POINTERS ON THE RACES.

An Unusually Good Card at Guttenburg To-Day.

Trinity Makes Her Debut in the Third Race.

Some excellent racing should be witnessed at Guttenburg to-day. One of the best fields Secretary Whitehead has ever succeeded in getting together is that in the third race, a six-and-a-half-furlong dash. The crack sprinter Trinity meets Hoey, Ma Belle, Miss Belle, and the good two-year-olds, Balance and Sir Richard. This event should be a horse race from flag to finish. Fifteen sprinters of fair merit meet in the five-furlong dash, fourth on the card, among them being Zenobia, Polydora, Salisbury, Woodchopper and Gladiator. Fenelon, Allan Bane, Headlight, Harry Alonzo and Frontenac ought to go well at a mile and a quarter. The track will be dry and fast. Entries and selections are as follows:

First Race.—Purse of $400; for maidens; the winner to be sold at auction; six furlongs.

J. Carlin's Johnny O'Connor	105
T. Fallahee's Montiere	107
W. H. McCormick's Fancy gelding	101
P. H. Ryan's Lady Ballard	99
G. Chandler's Nattie Hamilton filly	98
C. W. Parker's John R	97
M. J. Daly's Vezalion gelding	97
J. Curtis's Jack Pot	97

The opening event may be won by the Nattie Hamilton filly, with John O'Connor second and Lady Ballard third.

Second Race.—Purse of $500, for beaten two-year-olds, the winner to be sold at auction; five and a half furlongs.

E. Leigh's Eleanor	109
Phenix Stock Farm's Happy Maid	107
R. Bradley's Trump	105
Sommerville Stable's Idaho	100
W. H. McCormick's Miss Fisher	100
J. H. McCormick's Vocal	109
M. J. Daly's Jimmy Lambily	97
F. Regan's Ondowa	97
Glen Island Stable's Violet S	94
Khaftan Stable's Cocoa	94

Eleanor is due to win and, judging by the company she is in to-day she may capture a purse. Trump ought to land second money and Violet S. should beat the others.

Third Race.—Purse of $400; six and a half furlongs.

Boulevard Stable's Trinity	117
E. Leigh's Ma Belle	115
Baden Stable's Miss Belle	115
A. Lakeland's Hoey	112
Baden Stable's Balance	109
Brookwood Stable's Sir Richard	101

If Trinity is fit, the writer will look to him to win this event. It will be easy to learn if he is good. Hoey may be second, and Ma Belle may beat the others. Sir Richard must not be overlooked, for he was a good colt during the Summer.

Fourth Race.—Purse of $400, the winner to be sold at auction; four and a half furlongs.

W. P. Cotton's Gladiator	111
J. W. Smyth's Woodchopper	111
E. J. McElwee's Ben Voyage	108
D. Higgin's Polydora	108
G. W. Newton's Bob Sutherland	107
J. Dwyer's May D	104
J. H. McCormack's Zenobia	101
G. Bretchen's Anne Elizabeth	101
R. Bradley's Shotover	98
Melrose Stable's Mucilage	98
J. Keiser's Ellen	98
M. J. Daly's Salisbury	98
Glen Island Stable's Menscever	96
M. J. Garrigan's Poor Jonathan	96
J. Whalen's Bolivar	93

Zenobia may capture this race, with Polydora second and Bob Sutherland not worse than third.

Fifth Race.—Purse of $500, the winner to be sold at auction; one mile and a quarter.

J. W. Smyth's Fenelon	114
E. Leigh's Allan Bane	114
W. P. Cotton's Headlight	105
G. W. Newton's Harry Alonzo	105
A. Shield's Frontenac	105
P. H. Ryan's Carmelite	93
——— Emmerine	93

The finish in this race should be between Allan Bane and Harry Alonzo, and the former may win. The latter will press him hard however. Fenelon should be third.

Sixth Race.—Purse of $400, the winner to be sold at auction; seven furlongs.

Olma: Stable's Brown Chanile	120
P. Callahan's Joe Courtney	117
Khaftan Stable's Eatontown	113
H. E. Kimble's Jamestown	111
J. Murry's Glenloch	109
J. H. Magee's Signature	109
J. Smith's Villa Marie	108
Lloyd Stable's Macaulay	107
A. Shields's Addie B	104
H. Albert's Radiant	99
M. J. Daly's Balbriggan	97
J. H. McCormick's Eugenie	89

The closing event may go to Addie B., with Balbriggan second and Villa Marie third.

