Reform of Patent Laws in France.

Since the law of patents went into operation in France—that is to say, since January 1791—there have been issued 88,000 patents. The number of inventors has regularly, increased notwithstanding the little success of most of their inventions.

In fifty-four years (from 1791 to 1844) but 7,290 patents were issued—about 320 a year. From 1844 to the first of January, 1858, fourteen years, 46,129 were issued—an average of 3,195 a year.

It is now in contemplation to revise the law of patents in France, and the general policy of the system is under discussion. Some very radical changes are suggested, even in semi-official journals. They say that it is a fact demonstrated by experience, that inventors are more often ruined than enriched by their discoveries.

M Theodore Regnauld, a member of the commission who remodelled the law in 1828, and who is now occupied in the revision of existing legislation, declares that he knows of very few inventors who have ever made a fortune; that if five per cent. have been idemnified for their expenses and sacrifices of one nature and another, it is a large proportion; while those who have succeeded are extremely rare.

The reason, as he suggests, is very simple. Every patent has to contend against counterfeiting as long as it lasts—to defend its privilege, and to waste its time and resources in ever renewing legal contests. Triumphs cost as much as defeats, and it is not a rare thing to see a man ruined in gaining fifteen or twenty suits.

One commercial house in Paris is cited which had out of one hundred and sixty-seven suits, obtained one hundred and twenty-two judgments in the Court of "First Instance," thirty-four decrees of the Imperial Court, and ten decrees of the Court of Cassation.

One decision on a patent does not prevent another and another, and thus a man may be kept in constant litigation to defend his property.

The new project, which is evidently receiving most favor from the government, is one which is addressed particularly to this class of embarrassments. It provides that the inventor shall have two years in which to try his patent and to claim for it official confirmation. His claim is announced in the official journal, and during the two years it can be tested by those who feel disposed. If at the end of two years the opposition is not sustained, the Minister of Commerce issues a confirmation of the patent. This patent confirmed, can never again be attached by third parties. This no doubt would be a great protection, but with us the great mass of litigation about patents arises from a dispute as to what is and what is not an infringement of them.—N. Y. Hee Post.

How much Pork Will a Bushel of Corn Make?

The following valuable facts are from the Valley Farmer, upon the question of "How much pork will a bushel of corn make?" Mr. Richard Thatcher, of Pennsylvania, gives, in the New York Tribune, the result of his feeding scalded or cooked corn meal, in several instances, in fattening hogs. The result of one trial gave sixteen and one half pounds to fifty-six pounds of meal fed out. In another instance, seventeen and nearly one half pounds were the gain from the bushel. The breed of hogs experimented upon were the "Chester" (county, Pa.,) which we regard as among the best breeds now in the country. We have seen accounts of several other experiments of feeding hogs in the same way, with similar results, while the same breed of hogs fed in the ordinary way, upon dry corn in the ear, gave a return of but about one-third of the weight, compared with those fed on the cooked meal.

The experiments of Mr. Clay, of Kentucky, as detailed in the December number of the Valley Farmer for 1856, afford conclusive evidence of the advantage of feeding cooked over raw food. In the experiments on the same animals it was proved that dry corn would afford a gain of about 5¾ to 6¾ pounds of pork to each bushel consumed, but when changed to food prepared by grinding and cooking, gave a return of from fifteen to nearly eighteen pounds of flesh for each bushel corn fed out. These various experiments demonstate facts worthy the consideration of farmers, and especially when the price of corn and pork is constantly advancing.

When care in breeding from a good stock of hogs, and with their proper management throughout, keeping the hogs constantly thriving, at least an average of fifteen pounds of flesh may be received from every bushel of corn consumed. A few well conducted experiments in feeding, with appropriate apparatus for preparing the food, compared with facts determining the amount of grain from the ordinary method of feeding, would forever settle the question, and lead to valuable improvements in this most important interest to western farmers.

