WHO KNOWS LILLIAN?

A Rarely Beautiful Woman in the Tombs Court.

Daughter of a Southern General the Associate of Thieves.

Crooks Caught in Seaton's "Fence" Remanded Till To-Morrow.

It is very seldom that Inspector McLaughlin is present in any of the police courts, but he put in an appearance at the Tombs this morning at the head of a squad of Central Office detectives, who had in charge fourteen prisoners, most of whose pictures were already in the Rogues' Gallery and who had "done time" for detected cleverness in ways that are dark and devious.

Edward Busby, Charles Adams, Michael J. Russell, Michael Weaver, James Wilson and Frank Livingston constituted the group first arraigned.

"I know these men to be criminals, all of them," said the Inspector to Judge Grady, "and I am loth to let them go; but I can find no evidence sufficient to convict them, and I therefore ask that they be discharged."

The prisoners had not been prepared for such a proceeding. It was one of the happiest surprises of their lives undoubtedly, and they toppled over each other in their haste to get out of the atmosphere so suggestive of stone cells and barred windows and away beyond the walls of the grim old structure.

Charles Seaton, alias Williams, alias Robinson, the alleged keeper and proprietor of the "fence" at 428 Sixth Avenue, where the fourteen prisoners were arrested during Saturday night and Sunday morning, headed the next contingent, composed of Thomas Ward, Henry Lang, alias Hyney; Edward Levin, George C. Bliss, alias "Doc" Bliss; Mrs. Sarah E. Byrne and Lillian Stevens.

All of them were remanded, at the request of Inspector McLaughlin, until to-morrow morning in order to allow time in which to draft the complaints against them for divers offenses of various degrees.

The prisoner in whom most interest centered was Lillian Stevens. She was the cynosure of all eyes in the court-room, and her beautiful young face, upon which already traces of sorrow and traces of dissipation were commingled, looked very much out of place in that hardened retinue of thieves and thugs.

She was young, apparently under thirty. The bloom and sparkle of youth had not altogether vanished, although deep marends upon what must have been ravishing beauty were plainly evident. That she was highly cultured and came of a proud family of aristocratic antecedents was signified not only by her lady like carriage, but by her choice language and other indications of refinement and good breeding.

She was arrested Saturday night in company with Mrs. Byrne, widow of the late Dr. Byrne, of Lexington avenue, a respected physician, while trying to dispose of a quantity of laces, supposed to have been stolen, at 428 Sixth avenue. She had never been arrested in this city before, so far as can be ascertained, but she was in bad company, and the circumstances were suspicious enough to warrant the officers in taking her in.

The woman refused absolutely to give any information about herself. When questioned she closed her hands and sighed in scarcely audible tones:

"I knew it would come; now let the fates deal with me as they will. The future can have no more of bitterness in store than I have experienced in the past. My cup has been filled to overflowing; it is now drained almost to the dregs."

The meagre details of her history, which an Evening World reporter was able to glean, team with romance. Hers is a pitiful tale of love and sorrow, of the stages passed from a proud position down the steep decline of temptations and disappointments to the level of vice and sin.

Lillian Stevens, it was learned, is the daughter of a distinguished Southern family. Her father was a slaveholder and one of the wealthiest planters in the South. When the war broke out he entered the Confederate army and attained the rank of General. His estates were among those devastated, and his was one of the families which staked and lost all. He partially recovered his fortunes after the war and when his daughter, now held as a thief in this city, was twelve years old, she was sent to a convent and educated. She developed into a beautiful woman, and met and fell in love with the young scion of another old Southern family, who was the confidential clerk in a wealthy manufacturing firm.

Her father opposed the match. An elopement followed. Then an embezzlement came to light and her sweetheart became a fugitive from justice. She followed his varying fortunes until she saw him become a thief, and then she left him.

Her family refused to recognize her then, and she drifted to New York, where, meeting some of her lover's old friends, she fell into their ways, and has since lived a questionable life.

The woman is now a confirmed opium smoker, but that she is thoroughly bad the police refuse to believe.

About $5,000 worth of goods were found in the fence, and are now at Headquarters waiting for claimants.

FIGHTING OVER A PICTURE.

Miss Stetson and Artist Samuels Have a Brisk Row.

Miss Clara Stetson, a member of the choir of Dr. Collyer's church, vows that she will have the law on Manuel Samuels, a crayon artist of University place. Miss Stetson gave Mr. Samuels a photograph of her mother from which he was to make a large crayon portrait.