NEVER CHEW A TOOTHPICK.

Particles of Wood Are Apt to Swell and Form a Lump in the Stomach.

Wooden toothpicks of the cheap kind, usually found in eating-houses and sold at about 5 cents a bundle, are a great source of danger.

Many people chew the ends off and swallow the fragments to the serious jeopardy of their internal anatomy, says the Chicago Journal, and even when they don't do this they are apt to use one of the little barbs too roughly and to swallow pieces without knowing it.

Boys have a reputation for being able to eat anything, but no adult can masticate or digest wood, which swells and combines with other substances, and soon forms a dangerous lump or ball in the stomach. The best toothpick to use is a quill or a silver or gold one, while Aluminum, the new universal metal, has already been tried for the purpose.

Most dangerous of all is a pin, which, besides cracking the preservative enamel, also inflames and cankers the gums, especially if blood happens to be drawn.

Another System Entirely.

[From Puck.]

"Do you use the Australian ballot system in your state?" asked a New Yorker of a Texan citizen.

"No; we use the Irish system," was the reply. "We broke fourteen heads in the last election in our town."

THIS THIEF KEPT A RECORD.

Hatracks in Hallways of Swell Houses Were His Game.

All the Select "150" Down on the Cool Robber's List.

James Williamson was arraigned before Justice Tainter in the Yorkville Court this morning charged with stealing sacques, coats, hats and other valuable articles from the hatracks of several houses in the fashionable residence part of the city.

When arrested early yesterday morning by Detectives O'Donohue, Murphy and Tappen, of Capt. Reilly's squad, Williamson was carrying a velvet sacque, and had in his pockets a wallet containing $200, a package of pawn-tickets and a memorandum book with the names of Ward McAllister's "One Hundred and Fifty" marked down in alphabetical order.

Asked at the station-house what families he had robbed, Williamson replied:

"Hit you hallow me to refer to my book, Hi will be hable to say."

The names of those whom Williamson had despoiled were checked off, and among these were the following: Dr. Edward S. Peck, of 53 West Fifteenth street; Dr. Bernard Hughes, of 133 East Forty-third street; Miss E. H. Simpkins, of 26 West Fifty-third street; Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, of 48 West Forty-fifth street; Dr. Charles J. Parker, of 46 East Thirty-fourth street; Mrs. Mary L. Early, of 54 West Forty-sixth street; Rev. Dr. D. Parker Morgan, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, at Forty-fifth street and Fifth avenue; Dr. Chandler A. Woodward, of 12 West Fifty-third street; Augustus Doty, of 48 West Fifty-second street; Mr. de Van, of 52 East Fifty-seventh street, and Frederick R. Coudert, W. E. D. Stokes and the Vanderbilts.

It is supposed that Williamson has pawned several thousand dollars' worth of articles which he obtained at these houses.

His modus operandi was simple enough. He would ask the servant who opened the front door to tell him whether he could get employment, and while the servant was gone to make inquiries, Williamson would gather up from the hatrack whatever he could conveniently carry, and with it make for the nearest pawnshop.

Williamson says he came from Montreal six weeks ago, and while in New York has been living at the Imperial Hotel, a lodging-house on Chatham Square.

Before his arraignment this morning, Williamson was taken to Police Headquarters, where Inspector McLaughlin put him through a searching examination to determine whether he had been connected with any of the many other sneak robberies recently committed.

Although he failed in this, he identified Williamson as having been arrested before. His picture, however, was not in the rogues' gallery. He made no resistance when he was placed before the magistrate this morning.

Justice Tainter remanded Williamson until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock to afford the detectives time to get together the complaints against him.

Williamson is about twenty-nine years old, tall, of dark complexion and smooth faced, having very small "mutton-chops." He says that he is a coachman. Whenever he is addressed he salutes by raising the index finger of his right hand to the side of his head.

Stuffed Crows.

[From Puck.]

"It was too ridiculous," said Jack Mammaboy. "We went to lunch together and he ordered a bottle of Hass; so, when the waiter asked what I'd have, I said I'd have a glass of sardines. And, do you know, they never saw the point?"

FREE LECTURE SEASON HERE.

Ten Lecturers Will Talk To-Night from Ten Platforms.

The Subjects Varied and All Extremely Interesting.

