BENCH SHOW AWARDS

Westminster Kennel Club's Exhibition in Full Blast.

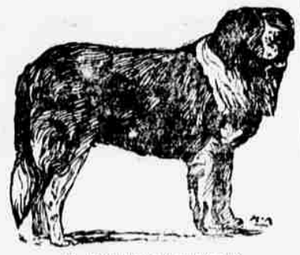
Half a Million Dollars' Worth of Dogs in the Garden.

Society People Listen to the Din of 1,400 Blooded Canines.

At a rough estimate a half million dollars worth of dogs are quartered in Madison Square Garden to-day.

RUSTIC SWELL.

The occasion is the seventeenth annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club, and over 1,400 dogs of high degree lifted up their voices there this morning and clamored for the plaudits of New York's canine-loving 10,000.



ST. BERNARD, SIR BEDIVERE.

There is no doubt that the present show is the finest that has ever been given in America, both in point of the number and the quality of the exhibits.

SAXON, THE PUG.

That the public appreciated the efforts of the management to surpass all previous shows was evidenced in the crowd that passed through the gates within an hour after the Garden was thrown open. Fully 2,000 people were in the building by 10 o'clock, and still they came.

RUSSIAN WOLFHOUND.

To one who has never visited a bench show the scene at first is one of maddening confusion. It is soon apparent that this confusion is not one of order, but of sound.

POINTER, CAID OF KENT.

Imagine 1,400 dogs housed under one roof, the acoustic properties of which magnify tenfold the din which accompanies the barking, yelping, whining and stamping of the canine multitude, for no matter how high a degree of perfection science and experience has attained in the breeding of dogs, it has been left for one of the impossible things to control the vocal organs of even the tiniest member of the dog family.

The arrangement of the kennels this year is practically the same as at the last show. All the big dogs, such as the St. Bernards, Great Danes, mastiffs and bloodhounds are grouped at the Madison avenue end of the garden, and the smaller breeds have been given places at the Fourth avenue end.

The toy dogs, which include the smaller breeds of terriers, spaniels and poodles, have been separated from their more pretentious brothers and sisters and have been given exclusive quarters in the cafe lately occupied by Oliver Sumner Teall and his pretty typewriters.

The judging rings, of which there are four, are situated in the centre of the garden. They are presided over in turn as follows:

St. Bernards, Newfoundlands and pugs, Miss A. H. Whitney, Lancaster, Mass.

Mastiffs, bloodhounds, Russian wolfhounds, deerhounds, greyhounds, English retrievers, collies, poodles, fox terriers (smooth), bull dogs, bull terriers, Cocker spaniels, black and tans and toy terriers, toy spaniels, Schipperkes and miscellaneous, C. Dalziel, HAPEK, Shenfield, England.

Great Danes, Fox Hounds, Dachshunds and Basset Hounds, G. Moss-Arnott, Cockshoe, N. Y.

Pointers, English, Irish and Gordon Setters, W. Tallman, New York.

Spaniels (Field, Cocker, Clumber and Irish Water), J. M. Oldham, Arden, N. Y.

Champion Toy Dogs and Beagles.—R. F. Maybee, New York.

Fox Terriers (wire-haired), Irish, Scottish, Dandie Dinmont, Bedlington, White English, Welsh Skye and Yorkshire Terriers, Italian Greyhounds.—R. F. Maybee, New York.

In order that the judging may be gotten through with before the close of the show on Friday, the judges had to get to work at once and at 10.30 the first instalment of Great Danes, St. Bernards and pointers were trotted out to show their respective merits, from an expert point of view.

To a layman it appears an impossible task to single out from among the great number of high-bred animals the few that take precedence over all others. The point of superiority may be in some line or curve or point, only discoverable by the practiced eye of the expert.

Pottinger Dorsey, of Newmarket, Md., who was to have judged Chesapeake Bay dogs and beagles, was unable to serve owing to the sudden death of his mother-in-law last night. R. F. Maybee, of New York, will take his place.

It is evident from the number of Great Danes, St. Bernards and mastiffs entered this year that the style in dogs has changed and that the breeds mentioned have taken the place of the toy dogs so much in favor formerly.

