STRUGGLE WITH SMALL-POX.

New York Hospital Doctors Dread the Disease.

Six Cases Have Developed in One Ward Since June 23.

The surgeons of the New York Hospital, Fifteenth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, are engaged in a terrible struggle with small-pox.

The dread disease has fastened itself upon Ward G, and all efforts to eradicate it seem to have been failures.

On June 14 Paxton Beese, a young negro who had just come from the Adirondack wilderness, was admitted to the institution and placed in Ward G.

Beese's disease puzzled the doctors, and there was much difficulty in diagnosing his case. Finally, however, it was declared that he had malarial fever. On June 23, ten days after his admission, Beese showed unmistakable signs of small-pox of the most virulent character, and he was at once removed to North Brother Island.

Ward G was immediately thoroughly fumigated, disinfected and quarantined. Notwithstanding these precautions on July 4 another patient, Michael McGuire, developed the disease and was taken away.

Five days later Charles Mitchell was seized and removed. The quarantine was maintained with greater vigilance than ever, but on July 12 Paul Garcia was taken down and removed to North Brother Island, where he has since died.

The next to take the disease was Joseph Plant. He was removed and has since died.

The most rigid methods were then adopted. Several physicians were locked in the stricken ward and no one went in or out of it. Nevertheless, day before yesterday Isaac T. Walker was seized and removed, making the sixth victim since June 23.

There are nine patients still in the ward who were there when Beese was, and the hospital authorities are employing every device known to science to prevent them from taking the disease.

The Health Board will at once begin a searching investigation of the matter and endeavor to fix the responsibility for the incorrect diagnosis of Beese's case, which led to the other five.

MURDER AT MORTON'S HOTEL.

Cæsar Johnson's Body Found at the End of a Bloody Trail.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

EATONTOWN, N. J., July 28.—Cæsar Johnson, a colored man, about thirty years of age, was found murdered at 4 o'clock this morning, lying on the lawn in the rear of the handsome residence of Joseph Johnson, one of the wealthiest citizens in Eatontown.

There was a bullet hole in the right breast and a five-chamber revolver of 42-calibre was also found on the lawn a few feet from the body. Two of the chambers were empty.

There were blood marks on the fence and also on the grass, showing that the body had been dragged to the place where it was found.

The trail of blood led from the front of Morton's Hotel, less than 100 yards away.

At about midnight there was a row between the negroes in front of Morton's Hotel and several pistol shots were fired. It is supposed that Johnson was killed in this affray and his body carried to the lawn in the rear of Joseph Johnson's residence.

Coroner William Van Dyke, of Long Branch, came here this morning, and after viewing the body had it removed to the undertaking shop of John Hall.

The coroner and the police are making an investigation with the hope that they will discover the person who shot and killed Johnson.

The fatal shooting caused much excitement in the negro settlement. The police officers are now searching through this settlement for certain negroes who are known to have been present during the fatal affray.

$700 WORTH OF DIAMONDS GONE.

Mrs. Edward Turner Loses Hers in an Asbury Park Hotel.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

ASBURY PARK, July 28.—Mrs. Edward Turner, a New York actress, who has been boarding at the Atalanta Hotel for several weeks, was robbed of $700 worth of diamonds late yesterday afternoon.

After enjoying a bath Mrs. Turner returned to the hotel. She placed the envelope containing her diamonds on the seat beside her at the dining-room table. When she left the room she forgot the package on the chair.

She soon after discovered what she had done, but when she looked for the jewels they were gone. There is no clue to the thief.

A GALLANT LIFE-SAVER.

Boatman Scanlan's Bold Rescue of a Man in East River.

Boatman William Scanlan, employed on the excursion barge Arthur, is reported to have made a gallant rescue.

The Eccentric Club, of the Seventh Ward, Brooklyn, had an excursion yesterday and on reaching the pier at the foot of South Fifth street at 9 o'clock last night John Fitzpatrick, of 195 Harrison avenue, a member of the Club, accidentally fell overboard.

Scanlan jumped into his boat, which was lowing astern, and started after the drowning man. He with the card of Fitzpatrick up the river to a point opposite South Second street before Scanlan got near enough to reach him. Fitzpatrick was just sinking for the last time when Scanlan plunged into the water after him and managed to hold him up until help arrived. Fitzpatrick was unconscious and was taken to the Eastern Dispensary Hospital, where he recovered later and was sent home.

