CANCER.

The excellence in the treatment of Cancer with Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) would seem to warrant us in saying that it will cure this much dreaded scourge. Persons so afflicted are invited to correspond with us.

I believe Swift's Specific has saved my life. I had virtually lost use of the upper part of my body and my arm is in the poisonous effects of a large cancer on my neck, from which I had suffered for 20 years. S. S. S. has relieved me of all soreness, and the poison is being forced out of my system. I will soon be well. W. R. LOBSON, Davisboro, Ga.

Two months ago my attention was called to the case of a woman afflicted with a cancer on her shoulder at least five inches in circumference, another equal in size, and giving the patient no rest day or night, painful, and giving the patient no rest day or night for six months. I outlined a supply of Swift's Specific for her. She has taken five bottles, and the cancer is entirely healed up, only a very small crust remaining and her health is better than for five years past; seems to be perfectly cured. Rev. JOSIAH CAMPBELL, Columbus, Ga.

Thirteen remarkable results from use of Swift's Specific on a cancer. A young man near here has been afflicted five years with the most angry looking eating cancer I ever saw, and was nearly dead. The first bottle made a wonderful change, and after five bottles were taken, he is nearly or quite well. It is truly wonderful. M. F. CRUMLEY, M. D., Oglethorpe, Ga.

UNDER LIP AND INSIDE OF CHEEK EATEN AWAY BY CANCER.

My father had an eating cancer for several years, which had eaten away his under lip and the inside of his cheek, down to the bottom of his gums. We got some of Swift's Specific and gave him, and the effect has been wonderful—almost miraculous. The sores are all healed, and he is perfectly well. Every one here said it was only a question of time about his death, and his cure has created the greatest excitement in this part of the country. I hope you will publish my father's cure, and send me some circulars to give to my friends and the afflicted. WM. H. LATHROP.

DR. J. E. SMITH,

No. 1404 CHAPLINE STREET, Near Fourteenth Street.

The best evidence of a physician's success is the testimony of his patients. The increasing demands for my professional services prove that I have dealt honorably and fairly with those who have consulted me. I never use a patient's name without permission, though I have many hundred certificates from those whom I have cured after they had been pronounced incurable. A thorough medical education, with many years hospital experience and familiarity with therapeutic agents, a close observance of temperamental peculiarities and strict attention to hygienic management insures success, if cure is possible, and I frankly give the patient my opinion.

THREE REPORTERS.

Three reporters came out from the west,
Out from the west when the sun went down;
Each had a story snug in his breast,
And he rode exultingly into the town.
For man must write that people may read,
And each hurried along at the top of his speed,
To be the first with his story.

Three dailies came flying out from the press,
Out from the press when rose the sun;
Each told his story long and well,
And each was a different one
For statements differ as statements must,
And each reporter was soundly cussed,
And none of them got any glory.

A DARK EQUINE.

BILL NYE

Gives Away Some of the Secrets of the Craft.

Cheyenne Times.

When you come to think of it, it is surprising that so many newspaper men write so that any one but an expert can read it. The rapid and voluminous work, especially of daily journalism, knocks the beautiful business college penman, as a rule, higher than a kite.

I still have specimens of my own handwriting that a total stranger could read.

I do not remember a newspaper acquaintance whose penmanship is so characteristic of the exacting neatness and sharp, clear-cut style of the man as is that of Eugene Field, of the Chicago News. As the "Nonpareil Writer" of the Denver Tribune, it was a mystery to me when he did the work which the paper showed each day as his own. You would sometimes find him at his desk writing on large sheets of "print paper" with a pen and violet ink in a hand that was as delicate as the steel plate of a bank note and the kind of work that printers would skirmish for. He would ask you to sit down in a chair opposite his desk, which had two or three old exchanges thrown on it. He would probably say, "Never mind those papers. I've read them. Just sit down on them if you want to." Encouraged by his hearty manner, you would sit down, and you would continue to sit down till you have protruded about three-fourths of your system through that hollow mockery of a chair. Then he would run to help you out and curse the chair, and feel pained because he had erroneously given you the ruin with no seat to it. He always felt pained over such things. He always suffered keenly and felt shocked over the accident until you had gone away and then he would sigh heartily and "set" the chair again.