Among the fine animals in the mastiff class are W. Wade's Lady Colens, Jas. Lynn's The Lady Dorothy, J. L. Winchell's Beaufort's Colonel and Beaufort's Black Prince and Mrs. Charles Wallack's Merlin. All are prize winners and the last named animal is valued at $5,000.

Some of the St. Bernards most admired are William A. Beick's Sir Bedivere, for which Mr. Beick is said to have paid $8,000; Fred Schmidt's Otos, Jacob Ruppert, Jr.'s, Kingslordan Count and the Swiss Mountain Kennels' Barcasim. Each of the dogs named is valued at $5,000 apiece.

The first awards of the day were made at 11.30, as follows:

Mastiffs—Challenge—Bitches—First prize, $20; second prize, $10.—First prize, W. Wade's Lady Colens; second prize, J. J. Lynn's The Lady Dorothy.

Great Danes, Challenge Dogs and Bitches.—First and second prizes, $20 and $10. First prize, Cumberland Kennel's Melac; second prize, Shoquoquon Kennel's Pedro.

The very high-class dogs in this lot were: Oliver Grant's Master, James Lawrence's Earl of Wurtemburg, W. H. Shepard's Duke and J. H. H. Maehner's Harras.

Pointers, challenge dogs, 55 lb. and over, two prizes, $20 and $10.—First prize, George Jarvis's Lad, of Kent; second prize, George W. Lovell's Justice.

Pointers—Challenge bitches, 50 pounds and over; two prizes, $20 and $10.—First prize, Hemstead Farms's Golden Game; second prize, Charles Heath's Revel III.

TO TRACE M. A. C. FUNDS.

Receiver Freedman Asked to Investigate Alleged Payments.

The insinuations made by Charles M. Maxwell, of the Manhattan Athletic Club, against the former management of the Club, in his letter to Receiver Freedman, asking that he bring an action for an accounting for funds alleged to be missing, has aroused great interest among the members, past and present, of that organization.

Mr. Maxwell, as a member of the Ways and Means Committee, which has been investigating the books of the Club during the past few weeks, says he found that payments of various sums of money had been made to George W. Carr, Mr. Del Valle, Wallen Heim, C. Perdval, C. O. Perry and L. A. Stuart, between Oct. 10 and Dec. 10, amounting to $12,000, which had not been accounted for, and that one blank check had been given to George W. Carr and three to Walton Storm during the same period.

He asks the receiver to ascertain why this money was given, and for what it was expended. He also says that during the past seven months of the Club's existence $252,756.59 was deposited to the account of the Club in the Lincoln National Bank.

Mr. Maxwell has also written a letter to Mr. George W. Carr, the former President of the Club, asking him to assist the receiver in his work by explaining and accounting for the payments referred to.

In doing this, Mr. Maxwell says, he represents a large number of the members of the Club, and declares that he is not actuated by any motives of resentment, malice of a desire for notoriety.

Mr. Carr could not be found at his office in the Drexel Building to-day by an "Evening World" reporter.

COLD SNAP IS NOW BROKEN.

Mr. Dunn Says There Will Be Rain or Snow To-Morrow.

The Steamer Santuit Towed In in a Sinking Condition.

Forecaster Dunn says the cold snap has broken and that by to-morrow it will be either snowing or raining. The report is not encouraging for navigators, who anticipate even more difficulty than they are now experiencing from ice in the rivers and harbor.

New York harbor this morning presented the appearance of an Arctic sea in the long stretch of hollows, ice extending from the New Jersey shore to Staten Island, around the Brooklyn Water front and down to Red Hook and past the Narrows. The same glacial field stretched up both rivers.

Considerable trouble was caused to ferryboats last night, but about 4 o'clock this morning the worst condition of things was reached. At that hour the tide was slack and the ice took it to pack.

It became stationary in the lower bay, while more ice continued to come down the river and crowded into one large, compact mass. On the Battery, where both rivers meet, the jam was the worst.

Off Governor's Island three tugs were caught while trying to force their way around to the North River. They pulled and struggled, but finally surrendered and quietly remained captive until the tide had turned and started the ice up the East River to the Sound.

Several lighters were imprisoned off Liberty Island for a couple of hours. Ferry-boats on the North and East Rivers, as well as those crossing the bay, experienced much difficulty, schedules were abandoned for a time, and each boat did the best it could. The Staten Island boats took a roundabout course, hugging the Jersey side, and passing up near 34th Inland.