EXPRESS MAGNATES CONFER.

May Be an Amalgamation of Interests in the Big Companies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MONTREAL, July 28.—J. C. Fargo, of the National Express Company, and H. C. Fuller, of the American Express Company, are in consultation here with Gilman Cheney, of the Canadian Express, and B. J. Sargeant, of the Grand Trunk, with a view to amalgamation of express interests.

125 Claimants for $65,000.

Ex-Judge Ingersoll moved before Justice Andrews, in the Supreme Court Chambers, today for the appointment of a trustee to receive about $1,100, alleged to be due to Mrs. Mary E. Corse, daughter of Samuel Leggett, who died in 1849. Decision was reserved. The estate is worth $65,000 and there are 125 claimants.

Struck by an Electric Car.

Andrew Forsyth, twenty-nine years old, of 372 Fifth avenue, Brooklyn, jumped off car No. 20 of the Jay and Smith street electric line at Ninth avenue near Fourteenth street this morning and was struck by car No. 297 on the same line. Forsyth's right leg was fractured and he was taken to the Seney Hospital.

"JACK THE SILL-ROOSTER."

Brooklyn's Latest, Most Peculiar Nocturnal Crank.

Sits Outside Windows and Frightens Women—The Braid-Clipper.

Complaints about "Jack the Sill-Rooster" are beginning to grow numerous in Brooklyn, particularly in the neighborhood of Henry and Clark streets.

This crank, whose identity has not yet been discovered, is the exponent of a new form of mild insanity, which is, to say the least, annoying to those upon whom he springs his peculiar hobby.

He chooses a house where, from all outward tokens, it may be concluded that the inmates are asleep. Then, perching himself upon the window-sill, he begins to crow and make outcries until the household becomes thoroughly frightened, when he runs away.

The latest instance reported is that of a young woman who lives at 142 Henry street. She returned home at 8.30 Tuesday evening, and, because of the extreme heat, decided to sleep in the front basement room, which was about the coolest spot in the house. She fell asleep and was undisturbed till about 2.30 yesterday morning, when she heard a gruff voice calling "Say! say!"

Frightened almost to fainting at the thought that a burglar was in the room she managed to inquire, "Who are you?"

"Only a man," was the reply.

"Where are you?"

"Out here on the window-sill."

Seeing that the shade had been raised the young woman walked to the window and drew it down. Hardly had she done so when the man walked to the other window, and, with a sharp-pointed instrument, which he thrust through the bars, raised the shade on the other window, remarking, "I'm over here now, dear."

The young woman found some matches, lit the gas, and calmly dressed herself, while the intruder looked on, alternately taunting and jeering her. She made her way through the dark halls to the sleeping-rooms of the household. When the men she awakened reached the street the rascal had disappeared.

Another braid-clipping outrage was reported yesterday by Miss Annie P. Walsh, a pretty typewriter who lives at 217 Mulberry street. She said that while standing in the hallway of her home Saturday night with her luxuriant hair hanging down her back, nearly touching the ground, a man had suddenly seized her and snipped off the braid. He then escaped.

Miss Walsh, who was ill until yesterday from the shock, has given to Police Capt. Copeland an excellent description of her assailant and it is hoped that he may be captured.

DID HE KILL MARY ANDERSON?

Morris Berg, the Latest Suspect, Says He Has an Alibi.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 28.—Morris Berg, the latest suspect run down in the Mary Anderson murder case through the enterprise of THE WORLD, was brought here at 2 o'clock this morning in the custody of Detectives Wm. A. Housell and Chas. A. Oliver, the latter meeting them at Jersey City. He was taken before Justice Chas. P. Ford and on a formal complaint was committed as a witness to the county jail.

Johnny Beisel, the bright youth of thirteen, who was chased by the murderer of Mary Anderson and who identified Berg as one of the men seen in the vicinity of the tragedy, said to-day: "I think Berg remembers me, because he attempted to conceal his face with his hat when I identified him."

Berg was interviewed in the jail by THE EVENING WORLD correspondent. He is forty-two years old, of medium height, with a forbidding face and heavy, overhanging eyebrows. He wears a sandy mustache and has a scar apparently made by India ink or gunpowder, under his right eye. He strenuously denies knowledge of the murder, and claims that he was never in Perth Amboy.