Cotton

The supply of cotton from the Southern States at present attracts much attention in commercial circles. Hitherto estimate of the crop of 1860 have reached about 400,000 or 500,000 bales below that of last year. From the large falling off in the receipts at the ports, the belief is now rapidly gaining ground that the crop will not reach 4,000,000 of bales. With this probable decrease in the present crop, and the contingencies which may occur to reduce the crop of 1861, the question of an adequate supply of this important staple for consumption of Europe and of America assumes a most serious character—one which few not familiar with its influence in commercial and industrial pursuits would imagine. We have shown in previous articles in this paper that the only cotton "patch" to be found in the world existed in the Southern States of America, where the annual plant, from the geographical features of its soil and peculiarity of climate, secures alternations of rain and sunshine with sufficient heat to mature it. The extent of this field, fully cultivated, would yield from 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 of bales per annum, worth, at present prices, about $450,000,000. But the most ever produced from this region, owing to the scarcity of tropical laborers, has been 4,600,000 bales, of the value of $230,000,000. Such are the demands of the civilized world for this great staple that, could peace be preserved, 6,000,000 of bales would soon be produced from our present force, of an annual value of $300,000,000, an annual source of wealth before unenjoyed by the exports of any country under the sun, but which the folly of fanaticism may partially if not wholly destroy, and thus reverse the wheels of progress and of civilization for a century or more to come. We showed in a former article that the East India Company failed in growing cotton to compete with the United States, after having spent $5000,000 in the experiment. The schemes of English "cotton associations" to produce it in the tropical wilds of Africa are visionary, and only tend to amuse the old women of Exeter Hall and afford pleasing paragraphs for Abolition organs in the United States.—New York Herald.

HIRING SLAVES IN VIRGINIA.—The streets have begun to show signs of hiring days by the numerous groups of servants crowding the streets in search of homes for the ensuing year, and owing to the political troubles now affecting the country, negroes of all classes have fallen considerably. Factory hands that hired for from $150 to $200 this year, it is thought will hire at or about $100 to $125 for the next, and only a very few have of yet been hired. Cooks without incumbrance, and house servants, as far as we are able to learn, will hire for nearly the same as they did this year.—Petersburgh Intelligencer.

DYEING AND PAINTING A WHITE GIRL TO MAKE HER PASS FOR A SLAVE.—The Natchez Free Press gives the following narrative, with full confidence in its truth:

"One day last week, a gentleman from this city hailed an up country boat, the Cora Anderson, as she was passing Greenville, Mississippi, whither he had gone on business, to return home. Shortly after being under way, our Natchez friend observed a pensive-looking little girl, aged about nine or ten years, whose black hair and yellowish-brown skin would indicate that she was a mulattress. There was something about her that interested him and he enquired of the captain concerning her. He was informed that she was a slave belonging to a man on board, whom the captain pointed out, who said he was taking her to New Orleans to sell her, he having bought her for $150 in North Western Missouri, on the borders. Our Natchez friend eyed the little girl and the border man so closely as to attract the attention of the latter, with whom he was soon engaged in conversation concerning the child, interrogating him in such manner as to elicit answers not always agreeing with previous statements, and evidently alarming him. This was suspicious.

The little girl was taken aside and examined. She said she was an orphan, and had been taken from an asylum in New York by this man; that her hair was light and her complexion brunette; that this man told her he was going to the South with her, where as his adopted child, she would have a good home; that black hair was preferred in the South, and prettier than hers, and that he had taken her to a barber and had her hair dyed black. He also told her that if she would allow him to put some yellow dye on her skin that her complexion would be much whiter in a few days, and that he had put the stain on. On hearing these statements the girl was taken charge of by the captain, and potash, soap and water being applied, the dyes were taken off and the light hair and light complexion brought to light. The pretended master was seized by the excited passengers, who were about to deal with him summarily, but it was finally arranged to lock him up in a stateroom until the boat should land. In the meantime the boat had passed St. Joseph, and when a few miles below that town rounded too to take on wood. At this point, how, or in what manner is not known, the border ruffian escaped from the boat, leaving his baggage behind. The girl was taken by the captain of the boat to New Orleans, and placed in one of the asylums in that city."

—The following graphic and glowing account of a country sleigh ride we find in an exchange uncredited, but whoever the author may be, we are confident "he has been there and spent the evening:"

