Elsie's Collection.

To the Editor:

Last week mamma read to me about the "poor sick babies." I told mamma I'd like to help them. So I started out and collected from friends in my neighborhood $4.40 in two afternoons. I wanted to make $5 but I was taken sick, and am kept indoors. My doctor gave me $1.10; he told me to get fifty cents more and make $6 so now I have it, and am glad to send it to you for the sick babies.

Doctor says I will be out again soon. I hope so. I was seven years old in February last. I love the little babies. Inclosed please find the list of names, and $6. Hoping it will help some poor children.

Here are the contributors: Cash, 55 cents; Mrs. N. V Compton, Helen Van Dusen, 25 cents each; "Baby" Young, 50 cents; Jennie Moore, 30 cents; Walter and Martha Brokaw, 15 cents; Willie Pendleton, 15 cents; Lindsley Dunham, Karl Marbacher, Julia Mershon, Mrs. May, Mrs. G. W. Savage, "Uncle Ira," 25 cents each; C. C., H. A. G., Bessie Berry, 15 cents each, Papa, 25 cents; J. J. Daly, M. D., $1.10; Mamma, 25 cents; Elsie C. Orr, 30 cents.

A Magic Lantern Show.

To the Editor:

Wm. Arthur Palmer gave an entertainment with magic lantern for the babies, and all the Committee worked hard for a few hours Monday and realized $3, which goes to show what a simple entertainment and a small boy can do for sweet charity's sake. Everybody gave their mite for tickets, and all the children around Mount Hope enjoyed the show.

The Committee were George Wesinfield, aged thirteen, made 78 cents; Jack Ferdinand, aged ten, 78 cents; Pier Leport, aged eight, 50 cents; Emma Hyiman, aged eleven, 11 cents; Birdie Luree, aged thirteen, 25 cents; Flossie Pinder, aged fourteen, 25 cents.

These only worked about an hour, and if we could accommodate more they could sell as many tickets as would do credit to Mount Hope. William A. Palmer makes the difference up in the money.

Friends in the Mountains.

To the Editor:

It is with pleasure that we inclose you $11, which was derived from an entertainment and hop held at the Plum Hill House, Mountainville, Orange County, N. Y., last Sunday under the supervision of Mrs. J. L. Schwarzbaum, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Jos. Harris, of Jersey City, and Mrs. N. Wollbruck, of New York. The programme of the evening was as follows: Duet by Misses T. and J. Minder, comic song by our popular Brooklynite, Mr. J. L. Schwarzbaum; comic recitation by Mr. Hirchtach, of New York; song and whistling by Mrs. J. L. Schwarzbaum, solo by Miss T. Minder, recitation by Master Julius Schwarzbaum, dancing man by Prof. Davis, imitations by Mr. Kleinwalt, comic song by Dr. Schotte.

The principal feature of the evening was some valuable packages which were sold to the highest bidder by Mr. Joseph Harris, who kindly volunteered his services as auctioneer. Among those present were: Dr. Schotte, Counsellor A. Nelson, Mr. Hirchbach, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. Fischel, of New York, and many other guests of the Orchard House.

McCurdy Association Outing.

The William H. McCurdy Association, which is composed of over 200 members, will give its initial outing and games to-morrow. The steamer Hazel Kirke has been chartered for the occasion and will leave the White Star line pier at 7 o'clock sharp, in the morning, and proceed to Point View Grove on the sound, where the members and their friends will spend the day. The games will take place after breakfast is served, and the winner in each event will receive a handsome prize. The Committee of Arrangements are John Pollock, Chairman; Patrick J. McNally, Edward J. Moran and James Lynch.

VAGRANT VERSES.

The Method in It.

We were playin' a quiet game of draw,
Muggins an' me an' Looney Ben,
Quiestest old chap you ever saw,
(Accident once, an' dis since then.)

Straight enough, though, when his head was right,
But sheesy, you bet, when his spells came on;
Though things were runnin' on smooth that night,
As the hands were dealt and the cards were drawn.

Lucky old Muggins had won a lot;
I was easy—the loss was Ben's,
Mug had just opened a big jack-pot,
And I had filled on a pair of tens.

When all of a sudden Ben gave a yell
That lifted our hair and raised the swest.
Then just what happened I couldn't tell,
For Ben has a fit, an' we left, you bet.