He asserts that he was working in Slatedale, Pa., late in May. He went to Philadelphia in June and worked on a block of houses as a carpenter under Thos. Whitlock, a subcontractor.

He was stopping, he says, with Joe Johnson, who lives on Lithgate street, near Cambria. He says he left yesterday to go to Chicago to see his wife and beat his way there accompanied by his former employer, Sub-Contractor Whitlock.

40,000 LABORERS NEEDED.

Northwestern Farmers Must Have Help to Harvest Wheat.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 28.—There is a panic among Dakota farmers lest they be unable to harvest their great wheat crop which is now being cut in the southern part of South Dakota.

It has been estimated that from 200 to 400 laborers are needed in each county in South Dakota east of the Missouri River. This means about 10,000 laborers.

Southern Minnesota needs help in the harvest field also, and North Dakota will begin harvesting in about two or three weeks.

Altogether conservative estimates are that 40,000 laborers are needed within the next month in order to harvest the immense grain crop of the Northwest. There will be steady employment at good wages.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE CITY.

Thousands of Dollars for Various Injuries, Personal and Otherwise.

The following claims against the city have been filed in the Comptroller's Office: John E. Decker, $7,200 for salary as patrolman in the Police Department, for the six years last past; the Union National Gas Saving Company, $735 for gas generators furnished the Department of Charities and Correction used at Bellevue Hospital; Mrs. Mary Ward, of 306 East Tenth street, $1,000 damages for personal injuries received by falling on the sidewalk in front of No. 88 Columbia street on June 20 last, Frederick C. Glazier, $2,500 for injuries to his horse and wagon, received while crossing City Island bridge on May 10 last.

WILLIE'S SKULL FRACTURED.

He Says a Trolley Car Conductor Hit Him with a Stone.

Joseph Joyce, of Fifty-fourth street and Third avenue, Brooklyn, reported to the police of the Eighteenth Precinct this morning that his seventeen-year-old brother William while stealing a ride on an electric car of the Brooklyn City Railroad at Forty-eighth street and Second avenue last night was struck on the head with a stone by the conductor of the car.

The blow fractured the boy's skull, and he fell to the street. The car went on, and the conductor is as yet unknown.

Dr. Sheppard attended Joyce at his home, and he says the boy's condition is critical.

Detective-Sergt. O'Rourke is looking for the conductor.

SPORTING NEWS AND NOTES.

Skelly Will Meet Dixon at New Orleans at 120 Pounds.

Goff a Likely Man for Next Year's All-Round Championships.

It now looks very much as if Jack Skelly would be granted his longed-for opportunity of taking George Dixon's measure. Pritchard's preference of an undisturbed stomach to a chance of winning $15,000 about settles it that he and Hall will not fight on this side, so the Olympic Club, of New Orleans, offers $7,500 for Dixon and Skelly. As the colored fighter has signified his acceptance of the offer, all that remains now is to get the consent of the other parties. Billy Reynolds, Skelly's backer, was to have posted a forfeit of $250 with the Boston Globe to-day to fight Dixon. He has been looking for Capt. Williams for two or three days to see if the latter wouldn't hold out some sort of an inducement for the pair, so there is little doubt but that he, like Barkis, is willin'.

Reynolds said yesterday, however, that he would not allow his man to go against the champion at less than 120 pounds six hours before. He gave as his reason for doing this that the time from now until Sept. 5 or 6, as the case may be, was so short as to prevent Jack from going below that mark and keeping himself. If it were October he would consent to get down to 118 pounds.

As to the wisdom of Skelly gauging his abilities as a finish fighter, for the first time, against the best man at his weight in the world, that, of course, is debatable. There are many who think he would be far wiser to try himself against Sol Smith first and then, if victorious, to go after the championship. But then there's nobody who has as much at stake as Skelly himself, and no doubt he is doing what he and his backer think best.

It matters not these days who the visiting club may be, our smart Giants beats it just the same. Among the prehistoric comments on the score card is one that the new blood is working wonders. It may be the new blood is doing its share, although Burke, the cunning second baseman made two inexcusable errors yesterday; but the old blood is playing a right snappy game too. Particularly, Denny Lyons, who is holding beautifully and batting hard. The barrel-shaped third baseman knocked a double and a home run yesterday. Then there's Mike Tiernan, who is always good. The score yesterday was 7 to 2.