Frank Pixley, the editor of the San Francisco Argonaut, is not beautiful, though the Argonaut is. He is grim and rather on the Moses Montefiore style of countenance, but his handwriting does not convey the idea of the man personally or his style of dealing with the Chinese question. It is rather young looking, and has the uncertain manner of an 18 year-old boy.

Robert J. Burdette writes a small but plain hand, though he sometimes suffers from the savage typographical error that steals forth at such a moment as ye think not, and dittigures and mangles the bright-eyed children of the brain.

Very often we read a man's work and imagine we shall find him like it, cheery, bright and entertaining, but we know him and find that personally he is a refrigerator or an egotist or a man with a torpid liver and a nose like a rose geranium. You will not be disappointed in Bob Burdette, however. You think you will like him, and you always do. He will never be too famous to be a gentleman.

George W. Peck's hand is of the free and independent order of chiography. It is easy and natural, but not handsome. He writes very voluminously, doing his editorial writing in two days of the week, generally Friday and Saturday. Then he takes a rapid horse, a zealous bird dog and an improved, double-barrel duck destroyer and communes with nature.

Sam Davis, an old-time Californian and now in Nevada, writes the freest of any penman I know. When he is deliberate he may be betrayed into making a deformed letter and a crooked mark attached to it, which he characterizes as a word. He puts a lot of these together and actually pays postage on the collection under the delusion that it is a letter, that it will reach its destination and that it will accomplish its object. He makes up for his bad writing, however, by being an unpublished volume of old-time anecdotes and funny experiences.

FASHION NOTES.

New York Post.

Bangs and bangles still hold their own.

Spanish girdles of embroidered velvet are exceedingly stylish.

Dog collars in new designs are now imported, made of massive gold, heavy chased and set with diamonds, emeralds, pearls, opals and rubies.

Wild roses and clematis blossoms in a rich embroidery of ruby and silver, adorned a matinee of pale pink surah, recently completed by an "artistic" dressmaker of celebrity in this city.

The almond-colored lace, satin brocade, almond-colored bonnets, stockings, dinner robes and other entire costumes made up in conjunction with dark brown plush or velvet, is a late French fancy in dress and garniture.

Tablets made of natural rosebuds, ferns, smilax, mosses and other fine flowers and vines are very fashionable and very beautiful, but owing to their ephemeral nature they are not as popular as those made of artificial blossoms and foliage.

"Pearl sleeves" are worn with many handsome evening dresses or white brocade or satin. These sleeves are formed of a close network of pearl beads over white chenille. They are about four inches deep, and are edged with a fringe of pearls which droops over the arm. Hoop ear-rings, bangle bracelets and dog collar composed of pearls are usually added.

Various shades of drakes' neck and peacock blues and greens are charming in monochrome, or mixed with gold in tailor-made costumes of tweed, cheviot, Austrian wool and Saxon plaids, with plush or velvet employed as garniture; a wide band of the trimming set near the edge of the kilted skirt, and forming also the waistcoat panels, cuffs and toque.

White toilets of all kinds appear to be more than ever the rage in the fashionable world this winter; cream, snow drop and ivory being generally preferred to the very trying bluish or pearl white shades. Of white dress fabrics there are an elegant and almost endless variety; white brocades, satins, marvelleux, ottomans, Irish poplins, plushes, plain and embossed velvets, Hindoo cashmeres, vigognes, English veilings, china crapes, tulles and French mulls being equally in vogue.

The last French extravagance in hosiery is a tinted lace stocking in colors of pale rose, mauve, cameo, black, light blue and pale almond. These stockings are in copy of the most delicate and intricate patterns of point, duchesse and other rich laces, and are to be worn over a second pair of spun-silk hose, tinted a delicate flesh color. With these dainty stockings are to be worn very low-cut Roman sandals made of satin exactly matching the shade of the lace stocking. These sandals have but one strap, which is fastened by a jewelled slide or buckle.