Ten lecture halls will be thrown open this evening, free to all, and the fourth season and the sixth course of free lectures will begin, in accordance with the Free Lecture law proposed by THE EVENING WORLD and urged upon the Legislature until it was passed in 1888.

The series of lectures arranged by the Committee of the Board of Education having the matter in charge gives promise of much instruction as well as entertainment to those who avail themselves of the privilege of attendance. The lecturers engaged by Dr. Henry M. Leipziger for the season are well-known instructors and entertainers. They include Rev. Dr. MacArthur, Hamilton W. Mabie, Kate S. Chittenden, Anna L. Ward, and Miss M. H. Carter, Edward King, Cephas Brainerd, jr.; Dr. J. H. Haggerty, L. J. B. Lincoln and Clarence Pullen.

In addition to the school lecture rooms, the Committee has engaged, under the amendment passed last Winter, Madison Hall, one Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Madison avenue, and Melrose Lyceum, One Hundred and Fiftieth street and Third avenue.

The season will open to-night with no less than ten lecturers speaking from ten platforms to ten large gatherings of New Yorkers—youth and old age—who will enjoy the benefits of this advanced form of education.

Admission to the lectures is not limited to the school children. It is free to all, and thousands of people enjoyed last Winter's series.

There will be two free lectures a week in each of the designated schools and lecture-rooms, and some idea of the scope and interest of the lectures may be gathered from this list, to be delivered in the large session-room of Grammar School No. 15, 228 Fifth street:

"How to Use a Library," "The Birth of the United States," "The Bright and Dark Sides of Industrial Life," "Historic and Picturesque America," "The Development of the United States," "London," "The History of Foods" and "Apache Land and the Apache Indians."

The lectures will begin at 8 o'clock Monday and Thursday evenings, the first series ending on the Thursday before Christmas and the second series beginning a week after New Years.

The lectures, many of them, will be illustrated by drawings, maps and stereopticon views, while one or two will be delivered in costume and in other ways made specially interesting, so that those who attend should, at the end of the season, know more about history, geography, the sciences and about the world in general and its inhabitants.

The ten free lectures this evening will all be illustrated profusely. They cover all manner of interesting subjects, and THE EVENING WORLD reader might find some difficulty in deciding which one to attend but that he knows that he may hear all the others at some time during this season. Here are the announcements for this evening:

Grammar School No. 3, Grove and Hudson streets, A. C. Maclay, subject "An Evening in Old Japan."

Grammar School No. 15, 228 East Fifth street, Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, "The Bright and Dark Sides of Hospital Life."

Grammar School No. 23, 30 City Hall place, Dr. F. A. Lyons, "The Digestion of Food."

Grammar School No. 27, 206 East Forty-second street, Dr. E. W. Fisher, "Switzerland."

Grammar School No. 33, 418 West Twenty-eighth street, Clarence Pullen, "Apache Land and Apache Indians."

Grammar School No. 51, 523 West Forty-fourth street, Prof. Charles Knapp, Subject: "The Life of the Ancient Romans."

Grammar School No. 82, Seventieth street and First avenue, James H. Van Golder, "A Trip Through the South to Texas and New Mexico."

Hebrew Institute, East Broadway and Jefferson street, James Bowie, "London."

Madison Hall, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Madison avenue, Charles H. Govan, "Life and Writings of Sir Walter Scott."

Melrose Lyceum, One Hundred and Fiftieth street and Third avenue, Dr. F. S. Dellenbaugh, "The Canons of the Colorado."

TO YONKERS, UNDERGROUND.

Rapid Transit Railway Plans Are Completed.

The Rapid Transit Commission has completed its plans for the proposed roadway under Broadway and Fourth avenue and will make public the specifications in detail in a few days. A general outline of the scheme has been furnished by lawyer John M. Bowers, attorney for the Commission.

It is to be a four-track underground electric railway, the main line running from the Battery up Broadway and the Boulevard to Fort George and thence northward as far as Yonkers. The branch line will extend from Fourteenth street up through Fourth avenue to the Grand Central Depot, with a terminal yard in the block west of the Grand Central station.

The tunnel will not be close, but will be well ventilated and lighted, the average width being forty-four feet and the height eleven feet. The system of ventilation will be such that no foul air can collect in the passageway, and the motive power being electricity, no smoke or foul gases can be generated.