The game at Eastern Park yesterday was another victory for the Brooklyns, who have now won eight games and lost three. Cleveland was beaten—9 to 4.

The following games are scheduled for to-day:

Louisville at New York.	Pittsburg at Phil'phia.
Cleveland at Brooklyn.	St. Louis at Baltimore.
Cincinnati at Boston.	Chicago at Washington.

"I'll win next year's all-round championships, I think," said Athlete Goff out at Manhattan Field the other day. "I would have won it this year if I had done 8 feet 6 at the pole-vault." "Yes," said a bystander, "I think you'll win it myself. You'll grow and develop by next year." As to the growing and developing part, there are several other athletes who will in all probability be doing some growing and developing themselves. As to the pole-vault, if Goff had won the championships he would have won them. He don't go. But, nevertheless, Goff is the most likely man for next year's all-round competitions. Nobody has any license to beat him. He is a more finished performer than the others, and comes nearer being an all-round athlete. Besides, he goes about what he has to do to accomplish it in a more thorough and businesslike way. Goff should be the man next year, unless Allen Jordan comes in again.

* * *

Jordan, by the way, comes nearer to being an ideal athlete than any of them. He doesn't drink nor smoke, is nearly always practising, and is nearly always fit. If there is any branch of athletic sports at which he is not proficient and he designs to become so, he makes a study of it until he masters it. He is what might be called an athletic crank, and we need more of them.

The victory of the New York A. C. "Clippy" crew in the senior eights at Saratoga yesterday fulfils Capt. Giannini's prophecy that the crew that won the Sharpless Cup at Philadelphia July 4 could win at the National Regatta. It was a splendid race all the way, the Manhattan eight being but a length away when it was all over.

The fight between George Dawson, of Australia, and Danny Needham, of St. Paul, before the California A. C. last night was won by Dawson in the twenty-ninth round.

While these National Cross Country Association people are making preparations to give a set of athletic games during the Fall, they should not overlook the fact that the A. A. U. does not recognize any association in its ranks, and as an association is not apt to allow them a date. The only way to get around this rule of the A. A. U. is to have the games head under the auspices of some A. A. U. club in good standing, say the Manhattan A. C. It will be remembered that the M. A. C. junior team won first place in the April cross-country championships, and it is easy to make a success of the games that the M. A. C. team may get its gold medals, that some one has rather spitefully suggested that the Cherry Diamond Club has an axe to grind in taking the N. C. C. A. games under its fostering care.

The information comes from Good Ground this morning that Sullivan is down to 210½ pounds and that ten pounds more is all Casey will have to take off; also that his skin is of a bright rose color. Nothing is said as to the color of Corbett's skin, but it is most likely white or pink or flesh colored as usual. Corbett has been invited to church though, and Sullivan hasn't. Capt. Williams visited Corbett yesterday. According to a friend of the latter's Sullivan is credited with having made the remark some time ago that Corbett would worry himself into poor condition thinking of the fight. Whether the big fellow ever said such a thing or not, there are no indications yet that Corbett is worrying.

The following letter explains itself:

Twilo Sporting Editor Evening World:

My match with Billy Murray, which was to have taken place before the Coney Island A. C., has been declared off. I am now ready to talk business with Jasper Leon, who has been bluffing long enough about fighting me. The truth of the matter is Leon does not want to fight. He is perfectly business, and I will put a forfeit to show he means business he will not use ready.

Held for a Heinous Crime

Raffele Lostumbo, a porter in Delmonic restaurant, was to-day held in $5,000 in the Tombs court for trial on the charge of having criminally assaulted ten-year-old Mary Sullivan, of 509 Pearl street.

"The Holy Terror" Has Reformed.

SOUTH BEND., Ind., July 27.—Rather less than a month ago some of our prominent citizens clubbed together and raised a fund with which to send to the Point of Pines a noted local character, who, when in his cups (which was about two-thirds the time), was accustomed to making the streets of South Bend positively unsafe by reason of his wanton attacks on whoever passed by, be they men, women or children. He has come back to the scene of his former escapades, but instead of being a terror he proves to have been made a quiet, law-abiding, citizen and father a good fellow after all. It is suggested that some of the towns in the Far West shut some of their cowboy visitors to W. R. Brown & Co. for similar treatment.