When it was finished Miss Stetson said it was not a good likeness and would not accept it. She took the photograph from the artist's easel and was going away with it, when he sprang upon her, she says, and in the struggle for the possession of the card it was torn in two.

Miss Stetson left the studio in high dudgeon after calling Mr. Samuels a brute. He refuses to give up his half of the photograph, and says he will sue the contralto for the price of the portrait.

Died of a Knock-Down Blow.

Three-year-old Flora Burney died at her parents' home, 7 East Tenth street, to-day from coma. [illegible] fell several days ago by being knocked down on the sidewalk by a youthful playmate. The Coroner was notified.

Grand Jury and Borden Case.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TAUNTON, MASS., NOV. 21.—The Grand Jury report in the Borden case will probably be given out to-morrow.

TO-NIGHT'S FREE LECTURES.

Ten Instructive Entertainments Provided for the Public.

Topics and Lecturers Engaged for the Third of the Series.

The free lecture course, made a part of the scheme of popular education in the city of New York through the persistent efforts of THE EVENING WORLD, is well under way for the season of 1892-93, the third in the series occuring this evening.

There was an attendance at the lectures last season of 125,000 persons, and in anticipation of a proportionate growth in popularity of this splendid means of education, Dr. H. M. Leipziger engaged no less than forty lecturers for this season's course, and added to the number of lecture rooms, so that each Monday and Thursday evening ten audiences gather in various parts of the city to hear the lectures.

The topics are mainly of daily interest, and they are made the subject of plain talks, illustrated for the most part by diagrams, maps, drawings, stereopticon views and otherwise.

The lectures are entirely free to both school children and the parents and friends.

As Thanksgiving falls this week on Thursday the lecture for that day will be omitted, but the evening's programme offers a wide field to select from. Here is the list for this evening:

Grammar School No. 3, Grove and Hudson streets—Mr. Charles H. Govan, "Life and Writings of Sir Walter Scott," illustrated.

Melrose Lyceum, One Hundred and Fiftieth street and Third avenue—Dr. G. M. Major, "Historic and Picturesque America," illustrated.

Grammar School No. 33, 36 and 38 City Hall place—Dr. T. O'Conor Sloane, "Soap Bubbles," illustrated.

Grammar School No. 51, 523 West Forty-fourth street—Dr. A. C. Maclay, "An Evening in Old Japan," illustrated.

Grammar School No. 38, 418 West Twenty-eight street—Dr. S. O. Tansley, "How to Take Care of the Eyes," illustrated.

The Institute, East Broadway and Jefferson street—Mr. L. J. B. Duncan, "How to Use a Library."

Grammar School No. 82, Seventieth street and Fifth avenue—Dr. E. W. Fisher, "Switzerland," illustrated.

Madison Hall, One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Madison avenue—Mr. James Bowie, "London," illustrated.

Grammar School No. 27, 200 East Forty-second street—Mr. Frank Bell, "An Cardoff," "The Electric Current: Its Properties and Uses," illustrated.

Grammar School No. 15, 728 Fifth street—Prof. Charles Sprague Smith, "Spain," illustrated.

LEONARD TAKES THE STAND.

The Policeman Testifies in Miss Kane's $10,000 Suit.

When the breach-of-promise trial in which Miss Frances Kane appears as plaintiff against Policeman Leonard, of the Eighty-eighth street station, for $10,000 damages was resumed in Part III. of the City Court this morning before Judge Newburger, the court-room was crowded to the doors.

Miss Kane sat beside her mother. She wore a light jacket, a dark dress, a blue felt hat and small diamond earrings.

Lawyer Grant opened the defense by calling his client, Policeman John Seward.

He admitted that he had been intimate with Miss Kane. In the Summer of 1889 she told him she was in trouble, and he promised to marry her.

He denied emphatically that he had ever promised in the presence of her family to marry her. Subsequent to the time that Miss Kane had told him she was in trouble and he had promised to marry her, he learned that had been intimate with another man. He accused her of it and she made a confession.

She asked him not to say anything to her family about this, agreeing that they would part friends and that she would never bother him again.

Later she told him that her folks were pressing her to bring suit against him, especially her sister, Mrs. Byrnes.

Then the witness went on to tell about the visit to the office of Lawyer Paul Jones in November, 1889, where he met the plaintiff and her brother-in-law. He had received a letter from the lawyer asking him to call in connection with a settlement.