At 8 o'clock the ice was well in motion again, and vessels began to cut their way through it. By 9.30 traffic over the water was only slightly delayed.

The steamer Santuit, reported outside the bar last night with a barge, passed in at the Hook this morning with her now well down, and having the appearance of being full of water. She was accompanied by three tugs.

The Santuit was towed to the Merritt Wrecking Company's wharf at Stapleton, S. I., where it was said that her hull had been pierced by the ice.

The steamers arriving last night and this morning report the most violent weather ever experienced, the seas being mountain high and the weather intensely cold. The appearance of the steamers completely encased in ice gave ocular evidence of the truth of the statements.

The lowest point in the temperature in this city last night was 7 degrees. This morning at 8 o'clock the thermometers registered 12 degrees, and the mercury continued to rise. The moderation is prevalent all over the country. A storm began this morning in the Mississippi Valley, which will probably reach here to-morrow.

Commissioner Brennan was in more trouble this morning. The dumpers in the East River were all loaded with two or three exceptions, and he said if he could not secure empty scows by noon he would be forced to dump refuse at the foot of various streets. He has the permission of the Dock Commissioners to do this.

CAME INTO PORT LEAKING.

Dismantled Vessel Anchored Off Five Fathom Bank Lightship.

The Norwegian bark Jumfruland, from Darien Feb. 1, for Amsterdam, put into this port to-day, leaking badly, and with her rudder head sprung. Capt. Tonessen reports a heavy gale since he left the Gulf Stream, during which she labored heavily, causing her to leak at the rate of six inches per hour. She has a cargo of timber.

The steamer City of Birmingham, which arrived yesterday, was badly feeded up. She reported heavy gales.

On Feb. 20 she passed a dismantled vessel anchored half a mile west of Five-Fathom Bank Lightship.

Found Freezing in the Street.

A Frenchman, who gave his name as Clement Lemont, thirty-four years old and living in Long Island City, was found at Thirty-third street and Park avenue unconscious from the cold at 1 o'clock this morning. At the West Thirtieth street station Lemont recovered and left for a friend's house in this city.

Scow Capsized; No One Drowned.

A scow belonging to the Street-Cleaning Department and loaded with ashes sprang a leak in her alle, foot of East Eighteenth street, at 4 o'clock this morning and was capsized. There was no one aboard at the time.

ETTA HARRINGTON PLEADS.

She Is the Woman Who Shot Herself for Love of Sadie Carson.

Mrs. Etta Harrington, the handsome young woman who shot and tried to kill herself at her father's home, 18 West one Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, Dec. 20 last, because her bosom friend, Sadie Carson, had deserted her, pleaded not guilty in Part I. of General Sessions this morning to the charge of attempted suicide.

At her request, Justice Cowing assigned Maurice Meyer as her counsel, although she has means apparently to employ counsel of her own selection. Her father is John Hayes, President of the National and Mutual Building and Loan Association, of Westchester.

Since her attempt on her life Mrs. Harrington has been most of the time in the Harlem Hospital, were she was a closely guarded prisoner until her recovery was insured, when she was released on bail.

This morning she was accompanied to court by her mother. She was still very weak and very pale.

CALMER ON 'CHANGE.

Brisk Reading Trading, but Much Less Excitement To-Day.

Conflicting Rumors as to the Meaning of Reading's Receivership.

The Coal Stocks Rallied, But Subsequently Dropped.

Wall street was far less excited to-day. The appointment of receivers for the Philadelphia and Reading property yesterday seems to have been the climax to the events which have engrossed the attention of the financial community and the general public for over a year past. No one regrets the shrinkage in the bank accounts nor the loss of prestige of the men who a year or so ago combined through greed to extort from the public high prices for fuel. There is little sympathy, and there will be still less for any one who attempts to ape their methods.

The fact that McLeod was made one of the Receivers of the Reading Company perplexes the average Wall street man, and it is variously interpreted. Some even go so far as to say that McLeod has made a great coup, with the assistance of ex-Senator Platt, who as a holder of the preference income bonds, made application to have the property placed under the jurisdiction of the Court. It is asserted that in the Drexel-Morgan-Vanderbilt-Pennsylvania people have actually purchased enough stock to give them the control, the appointment of receivers being merely a ruse to prevent taking part in the management of its affairs, at least for a year to come. This is what the friends of McLeod say. They also claim that that gentleman and his friends still have a firm grip on the New York and New England and Boston and Maine, and are abundantly able to hold those companies.

