, they bought with more confidence than for some time past. The dealings were unusually well distributed and speculation was strong to buoyant.

Sales up to noon were 80,000 shares. At one time the market was weakened temporarily by a drop in Sugar from 105⅞ to 103¾, but the stock rallied to 104⅛ and the general list sold higher than before.

Although the sales agents of the coal companies to-day voted unanimously against a further advance in prices, the anthracite coal stocks were noticeably strong. Lackawanna jumped from 157 to 159¾ without bringing out much stock. The Eastern sales agents voted to fix the production for August at 5,000,000 tons, which is the same as August, 1891.

Baltimore & Ohio advanced 2¾ per cent. The Minneapolis & St. Louis shares improved 1¾ a 2. There was a good demand generally, and the commission houses executed several orders for local and western account.

Estimates of gold shipments by Saturday's vessels vary from two to four millions of dollars. Few futures are making on account of the uncertainty in regard to the Anti-Option bill and exchange is scarce. Still enough bills may appear in the usual time to prevent such large exports.

The New York Stock Exchange has listed $300,000 additional first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis road, making total to date $4,147,000.

As the day wore along the demand for stocks became more urgent, and prices advanced rapidly right through the list. A feature of the trading was the buoyancy of the Grangers, Missouri Pacific and Western Union both leading in the rise. The former sold up to 69¾, and the latter to 93¾, a rise of 1¾ and 1½, respectively, for the day.

Sugar surprised its friends no less than the shorts. The stock advanced 3⅞ from the lowest, and the bears found it difficult to cover their outstanding contracts. Taken altogether, the dealings were better distributed and the interest in the market more general than for a number of weeks past.

It appears that the coal sales agents of the anthracite companies did not think it wise to make an advance at this time, and that the idea of putting up prices has not been abandoned but simply deferred.

The American District Telegraph directors have declared a dividend of 1½ per cent.

REPUBLICANS IN A DILEMMA.

Do Not Want to Reorganize Under the Reapportionment.

Chairman Harrity's New National Headquarters on Fifth Avenue.

Chairman Harrity, of the Democratic National Committee, has already demonstrated that he is a hustler. It took the Republicans nearly four weeks to secure a building for headquarters, and Chairman Carter, of the Republican Committee, who has been at the helm longer than Mr. Harrity, has not made up his mind yet as to the composition of his Campaign and Advisory Committees. Mr. Harrity, on the other hand, has already made up his committees, which will be announced this evening.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS.

There will be an Executive Committee of twenty-five, a Campaign Committee of nine, and an Advisory Committee. All those mentioned in THE EVENING WORLD yesterday will be appointed, it is said.

The make-up of the committees has been considered about a task for the Chairman. In selecting his assistants Mr. Harrity has consulted the leaders and the Democratic organizations in the localities from which they are chosen, as to their fitness and qualifications. He thinks he has secured the best political talent and managers in the country for his staff. Among them are the leading and most active Democratic workers of the United States.

Mr. Harrity has also succeeded in finding a suitable building for headquarters. It is the James A. Burden mansion at 139 Fifth avenue, between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets, and for the purpose it is to be used it is by far more commodious and convenient than the house further up the avenue from which Chairman Carter has flung his gonfalon to the breeze.

The Democratic National Headquarters is a four-story and basement brown-stone structure, containing eighteen spacious rooms, elegantly furnished and decorated. It is 37x138 feet in size, with two entrances, one on Fifth avenue and another on Twentieth street. The parlor floor consists of three large connecting rooms, just the thing for the business purposes of a National Committee. These rooms will be used for the principal officers of the Committee and the Chairman. The upper part of the house will be occupied by a force of clerks, the literary bureau, the Secretary and the Treasurer.

Chairman Harrity has established temporary quarters in Room 1 of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where he was at work in his shirt-sleeves this morning. He said that orders would be given at once for the furnishing of the headquarters building, and he expected it to be ready for occupancy in a week or ten days. Then the active work of the campaign would be begun in earnest.

Chairman Carter, of the Republican National Committee, is still in Washington. "There will be nothing new until Mr. Carter's return," was the information given to all inquirers at Republican headquarters this morning.

Mr. Carter's visit to Washington, it is undented, is in the interest of harmony. The latest information from the Capital is that he has not yet succeeded in patching up peace between the President and Mr. Platt.

A REAPPORTIONMENT QUANDARY.

A sub-committee of the Republican County Executive Committee has been considering the advisability of reorganizing the local forces in the Assembly districts under the new apportionment, but as the party has denounced the Apportionment law as illegal and is now contesting it in other parts of the State, leaders here think they would virtually recognize the validity of the apportionment by organizing under it.

The changes in the districts necessitate a re-enrollment of Republican voters, otherwise the leaders