The result of that visit and because of what was said upon that occasion Lawyer Jones threw up the case.

THE LETTER-CARRIERS' FAIR.

To Be Opened at Madison Square Garden Next Monday.

Preparations are being rapidly completed for the fair in aid of the New York Post-Office Mutual Aid Association, which will be opened in Madison Square Garden next Monday evening and continue through the remainder of next week.

The Post-Office stands alone among the departments of the public service in having no pension fund, and it is to end it at the friends of the letter-carriers will appreciate the opportunity afforded by this fair to aid in establishing a fund to provide for the old age and disability of these valued public servants.

Features of great attractiveness have been planned for this fair, including a thoroughly equipped dining-room, a flower booth and a bazaar for the sale of many kinds of merchandise.

Among the gentlemen who have consented to the use of their names as honorary directors are President Harrison, President-elect Cleveland, Vice-President Morton, Gov. Flower, Postmaster-General Wanamaker (who will open the fair), Secretary Charles Foster, Secretary Elkins, Secretary Tracy, Senators Hiscock and Hill, Congressmen Fellows, Little, Cockran, Warner, Fitch, Dunphy, Campbell, Cummings and Combs; Mayor Grant, Postmaster Van Cott, Thomas C. Acton, Arthur Leary, D. O. Mills, A. M. Palmer, Frank Tilford, William Steinway and many other well-known men.

The musical part of the fair will be of the best quality. Season tickets, transferable, can be secured from the American District Telegraph Company for $1 each. The famous post-office dog, "Owney," who travels constantly from one part of the country to another, will be present during the whole of the fair.

FOUND DEAD IN A TANK.

Fate of Engineer Simpkins, of the Graham Hotel.

John Simpkins, thirty-three years old, the night engineer in the Graham Hotel and Apartment-House at Eighty-ninth street and Madison avenue, was found dead in an empty water tank in the engine-room at 5.45 o'clock this morning.

Jonn Luden, the engineer, left Simpkins about 1 o'clock to go to bed, and he directed the latter to paint during the early hours of the morning the inside of the tank, an iron cylinder about 10 feet high and 3 feet in diameter.

Towards 4 o'clock it was noticed that the steam in the radiators was going down, and a porter was sent to the engine-room to ascertain the cause. Simpkins was not at his post, and a search failed to find him.

Chief Engineer Lubin was awakened and he found his assistant lying on the floor of the tank dead. Heart disease is believed to have been the cause of death.

Simpkins was married and lived with his wife and two children at 228 East Twenty-sixth street.

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

A Featureless Programme at Guttenburg Track.

Marguerite Meets Wallace in the Second Race.

The Guttenburg programme to-day is featureless. Usually a handicap graces the card or some race with special conditions draws out a good field. To-day, however, every one of the six events is a selling affair, and as a natural consequence few of the high-class horses are entered. The best race of the day should be the five and one-half furlong dash for two-year-olds. Marguerite, Helen, Rightaway, Wallace and other good ones are entered. Hazelnurst, Power and Panhandle ought to go well in the third race a seven furlong dash, and Salisbury, Mucilage, Johannes and Young Lottery ought to run four and one-half furlongs in close order. The track will be sticky. The entries and selections are as follows:

First Race.—Purse $400, for beaten horses; six furlongs.

	Lb.
J. Murray's Glenlochy	113
H. E. Kimble's Jamestown	110
Glen Island Stable's McKeever	105
C. W. Parker's Frank L.	104
R. Bradley's Shotover	103
F. Regan's Thanks	102
Summerville Stable's Adventuress	99
J. Carlin's Johnny Vernon	99

Jamestown ran an excellent race a few days ago and he should be returned the winner in the opening event. McKeever may be the runner up and Frank L. should not be worse than third.

Second Race.—Purse $500, for two-year-olds; selling allowances; five and a half furlongs.

Crescent Stable's Highlawn	108
P. Haipin's Helen	106
Excelsior Stable's Wallace	106
J. H. McCormick's Marguerite	101
E. Leigh's Eleanor	99
M. J. Daly's Susie Fuller gelding	92

Wallace beat practically the same lot on Saturday, and he should repeat that victory to-day. Helen may get second money, and Highlawy should beat the others.

Third Race—Purse $400; selling allowances; seven furlongs.

