ROYAL TURK QUITS HOME TO FIGHT INVADERS

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 20.—Omar Farouk, son of Prince Abdul Medjid Effendi, heir presumptive to the Turkish throne, escaped from this city on Thursday and fled to Angora. He left a letter to his father explaining his flight from Constantinople.

"I am unable," he wrote, "to witness idly the invasion of the home land by an imperialist enemy. I am going to fight."

Omar received military training in Austria and holds a commission as a captain of cavalry. He is twenty-three years old and is the only imperial Turkish prince with the Nationalists.

Ansevour Pasha, former Circassian bandit, who some time ago enlisted with the Constantinople government in opposition to the Turkish Nationalists, has been executed at Angora.

SOCIETY GIRL TO TOUR EUROPE BY AIRPLANE

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—Miss Cornelia B. McLaughlin, a New York society girl, believes such methods of touring Europe as trains and steamships are a bit old-fashioned. Also, that they do not furnish the thrills that one expects from a super-civilization.

So Miss McLaughlin came to Southern California recently, learned how to fly an airplane, secured a pilot's license from the Aero Club of America and plans to make an air tour of France and Italy thus summer.

Emery H. Rogers, the aviator, who gave Miss McLaughlin lessons, says she proved one of the ablest out of several hundred pupils who have come under his observation. She was the first aviatrix trained in southern California to be granted recognition by the Aero Club of America.
