UNDER THE LEAVES.

Beneath the brown linden trees,
Staining the ground with crimson dyes,
There is a mound, daisy-covered and green;
There our darling, sweet Mable, lies.

So fair! with the glossy braids;
So gentle! befitting her grace;
Blue eyes, like violets, from everglades,
There seem'd a "garden in her face."

But her's was a beauty that faded soon;
To fair, to battle with changing ills;
It is vain, to shelter with human love
A soul which the fountain celestial fills.

The slow-creeping years have come and gone,
Since the time, our darling fell asleep;
"Under the leaves" faded and brown,
We softly laid her, where night winds creep,

And sigh—like voices of mourners above her
All the day long these whispeging trees;
Yet while we grieve, our faith reaches over,
And visions enrapt, of the glorified, sees.

CHARLOTTE BARBOUR.

THE MONTHLY MAGAZINES.

Hours at Home, a monthly magazine of near a hundred pages, is one of the most welcome visitors to our table. It is always instructive, entertaining, satisfactory. The number for August has more than a dozen papers written by able and accomplished writers. The opening paper, 'Summer Life in Lebanon,' is breezy and adapted to this hot weather. 'On the Steppe' details the experiences and observations of a gentleman in eastern Russia and western Asia, a region about which just enough is known to invest it with a fascinating interest. Hours at Home does not belong to the cheap literature class of magazines, but all its articles are the work of capable writers. Its essays are scholarly; its record of travels instructive, and its stories attractive. It is now in its ninth volume. Published by Charles Scribner & Co., New York.

The Herald of Health ought to be a welcome visitor at every fireside. It aims to instruct people how to live and be healthy without drugs or doctors. The August number continues a series of papers by distinguished women on the rearing of children, the present being a contribution by the Baroness Manenholz-Bulon. How to Control the Lower Passions, by Henry Ward Beecher; Kitty Howard's Journal, by Mrs. Oakes Smith; Suffering, by O. B. Frothingham; Consumption, by Geo. H. Taylor, M. D., other papers of minor interest, and editorial articles make up an excellent number. Wood & Holbrook, publishers, New York.

FARM, GARDEN & HOUSEHOLD.

For Preserving Green Corn.—Take the corn when it is sufficiently matured for table use, remove the husk from it, and boil it nearly as much as you would if you were going to use it on the table; let it cool; cut it from the cob; take any sized stone jar, put the corn in the jar with common salt; first a layer of salt half an inch, then a layer of corn two inches; pack closely; then half an inch of salt and two inches of corn until the jar is filled; tie a cloth over the jar and set it away. It will not form a brine, and will only take up a certain quantity of salt, so that there is no danger of putting too much on it. To prepare it for use soak it over night. In fresh water, remove the water in the morning, putting on it fresh water for a short time. Stew and serve for dinner.

Washing Fluid.—This is a receipt worth $1,000. Take one pound of sal-soda and half a pound of unslacked lime, put them in a gallon of water, boil twenty minutes; let it stand till cool; then drain off and put in a jug. Soak your clothes one night; wring them out, rub in plenty of soap, and in one boiler of clothes, well covered with water, add one teaspoonful of the washing fluid. Boil half an hour, then wash them with suds, rinse, and your clothes will look splendid.—F. A. Bow, Jr., in Moore's Rural New Yorker.

To Keep the Bugs Away.—Protect your melon, squash and cucumber vines thus: Take sticks four inches long and one-half inch in diameter—pine is best. Wrap one inch of one end in a piece of cotton or linen. Dip this in turpentine and stick one or two in each hill, leaving only the wrapped part above ground. The odor of the turpentine does the business. I have tried this for years, says the correspondent of an exchange paper, with uniform success.

A Sun Dry House.—The best dried fruit is that dried in the sun, but drying in the sun in the open air in this climate is a precarious business, as many know to their sorrow. Two years ago I hit upon a plan that secures all the advantages of sun drying, as usually practiced, with none of its defects.