J. H. McCormick's Westchester	122
T. Barrett's Hazelnurst	112
J. A. Batchelor's Pan Handle	105
J. Foster's Power	104
M. J. Daly's Dreadnoup gelding	102
R. Bradley's Freezer	101
Oriental Stable's Jeweller	96
C. W. Parker's John R.	93

The finish in this race should lie between Hazelhurst and Power, and the former may win. Pan Handle ought to be third.

Fourth Race.—Purse $500; selling allowances; four and a half furlongs.

E. Connelly's Enola	113
Excelsior Stable's Benjamin	112
Melrose Stable's Mucilage	112
M. J. Daly's Salisbury	112
J. Rice's Frisco	107
Oriental Stable's Johannes	107
J. H. Walker's April Fool	107
Hickory Stable's Young Lottery	102
C. W. Parker's Express	97
" Poor Jonathan	97

Johannes's only race during the meeting was a win in such decisive style that he looks a good thing in this race. Mucilage may be second and Salisbury third.

Fifth Race.—Purse $400; selling allowances; four and a half furlongs.

J. J. Dwyer's Glitter II.	107
G. F. Sanders's Dr. Martin	102
T. Lee's Kink	97
" Tammany Hall	97
T. Barrett's Flatlands	97
Kinnan Stable's Quibbler	97
Hudson Stable's Quibbler	97
Phœnix Stock Farm's Belle of Phœnix	94
R. Bradley's Laurenska	94

Flatlands may capture this race, with Lawrenska second and Glitter II. third.

Sixth Race.—Purse $400; selling allowances; one mile.

J. H. Lewis, jr.'s, Lithbert	122
F. O. Davis's Manhattan	107
Ganley & Co.'s Dalesman	107
J. H. Magee's Signature	107
Kinnan Stable's Faterdown	107

Lithbert should capture the closing event, with Signature second and Dalesman third.

BURIED A MURDERED BABY.

Its Body Found in the Gutter by Mrs. Eleanor Bishop.

The dead baby, probably murdered, found in the gutter in front of 2 West Sixty-fourth street, the dwelling of Mrs. Eleanor Fletcher Bishop, mother of the late mind-reader, Washington Irving Bishop, was buried in Potter's Field, to-day.

The body, according to Mrs. Bishop, was found in Central Park by some boys and rolled into the gutter by them. For fear it would become the prey of dogs Mrs. Bishop took the body into her house, laid it out and then sent for Policeman Thomas Brennan.

Brennan took the body to the Morgue. It was that of a female child, one day old. At the Coroner's office it was said this morning that no inquest would be held.

Fell Dead in the Street.

John McAte, whose address is unknown, fell dead this forenoon in front of 238 Delancey street. He was about forty years old. His body was removed to the Delancey street station-house.

An unknown man about fifty years old was found dead on the sidewalk at First avenue and One Hundred and Thirteenth street early to-day. The body was taken to the Morgue.

Casey Association Ball.

The Thomas F. Casey Association will give an invitation ball at Wendel's Assembly Rooms, West Forty-fourth street, Wednesday evening. Every effort has been made to insure a good time and a large attendance is expected.

SALVATION'S HAPPY HOSTS.

They Throng the Army's Headquarters To-Day.

A Picturesque Parade and Novel Mass-Meeting To-Night.

The busiest place in town to-day is the National Headquarters of the Salvation Army, at 111 Reade street.

The big five-story building fairly swarms with officers and privates who have come from the four quarters of the country to attend the great Continental Congress, which begins to-day.

The headquarters was the scene of busy preparations this morning. It could only be compared to a gigantic ant hill with its swarm of workers, each bent upon some particular work.

Occasionally snatches of army songs would ring through the building. The words were queer, some of them, but the tune always had a hearty swing to it, and the refrain was caught up by those within hearing until the big building re-echoed with the music, which has so often aroused religious enthusiasm in the breasts of the most hardened sinners.

The notables began to flock to the headquarters early in the day.

First and foremost there was Joe, the Turk, probably the most conspicuous as an example of the sensational converter. Capt. Happy Billy and Special Fowler, from Texas, came in shortly after.

Both were in cowboy costume and will attract great attention, not only by their peculiar dress but by their powers as speakers on religious topics. Special Fowler is famed throughout the Army as the most vivid word-painter in the service.

Lieut. Marsh, whose labors have been among the Indians, came early, and then pretty ensign Carrie Smith, who will be commissioned as the fifteen hundredth officer of the Army, tripped in.