ALTERATIONS AT THE CASINO.

The Work of Making It Like a London Music Hall Begun.

Managers and Actors Preparing for the Fall Business.

The alterations which are to convert the "home of comic opera" into a variety hall like the London Alhambra were begun last night. They will not interfere with the run of the opera "The Vice Admiral." A 112 partition is being built, shutting off the back part of the house, including Rudolph Aronson's private office, the cloak-room and other compartments. This partition is to be of wood, but it will be nicely papered, so that it will not be an unsightly object by any means. Behind it the construction of the big smoke lobby that is to be inclosed in glass will be carried on. The carpet will be torn up and will not be replaced, though that in the auditorium will remain. Mr. Aronson is now in Vienna and is not expected back until Aug. 15. Although this concert-hall scheme was kept so quiet, it was discussed as early as May, and before he started for Europe Mr. Aronson had his plans nearly mapped out. The Casino people, however, are still in the dark as to the engagements that Mr. Aronson has made. There are but two contracts made with the present members of the comic opera company that endure beyond the present season. No trouble with these is anticipated. Miss Annie Meyers leaves the Casino Aug. 15 to go with "The Tar and the Tartar."

Frank Norcross says that his dramatization of the Homestead troubles will probably be on the road by Aug. 22. All the preliminary details are being satisfactorily shaped. The leading man—the Hugh O'Donnell of the drama—is very nearly engaged.

Charles Dickson, the irrepressible comedian, was in the city yesterday. He opens his next season with "Incog." at Long Branch. "All the visitors will have left the cheerful resort by that time," said Mr. Dickson affably, "so I shall present 'Incog.' to the villagers and thus get even with them for the way they have treated the summer guests."

The scenes of Sardou's new play that will be acted for the first time anywhere, in this city, will be laid in Cannes, Paris and Trouville. It will deal with an American family, who have lived for six months in the French metropolis. The young girl of the family has fallen in love with a Frenchman. Sardou, by the bye, will soon begin to take a well-earned rest, as the army of American actors and actresses all "negotiating" with him is marching home.

"The Mascot" is now being sung all over the country by the mushroom organizations that are trying to coax the Summer dollar from the heated theatre-goer. The Lockwood-Carters Opera Company and the Baker Opera Company are said to be giving very good versions of Auran's tuneful effort.

Stars as a rule are not very popular with the members of their company. They generally try—to use the language of the profession—to "hog" everything, which means that they cut out everything that creates a laugh or proves interesting in the parts of their colleagues. Nobody must be anywhere but the star. Dixey is an exception to this rule. He is immensely popular with the members of his company. On the opening night of "The Mascot" he said to his organization: "Now, boys and girls, do all you can, and remember that I only want my just rights." Between the acts Dixie joins the ranks of actors and actresses and chats pleasantly with them. The other warm night he sent out for ice cream and refreshed the parched throats of his accomplices. All this may seem unimportant. It means a great deal, however.

E. E. Rice, since his return from Australia, is living as he used to live—in a sea of tempestuous schemes. They all sound most plausible, and they are all extremely elaborate. A few million dollars would be necessary to set them properly afloat. But what are a few million dollars to Rice? Absolutely nothing.

The first thing that De Wolf Hopper, Nat Goodwin and E. H. Sothern did yesterday after leaving the City of Paris, that brought them back to these shores, was to go to Delmonico's and have luncheon. They were very jovial—that is to say, Hopper and Goodwin were; Sothern wouldn't be if he could, or couldn't be if he would—and seem glad to be back. After luncheon they submitted to "interviews." Hopper brewed a claret punch, threw himself back in a chair and eulogized his brains for something that would look funny in print. It must be admitted that he did not find much. He said that he enjoyed himself in Paris, and that Mr. Goodwin did the same. Goodwin, himself, had little to say that has not already been said in the columns of THE EVENING WORLD. As for Sothern, he was mainly delighted with his new play, "Richard Sheridan."

750,000 ACRES OF LAND OPENED.

Reverted to the Government from the Southern Pacific.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Seven hundred and fifty thousand acres of land in San Benito and Monterey counties, and which according to the act of Congress of Sept. 29, 1890, revert to the Government by reason of the failure of the Southern Pacific Railroad to complete a certain portion of its line within the specified time, were thrown open to settlement to-day under the Homestead act, and a large number of filings were made at the Land Office in this city.