Now that the Reading is in the hands of the Court, there may be a chance of getting at the true inwardness of the financiering of the Company during the past year. If the Company's credit and stock have not been used to foster the speculations of the insiders the belief prevails that Reading will not go much below the ruling quotations, but there is so much uncertainty on this point that conservative operators are inclined to keep their hands off.

President Sloan, of the Lackawanna, says the fact that the Reading still remains in the hands of Mr. McLeod and his friends, through the receivership, is evidence that the reading's policy, with respect to the coal trade, will continue.

President Earle, of the Finance Company, says that Company has from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 worth of Reading coal on hand, upon which no advances have been made.

A Philadelphia special says the only explanation about the Reading collapse which approaches an official utterance is made by M. T. Zulello, who is a member of the Board of Managers. He says that of the floating debt is $6,000,000. One-half is due to Speyer & Co., bankers, of New York, who advanced that sum upon a deposit of collateral trust as security. The other half is due to Philadelphians and is secured by deposits of collateral.

"The present financial difficulty is due to the fact that the credit of the Company was openly attacked and injured by rumors. Philadelphia creditors would not renew the Company's paper, and this brought on a crisis. The creditors are now very anxious to renew the loans.

"Plans for readjusting matters are already being formulated, and when they are perfected the Reading will have behind it richer and more influential people than ever backed it before. They will include some New York people whom I am not at liberty to name.

"The company will not be in the receiver's hands very long, probably six months and possibly a year, but not long enough for it to be necessary to issue receiver's certificates. I want to say that A. J. Drexel has acted in a very friendly spirit throughout our present troubles."

Those who were looking for a repetition of yesterday's activity and excitement to-day at the Stock Exchange were doomed to disappointment. Of course, the trading was far above the ordinary average, but the fluctuations were less wild and there were intervals when the brokers had breathing spells.

An advance in prices at London, and the execution of liberal buying orders from that centre, imparted strength to the market in the initial trading.

Reading moved up to 31 and New England to 40½. This was followed by a break in Reading to 28¾ and in New England to 38½.

Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson were heavier than for a long time, breaking 3½ and 3, to 143½ and 128 respectively.

Jersey Central fell from 125 to 121, and dropped to 119 a 119½. Delaware & Hudson subsequently recovered to 129 and Lackawanna to 147.

The general market, outside of Chicago Gas and some of the Electric stocks, was tolerably steady. New England rallied from after 11 o'clock. In the first half hour no less than 154,140 shares of stocks changed hands.

BIG BOND ISSUES.

Reported that Secretary Foster Is to Reward Generous Bankers.

It was reported in Wall street to-day that from hints thrown out at the Treasury Department in Washington it was likely Secretary Foster would add $5,000,000 in bonds to the banks which came to his rescue, when there was an indication that the legal tender reserve would be impaired.

There were $3,000,000 in gold sent to Europe to-day on the steamer Lahn, which sailed for Southampton and Bremen.

Mexicans Warned to Have Nothing to Do with Americans.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 21.—El Tiempo, the anti-American paper of Mexico, has an editorial reiterating its warnings against American influence, offering the annexation of Hawaii as an example of American intentions towards the entire Latin America, the article being the text of an address a few weeks ago on the same theme, in which it counselled patriotic Mexicans to have nothing to do with americans commercially, nor to sell any mine, railroad concession or other enterprise to Americans.

BOGUS EMPLOYMENT AGENT.

Charles Goeber Arrestedfor Getting Money on False Pretenses.

New York and Jersey City Concerns Run in Collusion.

Charles Goeber, of 49 Third avenue, New York, who was arrested in Jersey City on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, says he is a clerk for a Mrs. Baldy, who, besides her employment business, publishes a paper called "Golden Era."

He opened the Jersey City office yesterday, advertising several positions on application. The advertisement being brought to the attention of Police Superintendent Smith, Detectives Dalton and Smith were sent to the office, in room 6 at 37 Montgomery street, to investigate. The officers found between forty and fifty people in line. Each applicant was obliged to pay $1 for registering, and sign an agreement for $10 more after holding the position furnished for two days.