Ensign Edith Marshall was on hand to receive the congratulations of her comrades upon her success full work in Switzerland.

The first event of the Congress will be the banquet in the dining hall of the Lenox Lyceum, which will begin at 5.30 o'clock this afternoon.

The tickets will be 25 cents each, and as the official programme states that officers as well as soldiers will be expected to pay at both the banquet this afternoon and the one to be held at the same hour and place to-morrow.

The big parade, which will start to-night from the Lenox Lyceum at 7.15 P. M., will undoubtedly bring out a great crowd of citizens who will gaze with interest upon these strange people who, while, seemingly so happy, undergo numberless hardships and humiliations for the sake of the religion they have undertaken to spread.

A feature of the meeting in Carnegie Hall to-night will be the playing of the combined Salvation Army bands. There will be 200 brass instruments, besides a corps of bugles, tambourine and cymbal players and players on special instruments, 300 strong.

The meeting will be closed with the singing of "Home, Sweet Home," by the International Group, made up of delegates from foreign countries.

NO OFFICE FOR WHITNEY.

Mr. Fitch Authoritatively Sets the Rumor Mill at Rest.

Congressman Ashbel P. Fitch, of this city has been looking over the political field in Washington, and he says he finds there is a great deal of speculation about ex-Secretary Whitney. Mr. Fitch has had a talk with Mr. Whitney and now sets at rests all rumors regarding him. Mr. Whitney, he says, does not want to be Secretary of State or Minister to England.

Mr. Fitch is quoted this morning as saying in an interview in Washington:

"The fact of the matter is that Mr. Whitney does not want anything in a political way, nor do I believe that he could be induced to accept anything. He himself is authority for the statement. He told me that his interests in New York were too numerous and too vast to permit of his assuming any care of office. They will require his undivided attention."

There is much guessing among politicians to-day about ex-Secretary Bayard, ex-Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, and H. C. de Bardeleben, of Birmingham, Ala., who have had interviews with Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Harrison and de Bardeleben were sent for by Mr. Cleveland, and consulted on party matters.

Mr. de Bardeleben is the Carnegie of the South. He controls large iron furnaces and is one of the chief stockholders in the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

Mr. de Bardeleben assures the public that Mr. Cleveland contemplates no war of extermination against the industries of the country. He believed, like Senator Carlisle, in coming down the high tariff ladder one step at a time.

Mr. Cleveland will leave the city to-morrow or Wednesday on his proposed vacation. He wants rest, and will probably not make the plans of his trip public.

HIGHBINDERS MEANT FIGHT.

Police Prevent Bloodshed Between Armed Chinamen in 'Frisco.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

SAN FRANCISCO, NOV. 21.—The On Yek and Sam Up societies of Chinese Highbinders are at war over the division of blackmail obtained from the residents of numerous disorderly houses in Chinatown, and during the past two days two Chinamen have been killed by highbinders.

The On Yeks sent a formal challenge to the Sam Ups to meet on Jackson street and fight to a finish. The fight was to have occurred at noon to-day, but the police heard of the challenge and arrested six members of the On Yeks, who were waiting for their rivals.

They were all heavily armed with big revolvers and knives, and two of them wore coats of mail under their blouses made of steel rings. The others wore protective coats of thick paper.

The walls in Chinatown are covered with placards 18 by 40 by rival societies defying each other and further trouble is anticipated.

Garbage Blockade Continues.

The garbage blockade continues. Commissioner Brennan this morning gave out a statement to the effect that the Italians started out yesterday morning with teams and only reached the stakeboat off Gravesend Bay, when they positively refused to go any further. The wind was blowing very fresh at the time. They started out again this morning at 4.30, and he hopes they will be able to reach the outside.

STRIKE ENDS AT HOMESTEAD.

Given Up by Vote of the Amalgamated Association.

Opposition to the Surrender—Sympathizing Strikers Angry.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 21.—There is great division of opinion in the Amalgamated Association as to the wisdom of the vote at yesterday's meeting, at which the strike at the Homestead mills was declared off.

The meeting at which the vote was taken was a stormy one. It was held in the famous rink, where the Pinkertons were imprisoned after the battle of the 6th of July.

Among those present at the meeting were Vice-President Carney, Secretary Kloselion, Treasurer Madden and David Lynch, of the Advisory Board. The officials addressed the meeting, and in plain words told them the strike was lost and advised them to take steps to better their condition.

