YEGGMEN BLOW CLARENDON P. O. FOR THIRD TIME

Sheriff H. B. Field and a posse today are scouring Alexandria county, Va., for a band of yeggmen who early today blew open the postoffice safe at Clarendon and escaped with $50 and about $30 worth of stamps.

The robbers fled toward Fort Myer, and the military authorities were asked to aid in the search.

Clarendon was awakened by a loud explosion about 3:40 o'clock. E. C. Washburn, who lives near the postoffice, was the first to get outdoors. He saw several men running down the railroad tracks in the direction of Fort Myer. Others joined Mr. Washburn, and the chase was kept up until daylight without success.

Dry powder was used to blow open the safe, which was in the drug store of W. D. Boyer, who is also postmaster. In their haste to get away the robbers left some of their tools behind.

Today's robbery is the third at the Clarendon postoffice in the last three months.

POLICE URGED TO HELP FUEL CONSERVATION

In a bulletin addressed to every man in the police department, Major Pullman today declared the conservation rules promulgated by John L. Weaver, fuel administrator for the District, should be "burned into their minds" and that the force should do all in their power to aid in the movement for saving.

If the department duplicates its splendid response to both Liberty loan calls, it will prove a power in local fuel conservation. The men are urged by Pullman to spread the doctrine of saving combustibles.