"What pleasure in a night sleigh ride! Good gracious! Six steaming, spanking horses and a driver furry as a polar bear, his nose just visible above the dasher. Two or three dozen merry girls and boys, muffled to their eyes, stowed away with the hot bricks under the buffaloes. The amicable fight of pairs of lovers for the coveted "back seat," where are no curious eyes to overlook the young man who, tying his lady-love's tippet under her chin, ties his heart in with it; or tucking the buffalo-robe closer about her shoulders, forgets to remove his arm after the operation. What pleasure, with the warm blood tingling in cheeks beneath eyes that flash like diamonds; what pleasure, when snow-powdered trees fences and houses fly past like magic to the merry sound of musical bells—spelt with and without an e. What pleasure, when the country inn is reached, where your supper was bespoke the day before, and rolling out of your manifold wrappers, you lift to your lips foaming glasses of hot "mulled wine." What pleasure, when we gather round the table, laughing at each other's rosy faces, and discuss oysters and fowl, and more "mulled wine," till bones and empty glasses alone remain; and the waiter having cleared away the table, we have a good old-fashione' "blindman's buff," or an unceremonious dance in our comfortable winter dresses. What pleasure, when after being deliciously warmed and fed, we pile into the sleigh again, nestling close to the one we like best, and telling the driver to go the longest way home, look up at stars that never gleamed so brightly, and defy fate ever to make us shed a tear for anything."

MOST LUDICROUS MISTAKE.—A minister found, one Sabbath, a notice of a public meeting which had been cut from the Saturday's newspaper, and placed in his desk for him to read to his congregation. But, by a strange coincidence, there happened to be printed on the other side of the same slip the advertisement of a certain shoe-dealer, a prominent member of his church, and without turning the paper to read the other side, as the advertisement met his eye, the good man concluded it was expected he would read it, and accordingly, to the surprise of all, he announced, at the usual point for reading notices, that "George S. B——keeps constantly on hand, and for sale, a large and well selected assortment of boots and shoes, which he will sell low for cash at No.—, —— street;" and added, "Brother B.—— is a worthy member of this church and society, and deserving the patronage of this congregation." The grateful astonishment of Bro. B—— may be better imagined than described.

SKATING.—The Buffalo Republic says: "There are two classes of skaters—those who skate merely because it is a fashion, and those who skate because they enjoy it. To the first, a word: If you will skate you must tumble down, but don't swear. Do not attempt any fancy skating. Don't cut pigeon wings or sixes and sevens. Make your skating a straight-forward piece of business. Skate calmly, moderately and deliberately. Pad the back of your head as thickly as possible, or you may be obliged to study astronomy under difficulties, and discover bumps which Fowler never dreamed of."

WHITE GUNPOWDER.—A letter from London says: "I have heard in the city of a curious invention which concerns alike sportsmen, riflemen and the scientific. It is the manufacture of white gunpowder. It is made no mystery of, being composed of yellow potassa, chloride of potassium, loaf sugar, crystalized sugar and brimstone. It possesses superior qualities over the black powder, being quicker and more powerful in its action, and not fouling the gun.—For the delicate in the olfactory nerves, it may be added that it is without unpleasant smell. It has just been invented."

Scrofula, or King's Evil, is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the roll of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this everywhere prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only Scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as ERUPTIVE and SKIN DISEASES, ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, ROSE, OR ERYSIPELAS, PIMPLES, POSTULES, BLOTCHES, BLAINS and BOILS, TUMORS, TETTER and SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, RINGWORM, RHEUMATISM, SYPHILITIC and MERCURIAL DISEASES, DROPSY, DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, and, indeed, ALL COMPLAINTS ARISING FROM VITIATED OR IMPURE BLOOD. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

AYER'S
Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

AYER'S
Ague Cure,
FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF
Intermittent Fever, or Fever and Ague, Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, and Bilious Fevers, Indeed for the whole class of diseases originating in biliary derangement, caused by the Malaria of Miasmatic Countries.

We are enabled here to offer the community a remedy which, while it cures the above complaints with certainty, is still perfectly harmless in any quantity. Such a remedy is invaluable in districts where these afflicting disorders prevail. This "CURE" expels the miasmatic poison of FEVER AND AGUE from the system, and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best remedy ever yet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach of every body; and in bilious districts, where FEVER AND AGUE prevails, every body should have it and use it freely both for cure and protection. A great superiority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents is that it contains no Quinine or mineral, consequently it produces no quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison. A great variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Painful Affection of the Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Paralysis and Derangement of the Stomach, all of which, when originating in this cause, put on the intermittent type, or become periodical. This "CURE" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts. If taken occasionally or daily while exposed to the infection, that will be excreted from the system, and cannot accumulate in sufficient quantity to ripen into disease. Hence it is even more valuable for protection than cure, and few will ever suffer from Intermittents if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.