The proposition met with considerable opposition, but when the vote was taken it showed a majority of ten in favor of declaring the strike off—the vote being 101 to 91.

A member of the Advisory Board said that he had been trying to get the strike declared off for weeks, as he knew it was lost, and it would have been better for the men, as a great many of them could have gotten their places back.

The news of the meeting was received with dismay by the strikers in the two Lawrenceville mills of Carnegie's. These men were sympathy strikers and went out at the time the men at the Beaver Falls and Duquesne struck.

The Duquesne men gave up the fight in three weeks, and the Beaver Falls strikers decided to go back to work Saturday. The Lawrenceville men, however, were steadfast and had no intention of giving in. They are now in the position of striking for no cause. They are very angry at the Homestead men and will probably declare the strike off today.

The Homestead lockout through which the trouble was precipitated went into effect June 30 last, and the struggle since then has been one of the most bitter and costly in the history of labor.

MRS. AUGUST BELMONT DEAD.

She Was a Descendant of Commodore Perry.

Signs of mourning are draped to-day at the entrance of the Belmont mansion, 109 Fifth avenue. Mrs. August Belmont, who has been ill for several weeks past, died yesterday at 4.30 P. M. Her death has been momentarily expected since last Monday.

All the members of her family were at her bedside when she passed away. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 P. M. at the Church of the Ascension, Fifth avenue and Tenth street, and the burial at Newport, Wednesday.

Mrs. Belmont was at one time a prominent leader in New York society. She was the daughter of Commander Matthew Galbraith Perry, of Newport, and belonged to a historic family in New England. She married Mr. Belmont in 1849.

She leaves three sons, Perry Belmont, Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont, August Belmont, and one daughter, the wife of Samuel S. Howland, of this city.

By her husband's will, Mrs. Belmont received the town house, the country house of Newport, all stock farm property, besides an income of $52,000 a year for life from the estate, to be divided among her children at her death.

YOUNG MUNOZ A PRISONER.

He Is Accused of Stealing from His Fellow-Boarders.

The police are holding Thomas V. Munoz a close prisoner until they can collect further evidence in regard to the thefts of which he is charged. He was arrested Saturday night on the complaint of Constantine D. Vasilades, who says that Munoz stole the contents of a trunk which he left at the boarding-house of Mrs. Adelaide Sanders, at 254 West Fifty-fifth street, last Summer.

The police found thirty pawn tickets, representing $405, in Munoz's possession, but none of them represented clothing lost by Vasilades.

The prisoner is the son of the late Dr. Thomas Munoz, of Costa Rica. He is twenty-two years old and has a hand-some sister who is at school in Connecticut. He is said to be engaged to the daughter of Miss Rice, a music teacher, who lives at 208 West Forty-seventh street.

His examination at Yorkville Police Court is set down for to-morrow.

HE HAD BULLETS FOR THREE.

Van Sickler, of Frazee, a Wife-Murderer and a Suicide.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

FRAZEE, MINN., NOV. 21.—T. L. Van Sickler, during a quarrel last night, shot his wife through the wrist with a revolver.

Retreating to another room he procured a rifle and then shot her twice through the body, one ball passing through the heart, killing her instantly. He then sent a bullet through his lungs.

Then he shot Ed. Brown, of Fargo, through the hips, following this with again shooting himself in the mouth, blowing the top of his head off.

St. John's Church Fair.

In the church hall of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, at Fifty-fifth street and First avenue, a ladies' fair for the benefit of the new parochial schools will be opened this evening by Judge James Fitzgerald, of the General Sessions Court. Among the other features of the opening will be a musical entertainment by well-known artists.

Shot by a Boy.

NEWARK, N. J., NOV. 21.—Ferdinand Crepo, an Italian boy, sixteen years old, fought with another Italian, Angelo Polnetta, last night. The latter finally drew a revolver and shot Crepo in the thigh. Both are crazed.

The Fall Academy Exhibition.

The Autumn exhibition of the National Academy of Design was opened to the public to-day. The collection of paintings is larger than usual and the class of work is excellent. Fifteen pictures have already been sold at catalogue prices, for $2,100.

Fire in a Fifth Avenue House.

A small fire occurred this morning at 112 Fifth avenue, occupied by Cornelius H. Payne. It was caused by hot ashes setting fire to a barrel. The firemen were called, but their services were not needed.

"CORA'S" CALL TO "CHARLIE."