Some excitement attended the opening of the land, but there has been no violence outside of a few fights. A few hardy women are here to take up claims and will probably secure lands.

JUDGE GREEN ON PESHALL.

The Lawyer to Be Presented to the Next Federal Grand Jury.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]

TRENTON, N. J., July 28.—United States Judge Green to-day sustained the appeal filed by Lawyer Peshall in the cases of Rollin Moschell and Hart, three convicted ballot-box stuffers.

The decision was on the motion of Prosecutor Winfield to strike the appeal from the records. Judge Green ruled, that in view of the fact that the appeal removed the case to the United State Supreme Court, he was powerless to interfere.

All the facts in relation to Lawyer Peshall's alleged misdeeds to interfere we will be presented to the higher court and also to the Federal Grand Jury in Trenton for a proper inquiry whether a conspiracy had been entered into in this case for the express purpose of thwarting and embarrassing the administration of justice in this jurisdiction.

FROM THE WORLD OF LABOR.

Typographical Union No. 10 of Chicago is about to celebrate its fortieth anniversary.

Progressive Painters' Union No. 3 has donated $200 to the strikers in Homestead.

F. M. Drum is a Union musician, and he is also treasurer of the Trades' Council of Jackson, Mich.

The boss bakers of Boston have refused to grant their workmen a holiday on Labor Day.

Thomas I. Kidd, General Secretary of the International Wood-Workers' Union, is organizing local unions in Michigan.

The Weavers' National Protective Association has indorsed the strike of the Corders' Union at New Bedford, Mass.

The members of the local union of brewers at Detroit, Mich., are paying a weekly assessment of 25 cents each to the strike fund of the Bakers' Union in that city.

Working Delegate Hecht, of the Framers' Union, ordered strikes on thirteen jobs yesterday to assist the fight against the Iron League and its supporters.

The 2000 striking spinners at the Dolphin Jute Mills, Paterson, N. J., have resumed work at forty-five and a half hours per week and their former wages for sixty hours.

Up to last week the receipts at the general office of the International Typographical Union amounted to $20,115.03, for the current year, and $8,005.30 have been expended.

Wages have been reduced at the tariff-protected locust Point Tin Mill near Baltimore, and most of the men who struck left the city. Many of these men were only recently imported from Wales and England.

The labor and farmers' organizations of Louisville, New Albany and Jeffersonville, Ky., will combine in celebrating Labor Day, and their committee of Arrangements announces that at least 18,000 men will be in line.

The Supreme Court of West Virginia has rendered a decision declaring the iniquitous truck system in that State. The decision says that employers must pay for labor performed in lawful money and not in store orders.

The National Granite-Cutters' Union has issued a statement to all the granite-cutters' unions of the country to the effect that it has refused the proposition of the Manufacturers' Association for an agreement of four years ending on July 1.

The initiation fee of the Structural Iron-Workers' Protective Union has been raised to $3. The dues will be 50 cents per month and the benefit for sick members is fixed at $5 per week, while $75 are to be paid for death benefits. The Union has at present nearly 200 members.

The shop organizations of the Piano-Makers' Union have been notified to procure special permits for the Union's parade previous to the coming picnic. The police authorities refused to issue a general permit for the occasion.

Confectioners' Union No. 7 has elected Charles Bland, President; G. Artus, Vice-President; J. Seelig, Recording Secretary; C. Fahl, Corresponding Secretary; H. Duber, Financial Secretary; M. Goetlieg, Treasurer; R. Alin, Doorkeeper; Messrs. Weissmann, Seelig and Bland Delegates to the Central Labor Union.

The Building Trades Section of the C. L. U. was notified by the Board of Health yesterday that the list of places where engineers are compelled to burn the refuse manure from the stables of their busses has been referred to the Sanitary Superintendent for inspection of the premises.

The Glass-Decorators' Union of America has elected R. C. Martin, President; Gustave Kuebner, Vice-President; C. De Wyrall, Secretary; Adolph Langer, Treasurer; Gustave Kuebner, John Pettit, Charles Ziegler, Executive Board. The Union has applied for admission to the American Flint Glass Workers' Union.