My plan is to take hot-bed sash and lay them on a frame similar to that of the hot-bed—in fact, if the hot-bed has not been removed, the dry house is already built, and it is only necessary to lay a floor inside on which to lay the fruit. When the fruit has been placed inside, put on the sash, but raise both ends about two inches from the frame, so the air can circulate. The sun's rays will penetrate through the glass freely, and give out their heat below the glass, and being confined, will cause the heat to be much greater than it is in the open air. The hotter the atmosphere, the greater is its capacity for holding moisture; hence, the hot air absorbs the moisture from the fruit, and the sash being raised a little, the hot air escapes at the higher end of the sash, and fresh air supplies its place at the lower end, and thus there is a constant current of hot, dry air passing over the fruit, and it dries with astonishing rapidity. Two years ago, wishing to dry some green sugar corn (which is about the hardest thing to dry of which I have any knowledge), I fixed up my hot-bed as described, and the corn was gathered from the field, husked, parboiled, cut from the cob, placed in the hot-bed, and by evening we had the corn dry as a bone. As good dried corn I never saw before; our supply lasted two years, and the last was as good as the first.

By this plan you do not have to be on the watch for every little shower and remove your fruit to keep it from being wet and spoiled: being covered with glass, the water will run off, and as soon as the sun comes out the drying process is resumed; neither will it be influenced by dew if left out over night. Another advantage gained by this methods, that the heat is so intense that flies and other insects will not molest the fruit while drying, and when dried it comes out clean and sweet.

Let all who wish to dry fruit or vegetables try this plan. I am confident it will give satisfaction. Caution: Be sure to raise the sash as recommended, else the fruit will burn the same as it would in an oven.—Cor. Rural World.

Making Sweet Pickles.—To the numerous receipts already published on this subject, we add the following:

Cut the tomatoes through, or if large slice in three; let them stand in weak brine over night. To a quart of vinegar add three pounds of sugar; in this vinegar cook the tomatoes until a fork can easily be passed through them. As fast as they are cooked, take them out with a fork and lay them down in a jar—say two or three layers of tomatoes; sprinkle pulverized cinnamon or cloves and a thin layer of sugar, then alternately tomatoes, spices and sugar, cooking all the tomatoes in the same vinegar. If necessary add more sugar and vinegar. When the jar is filled, cover the tomatoes with good cider vinegar, cold, throwing away the vinegar in which the tomatoes were cooked. Lay some horseradish root over the top of the pickles, and put a weight on to keep them covered. This receipt is equally good for ripe cucumbers. I have tested it for the past two years and found no trouble in keeping good pickles.

Pare clingstone peaches just ripe. To four pounds of fruit allow two pounds of sugar, one-half pint of cider vinegar, one table-spoonful of cinnamon, one small one of cloves, tied in a thin rag. Use a porcelain kettle. Boil the vinegar, sugar and spice until the sugar is melted; then add the fruit, and boil until tender. Remove the fruit with a skimmer, and boil the liquor to a thick syrup; return the fruit and simmer until done; pour out and let stand till cool; then seal up tight, removing the spice. If they do not keep, and are not excellent, it will be the fault of the receipe, for I have had my fruit kept two years or more and as good as when first put up. The same recipe answers for quinces, pears, cherries—quinces and pears to be first boiled tender in water.

Pudding the Roots.—Many of our readers may have neglected to transplant a choice shrub or tree, until it seems to them too late in the season. They will find, however, that the operation can be safely performed if they will take up the plants and puddle the roots—that is, dip them in mud made of about the consistency of thin mortar. The puddle hole should be made ready before the plants are lifted, and the roots should be dipped in the mud before the sun and air can have any effect upon them. After the roots are coated with earth, they may be carried to the place where they are to be planted. Shrubs that have been heeled in until the leaves have started may be safely removed by using the puddle.

Vinegar.—Few persons are ignorant of the pernicious influence of sulphuric, nitric and muriatic acids upon the human organs of digestion and the entire alimentary canal, and yet it is declared upon good authority that much of the vinegar in commerce, or liquid sold as vinegar, is made by the use of these concentrated acids, at a cost of not more than one or two cents a gallon.

The best vinegar in general use in the United States is acidified cider. In Europe acidified wine is the most esteemed; and hence the name vin, wine; aigre sour. In England malt vinegar is popularly used. Wholesome vinegar is prepared by the oxidation of alcohol, and from weak solutions of sugar, and from the mixture of starch with yeast—from acetic acid, indeed, however obtained. But all these preparations are expensive, and the temptation to produce a cheap imitation is apparent.