Deserted like cowards an' left poor Ben—
Flew thro'gh the window an' took the sash—
I reckon Ben smiled for a minit, an' then
Walked out through the door an' took the cash.

WAGES OF STREET CLEANERS.

A Sweeper Complains that the New Law Works Injustice.

Messrs. Brennan and Storrs Explain the Lines of the Act.

To the Editor of The Evening World:

The sweepers, stablemen and cart drivers in the Street-Cleaning Department are cut down to pauper wages by the law which recently passed the Legislature making $50 a month their pay. This is a little less than $1.64 per day, for the men that have to work on Sundays get no extra pay. They are told that there was no allowance made for Sundays in the bill.

Is there not a law stating that no man in the city or State Governments shall work for less than $2 per day?

Is it not a shamp that, while the laboring men in the Street-Cleaning Department were lowered to pauper wages, the Commissioner and all his subordinates got from $500 upward tacked on to their salaries?

More expenses were also added upon us, for, out of our $1.64 a day we are compelled to buy our own brooms and whatever else we work with, together with a work-house suit that makes people look upon us as convicts.

Let the public imagine how much remains out of our wages to pay our rent and support our families

Please investigate and help us. A SWEEPER.

New York, July 29.

Going around among the sweepers of the Street-Cleaning Department an EVENING WORLD reporter found that the complaint about low wages was very general, although many of them thought that the new law was in no way responsible for this.

"Besides," said one of the brightest of those interviewed, "under the present system, if we happen to be sick, our wages are paid us, providing the sickness is not shammed. As for working Sunday, it is true we get no extra pay for it when we do work, but then we get a free Saturday for it, which evens matters up. The pay is poor, but not worse by any means than under the old law."

Commissioner Brennan was very much put out over the complaint, and denounced the anonymous writer in forcible terms.

"It is false," said he, "that sweepers get only $1.64 a day. They get $1.91 a day, which is, indeed, a little less than they were paid formerly, but then this discrepancy is more than compensated for by the numbers of rainy days, when they do not work, but notwithstanding draw their pay. The average pay is really considerably more than $2 a day for actual work.

"As to a raise of the salaries of the Commissioner and his subordinates, I have yet to learn that any such raise has been made. I for one shall not fail to take advantage of it when I do learn it. The only officials whose salaries were advanced are District Superintendents, who get $200 more under the new law."

Deputy Comptroller Storrs was also a little surprised to hear that fault had been found with the new law.

"It is true," said he, "that there is a city ordinance prohibiting less than $2 a day to any municipal employee; but that is, of course, rendered nugatory by the action of the Legislature.

"All that I can say in reference to the alleged injustice of the law referred to in the communication of "A Sweeper" to THE EVENING WORLD is that it was drafted pursuant to the recommendation of an Advisory Board, appointed by Mayor Grant in February, 1891, and was the result of long, painstaking and conscientious investigations into the street-cleaning methods, made by five highly respectable citizens of the metropolis, constituting an entirely non-political committee. The measures recommended by these gentlemen were, moreover, indorsed by the combined press of the community and received the sanction of disinterested citizens.

"The members of the Advisory Board were: Morris K. Jesup, Charles F. Chandler, Thatcher M. Adams, David H. King, jr., and Francis V. Greene.

"On March 21, 1891, they submitted to Mayor Grant a report on these questions:

"'1. Is the Department of Street Cleaning efficiently managed, and if not in what respect is it inefficient?

"'2. Is the present law adequate, and if not what additional legislation is required?

"'3. Is the amount of money now appropriated sufficient to clean the streets properly? And if not, what, in your judgment, is necessary?

"To the first question the answer was that the Department was inefficiently managed.

"To the second question the reply was that the existing law was adequate, provided it was efficiently administered.

"To the third query the answer was that the amount of money appropriated was inadequate.

"Under each caption the Committee recommended the course which they deemed proper to be pursued. A bill was accordingly drawn up in conformity with the Committee's suggestions, and became law April 9 last, and is known as Chapter 269 of the Laws of 1892."

TWO WHITE BRUTES LYNCHED.

They Had Assaulted the Newly-Wedded Wife of a Rival.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 30.—There was a double lynching near Jacksboro, in Campbell County, last night. The victims were white men who had taken part in a dastardly assault upon a woman for whose hand both had been unsuccessful suitors.