The Building Trades Section of the C. L. U. notified the Central Labor Union yesterday that it had no right to refer charges against the German Painters' Union to its Grievance Committee. The section claims that all grievances should be first tried in the lower body, the C. L. U. acting as a court of appeals in such matters.

At Tuesday's meeting of the New York Branch of the Granite-Cutters' National Union the action of Col. Streator, of the Tenth Regiment of the militia of Pennsylvania, in salting up Private Jones by the thumbs was denounced as an outrage bedating back to the time of the Spanish Inquisition than the civilization of the nineteenth century.

Those members of Cabinet-Makers' Union No. 7 who earn more than $16 per week will be taxed $1 weekly until further notice, to support the men who were victimized during the recent eight-hour strike. The Union has declined an invitation to participate in the Columbian celebration because Richard Katzenmeyer and other "scab" bosses are on some of the committees.

Roger Harrison, of Eccentric Engineers' Union No. 1, reported to the Building Trades' Section of the C. L. U. yesterday that a member of Eccentric Engineers' Union No. 1 was employed on a building at Twenty-third street and Lexington avenue, where nonunion men are working. The matter was tabled to await the action of Union No. 6.

At yesterday's meeting of the Building Trades Section of the C. L. U. Progressive Painters' Union No. 2 preferred charges against the German Painters' Union for having worked on the Grand Central Hotel while a strike of the Marble-Workers and other trades was in progress. The matter was referred to the Grievance Committee. It was resolved that the Union be instructed to withdraw its men from the hotel and Boss Baumgarten's shop as soon as possible.

Charters Nos. 155 and 156 have been granted to new local unions at Waterbury, Conn., and Baltimore, Md., by the Journeymen Bakers' International Union. Union No. 147, Springfield, Ill., has succeeded in making the bosses in that city sign the union contract. No strike was necessary to bring the bosses to terms. The receipts at the general office amounted to $596.15 last week. Secretary Weissmann is suffering from prostration, and Assistant Secretary Harry Weickert has taken charge of the office.

The Central Body of the Journeymen Tailors' Protective and Benevolent Union has set aside $100 for the Homestead Relief Fund, and subscription lists were sent to all shops for the same purpose. Word was received from Washington that the bill relating to the importation of swell clothing has been passed by the House of Representatives and is now before the Senate.

Most of the silk factories in Paterson, N. J., have complied with the Fifty-Five-Hour law. Among the few refusing to do so is the Weidman Silk-Dyeing Company, but Factory Inspector Keys will attend to the violators of the law. Inspector Callan reports that nearly 800 employers in Newark have signified their willingness to comply with the law, but the proprietors of the Newark Steel Works, the Lester Fertilizer Works, the Jackson Smelting Work, the New Jersey Zinc and Iron Company and S. Halsey & Sons, leather manufacturers, declare that they will fight the law in the courts.

William Wilkins, of Typographical Union No. 98, presided at yesterday's Harmony Convention of the Brooklyn Labor organizations which took place at American Star Hall, Bedford and Myrtle avenues. Sixteen unions, all affiliated with the Brooklyn Central Labor Union, were represented. No other central or local bodies had sent any delegates. A motion to send committees to all unions outside them to take part in the conference was lost, and it was resolved to send out another circular for a second conference.

The Knights of Labor State Assembly of Massachusetts, in session at Boston last week, was attended by the delegates of over forty local assemblies. Secretary-Treasurer Bishop stated in his report that the trouble in Homestead had caused much apprehension and very large increase of membership. During the last three months three important strikes were satisfactorily settled. In resolutions adopted in relation to Homestead the Assembly denounced Mr. Carnegie as inconsistent and inhuman.

The Building Trades Section of the C. L. U. received credentials yesterday from the Bricklayers' Union, John McManus, James Mallon, Thomas Cunningham; United Order of Carpenters, Lodge 2, J. H. Order of Stair Builders, John Monaghan, M. H. Horan.

Eighty-six delegates from labor organizations, among whom are representatives of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel Workers' Association, American Flint-Glass Workers, United Green-Glass Workers, United Mine-Workers, Journeymen Brewers' National Union, International Typographical Union, Socialist Labor Party, Central Labor organizations of New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Cincinnati and other cities, the Excelsior Labor Club and several other K. of L. assemblies, convened in Pittsburg yesterday to establish an International Labor Bureau in this country. Millard Spohr, of the Washington Federation of Labor, was made Chairman and Frank L. Hist, of Cincinnati, Secretary. The time was occupied by a discussion upon the subject in hand. Lucien Sanial, Patrick McBride, M. Gessner, Julius Pichel, J. Doherty and others being the principal speakers. Finally a committee was appointed to devise a plan for the organization of the bureau and present a report this morning.