Sulphuric acid, the cheapest and most intensely sour, is the most generally preferred in the fabrication of spurious vinegar, although it is also the most injurious to health, as may be conjectured from its softening effects upon vegetables placed in it for pickling purposes. It may be detected, even in the least effective quantities, by placing a portion of the vinegar in a glass, and dropping into it a solution of the chloride of barium, or of the nitrate of barita. If the vinegar continues clear, sulphuric acid is not present; a cloudy appearance would indicate the formation of the sulphate of barita, which will prove insoluble, no matter what acid may be subsequently applied.

Cultivation of Turnips.—Whether grown for stock or not, every farmer and villager will find it to his advantage to cultivate some of them. Plats of ground where early potatoes and peas have been removed, fence corners, patches around the outside of corn fields, etc., may with but little labor be sown, and many bushels raised without further labor than pulling. Do not sow the seed too thick unless you intend to thin by hand while the crop is growing. A common thimbleful to the square rod is a very good rule. When sown broadcast in the field cultivation, one pound and a half of seed is about the right quantity per acre; if sown in drills, one pound is sufficient.

Turnip seed should be sown from the 20th to the 25th of July; sow soon after a rain, if possible, when the soil will work up mellow. For table use, no turnip is better than the Russia or Sweet, which should be sown early in July. Among the larger varieties are the White Globe, White Norfolk and Aberdeen. The early White Flat is a good variety and very generally grown. Golden Ball and White Stone are raised to some extent.

Curing Poll-Evil.—James Seafield, of Fairfield, Md., writes: I had a horse that was pronounced incurable of the poll-evil, as the horse doctor had given him up to die. I thought I would try an experiment. I laid open the swelling with a knife and forced it to run; after it had run twenty-four hours I washed out the incision with soap and water, and sprinkled quick-lime into the cavity. This process of washing out and liming I repeated every twenty-four hours for about two weeks, at the end of which time the swelling had gone down and the sore healed over. This I did two years ago, and there is no sign of the return of the poll-evil. I would advise a trial.

"FRESH AS A MAIDEN'S BLUSH"—Is the pure peachy Complexion which follows the use of Hagan's Magnolia Balm. It is the True Secret of Beauty. Fashionable Ladies in Society understand this.

The Magnolia Balm changes the rustic Country Girl into a City Belle more rapidly than any other one thing.

Redness, Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Blothes and all effects of the Summer Sun disappear where it is used, and a genial, cultivated, fresh expression is obtained which rivals the Bloom of Youth. Beauty is possible to all who will invest 75 cents at any respectable store and insist on getting the Magnolia Balm.

COLBURN'S PATENT

RED JACKET AXE

Is better than our regular shaped Axes for these reasons: First—It cuts deeper. Second—It don't stick in the wood. Third—It does not jar the hand. Fourth—No time is wasted in taking the Axe out of the cut. Fifth—With the same labor you will do one-third more work than with regular Axes. Red paint has nothing to do with the good qualities of this Axe, for all our Axes are painted red. Commissioner's Notice.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT I shall, on

Thursday, the 29th day of July, 1869,

At my office on Fourth street, Wheeling, West Virginia, in accordance with a decree of the Circuit Court for Ohio County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 11th day of June, 1869, in a cause in chancery pending in said Court, wherein John M. Ball is complainant and Oliver Wallace's administrator et als, are respondents, proceed to ascertain and report to the said Court—

1st. The debts against the estate of Oliver Wallace, dec'd, and whether liens or not, and the priorities of the liens, and their character.

2d. The estate left by said Oliver Wallace, whether real and personal, and the value thereof.

3d. Whether or not the rents and profits thereof will pay the debts in five years.

4th. To settle the accounts of the administrators, and the value of the widow's dower in the real estate left by said Oliver Wallace, and such other matters as may appear to me pertinent and proper, or shall be required by any party in this cause.

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL

ESTABLISHED AS A REFUGE FROM QUACKERY.

THE ONLY PLACE WHERE A CURE CAN BE OBTAINED.

DR. JOHNSON has discovered the most Certain, Speedy, and only Effectual Remedy in the World for Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Languor, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Timidity, Trembling, Dimness of Sight, or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of the Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—those Terrible Disorders arising from Solitary Habits of Youth—secret and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the song of Syrens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senators with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of Physical Weakness, Organic Debility, Deformities, specially cured.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

Immediately cured and full vigor restored.

This distressing affection, which renders life miserable and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.

DR. JOHNSON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons London, Graduate of one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known, many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.