Is Mrs. Tyler Trying to Conciliate Her Husband?

Some Telegrams Shown by Mutual Friend Henry Guy Carleton.

The whereabouts of beautiful Cora Tyler is still unknown to her husband, though the following advertisement in a morning paper, it is thought, may have originated with her:

CHARLIE—Have something of importance to communicate. New York Post Office. CORA P.

Mrs. Tyler's maiden name was Parsons, and Charles is her husband's middle name. Mr. Tyler believes this personal was intended to make him think his wife was in the city, when in reality she is far away. He says he will pay no attention to it.

Henry Guy Carleton has been the devoted friend to Mortimer F. Taylor in his trouble with Manager Tyler. The latter charges the rich St. Louis man with destroying his domestic peace, and has sued him for $100,000 damages, at the same time making him co-respondent in a suit against his beautiful wife for divorce.

Mr. Carleton to-day showed two despatches which he received yesterday, one purporting to come from George H. Tyler, of Chillicothe, O., father of the unhappy young husband, and the other from Mortimer F. Taylor.

The first one reads as follows:

CHILLICOTHE, O., Nov. 20.

Mortimer F. Taylor, Seven Hotel, New York City.

If you know Mrs. Tyler's address, please tell her to take the first train here.

GEORGE H. TYLER.

Tyler says concerning this:

"It is not strange that my father, who knew Cora only a few weeks and saw only the adorable side of her that I saw, should believe her innocent and send for her—if he did write that despatch."

The other despatch displayed by Mr. Carleton purports to come from Mortimer F. Taylor and is dated at Norfolk, Va., Nov. 14. It says:

Am here at the Allerton Hotel. Have business to attend to. Leave for the West in a day or two.

Tyler's comments upon this telegram are caustic.

"If Taylor is in Virginia," he said, "it shows that Mr. Carleton was not correctly informed when he told the newspaper that that Taylor had gone to Cheyenne in company with Mr. White.

"But it does not alter my case. Messrs. Howe & Hummel say I have plenty of proof of my wife's infidelity, and that Mortimer F. Taylor is the cause.

"In one old letter from my wife's friend, Miss Kasminsky, of San Francisco, dated Oct. 1, I find reason to believe that my wife's infidelity began long weeks before I discovered it. In a fragment of that letter Miss Kasminsky says: 'Judging from M.'s letter you must be very much beloved by him.'

"I think that Mr. Taylor left town hastily to avoid service in my suit."

NOT SERIOUSLY ILL.

Harry Howard Denies a Report Regarding His Health.

It was reported in a morning paper that Harry H. Howard, the ex-Chief of the Volunteer Firemen, was seriously ill at his home, 94 Elm street.

An EVENING WORLD reporter who went to call upon the veteran fireman this morning, met the old gentleman about a block from his house on his way down town. He seemed to be enjoying his customary health, and was much amused when he heard that the newspapers were preparing his obituary.

HARRY HOWARD.

"I wonder how such a report ever got around," he said. "I am as well as I have been at any time in the last ten years.

"I caught a little cold a day or two ago, but it's nothing, and hasn't kept me in the house a moment. I am on my way downtown on business now, and expect to be all right again by to-morrow."

Harry Howard is now nearly seventy years old. He has been on the pay-roll of the Public Works Department for many years.

HORSES RUN WITH A HEARSE.

Pioneer's Body Thrown from the Coffin and Two Mourners Injured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BROWN CITY, MICH., NOV. 21.—At the funeral of Joshua Summers, an aged pioneer, yesterday the horses attached to the hearse suddenly became frightened and ran away, overturning the hearse in a ditch. The casket crashed through the glass window and the corpse fell out of the coffin, being cut and mutilated almost beyond recognition.

The horses attached to the first carriage then plunged into a fence and a son and daughter of the dead man were thrown out and badly cut and bruised.

STREET-CAR HOUSE BURNED.

Rolling Stock of a St. Louis Electric Line Destroyed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ST. LOUIS, NOV. 21.—The Lindell Electric line's car house, a huge brick and stone structure in the form of an oblong, was destroyed by fire this morning. An attempt was made to roll some of the motors out in the street, but their weight prevented.

By the time a second alarm was turned in the roof fell and set fire to the cars within. Streams poured into the building from either end seemed to reach less than half way, and there were no side doors to direct from. The loss will reach $150,000.

FOREIGN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Spain, Heavily Embarassed, Gets Another Big Loan.