They were then given a card bearing the address 645 Second avenue, New York, where they were told a cashier was wanted. There they were told that the position was already filled. Detective Smith visited the place and concluded that the two establishments were in collusion.

Detective Smith found the New York office of the concern to be located at 842 Broadway. It is called the International Exchange. Mrs. Baldy has also an office in Baltimore, which appears to be the general headquarters.

This morning Police Justice O'Donnel remanded Goeber for further examination.

The French line steamer La Normandie, which was due here sunday, had not been spoken up to 11 o'clock to-day.

She is the newest and fastest of the French line ships, and some surprise is expressed that she should be so late in getting into port. She holds the record from Havre to New York, and is about a year old.

She is probably experiencing a hard tussle with the recent storm that blew out to sea with hurricane force.

SMALL-POX NEST IN JERSEY.

Seven Cases Discovered in a Big Double Tenement-House.

Seven cases of small-pox in one house. That is the latest discovery made by a Jersey City Health Inspector.

About two weeks ago Lizzie Stumpf, aged eight, was taken sick at her home in the big double tenement-house at 114 Coles street, Jersey City. Her parents thought she had a mild attack of measles, and did not think it necessary to call a physician.

Under home treatment the child was progressing well, and not until yesterday was the attention reminded that she was afflicted with small-pox.

Last evening six members of the family of Mrs. Meade, who occupies the top floor and keeps boarders, were taken sick, and a physician called, who at once pronounced the disease with which all six were afflicted to be small-pox. Then it was made known for the first time that the Stumpf child had the disease.

The Health Inspector was notified and the six new cases immediately removed to the small-pox hospital at Skyle Hill. They are Peter Meade, aged twenty-four; Michael Courtney, twenty-three; Stephen Commane, twenty-three; William Meade, twenty; Hartly Menck, six, and Thomas Sheehan, twenty-two.

MRS. ASHLEY IS PACIFIED.

Dr. Davis and his fellow-boarder, Dr. Frankenthal, had had a quarrel over Mrs. Ashley of telling stories and making mischief, and they refused to pay their bills unless Mrs. Ashley left.

Mrs. Ashley in court to-day, pleaded that she had been misrepresented, but would withdraw the charge of assault.

Testimony as to the Head of the National Opera Company.

Singer Emma Juch Claims Over $8,000 for Overdue Salary.

The action brought by Miss Emma Juch against Mrs. Jeanette M. Thurber to recover $8,985 for services as a singer in the American National Opera Company, was continued this morning before Justice Patterson and a jury in the Supreme Court.

MISS EMMA JUCH.

After Mr. Charles E. Locke concluded his testimony on behalf of Miss Juch, Sherman V. Eaton went on the witness-stand for Mrs. Thurber, and testified that Mr. Locke was the responsible head of the American National Opera Company.

Miss Juch's contention is that her contract was made with the understanding that Mrs. Thurber was to be responsible for the payment of her salary, Mr. Locke being, according to Miss Juch's version, merely the nominal chief.

Mrs. Thurber, in her own behalf, said: "I never knew of the contract made between Mr. Locke and Miss Juch. I became acquainted with Mr. Locke at Mme. Materna's. I made some suggestions to him concerning the inauguration of an American opera company, and he requested me to continue furnishing him with advice. Mr. Locke told me at the time that he would invest $50,000 in the enterprise. I believed him."

Mrs. Thurber admitted having advanced $3,000 towards promoting the scheme.

"But," said she, "Mr. Locke promised to repay this as soon as the first representations were given."

Mr. Locke had yesterday testified that he had written Mrs. Thurber a letter, at her own request, wherein he described himself as the head of the operatic company. Mrs. Thurber admitted having received such a letter, but denied having requested him to write it to her.

Mrs. Thurber also said that she became the Secretary of the American National Opera Company. The minutes of the Company were placed in evidence, although Mr. Wellman previously objected to Mr. Wellman, Miss Juch's lawyer, a letter purporting to have been written by Mr. Locke, as head of the Opera Company, to the Directors, was exhibited in the minutes. Mr. Wellman expounded at long while trying to prevent Mr. Root from reading it to the jury.