IN THEIR NEW WHITE CAPS.

"Evening World" Newsboys Who Look Just Like Buck Ewing.

One hundred dozen small boys appeared in brand-new headgear this afternoon.

They were to be met in every street and avenue, and every one of them was exercising his lungs. They were a part of the army of newsboys who sell THE EVENING WORLD and their new head covering was a fine white cap.

Each cap bore the legend "EVENING WORLD" just above the visor, and every wearer cried his favorite paper with a new energy in consequence of the gift.

About six hundred of the newsboys made things howl in Frankfort street during the distribution of THE EVENING WORLD caps, for no reasoning would convince a small boy that there was a large enough supply of anything to go around.

The youngsters scrambled and jostled and climbed over each other in their eagerness to get to one of the half dozen windows in the newsboys' distributing-room, each boy receiving with his bundle of "2 o'clock Extras" a white cap.

In addition, each of THE EVENING WORLD wagon men carried along enough caps to supply the uptown customers, and woe betide that driver who had miscalculated and found himself short of caps.

This was the second distribution of EVENING WORLD caps this season, and now there are 2,500 newsboys in New York who wear the white helmets and "look just like Buck Ewing."

FITZPATRICK SHOT HIMSELF.

Mishap to a Policeman Who Was Chasing Two Offenders.

Policeman Thomas Fitzpatrick reported at the Prince street station-house this morning that last night about midnight while he was chasing two young men who had attempted to assault him on Hudson street he drew his revolver to shoot at them, when it went off and caused a flesh wound on two fingers of his left hand. The men escaped. The policeman was attended by an ambulance doctor, and went off on sick leave.

HE CRIED HIS LAST "EXTREE."

Seven-Year-Old Frank Timms Killed by a Brooklyn Horse-Car.

The Driver of the Car Held in $1,000 Bail for the Grand Jury.

Little seven-year-old Frank Timms will never cry "Extree" again. This morning the little newsboy lies dead in his father's house, 542 Union street, Brooklyn. His life was crushed out last night about 6.30 o'clock by street-car No. 12 of the Third avenue line of the Brooklyn City Railroad. Frank sold his armful of papers earlier than usual last night and was playing tag with some friends about the corner of Third avenue and Union street.

He started to run across Third avenue, and evidently did not see the street-car. He was struck by the horse on the west side of the track. He was knocked down. The forward wheel of the car ran over his chest, crushing it in and turning him over on his back. The conductor, John Ryan, and the driver, Michael Lee, took the boy from under the car dead.

Officer Findley, of the Tenth Precinct, arrested the driver and conductor. The feeling among the people in the neighborhood was intense. The officer had all he could do to prevent the men from the crowd.

In the Butler Street Police Court this morning the conductor, John Ryan, was discharged and the driver, Michael Lee, was held in $1,000 bail to await the finding of the Coroner's inquest.

BIG FULL TO GET THIS OFFICE.

City Saloon in Each Ward With an Official Barkeeper.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 28.—A Sioux Falls (S. Dak.) special to the Pioneer Press says: The Council Committee appointed to investigate United States Commissioner Lyons's proposition for a city saloon has received a favorable report.

It proposes a saloon in each ward with a barkeeper and a spittoon wrestler. The former is to receive $50 per month and expenses and the latter $30 flat. No chairs or tables will be allowed, and straight whiskey or beer will be sold, with no mixed drinks.

The report will be made at the next council meeting.

Chief Engineer Currie Lost at Sea.

The steamship Amur, Capt. Sturgeon, which arrived this morning from Baracoa, reports that July 24 at 4 A. M., Chief Engineer Samuel Currie, of Scotland, was reported missing. It is supposed he accidently fell overboard while sitting on the rail. He was sixty-nine years old.

WHEN THE DINNER BELL RINGS
People ought to feel hungry, and when they feel hungry they ought to have good digestion. But, alas! they don't—frequently. That plague alike of the just and of the unjust, of the abstemious and the glut