No Autopsy to Disuel the Mystery of Baron de Reinach's Death.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, NOV. 21.—The Banque de Paris et de Pay Bas has advanced the Spanish Government another 25,000,000 francs. This makes 75,000,000 francs advanced by the bank. The bank imposes a condition that the Cortes meet at the beginning of December and authorize the Government to raise a large loan, part of which shall be used to repay the bank.

The Spanish opposition is organizing to compel a full discussion of the financial embarrassment and to prevent the Ministers from rushing a loan bill through.

If the debate protracted it may end in the suspension of the payment of interest on the National debt, the Rothschilds having already decided to advance more money.

It is estimated that 4,000,000,000 francs in Spanish securities are held in France. Spanish bankruptcy, coming on top of the collapse of the Panama Canal Company, would be a heavy blow to French industry.

THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

American Delegates Shown Through the Bank of England.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, NOV. 21.—The American delegates to the International Monetary Conference, which opens to-morrow in Brussels, left Victoria station at 11 o'clock this morning. Henry White, Secretary of the American Legation, and a number of others were at the station to bid them farewell.

Henry W. Cannon, President of the Chase National Bank, who is one of the delegates, told the representative of the Associated Press that whatever views the Gladstonians may have regarding silver, nothing could exceed the courtesy they have shown the delegates. "Mr. Leach and I went all over the Bank of England Saturday," said he, "and took luncheon with the Governor and other officials. I had on all sides the greatest interest in the Conference, and am hopeful that it will have good results."

Senator Allison said: "There is no telling how long the conference will last. I expect it will be a week before we get fairly down to business. An adjournment over the Christmas holidays is inevitable."

NO AUTOPSY TO DECIDE.

Did Baron De Reinach Commit Suicide or Die from Excitement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, NOV. 21.—The death of Baron de Reinach, one of the men compromised in the Panama scandal, has caused considerable discussion here, and stories are afloat that rather than to stand prosecution he committed suicide. This morning it was said that his death was caused by cerebral excitement, brought on by the discovery that papers showing that he was compromised in the canal scandal, had been stolen from him.

His family refuse to allow an autopsy to be held, and this is taken as confirmation of the suicide theory, though his family give as their reason that an autopsy is contrary to the religion of the dead man. Baron de Reinach leaves a fortune of 75,000,000 francs ($15,000,000).

WAITING IN A STORM FOR LAND.

Settlers in Line for Two Days to Get Free Grants in Michigan

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MARQUETTE, MICH., NOV. 21.—The Perlected Bay De Urquette land grant of 12,000 acres will be opened for settlement Tuesday.

The line of would-be filers began to form last night in a raging snowstorm, and about a dozen are now camping out on the pavements in front of the Third street entrance to the Federal building.

It is only two above zero and the men will have to stick to their blankets on the sidewalks until 7 A. M. Tuesday, admission to the building being decled until that hour.

DEATH OF CHARLES REED.

The Popular Comedian Carried Off by Heart Disease.

The sudden death of Comedian Charles Reed gave a shock to the theatrical profession and his hosts of friends in this city. He died of heart disease at Boston last night, where he had been playing an engagement.

Reed began his career as a minstrel in 1870, and soon made an enviable reputation. Several years ago he began his career as a legitimate comedian and soon became recognized as one of the cleverest on the American stage.

It is said that the worry and excitement attending his suit for divorce from his wife, which he married in California, hastened the fatal attack. He was thirty-seven years old.

VICTIM OF A JEALOUS HUSBAND.

Dr. Philleo Terribly Beaten by John Corning at Rockaway Beach.

Residents at Rockaway Beach are excited to-day over the murderous assault committed by John Corning, a wealthy citizen of that place, upon Dr. W. P. Philleo, last Saturday night, in front of the Bay View Hotel.

Corning was jealous of his wife, and imagined that Dr. Philleo was paying her improper attentions. Last Saturday night he dragged the doctor from his carriage, and snatching from his hand the pistol with which the latter tried to defend himself, beat him on the head with it till he was unconscious.

The doctor's jaw and nose were broken, and his skull was fractured.

Corning was arrested, but has been released on $1,000 bail. Dr. Philleo's condition to-day is critical.

An Enjoyable Entertainment.

The annual reception and entertainment of Stern Brothers' employees will be held at the Central Opera-house, Third avenue and Sixty-seventh street, Wednesday evening. A high-class vaud