"I will allow that letter to be read," said Justice Patterson. "As it will go for or against the credibility of Mr. Locke, upon whose testimony Miss Juch relies for the recovery of her claim.

Doctors Sent from Rochester—Some of the Injured May Die.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 21.—Passenger train No. 5 on the West Shore road was wrecked near Palmyra this morning.

Two passengers were killed, foreigners who were travelling second class. They are said to be Germans.

Fifteen other passengers were injured, some of them, it is thought, fatally.

The train consisted of two engines, three coaches and three sleepers.

It left New York at 8 o'clock last night and was due here at 10.10 this morning.

The accident was caused by a broken rail.

First information of the wreck was conveyed to this city by Central wire from Palmyra, a man having been sent over from the scene of the accident, which is a mile from the New York Central track. This report stated that fifteen passengers were killed and created great excitement.

Engineer Pearsall was badly hurt.

The West Shore superintendent has sent to this city from Palmyra for three or four doctors.

EAST RIVER BRIDGE AGAIN.

Aldermen Will Give a Hearing on Its Request for Approaches.

Alderman Murphy, at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen to-day, presented the application of the East River Bridge Company, for permission to build approaches and elevated railroads in connection with the bridge or bridges it proposes to construct.

This company was incorporated several years ago. The projected approaches on this side are to be located in the neighborhood of Delancey and Rivington streets, and in Brooklyn at Broadway and Marcy avenue. In connection with the bridge the "L" road is projected to be run from the East River to the North River.

A public hearing on the application will be given by the full Board of Aldermen Feb. 28 at 11 o'clock.

Comptroller Myers informed the Board in a communication, relative to the North and East Rivers Railroad, the Fulton street line, which has not paid the required percentage to the city, that the company's franchise would have to be revoked before it could be resold.

Alderman S. W. Smith introduced an amendment to the cab ordinance, which provides that cabs may be hired for less than an hour, and that fixing the charges at 50 cents for every half-hour. This was referred to the Law Committee.

Mr. Smith wants to know what progress the Corporation Counsel has made in codifying the city ordinances. A resolution by Mr. Smith requesting information on the matter from Mr. Clark was adopted.

A communication was read from the West End Association, favoring the extension of the Central Park Transverse Railroad from Eighth avenue through Eighty-sixth street to Amsterdam avenue. The Legislature has been asked by the Eighty-sixth street property-owners to prohibit the extension.

When the Board reached general orders, President McClellan complimented the members because there were no "left-overs" on the calendar.

SUMMING UP IN THE HAYES TRIAL

A Verdict May Be Reached Before Nightfall.

There was every prospect this morning that the second trial of Col. William H. Hayes, for perjury, in Part III. of General Sessions, would be ended, and that the dashy Colonel would know his fate by nightfall or during this evening.

The evidence on both sides, direct and in rebuttal, was all in when court adjourned last night, and all that remained to-day was the summing-up of counsel, the address of the Court, and the deliberation of the jury.

At the opening of court to-day Hayes appeared quite confident, but withal thoughtful. His counsel, ex-Judge Curtis, looked cheerful as he began his address to the jury at 11.05 o'clock.

In the most scathing terms ex-Judge Curtis denounced Miss Keating as a most scheming, unscrupulous woman, and finally wound up by calling her a "modern Moloch."

Miss Keating sat quietly within the rail, during his entire denunciation of her, apparently unmoved by the tirade.

Mr. Curtis had not finished when the Court took an hour's recess at 1 o'clock.

200 Moulders Locked Out in Indiana.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 21.—The Evansville Foundry Association, Indiana Stove Works, Kiechle, Brentano & Obendorfer and Kahn, Myerhoff & co. have locked out their moulders, some 200 in number. A strike was threatened and the foundrymen feared to take big orders lest they should be unable to fill them. They sent a letter to the Moulders' Union, requesting immediate arbitration. No reply was given to the request, so the manufacturers agreed yesterday to close their foundries.

Wheeler, who was last Friday convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of Detective John Carey Nov. 3, 1892, was to have been sentenced by Recorder Smyth in Part II. of General Sessions this morning, but at the request of his counsel sentence will not be imposed until next Friday.

Held for Burglary.