From One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street north the road will be continued by viaduct, bridge and depressed line, but below that point it will be all underground.

The speed of express trains will be from thirty to forty miles an hour, and passengers from above Fort George will be transferred at that point to local or express trains.

Two loops will be operated, one from Bowling Green through State street, to South Ferry and back to Broadway through Whitehall street, and the other around City Hall Park to the bridge and back to Broadway, below the City Hall the road will have only three tracks, but above that point it will be a four-track level line to the terminus.

Elevators will be run at each station. The fare will be uniformly five cents.

According to the terms of the franchise the main line must be completed within two years, the branch line within three years and all other work within four years after letting the contract. Mr. Bowers believes that the contract will be let and the road built at once.

The cost is estimated all the way from $40,000,000 to $75,000,000; but it is believed that this enormous expense will in no way delay the construction of the road, as the plenty of capital is ready to be put into the enterprise.

It was at first intended to adopt the deep tunnel system, running 100 feet or more below the surface, but this plan was finally abandoned by the consulting engineers. The franchise will be offered for sale early in January.

WILLIAM H. KING of Haverhill, Mass.

For Catarrh

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, BEING A CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY, EFFECTS PERMANENT CURES.

This is the experience of Mr. W. H. King, an employee of Henry S. Sprague, Shoe Manufacturer, 85 Washington Street, Haverhill, Mass.:

"I have been a victim of Catarrh in the head for the past ten years. It has kept my head feeling badly with a sense of fullness and rising in the ears. Instead of a discharge from the nose, as many have, it has acted so that either one or the other of my nostrils has been tightly closed up so that through it, nor would blowing the nose clear it. I tried several Catarrh cures and different treatments, but failed to get any relief. The first of this year, seeing accounts of others who had obtained permanent cures from Hood's Sarsaparilla I determined to give it a fair, honest trial. I have now finished four bottles and am satisfied that it has effected a cure, for the Catarrh no longer troubles me a particle, and I feel better in every way than I have for years. I am very grateful at the result, and if what I have said of the benefit I have obtained be of any use in persuading others to try

I COULD NOT BREATHE

Hood's Sarsaparilla

in similar cases I shall feel amply repaid."

HOOD'S PILLS do not weaken, but aid digestion, and tone the stomach. Try them.

WAS IT A DREAM?

Peculiar Warning Which a Woman of Veracity Tells Of.

This a story by a woman whose veracity has never been questioned and who is remarkable for her equability and sound judgment, says the Chicago Tribune.

"I was living then in Bubble, a small town situated on the State line which divides Nebraska from Kansas. The 'section boss' there was a man named Reynolds. Daily he travelled on a hand-car seven miles of the road to detect possible misplacement of the rails and to repair damage effected. I knew little of him and his family—thought less. His wife, who was an invalid, I had chanced to meet twice.

"One night I went to bed at 10 o'clock. Suddenly I awoke as suddenly as if I had been struck. In a tremor I leaped out of bed and looked at the clock. It was on the stroke of 12. For a few moments I stood dazed. Then laughing at my own nervousness I went back to bed and once more feel asleep. Again I awoke with that same unaccountable, thrilled and startled sensation. Again I arose and looked at the clock. It was 2.15 o'clock. I slept no more till the April dawn came crawling in at the window. Then I fell into a heavy slumber. It was late when I came downstairs. The other members of the family had breakfasted and separated.

"I asked the girl who brought in my tea, 'Have you heard how Mrs. Reynolds is?' 'No, ma'am. I didn't know she was sick. Is she?'

"'I don't know,' I answered stupidly.

"It was a dreary morning. To banish the blues I went for a drive. When I returned dinner was ready, and my husband was waiting for me.

"'Did you hear?' he asked. 'It was very sudden.'

"'I felt strangling. 'About Mrs. Reynolds?'

"'Yes. Who told you?'

"'No one.'

"He looked amazed. 'She was taken ill,' he said, 'at'——

"'At 12 o'clock,' I interposed.

"'Exactly. And she died'——

"'At a quarter past 2,' I declared.

"'Yes. But if no one has told you, how in the name of heaven do you know all this?'

"'I dreamed it,' I said. Then I broke down, crying.

"'You are not well,' he cried in alarm. 'You are raving. I shall send up the doctor.'

"He did send up the doctor. I took the pills, tonics and capsules. Had I dreamed? I did not know then. I do not know now."