A handsome Spanish opera cloak from Worth's is made of silver and white brocade, lined throughout with pink plush and adorned outside with pink ostrich feather trimming. Another wrap sent over for a prospective bride, is made of white and gold brocatelle, and lined with pale gold satin. The lining on each front is hand-painted, with Scottish bluebells and lilies of the valley. The trimming outside consists of waves of rich white lace intermixed with pendants of pearl and silk chenille. This gives a rich and beautiful finish to the costly garment.

Eight Years' Scrofula Cured.

Watering Window Plants.

Germantown Telegraph.

The question is frequently asked how often and how much should window plants be watered, and scarcely any one, not even a florist, can tell you just what you want to know. Some plants require more water than others, and in rooms that are kept very warm more water is naturally required. In no pots, however, should the water be allowed to fill up the saucers, or decay or injury will be sure to ensue. Just when and how much water must be applied will come to be known by experience. We would ask, who is more successful in flower raising in rooms than those who have been following it for some time? The knowledge comes naturally by witnessing the sprightliness of the growth of the plant. When anything is wrong in the attention bestowed, shown by drooping and languor, the remedy is not long be sought for. Hence, experience only will teach one how to raise window flowers or plants in the greatest perfection, and this mainly depends upon good, rich soil, and careful watering, in a moderately warm room, always remembering that it is better to water too little than too much.

Poisoned With Potash and Mercury.

Is the tale of a large percentage of sick people in the world; such a large number, in fact, that it is hard to tell whether there are not as many victims to this mineral poisoning as diseases of the blood and skin.

"I took potash," said one, "and while it partially dried up the eruption temporarily, it came near drying up my vitality for all time. It drove the disease in my system, only to break out again on some other part of my body."

To such sufferers Swift's Specific is the remedy which is worth more than all the world besides. It drives out the poison of blood taint, eliminates this mineral poison, and builds up the general health.

New York.

This is to certify that I am well acquainted with a man fifty years of age, for many years a resident of this city, who has been at times extremely ill, but could not tell from what cause, unless it was worms. He told his attending physician his suspicions, but the physician at once ridiculed the idea, and refused to attend him any longer. His son then mentioned Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and asked him if he would take it; his reply was—I must take something to get relief, or die.

They at once procured a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and he took one dose. The result was, he passed upwards of three quarts of worms, cut up in every form. He got well immediately, and is now enjoying excellent health; and, like the good Samaritan of old, is endeavoring to relieve his unfortunate neighbors. He makes it his business to hunt up and select all cases similar to his own, that may be given over by regular physicians, and induces them to try Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge. So far he has induced more than twenty persons to take the Vermifuge, and in every case with the most happy results. He is well satisfied that Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, is far superior to any other known remedy, and that if more generally known would not fail to save many valuable lives. For further particulars inquire of Mrs. Hardie, 114½ Cannon street, New York City.

MEDICAL.

THE MORAL OF IT.

We may moralize as much as we please about pain; but the fact is, that we don't like it while it lasts, and that we want to get rid of it as soon as we can. Whether caused by rheumatism, gout, disordered liver, weak nerves, irregular kidneys, bad blood, or anything else that is just the reverse of what it should be, the sooner it is out of the system the happier we are. Whether pain is the result of imprudence or of accident, or is sent as a punishment for our sins, may be a nice question for the philosophers to argue; but people who are suffering want first to be rid of the pain, after which those who are fond of argument may argue the matter to their hearts' content.

Above all theory, argument, and philosophy, comes the delightful fact that BROWN'S IRON BITTERS drives pain away. Sufferers run no risk in trying this medicine, the only compound containing iron which carries no mischief with it. Those who have used it will tell you so; and you can try for yourself by buying a bottle of the nearest druggist. 7