Last Wednesday night an outrageous assault was committed upon Mrs. William Dilke, a newly married woman. She and her husband were asleep when their home was invaded by John Willis and Andrew Bealson. The two seized and bound Dilke and, utterly powerless to prevent it, he was compelled to witness the ill-treatment of his wife.

The men made their escape, and it was twenty-four hours later before the crime was discovered. A mob of 100 men then started in pursuit. Bealson and Willis were captured yesterday and taken before the Dilkes, who positively identified them. Last night the two prisoners were strung up side by side to a tree near the Dilke residence.

New Glen Island Boat.

Never in the history of Glen Island has this resort been put to such a tax as it has during the past seven days. The management have been compelled to run two and three extra boats each day, and last Sunday twelve large steamers were needed in carrying the passengers to and from Glen Island. Mr. Starin has just completed the mammoth steamer William C. Egerton, which will be put on the line regularly next Sunday. This steamer is one of the largest excursion boats now running and will carry 3,000 passengers. Her dimensions are 250 feet over all, 30 feet beam, 8 feet depth of hold.

Crops Endangered by a Negro Exodus.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 30.—The Oklahoma craze has broken out afresh among the negroes in the western part of Tennessee, and hundreds of them have emigrated from this section within the past few days. The farmers in Shelby and Tipton counties are unable to secure laborers at any price to harvest their crops, and they have become alarmed over the prospects of their wheat, corn and cotton rotting in the fields.

SCHOOL FOR SOLDIER BOYS.

Men from the "Off Year" Regiments to Learn the New Tactics.

Four Companies from as Many Regiments Go to Peekskill To-Day.

Four companies of picked men embarked at the Grand Central Station to-day, bound for the State Camp at Peekskill, where they will participate in the most important work ever done at a State encampment.

These four companies are made up of the most intelligent men of the Seventh, Twelfth, Twenty-second and Twenty-third regiments, of New York and Brooklyn, and they will study the new tactics for a whole week, to return to their respective regiments to become teachers of their comrades in arms.

The War Department at Washington has detailed to the work of instruction three members of the late Tactical Board, which formulated the new tactics to take the place of the rules that have been in vogue for twenty years or more. These three are Col. Bates, who was President of the Tactical Board; Lieut. French, who was its Recorder, and Lieut. Hardin, who has been an instructor at West Point for years.

These officers have been watching the workings of the new regulations at the militia camp, because it is seldom that enough men of the United States Army can be got together to demonstrate the practicability of the new manœuvres.

Lieut. John C. Fremont, of the cruiser Philadelphia, a son of the old "Pathfinder," performed a similar duty at the Homestead camp of the Pennsylvania militia.

Gen. Porter, realizing the disadvantage under which the National Guard of the State was laboring in attempting the new tactics on such short notice, asked Gov. Flower to request the War Department to detail the makers of the new regulations as teachers in this special school, and the request was readily complied with.

They will inspect, criticise and correct on the field, as they have done during the regular camp, much to the advantage of the Sixty-ninth, Ninth, Fourteenth, Thirteenth and Sixty-fifth regiments and the several separate companies who have been in camp. Next week's work will put the "off-year" regiments on an equal footing with the others.

The companies that went to Peekskill to-day were composed of the best soldiers in their respective regiments. Col. Appleton detailed for the Seventh Capt. Willard C. Fisk and First Lieuts. Francis G. Landon and J. Watson Cochran.

Col. Dowd's Twelfth Regiment Company will be commanded by Capt. Charles S. Burns and Lieuts. J. R. Blake, E. Y. Weber and Newbold Morris.

To the command of the company for the Twenty-second Col. Camp assigned Capt. N. B. Thurston, with Lieuts. Edwin N. Dayton, Harry H. Treadwell and Robert J. Daly.

Capt. Ezra De Forest will command the company from the Twenty-third Regiment, with Lieuts. C. J. Kraft, W. P. Pickett and W. P. Blackman.

These companies relieve the twelve separate companies now in camp. They will return next Friday.

Gen. Porter has thrown the camp open to all the officers of the National Guard who desire to attend, and about two hundred officers are expected to attend. Quarters will be furnished for them, and Caterer Louis Windholz will look after them. The expenses of this supplemental week, the seventh of this year's camp, will be borne by the State.
